PROGRESS EDITION MARKS MILESTONE FOR VA. BEACH

Largest Edition for City of Size In South; Tells Story of Progress

Today's edition of the Virginia Beach Sun-News is a possible record-breaker among weekly newspapers in the State of Virginia in size, and is probably one of the largest single editions ever published by a weekly newspaper in the South.

The Sun-News today contains 100 pages, contrasted with the normal weekly publication of 16 to 18 pages, and it marks the 30th anniversary of the newspaper. However, this special edition is devoted primarily to the progress and growth of the Princess Anne County-Virginia Beach Area.

Records were not available in comparing the size of this Progress Edition to special editions published in the past by weekly papers in the State of Virginia, but it is safe to assume that the 100-page Sun-News today probably sets a record for weekly newspapers for the size of the community.

A total of 10,000 copies of the Progress Edition have been printed, as the persons wishing copies may purchase them to be saved or to be given as gifts. This special edition sells for twenty-five cents a copy and there is a small mailing charge. By printing 10,000 copies the Sun-News will have approximately 5,000 copies available for sale over and above the regular subscriber circulation.

A single copy of today's edition weighs approximately one and one-half pounds. The entire edition required ten tons of newspaper and 150 gallons of ink. If separate pages of this issue were stretched end to end it would cover an area extending from Virginia Beach to New York City.

The Progress Edition is the product of almost three months of intensive work by the several departments of the Sun-News.

Over 2,000 Kids Enjoy Playground During Week

Over two thousand Virginia Beach youngsters flocked to the playgrounds of the City Recreation Department during its third week of operation to swell the total number of participants for the summer program to over 6,000. Much credit for the widespread interest is being attributed to the diversified curriculum being offered by the department. Almost all possible phases of recreation have been brought into play and the supervisors of both playgrounds have expressed the growing demands from the children to have a program such as this on a year-round basis. At present, plans are being studied in order to deem if such a program would be possible.

Playground equipment has been assembled and erected on the newly acquired grounds on 25th & Cypress. Outdoor basketball courts, three tennis courts, and paved shuffleboard areas are near completion with tentative plans allowing for the use of these facilities possibly next week. This new area now brings the total of three areas being used by the Recreation Dept.

The night classes in weightlifting are growing until at present 16 boys are regularly lifting between hours of 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Some advanced lifters are working out during the day hours and this phase has become the most popular for the older set from 15-18 years of age.

The theme for this week's program is based on "Patriotic Week." Next week, July 11th to 15th, will be "Hobby Week," at a date to be announced later in the week, a Pet Show will be held at each playground. Children will bring their pets and judges will award ribbons to the best looking pets in each division.

Creeds Plans for Girl Scout Troop

A girl scout troop will be organized at the Creeds School in a meeting being arranged by local residents for July 16. It has been announced.

Girls from the age of seven to 17 are eligible for membership in the girl scouts. Mrs. Lewis Smith and Mrs. John Tucker, of Virginia Beach, will be on hand to explain the work of the girl scouts and the organization of a troop.

The girls are being urged to bring one or both parents to the meeting.

30 YEARS OF PROGRESS

Today's Thirtieth Anniversary and Progress Edition of the Virginia Beach Sun-News is dedicated to the presentation of thirty and more years of progress in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach, along with the area known as Tidewater Virginia. Within the columns of this edition are news stories of historical interest pertaining to our grand old County of Princess Anne.

The management and staff of the SUN-NEWS has worked long and hard to bring this edition to you—the public. It is our sincere belief that it is a worthwhile effort.

In its compilation we have been impressed, of course, by the tremendous physical change and progress which have taken place during the period covered in the 100 pages of this chronicle.

It is a record of what free people have accomplished in their determination to govern themselves in accordance with their own democratic instincts.

Publishing a special edition of the size the SUN-NEWS is today is a mark of progress in itself. However, such an edition could not be possible without the generous and splendid cooperation of the reading public and advertisers. Today's mammoth edition is possibly the largest single edition of a weekly newspaper in the State of Virginia. And, if not the largest, ranks certainly as one of the largest editions ever published in Virginia in the weekly newspaper field.

While compilation of data and history stories about the many varied aspects of life in Princess Anne County took a great deal of time, our only regret is that we were not able to secure material for many stories that we had planned to publish in this edition. Time was a big element in publishing this newspaper and many histories and stories that we requested were not received in time to be included among the 100 pages in this edition.

As we think about the past, it is only natural that we think about the future. What lies ahead for Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach during the next thirty years?

We can only prognosticate on the future of our beloved area but all indications are that the county and city will continue ever forward for it is truly the "garden spot of the world."

In any event we have no doubt that within fifty years from now our successors on the Virginia Beach Sun-News, and your descendants, will thumb their way through the yellowed pages of this Progress Edition and find, sometimes with amusement, sometimes with amazement, material from which to compile a better, more interesting history of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

Betty Sue Mathews Crowned "Miss Virginia Beach" Tuesday

Miss Betty Sue Mathews, of Kempsville, was crowned "Miss Virginia Beach" at the Cavalier Beach Club Tuesday night in a three-hour long contest to determine Virginia Beach's entry in the "Miss Virginia" contest.

Miss Mathews won out over a glittering field of entrants, including the runner-up, Miss Jobil Laster, of Virginia Beach.

Miss Mathews astounded the officials when she answered a question about Virginia Beach by saying she "did not think it would be a good place to live year around."

One of the highlights of Miss Mathews' performance was her vocal rendition of "There's No Business Like Show Business." Miss Mathews represented her high school in the first annual International Amalea Festival and won a district first in the State poetry reading contest. She resides at 6032 Virginia Beach Boulevard.

In the talent contest the winner wore a top hat and black cutaway jacket in doing imitations of Sophie Tucker and Judy Garland.

Time &amp; Places For Voting

The voting precincts for next Tuesday's primary election will be open from sun-up to sundown throughout both the county and the City of Virginia Beach.

Voters in the Second Precinct of the City of Virginia Beach will cast their votes in the new store building on 31st Street near Atlantic Avenue.

Precinct One voters will again be at the Fire Station next to the City Hall building.

New registrations and the driving campaign ward for this election indicate a near-record vote in both city and county.

TV Programs Set for Friday, Saturday Nights

The Organization will wind up its campaign for county offices with a public meeting tonight at the new Princess Anne High School at Thalia. The meeting is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Although the meeting is the last public affair scheduled by the Organization prior to the July 12th primary election next Tuesday, the four major Organization candidates have announced that they will make television appearances on Friday and Saturday nights over WTTAR-TV at 10:30 p.m. each night.

The Organization will wind up an intensive political campaign against the anti-organization forces known as the Thalia for Princess Anne. Major candidates on the Organization Ticket have held several public meetings during the campaign and have employed large audiences at each meeting.

The four Organization candidates are John E. Mullen, Sheriff; Ivan D. Mays, Jr., Commissioner of the revenue; V. A. "Jack" Etheridge, Jr., Treasurer; and Robert S. "Bob" Wainwright, Jr., for commonwealth attorney. In each of the past meetings these candidates have been joined by E. Almer Adams, Jr., Accomack County's Commonwealth Attorney, who is seeking the State Senate seat vacated by Candidate Etheridge.

From the outset the Organization group has attempted to deal with the true issues of the campaign, namely, the qualifications of the candidates, themselves. The anti-organization slate has repeatedly brought in side issues and personalities not connected with the campaign.

Phone Company Joins Effort for Civil Defense

Reeves E. Johnson, Civil Defense Coordinator for Virginia Beach, has administered the Civil Defense Oath to L. F. Patrick, Chief Operator for the Virginia Beach Office, and Nathan H. DuVal, Plant Wire Chief for the Virginia Beach Exchange area. They will in turn swear in other designated employees of the company who will administer the oath to their respective personnel.

Civil Defense authorities recognize the essential nature of telephone communications and in case of invasion or other national emergency, telephone employees will be enabled better to perform their essential duties as members of the Office of Civil Defense.

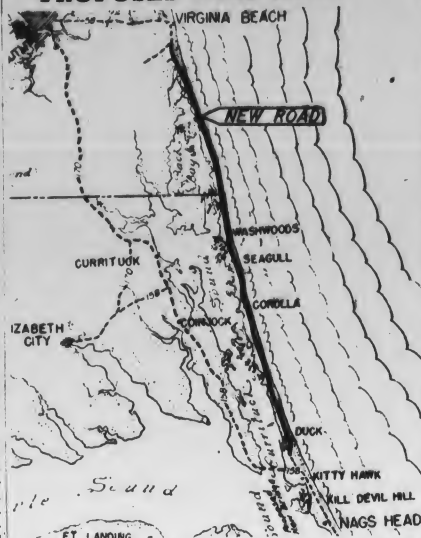

An agreement to this effect has been reached between the Office of Civil Defense and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia. Employees will be entitled to all the rights and privileges accorded other enrolled Civil Defense personnel. They will be considered functioning as Civil Defense personnel, but their assignment will be on telephone work. Company vehicles will have the right to display the approved Civil Defense insignia allowing them to traverse restricted areas under emergency conditions and employees will be issued Civil Defense identification cards and armbands, thus enabling them to move freely to and from their designated work areas.

The same procedures are planned for all areas in Virginia operated by the C. and P. according to Patrick until the Company personnel is fully covered.

Since you did not do so, I am forced to the conclusion that your action was solely motivated by political propaganda purposes.

Farm Bureau Urges Members To Vote Tuesday

The Board of Directors of the Princess Anne County Farm Bureau has made an appeal to all farmers and other citizens of the county to vote their convictions on July 12.

In a special statement prepared for release today, the Board said, "The county voting record has been steadily improving over the past 20 years, yet we have a long way to go toward accepting our responsibilities."

"Government in our country is based on laws," the statement continued, "without laws it would have no authority to function. Laws are made by elected representatives to the state legislature and congress. These laws are executed by elected public officials. We urge you to vote as you please but vote."

"Citizenship is your responsibility," the Board stated, "and so is government." If you think politics are rotten, it's your fault, and the way to correct it is through your vote. If you think politics are good, that's your responsibility too, to keep it that way. An intelligent voter knows why he is voting for a person or a thing. He knows what he thinks is best

Low Prices Cited As Reason For Record Colonial Sales Gain

Colonial Stores' sales hit an all-time high this week throughout the Virginia area. Low day-day food prices at Colonial Stores are in keeping with the company's slogan: "Your total food bill is less when you shop at C.S." Expert buyers in selected quantities enable Colonial to obtain first quality food items at a lower cost. J. E. Harris, Colonial Grocery Buyer explained, "These savings are then passed along to our customers in the form of lower prices. It has always been our policy to provide customers with the finest quality merchandise at the lowest possible price."

Among other reasons cited for the sales increase in Colonial sales was the wide variety of items offered in all Colonial Stores.

Low prices, however, remain the most important consideration both for Colonial and its customers.

Ft. Story Sports Moving in High Gear in Every Department

The DUKWs, Fort Story's entry in the Navy Major Inter-service Baseball League, traveled to Fort Lee last week to battle the league leaders in a two-game series. After a pair of thrillers, the Lee men again proved themselves the class of the loop as they set the DUKWs back in both games to strengthen their firm grip on first place.

The first game was a nip-and-tuck affair, tied up until the ninth inning, when Fort Lee capitalized on four hits to chase five runs across the plate and win by a score of 10-5. Despite the loss, the showing of pitcher Norm Chandler injected a note of optimism as he went the route for the first time since injuring his back some weeks ago. The steady twirler's return to the lineup strengthens a troubled pitching staff and bolsters the DUKWs' chances in future tilts.

Chandler, the DUKWs' manager, hurled for the Fort Eustis Wheels last season. Before he entered service he pitched for the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association, and is under option to the Milwaukee Braves. The 24-year-old soldier is presently assigned to Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B at Story.

Hard-Luck Hurler is a name befitting the DUKWs' Carl Buniva, who has lost some heart-breakers despite his consistently good pitching. In a game against the Norfolk Navy Base the other night, Buniva allowed but three hits and struck out eleven batters only to lose by a score of 4-1. It is the second such setback in two weeks for the former Providence College ace, who previously pitched a five-hitter in losing to Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, 4-3.

Story will be represented by five players on the Fort Eustis All-Star squad which will take part in the Virginia State semi-pro baseball tournament at Charlottesville beginning July 28. The Eustis team will be bolstered by the addition of pitchers Norm Chandler and Carl Buniva, outfielder Rob Hicks, and the potent double-play combination of shortstop Jim Paccand second baseman Red Hutchins.

The first round of Story's Intramural Softball League raced toward completion with the 40th DUKW Company and Headquarters Company, 5th Transportation Terminal Command B. Virtually assured of a first place finish in the National and American divisions, respectively, as the two squads boasted undefeated staves going into the final contests. The second round of play will begin Monday, July 11.

tried several political "tricks," one of which was the use of a tape recorder between an individual and one of their candidates. This "trick" backfired on the Princess Anne Ticket, many observers believe.

Princess Anne Circuit Judge Floyd E. Kellam has been attacked by the Princess Anne Ticket along with almost every appointive and elective official of the county.

Meanwhile the Organization Ticket has kept to the facts except when vicious attacks have been made on those not running for office. The Organization candidates have consistently pointed to the progress and growth of the county and city and have stated the record is a good one despite the smoke-screens laid down by the opposing candidates.

Opposing the Organization candidates are C. R. Malbon, for sheriff; W. W. Oliver, Jr., for commissioner of the revenue; L. B. Walker, for treasurer; and J. E. Heath, for commonwealth attorney. This group is backing Wendro Godwin for the Senate in opposition to Ames.

Art Association Holding Exhibits

The Virginia Beach Art Association, still in its infancy, presented its first exhibition work of local artists at old Tucker Hall in November, 1952.

It was from this first public exhibit that members of the original group saw that there was enough interest locally in art to form a permanent organization.

The Virginia Beach Art Association has been instrumental in bringing many fine lectures to the Beach, including one by Professor Thorne of William and Mary College and Kenneth Harris.

The Association has held two large exhibits each winter the works of 50 local artists. This summer the Association is holding a weekly exhibit at the Theatre-Goround at 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

In one recent year alone, industry paid out more than a billion dollars for compensation of work-connected injuries.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY AND THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH

DO NOT BE HOODWINKED BY FALSE POLITICAL PROPAGANDA

On Tuesday, July 12th, 1955, the citizens of Princess Anne County will go to the polls to elect their county officers for the next four years. On that day you will make an important decision affecting the future of your county. You owe it to yourself and your county to know the true facts about the real issues so that you can make the right decision.

WHY HAS THE TICKET FOR PRINCESS ANNE RESORTED TO DECEITFUL TACTICS?

The candidates on the Ticket for Princess Anne have resorted to every deceptive device conceivable to arouse dissension and create distrust in the people with their county and their government. This has been the keynote of their entire campaign. They have criticized every phase of the county government and leveled reckless attacks at the elected and appointed representatives of the people. They have resorted to every misleading artifice, including reckless accusations, insinuations, distortion of the truth and outright mis-statements of fact.

Their tactics of misrepresentation have been employed because they know that the truth is fatal to their cause. They know they cannot be elected on the basis of their own qualifications and records.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY?

We believe that the people have a justifiable right to be proud of the recent growth and progress of the county. We also believe that the leaders of the county government, on the basis of their record of performance, are deserving of the confidence of the people. Here are some facts about Princess Anne County:

1. Fastest growing county in the State of Virginia—population has practically doubled in the past five years.
2. School population has increased from 5,600 students in 1950 to more than 12,500.
3. County has provided more than $8,000,000.00 for new school facilities since 1950.

4. County stands among the top counties in Virginia in the pay scale of teachers' salaries.
5. County operates its own school buses providing daily transportation for more than 10,000 school children.
6. Has had more new homes constructed during past 5 years than any other county in this section of Virginia.
7. $64,136,242.00 construction value in building permits issued in past 5 years.
8. Over 27,000 property deeds recorded in past 3 1/2 years.
9. Establishment of a Planning Commission and a Master Zoning Ordinance to promote the orderly growth of the County.
10. Adoption of building codes for the protection of the safety of its people.
11. Has set up an independent Police Board to employ and supervise the County Police Force.
12. Police Department now housed in new building with modern communication equipment, and personnel are required to attend police schools.
13. Has modern Health Center built mostly with Federal and State funds.
14. Operates its own garbage collection and has a modern garbage disposal facility to eliminate menaces to health.
15. First county to establish a separate improvement fund for each district.
16. First county in Virginia to establish a Mosquito Control Commission for the eradication of insects.
17. Method of assessing value of real estate is being put on a scientific formula basis to insure equality of tax assessments.
18. County presently installing latest accounting system as approved by the State Auditor of Public Accounts to bring about a closer coordination among all departments.

19. County is now setting up a Controller's Office to centralize disbursements and provide a continuous accounting of the financial status of the county.

We believe that anyone who will examine the facts of the county's growth and progress, with a fair and unprejudiced mind, will be convinced that these accomplishments could not possibly have been realized without an efficient and competent government administered by leaders who have been alert to the problems of the county and responsive to the needs of the people.

THE ONE BASIC ISSUE: WHICH CANDIDATES ARE BEST QUALIFIED TO SERVE THE PEOPLE?

The evasive tactics and maneuvering of the Ticket for Princess Anne have been deliberately designed to obelud this one basic issue, for they know they cannot be elected on the basis of their own personal qualifications and records. Common sense tells anyone that the personal qualifications of the candidates is the prime consideration before the people in any election. All other questions are secondary. The people should not let political propaganda cause them to overlook a close examination of the character, background, experience and records of each candidate. These are the factors which should be considered most carefully for the obvious reason that no government can be better than its chosen representatives.

You will find a biographical sketch of each Organization candidate elsewhere in this appeal to the citizens of Princess Anne County.

We are proud of Princess Anne County and believe it has a bright future. If elected, we pledge to work constructively in the best interest of all the people for good government and continued progress.

We ask your consideration of our qualifications for the offices we seek in comparison with the qualifications of our respective opponents. We are perfectly willing to let the result of the election be decided on this one real and basic issue.

Vision of Drs. Taylor and Dormire Responsible for Va. Beach Hospital

Virginia Beach can be thankful to the forward vision of two local doctors devoted to their profession and their community and the welfare of their fellow man for the erection and operation of the Virginia Beach Hospital.

The actuality of the Virginia Beach Hospital, which was opened for the first time back in 1948, is the result of the efforts of Dr. Waller L. Taylor and Dr. H. Floyd Dormire, who practiced here many years without a local hospital. The two doctors long cherished the dream of establishing a local hospital here and it was in 1947 that construction began.

The Virginia Beach Hospital, a tribute to Dr. Taylor and Dr. Dormire, has contributed greatly to this community and to Princess Anne County. The hospital has been filled with patients daily since its opening. Staffed by competent personnel headed by Chief Surgeon James Todd and Miss Margaret Ailstock, superintendent, the Virginia Beach Hospital has received high praise from patients and visiting doctors.

In addition to patients of the hospital doctors, the Virginia Beach hospital serves many charitable cases and has been extremely cooperative with the Welfare Department cases of Princess Anne County.

The Virginia Beach Hospital is completely equipped with the latest and finest methods and equipment known to the medical profession.

Even today it is Dr. Taylor's desire to completely double the present 36-bed capacity of the hospital. This is the next step in the progress of the Virginia Beach Hospital which is rendering a magnificent service to the public.

Families with children tend to have better diets than those without children, even though their average income is no higher and they have more mouths to feed.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

The year-round emphasis on motor accident prevention by officers and men responsible for conducting Story's safety program is credited with the post's unblemished record over the July 4th weekend. Although hundreds of troops took advantage of the long holiday to visit their homes, traveling on Virginia's scenic highways, reports of accidents involving Story personnel were nil.

Story's S-2 Officer, Maj. Morris J. Katz, departs shortly for reassignment to the 126th Transportation Detachment at Fort Meyer, Va. Major Katz, whose home is in San Francisco, came to Story last March after four years service in Korea and Japan with military intelligence groups. His varied educational background includes four years at the Shanghai American School where he graduated in 1932. Prior to the Korean war he was on transport duty in the Aleutian Islands.

Relocation of post headquarters sections is giving Story a new look, with the Personnel Branch now occupying a separate building some distance from the headquarters proper. The move enables the expanding S-3 Section to coordinate its operational and training activities on the second floor of headquarters, and also provides additional space for the post's new deputy commander, Lt. Col. John W. Daly. Earlier moves relocated the Provost Marshal, the Signal Office, and the headquarters of the 16th Transportation Battalion in spacious, air-conditioned bunkers that date from the post's period as a Coast Artillery installation.

Soldier of the Week at Story again represents the 10th T Battalion. He's SFC Paul G. Hassell of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, assigned as supply sergeant. A veteran of seven years service, the 25-year-old soldier from Edenton, N. C., came to Story a month ago after serving at Frankfurt Arsenal in Philadelphia. His overseas service includes duty in the Canal Zone.

Story's Moppet set had a gala

Independence Day complete with all the ice cream the kids could eat. The holiday party, arranged by the Post Adjutant, Capt. Warren L. Green, was for all children of Story's military personnel, and was sponsored jointly by Post Special Services and the Chaplain's Section. It was held on the grounds adjoining St. Theresa's Chapel on Atlantic Avenue.

Another observance of the Fourth was the traditional 48-gun Salute to the Union, commemorating the Declaration of Independence. Rounds were fired at five-second intervals, beginning at noon, from the two three-inch guns outside Post Headquarters. The five-man detail all from Story's Military Police Detachment, was composed of Sgt. Donald O. Clark, Specialists 3d Class James Chantler, Elliot Thompson and Roy L. Cutridge, and Pvt. Allen L. Wise.

Commander and Mrs. L. B. Ramsey, "Cavalier Park" are at The Homestead, Virginia Hot Springs, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bernard, 4402 Ocean Front, were among the week's arrivals at The Homestead, Virginia Hot Springs, where they will remain until July 7th.

TUNA NOTES

Here are some "tuna notes" that were interesting to me, so I thought I'd pass them on to you:

The ancients long before the advent of the Christian era knew about and highly prized tuna for its superb eating qualities. There is evidence indicating that tuna was reserved by the ancient Romans for royal feasts only. Now, thanks to modern industry, tuna is available to everyone. In fairly recent times its popularity and universal taste appeal is continuing to gain favor.

The American tuna industry celebrated its 50th year in business in 1953. During the half century the American homemaker has come to recognize tuna as a standard and frequently used food item.

Three principal types of vessels are used in tuna fishing: the clipper, or bait boat, is the largest type and may have a capacity of five hundred tons. They are modern in every detail and generally fitted with the latest technological devices even to amphibious planes used for scouting and spotting the schools of tuna.

The method of catching tuna is fundamentally the same as the "folk lore" pole and line style, and is the method so frequently seen in the movies. Tuna fishing is exciting, exciting and even dangerous — exacting on the skippers who must locate the live bait, select the fishing grounds and see that the bait man and "boss fisherman" perform the task of "bunching" of a school of temperamental tuna with live bait to keep them in such a feeding frenzy that they readily strike the bare hooks used by the fishermen. The excitement begins when the tuna are frenzied and continues for several hours. Exhaustion becomes the companion of excitement.

ment. Danger is imminent when a clipper is suddenly caught in a "chubasco," a violent seaward wind frequently encountered off the Mexican coast.

Next in importance are the purse seine boats, which are considerably smaller than the clippers and have a much smaller cruising range which confines their activities to Mexican and Puerto Rican waters. With their large purse seines and good luck these boats may take a capacity load in several sets.

Trollers or jig boats range from Mexico to Southern Alaska, from such ports as San Pedro, Monterey, Coos Bay and Astoria, searching for the unpredictable albacore, or long-fin tuna. While the fishermen's tradition holds that the first albacore to appear off Southern California will be during the week of July 4th, the first appearance may be sooner, or much later, and occasionally they don't show up at all. In any event, with their first appearance there is hectic activity in hundreds of large and small anchorages along the Pacific Coast as the jiggers get under way to the local fishing grounds.

Tuna are cosmopolitan in distribution and members of the groups are found in all temperate or tropical waters. The albacore, or white meat tuna, occurs farthest north and the domestic catch of this species is made solely by the jig boats.

According to the federal regulations, this is the only species that may be labeled "white meat."

Yellowfin tuna is found in tropical waters, and accounts for over 50% of all domestic tuna landings. Bluefin tuna, a habitant of subtropical and temperate waters, is of lesser importance to the industry. Its availability to the fishing fleet varies widely from season to season. This is the species praised by the Greeks and

Romans. Skipjack is the fourth commercially important tuna. Its distribution is about the same as for yellowfin and frequently loads are composed of both species. The latter three species are marketed as light meat tuna. Tuna have made San Pedro, California, the largest fishing port and fish processing center in the United States, both in regard to tonnage and value.

Canned tuna is available in three styles of pack. This is not a quality difference. Style of pack refers only to the sizes of the pieces in the can.

The three packs are: Fancy or solid pack (3½ - 7 - 13 ounces net). This pack is ideal for cold plates.

Chunk style (3½ - 6 - 6½ - 12 ounces net).

Flake and grated style (6 - 11 ounces net).

Regardless of the can size or style of pack, the product represents the best of our modern and important tuna-packing industry.

Normally, tuna is packed in soy oil; however, mention should be made of tuna which are packed in olive oil. This is known as "tongue" and is a great favorite in certain areas.

Next week, some tuna recipes, meantime, here are the low calorie recipes we didn't have room to give you last week:

1½ teaspoon Salt-Ex

Freshly ground black pepper

Combine all ingredients in bowl. Chill to blend flavors.

And remember all the low-calorie foods in cans. There is a wide selection of fruits and vegetables from which to choose.

Bye, now... See you next week.

Cool ideas for hot days will start your cooling off even before you begin preparing the meals! There's much of deliciousness in all of these:

Flaked crabmeat can be mixed with mayonnaise and crisp slices of cucumber. Toss this on a thick slice of tomato set on a slice of thin toast. This makes a pretty main dish for lunch or supper.

Sherbets are very popular these days. You can make a "sundae" out of them by serving with a sauce. Orange sherbet takes to ginger syrup or chocolate if you like. Lime sherbet goes with pineapple sauce or crushed raspberries.

Old-fashioned rice pudding may be served icy cold and is a treat with crushed, sweetened berries. Take your pick of cherries, raspberries or strawberries.

Grated lemon rind is a wonderful pep-up for mayonnaise to be used on fruit salads.

When you want to fill out a salad, try stuffing prunes, grapes or those little ripe plums with cream or cottage cheese. Top these with salted nuts for an extra treat.

GARDEN GUIDE

By J. WILTON ANDERSON

LAWN SPRINKLERS

There is a very wide selection of lawn sprinklers on the market this year with many outstanding features that were not seen a few years ago. Basically there are two styles to choose from... the sprinkler that distributes the water in a circle and the one that waters in a square or rectangle.

The sprinklers that water in a circle have a base or pedestal upon which are mounted a set of two or more arms which rotate due to the principle of there being a reaction for every action... the water flowing out of the sprinkler arm displaces it in the opposite direction. This same principle is evident if a lightweight plastic hose with nozzle is laid upon the ground and the water turned on with moderate pressure, as the water moves forward the action will result in the hose reacting by pushing away from the direction of flow.

These arms travel at a high rate of speed when the pressure is kinking and tangling, coil it loosely in a bucket or basket. That makes a handy storage space, and the cord will come out easily for use when you mow.

For safety's sake, mow with an electric mower only when the grass is dry. Moisture of any kind is a good conductor of electricity. Rain or dew on the grass may short out the mower and damage the motor or give you a shock.

Use only heavy-duty rubber-covered cord with a No. 16 conductor wire, or heavier, for 100 feet of cord on a quarter horsepower motor. Check the cord frequently to see that there are no breaks in the insulation.

turned on fully and throw the water centrifugally for many feet. Some of the better sprinklers have adjustable fittings on the end of the arms so that the patterns may be varied, others have a dial where the diameter of the circle to be watered may be preset. Look for the models with wheels or rollers or a pedestal that is turned up on the bottom so that you can shift them by merely pulling them along by the hose without having to turn off the water.

One manufacturer has a modified rotating sprinkler mounted on two, four and six foot standards which may be stuck in the lawn at convenient places. These have the advantage of distributing the water over a larger area; however the rotating parts are cast from soft metal and frequently do not function satisfactorily.

The better sprinklers from our point of view are those that have an arm which oscillates back and forth and distributes the water in a square or rectangle. These are powered by a simple, water-driven motor which carries the low low performed arm back and forth several times a minute. They may be adjusted with a thumb screw so that instead of oscillating over 180 degrees, they will cover simply 90 degrees and thus may be placed next to a sidewalk or next to your neighbor's property without getting the unwanted area wet.

Some of the larger models will cover an area up to 40 x 60 feet with full pressure. These sprinklers cost more than the circular type but surely it makes good sense to water a rectangular lawn (as most are) with a rectangular sprinkler. You do not waste the water that you will with a circular sprinkler as you overlap the watered areas in an effort to get up into the corners.

Care of Sprinklers

All water sprinklers that we have seen are lubricated by the water itself, therefore oil is not necessary. Keep them clean and be careful that foreign matter does not get into the hose where it will be forced into the sprinkler and clog it.

Underground Sprinklers

The latest do-it-yourself garden fad is a kit to install an underground sprinkler in the lawn. These are made up of heavy plastic tube or plastic pipe to which are attached brass sprinklers designed to be mounted flush with the ground. Turn on the water and the sprinklers do their job with no fuss or muss. More kits can be added on to the original to cover greater areas. The plastic pipe is flexible and is easy to work with. It will not rot and is immune to damage from freezing temperatures.

Most of the sprinklers may be dis-assembled for cleaning without digging them up. The whole idea is great, and the kits will be seen more and more. Follow the manufacturer's directions carefully to avoid trouble... and a word of caution — be careful in putting too many sprinkler heads on any one line, as our water pressures are not sufficient to operate too many of them without segregating the system into independent units.

Smith & Welton Doubles Size Of Virginia Beach Branch Store

Smith & Welton has doubled the size of its Virginia Beach branch on 38th Street and Atlantic Avenue. The expansion program will give the Beach a miniature department store.

R. F. Welton, III, general manager of the 65-year-old mercantile organization, said the enlarged operation, made possible when Coker's, Inc. moved its beach store to another location, will begin functioning soon.

Workmen have opened up the wall separating the two stores and are installing fixtures and other equipment.

Welton said the new departments to be added will include home furnishings, drapery, curtains, rugs, domestics (sheets and pillow cases), housewares, stationery and greeting cards.

The branch operation, which opened at the Beach in April of 1951, has enjoyed a business far exceeding expectations, he said. It has been specializing in women's, misses' and children's clothing, men's furnishings, gifts and fashions.

Mr. Welton estimated that it will be necessary to increase the store personnel to 25 employees, contrasted with the 16 now on the sales staff.

Hampton Roads Tractor & Equip. Serves Entire Tidewater Area

In 1941 Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company opened for business at West 36th St. & Killam Avenue in Norfolk. This firm was designed to serve the Tidewater Area of Virginia and ten counties in North Carolina, which are north of the Roanoke River.

Growth has been progressive in the Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company. Quality machines and promptness for rendering the necessary and desired service have been the largest contributing factors to this firm's rise to a position of leadership in the territory which it serves.

From a small beginning the shop, office and showroom facilities have been expanded into a modern unit which now serves users of Construction, Industrial, Logging and Material-Handling Equipment with machines engineered and designed to do the job better. . . . all of which are backed by Hampton Roads' complete parts and service set-up.

The courteous and considerate treatment of all those who are served by Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company has always been one of their cardinal virtues. Under the active leadership of friendly folk like W. C. Calton President; E. G. Evans, Jr., Sr. Vice President-General Manager, and John C. Robertson, Secy-Treasurer, the customer is made to feel that his is a valued account and appreciates the courtesies which are extended him.

The replacement parts department has seven experienced partsmen under the supervision of Reuben L. Burgess, Parts Manager. This department carries one of the largest replacement

Virginia Beach. Mr. Hughes married the former Laura Snider of Washington, D. C., and the Hughes have two children, a son, David, and a daughter, Barbara Kay.

Mr. Hughes is a member of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders, of which he is currently president; the Rotary Club, the Tabbot Park Baptist Church, the Chamber of Commerce, the Virginia Chapter of American Military Engineers. He is also president of the Hughes Supply Corporation.

parts stock in Tidewater and has played a big part in the rapid completion of many large construction projects in this area.

Joe L. Thomas, who is now in charge of the Service Department, is one of the best qualified men in the field on International Tractors and Diesel Engines. He and his crew of trained service men are well equipped to take care of any repair or rebuilding job.

Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company also has an engineering service by means of which they are qualified to evaluate the needs of the individual project and to fit it with one of their machines designed to service that particular need. Bruce Taylor and O. B. Thompson are Field Service Engineers and bring years of experience to this post.

Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company is one of a vast chain of equipment firms operated by the A. E. Finley and Associates Organization. The sixteen different locations between Norfolk and Miami serve under the names of Hampton Roads Tractor and Equipment Company, North Carolina Equipment Company, Southern Equipment Sales Company and the Florida-Georgia Tractor Company. Each of these, while forming a part of this larger organization, is operated to serve a section in a manner suiting the needs of that particular area.

In addition to the complete line of International Crawler Tractors, Scrapers and Dozers, Hampton Roads Tractor & Equipment Company are distributors for: Gallon Motor Graders and Road Rollers; Hough Payloaders; Northwest Shovels, Cranes, Draglines; Jaeger Mixers, Pumps, Compressors and Paving Equipment; Elgin Street Sweepers, Leach Packmasters and other lines of well-known equipment that has a reputation for doing a good job.

To the voters of Princess Anne County.

My biggest regret in this campaign has been the impossibility of seeing each of you in person—of having the pleasure of making your personal acquaintance and shaking hands with you. That, as you know has been impossible because of the large territory and the number of qualified voters. So, I take this opportunity to ask for your vote on Tuesday next. Please take this as my personal plea to you for your help in electing me as your next State Senator.

If elected, I shall earnestly seek to serve all of the people to the very best of my ability as your Senator and to render unto you individually and little personal service that is within my power, so long as it is honorable and reasonable. I shall be your friend in order to be worthy of your friendship and trust.

My experience as a member of the House of Delegates from Accomack County for the past eight years will be of great value to the people I seek to represent if elected to the Senate. It takes just about that long to get your hand in, so to speak, to make your friends and contacts and learn the "know how" of getting legislation passed. I feel that I am better qualified than my opponent who has had no experience whatsoever with law making. His lack of experience will be a definite disadvantage to the people of Princess Anne County, though he may be qualified in every other way.

Many important issues and grave matters will come before the next Legislature requiring the best thought and talent of our most experienced Legislators. Those men with the greatest past experience in the Legislature will be more qualified and better able to deal with these most perplexing problems. My past experience will serve me well and result in a greater benefit to the people I seek to represent.

I will earnestly and sincerely appreciate your vote.

Wendro M. Godwin

VOTE FOR WRENDO M. GODWIN AS STATE SENATOR IN NEXT TUESDAY'S PRIMARY ELECTION

He Is Able, Progressive And Experienced In The Serious Business Of Law Making

Here are some of the things he stands for:

- (1) The passage of a law authorizing the financing and construction of a bridge-tunnel between the Eastern Shore and Princess Anne County.
- (2) A twenty year school construction program to meet the serious and growing needs of our increased school population and an objective program by our Department of Education looking towards modernizing and raising the standards of our education system in order to, at least, bring our school standards up to those of our neighboring States. This includes increased teacher's salaries so that they may be paid on a basis of a profession and not just on the basis of an occupation. They have been neglected too long and are truly the "red-headed step children" of a proud and grand old Commonwealth.
- (3) A long range constructive program of development, conservation and replenishment of our sea-food industry. This is one of the most important industries in our State and yet because of lack of a progressive program, it is very slowly but gradually losing its significance as an economic factor in the welfare of Tidewater Virginia. This is a matter of grave concern to thousands of watering people who depend on it for a livelihood.

- (4) A firmer and friendlier spirit of cooperation between the peoples of the Eastern Shore and Princess Anne County to the end that the tourist trade may be further developed and enlarged for the benefit of the people of both areas. I believe that closer economic and cultural ties between both sections of our District will result in a better understanding and a greater mutual profit to all of us. I shall use my every effort to help accomplish that if elected.

On the basis of this program and my past record as a member of the House of Delegates, I earnestly and humbly solicit your vote on next Tuesday.

Corn Ear Worms Can Be Curbed

Corn ear worms — which usually beat the consumer to the tender ears — can be controlled with very little trouble, report entomologists at VPI.

In small gardens it is probably easiest to dust the silks of the corn with 5% DDT dust. Apply the dust directly to the silks when about three-fourths of the silks are showing, and again when a few of them begin to turn brown.

The moth lays the eggs on the silks and when they hatch out the small worm feeds there before he eats into the ear itself. For large plantings, use a power sprayer, and a DDT-mineral oil emulsion. This spray has been found most effective for ear-worm control.

The entomologists also warn gardeners not to forget the ever-present Mexican bean beetle. As soon as you see some of the beetles (they are large brown or yellow lady-bird beetles with 16 spots on their wing covers) or as soon as you notice that some of the bean leaves have been eaten so they

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. These four solid reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SOIL CONSERVATION HAS PROVEN WORTH LOCALLY

The first meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the Virginia Dare Soil Conservation District was held on December 16, 1946, for the purpose of organization, with the following results:

A. E. Roach was chosen chairman of the board; W. B. Munder was elected vice chairman; H. W. Odlin, secretary; J. C. Ivins and E. T. White as the other two members. Messrs. Roach and Ivins are still serving on the board.

The Soil Conservation Service staffed both Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties in May, 1946, with employees possessing an engineering background that had been with the service since 1934. John T. Crenshaw and Aubrey N. Holmes are still assisting the district supervisors in Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties.

"All my previous experience in soil conservation work was spent in the hilly and steeper lands around Chatham, Lynchburg, Lexington and Harrisonburg," relates Mr. Holmes. "When I returned from the armed forces in 1946, Dr. Lyman Carrier, State Conservationist, informed me that I was to be assigned to Princess Anne County. I was reared in this county and I knew all of our land was level, so the conservation problem here was a little of a puzzle to me. By the fall of 1946, at harvest time I knew my conservation number one problem—drainage. I was with B. A. Manning when he harvested his corn that year from a 50-acre stand. The net yield was two wagon loads of 'nubbins' from the field 50 acres, and it was necessary to 'scrape' the field to complete the second wagon load.

"This area has now been properly drained and Mr. Manning now is able to harvest from 4,000 to 4,250 bushels of corn from this same 50 acres. There 'used to be' several farmers operating under similar adverse conditions in our county, but the landowners and the Soil Conservation employees working together have solved the problem in many of our troubled areas. I think we have done a pretty good job toward combating adverse drainage on the upland or higher lands. The problem we now face is to provide drainage on a community basis for those areas that are below the six-foot contour . . . land that is not more than six feet above sea level.

"The accomplishments to date, I think, represent one of the finest examples I know of of the people working together for a permanent agriculture through good land use and soil and water conservation. This is most appropriate because the only way to do the soil conservation job is thru the efforts of local people carrying out their own conservation program through democratic soil conservation district.

"I believe you can well imagine how they get the soil conservation job done in Russia. Even in England, the government tells the farmer how he must use his land. I believe that unless we farmers do the conservation job and do it well through our soil conservation district, the day will come when our government will be forced to self-preservation to order us to do it."

There has been considerable drainage work completed in the county, which has meant a saving of many dollars to farmers from crop losses due to excessive water. Over 115 miles of community main lead canals involving two or more owners have been completed. To feed these canals 945 miles of lateral ditches have been improved or new ditches constructed.

Thirty-five ponds and lakes, varying in size from four-tenths of an acre to 35 acres, have been constructed under the supervision of the soil conservation and stocked with bream and bass by the Fish and Wildlife Service. One acre properly managed will provide from 250 to 400 pounds of fish per year. It will afford 500 man-hours of relaxation by fishing with rod and reel or pole. Three new irrigation systems have been installed since the first of this year to help combat the lack of rainfall the farmers have experienced the past three years. One hundred and two group irrigation and drainage jobs involving two or more landowners have been completed, which benefits 68,375 acres of Princess Anne County's 92,370 farm acres.

"Some of us," says Mr. Holmes, "may wonder why our government controls the Soil Conservation Service on a national level. I believe that we can use this as the answer: Because the things that you as an American enjoy, your food, your clothing, shelter, health and your standard of living, all depend on Mother Earth. This 'good earth' has made it possible for us to have a strong nation. Let's keep it strong and pass on to our children the 'good earth' that it has been our privilege to use, in an even better condition than we found it."

Rose Hall Restoration Attracts Many to Unique Ladies' Store

Here is the progress that goes back almost 240 years, for the restoration of Rose Hall has given this area a fine new historical attraction.

The completion of the restoration of the old gambrel-roofed house on Virginia Beach Boulevard in the spring by Mr. Robin Studda has created widespread interest as this is the largest and finest of this type home left from the colonial period and is believed to be the oldest of the gambrel-roofed houses now standing. The restoration has been effected to show a manor house of the Queen Anne Period in Virginia and part of the house is furnished in the period of that day.

Inasmuch as the cost of the restoration was prohibitive unless it could be utilized in some way other than a home, The Studda had the inspiration to convert the entire old basement kitchen into fashion shops for women, boys and girls. It is believed that no home has been restored so extensively which at the same time provides a setting of yesterday for fashions of today.

Since the opening week Rose Hall has daily attracted scores of both local and out of town visitors who have been most high in their praises over the restoration, the rare furnishings of the downstairs rooms and the shops on the lower level.

Port Authority's Efforts Prove Highly Successful in Tidewater Promotion

A Civil Aeronautics Board hearing examiner has recommended to the Board non-stop air service between Norfolk and Atlanta. Approval by the Board itself will open the air door to the great southwest.

Non-stop service to Atlanta, no matter which of the four airports, Capital, National, Eastern or Delta, receives CAB approval, will make Norfolk, with all of its water isolation, one of the so-called "main-line" air service cities of the nation.

To meet the growing demands of main-line service to the South, North, and West the Norfolk Port Authority has announced plans to supplement its million dollar plus airport facility with an additional 10,000 square feet of floor space in the near future. Authority officials feel the addition will meet the airport's needs for the present.

Quick flying schedules to the vast airport city of Norfolk have brought cities as far away as Minneapolis and St. Paul to within six and a quarter hours flying time. Louisville is four hours away; Cincinnati, four hours; Columbus, four hours, and Chattanooga, five hours.

Direct service, in which no change of plane is involved, now extends as far northwest as St. Paul-Minneapolis, as far southwest as Memphis.

The rapid growth of the three main airlines serving Norfolk, Capital, National, and Piedmont, has brought the city a brand new industry. All three airlines employ several hundred Norfolk citizens on a regular basis.

The airlines have brought their top equipment into service to and from Norfolk. Last Year, the first of $12,000,000 in new National equipment (Convair 340's), were part of a three to five flight daily increase put in by National between Norfolk and New York and Philadelphia.

Capital has announced that Norfolk will be one of the inaugural cities for its new turbo-prop Viscount - the British built (Vickers and Rolls Royce) luxury airliner.

Piedmont is flying 17 DC-3's on regular schedules affecting Norfolk.

National's growth figures since 1950 are typical of the rapid strides in Norfolk's aviation progress: Figures represent traffic in the peak month of the year 1950, 1900 passengers; 1952, 1775 passengers; 1953, 2500 passengers; 1954, 4000 passengers; 1955, 4000 passengers.

Norfolk's great air progress in recent years is typified by its million-dollar Municipal terminal lines operations, coffee shop and restaurant, weather bureau, "rent-a-car" offices and other facilities. On blue-prints at present are plans for a powerful new radar system which will enable tracking of planes by radar from as far away as New York.

Although Norfolk's aviation history has been greatly accelerated in the years since the war, it dates back to 1938, when Pennsylvania Central Airlines (now Capital) decided to serve the city. What had been Truxton Manor Golf Course was chosen for an airport. The first combined mail, express and passenger service began on April 7, 1938 following completion of a terminal building.

World War II brought a new operator to the airport. The Army Air Force leased the field with the proviso that improvements would become city property after the war. At the start of the war the field's only runway was only 3500 feet long. It was only 100 feet wide. The Army turned back three concrete runways 5000 feet long and 150 feet wide.

Capital Airlines met with officials of the Norfolk Association of Commerce in 1938 to initiate a service between Norfolk and Washington. J. H. Carmichael, now president of Capital, was instrumental in choosing the site for the airport. Service to Knoxville was instituted in 1940.

National began operating in 1945. In its first month it handled 100 passengers, five years later, in a given month it handled 5,500.

Piedmont's first flight from Norfolk, which went to Roanoke and on to Cincinnati originated on May 14, 1948. It now offers flights to Richmond in 32 minutes, Roanoke in one hour and 55 minutes, Charleston in two hours and 55 minutes, Cincinnati in 4 hours and 6 minutes, Bristol in three hours and 25 minutes and Louisville in 4 hours and 51 minutes and Columbus in four hours and 39 minutes.

The Norfolk-Virginia Beach area is on Capital's mainline run to Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, and Minneapolis. Capital was the airline recommended by the CAB for

Coastal Motors Wide Awake Operators in Used Car Field

Coastal Motors, located at 5800 Virginia Beach Boulevard, opposite the Norfolk Drive-In Theater, is one of the most wide awake car firms in the entire Tidewater area. Owned and operated by Roy Davenport and Jimmie Lane the firm specializes in good used cars.

Both members of the firm are natives of Princess Anne County and have taken an active interest in the development of Princess Anne.

When Coastal Motors first went into business they felt they were lucky if they sold as many as three cars a week. Growth of their business is indicated by the fact that they have sold over 350 automobiles in the first six months of 1955.

In addition to used cars the firm operates a modern body and fender shop and an automobile finance office. Coastal Motors specializes in first-class paint work and offer a most complete stock of tires and automotive accessories. The firm finances its own cars, thus eliminating all banking red tape and assuring the customer delivery at the time the sale is closed.

Mr. Lane, partner of the business also operates a service station at Thomas Corners, handling Mobile Oil Products.

Mr. Davenport is married to the former Miss Josephine L. Dobson of Richmond and they have one daughter, Joella Lee Davenport and two sons, Aubrey Allen Davenport, now in the US Army, stationed in France and who served throughout the Korean War being wounded two different times. Another son, Maurice L. Davenport with Coast Motors Company, also a first class body & paint man, Mr. Davenport owns and occupies a most attractive residence on Kemperville Road on Indian River Road.

Mr. Lane married Miss Pauline Fervis of Bennet, North Carolina. They have two children, James T. Lane and Margaret Lane, both of whom are attending high school.

Coastal Motors is one of the liveliest automobile firms in this part of the country and is prepared to take care of purchases of cars which prove the superiority of the high grade used car over the so-called second hand automobile. These cars will give many thousands of miles of service and in many cases will outlive and out-last many of the new cars which are selling at a high price. The firm has many satisfied customers throughout the Tidewater Area.

Atlanta non-stop.

The Atlanta non-stop case has already drawn Delta Airline's fire. Delta maintains that it would be able to furnish direct (no plane-change) service into the southwest (cities like Houston, New Orleans, Dallas, etc.). The decision lies finally with the civil aeronautics board.

Another service that has grown by leaps and bounds at the airport is Piedmont Aviation's chartering service. Piedmont furnishes fast charters anywhere, with additional air taxi and air ambulance service.

Fred A. Haycox Co. Boasts Long Record of Major Construction Jobs

The Fred A. Haycox Company and Associates have had more than 30 years experience in concrete and paving work in this area and are recognized as authorities in their field.

The Fred A. Haycox Company is presently located on Virginia Beach Boulevard midway between Virginia Beach and Norfolk, at Rosemont. However, the company only moved to this location a few years ago after having been located at the corner of 31st Street and Colonial Avenue in Norfolk for many years.

The parent company, Fred A. Haycox Company, and its sister firm, the Asphalt Roads and Materials Company, specialize in concrete, asphalt and surface treatment of streets, buildings, ways, walkways, etc.

The firm has the distinction of having built the first concrete road to Cape Henry beach in 1923 and 1924. The Haycox Company was the contractor for flooring and roadwork at the original Ford assembly plant in South Norfolk in 1924 and 1926.

Other notable jobs credited to this progressive firm include the building of paved streets in the Uppermere section of Virginia Beach, the paved streets in Cavalier Shores and numerous other street pavement projects.

The firm did the original concrete work on the Surf Club, Cavalier Club and Terrace Beach Club at Virginia Beach. The firm also completed the final contract on Laskin Road.

Built "Boardwalk"

One of the biggest projects accomplished by the concrete and asphalt firm was the building of the Virginia Beach boardwalk and "boardwalk."

The firm constructed the first reinforced concrete bridge in this area, the one in Norfolk's Larchmont section. They have done literally thousands of paving and concrete jobs in Princess Anne County, Norfolk County, Norfolk City and Virginia Beach.

Fred A. Haycox, Sr., serves as president of the Fred A. Haycox Company, and Fred A. Haycox, Jr., is president of the Asphalt Roads and Materials Company, with William C. Haycox, Robert Vicellio and Carl Weaver rounding out the principals in the organization.

"Bill" Tarrh and His Barber Shop Have Seen 31 Years of Progress

William F. Tarrh, proprietor of the Virginia Beach Barber Shop, at 706 Pacific Avenue, is one of Virginia Beach's "old-timers." His barber shop was established in 1924, in the same location it occupies today, and for over 30 years his "shop" has been the "meeting place" at Virginia Beach.

The Virginia Beach Barber Shop is modern in every particular. Three chairs are operated, with two regular barbers and one part time.

Mr. Tarrh is a native of Ohio. He served in the Army during World War I, and upon his discharge from the service 30 years ago came to Virginia Beach, where he has lived since.

Mr. Tarrh is married, and lives in the beach section. He has two sons, Robt. Tarrh, cashier of the Bank of Commerce, and William Tarrh who is health inspector for Princess Anne County.

The Virginia Beach Barber Shop is one of the oldest business establishments in the beach area. In the many years of its operation it has won for itself a host of friends. The shop enjoys the patronage of not only the older residents of Virginia Beach, but also the younger generation and many visitors and vacationers at the beach.

Fuel & Feed Has Grown With City; Began Operations 28 Years Ago

Fuel Feed and Building Supplies Corp began business on October 1, 1927 at the corner of 19th Street and Pacific Avenue which is the address we occupy at the present time. At the start the entire inventory was one carload of coal and delivery equipment consisted of one second-hand truck and a horse and cart.

One small unit of the present warehouse was erected as soon as possible and when it was finished the firm took on a small stock of building materials and feed. This was all the firm sold until about 1930 or 1931 when a small store was opened at 213 Seventeenth Street and stocked with hardware (mostly house wares) and paint. In about two or three years this store proved too small and the business moved to 217 Seventeenth Street. At this time the firm began to add to hardware lines until today Fuel, Feed is operating a hardware store in every sense of the word.

During all this time additions were made to the warehouse space at 19th and Pacific and the firm took on more and more building material items, but for quite a long time coal was perhaps the most important line.

In 1942 fuel oil and kerosene was added to our line. The sales were small at first but within about four years they had surpassed coal sales and from that time oil sales increased and coal sales decreased until 1961 when the Norfolk Southern removed the tracks on Pacific Avenue and the firm went out of the coal business entirely.

In 1946 Fuel, Feed was successful in obtaining the franchise for the sale of Frigidaire Appliances an dthis line has also grown into one of our major lines.

May 1, 1952 the present modern hardware store was built and the firm moved from 217 - 17th Street into the new store since which time coal has been added until it can truthfully be said that if it is hardware, Fuel, Feed has it.

Additions have been made to warehouse space until now there is approximately ten times the amount of floor space and stock just about everything in the building material line needed in the construction of a home except lumber.

When the business was incorporated in 1927 the officers and stockholders were Mr. Edward M. Hardy, Mr. W. R. Ashburn, Mr. James M. Jordan, Jr. and Mr. Audie L. Fisher. In 1928 Mr. Ashburn withdrew from the business and his stock was purchased by R. B. Taylor. At the present time the business is owned and operated by Mr. Taylor and Mr. Jordan

Mutual Federal Savings & Loan Assn. Plays Big Part in Area's Development

The remarkable growth of Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association has played an important part in the overall expansion of the record-breaking building of homes in this area, together with the additional large number of homes that have been remodeled, added to and repaired generally through their home financing plan. "Mutual Federal" has kept stride the times and is ever ready to assist in advising and financing building in the area it serves.

From a modest beginning, when established in 1889 with a capital of only $1,000.00, today's financial statement shows that their assets are in excess of $36,000,000. In 1945 assets were over $8,000,000, and in the five-year period to 1950 had been doubled to more than $16,000,000. In the next five years, these figures were again doubled to more than $36,000,000—bearing out the fact that they had quadrupled their assets in the past decade. Such growth does not just happen — it is proof of the sound judgement, good business management and ability to meet the needs in financing those citizens comprising this area who they serve.

Today "Mutual Federal" has approximately twelve thousand member shares accounts in investment certificates and savings and for some time has been Virginia's largest Federal Savings and loan Association.

The officers, board of directors and attorneys, listed in their advertisement in this paper are all seasoned, experienced and responsible citizens who have contributed much in time and initiative toward the furthering of the association's continued growth.

In order to better serve members in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County the association will soon open offices in Virginia Beach. The spirit of friendliness in competition along with welcoming new firms was expressed by officials of the Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in a statement carried in a news story carried by the Sun-News on December 2, 1954, which, in part, said:

"The Virginia Beach Federal has always been happy to welcome new businesses to Virginia Beach and we regard the plan of the Mutual Federal Savings &

Loan to establish a branch here as a gratifying expression of confidence in our community. The Mutual Federal is an old and respected institution. We are acquainted with many members of their Board and know of no reason why we can't work together in a friendly spirit of competition for the advancement of our city.

Ten years ago there was only one bank at Virginia Beach. Today there are two, but their total deposits are now about three times the sum formerly deposited with the one. We feel that the Mutual's branch will stimulate business for both our associations.

While the Virginia Beach Federal's assets now exceed two million dollars, we realize that this is far short of the mortgage capital necessary for the continued growth of the resort. So we welcome the Mutual Federal and expect that both institutions will grow and prosper."

Mr. Clayton Q. Nugent, president of the Mutual Federal Association, stated that the new home in Virginia Beach will be open sometime in July.

P. A. Telephone Co. President Born and Reared in County

Kermit S. Land, president of the Princess Anne Telephone Company, Inc., was born and raised in Princess Anne County, attended the public schools here and entered William and Mary College, Williamsburg, from which he received a B.S. degree in 1931. At that time he became secretary of the Princess Anne Telephone Company, since his father was already engaged in this business, having purchased the controlling interest in the company during Kermit's stay in college. Mr. Land continued in this capacity until his father's death in 1938, when he became president and general manager.

Kermit S. Land is a member of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club, the Princess Anne Ruritan Club, the Creeds Ruritan Club, Methodist Men's Club and the Princess Anne Country Club, and is on the board of directors of the Bank of Virginia Beach and the Virginia Independent Telephone Association, of which he was president in 1952. He is also a member of the board of stewards of Nimmo Methodist Church and secretary of the Sunday School.

Telephone service in the central and southern parts of Princess Anne County now served by the Princess Anne Telephone Company, Inc., was originally established in 1905 with some farmers' service lines by the Back Bay Telephone Company. This company continued in operation until 1927 when a blizzard tore down practically the entire plant. At that time the company was purchased by George W. Land, Jr., one of the original founders, and the name changed to the Princess Anne Telephone Company, Inc.

During 1951 the telephone company built a new exchange building which is located at Pungo, Virginia, and converted to dial operation. This exchange is now equipped with a 100 line automatic switchboard and will be augmented with a 50 line addition within the next year. There are approximately 500 stations in operation which are all company owned. In January of this year the company moved into its new office, which is located adjacent to the exchange building.

Officers of the Princess Anne Telephone Company, Inc., are:

Kermit S. Land, president and treasurer; Kermit S. Land, Jr., vice president; and Vivian W. Land, secretary. Warren D. Carroll is plant manager.

Through The Years

In nineteen hundred and forty-one
We came to the beach to have some fun.
We looked and looked but could not find
A photo studio of any kind!

To this grave fact we gave some thought,
Then returned to Richmond and equipment bought.
Back we came a location to find,
But not a nook of any kind.

Finally we spotted the building Bayne,
And a second floor space was at last obtained.
We thought we would stay perhaps a year,
But it's fifty-five and we're still here.

In forty-two we moved downstairs
The better to show our picture wares.
Since that date it's been 1952
Atlantic Avenue to all of you.

We've photographed the soldiers . . .
The men in service all,
The boys and girls and babies —
The short, the fat, the tall.

School kids and the Seniors,
Through the County and the Beach;
Then the weddings all through Princess Anne
As far as the boundaries reach.

Now the second generation,
We are proud to tell you all,
We are photographing daily
In response to Mother's call.

The hotels needed brochures,
The papers photo gallery,
The clubs and shops and churches . . .
Pictures more and more and more.

We started out in Richmond
Some thirty years ago,
Then we moved to Norfolk
And stayed six years in a row.

In '53 we felt the urge Under one large roof to be,
So consolidated at the Beach,
Which suits us to a tee.

We gladly go to Norfolk,
Or wherever you may say,
To photograph you in your home
If you cannot come our way.

This is our little story,
And we hope you will bear in mind
To call us for all photo needs
Of any, any kind!

VIRGINIA TRAVEL COUNCIL CARRIES BEACH ADVERTISING OVER WIDE AREA

This year 25 leading executives of businesses located in every section of the state gave an average of more than a week to go outside of Virginia and sell Virginia and Virginia Beach. Only two of this number were representatives of the Virginia Beach community, Charles Gay and Miss Jean Kersey.

These volunteers, staffed by five field representatives of the Virginia Travel Council, placed posters and folders of Virginia Beach throughout New England, as far south as Atlanta and Birmingham and intermediate points and throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. Every travel agent in the territory was furnished with lists of commission-paying transportation and accommodations and urged to sell tours to this area. The industries throughout this territory were contacted and window, cafeteria and counter displays on Virginia Beach, backed up by folder displays. Every motor club was personally visited and supplied plentifully with materials that these retailers of travel could use to sell Virginia above other communities.

Oil company travel bureaus were universally visited, serviced, urged to sell Virginia. Several hundred photos including a large supply of those of Virginia Beach, were taken to every travel editor in the areas visited and printed left with all that would use them. Every television station was visited and data on the Virginia Beach movie, and others, left with all stations.

The immediate results include a thirty-minute program devoted almost exclusively to Virginia Beach in Cleveland, sponsored by the Cleveland Automobile Association.

Attractions throughout Virginia are enthusiastic about the Council's Canadian promotion, which centers in the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto in August and September. Last year fourteen volunteers served in the Council's one booth, none from Virginia.

Beach, and distributed 30,000 folders on Virginia Beach.

Through special arrangements with the attractions and State Highway Commission, the Council has been informed that Canadian business immediately increased and has held an increase of 30 per cent. The daily average number of Canadian cars entering Virginia is reported by the State Highway Commission as 526, 500 Canadians, who are not only good spenders but whose length of stay in the state exceeds that of most from the States. Virginia Beach's advertising at this event was done without one cent of expense to the Beach other than the membership of some sixty business establishments in the Council that finances the Council's general program.

The Council also maintains a year 'round representative in Florida, working to send business to Virginia through the 47 major Florida attractions, 28 of whom have special racks owned and serviced by the Council and all of whom accept and distribute Virginia folders.

Today the Virginia Travel Council maintains 800 information racks at every point of travel contact within the state and thru them place without cost for its members approximately 15 million folders a year. Its field service covers all of the points of travel contact from Cincinnati and Chicago to and through southern Canada and to and throughout Florida, selling those who sell travel on Virginia.

During the last six months the Council has placed more than 300 window displays encouraging Virginia travel and in many instances including Virginia Beach posters, in points supplying information to travelers. The Council averages for national distribution a story a week to travel editors the year 'round, sponsors this year 12 television subjects for Virginia used by more than 200 stations with a viewer audience of 35 million. During the last seven years the Council has brought for a four-day or longer tour of Virginia, many of which included Virginia Beach, more than 500 travel directors of oil companies, motor clubs, travel agencies and transportation groups. These included tour bureau directors of both Greyhound and Trailways.

One of the great objectives of the Council is to hold visitors in Virginia longer, another is the extension of the season through programs of special events and advertising for off season business.

The Council publishes a fishing guide for Virginia, being advertised specifically this month by the State Conservation Commission in publications with more than 9 million circulation. The publications are supplied to the state in such quantity as it desires. The Council's Guide to Seaside Historyland has been used by the state this spring and summer at the rate of 2,000 a week. The Council also publishes a guide to Negro accommodations and each season thousands of events folders, advertising what goes on during the year.

Today more than 1300 businesses throughout the state are affiliated with the Council. During the seven years of its existence the Council research studies show that visitations to Virginia have increased almost 100 per cent and investments in new and improved accommodations facilities have reached $100,000,000. This includes only completed construction. The figures for the fiscal year ending on June 30 slightly exceed $25,000,000.

Travel has become one of the major businesses in Virginia, now exceeding $600,000,000 a year in revenues expended in the state. For 79 consecutive months the volume of out-of-state licensed passenger cars has increased over the same month the preceding year.

"Virginia Beach has greater competition than ever before in its history," the Council points out. "Its studies show that expansion and improvement of air, rail and bus service from the markets Virginia has considered its own to Florida, has almost off a great deal of beach business in the height of the Virginia season. Also the promotion of other areas, particularly the Carolina beaches, has been at a greater rate than that of the Virginia Beach area."

To answer this problem the Council believes that it and other agencies interested in the future of the Beach, must develop new markets, must advertise more heavily in present markets and must increase the appeal of our product.

"The prosperity of Virginia Beach is of the utmost importance to Virginia as a whole," according to the Council. "Council members everywhere are always willing and glad to cooperate to expand the Virginia Beach market and send it visitors. The state is doing a fine job in advertising the Beach, but more is needed, also transportation agencies must be urged to double their efforts and the Beach itself must meet the competition of other areas."

Presidents and Aristocrats Made it Playground, Glimmers of What-was-to-be Seen Before 1900

Virginia Beach today is a far cry from the small village it started out as before the turn of the century, and some residents who are still living here may recall many changes that have taken place during the intervening years.

The first inkling that a settlement would rise on the Atlantic coast here was evidenced prior to 1800 when Norfolk families built modest little summer cottages in the vicinity where the Quaker Episcopal Church now stands. However, even before the few cottages were built, a small chapel occupied the present church property.

One of the first small cottages constructed here was that of the Barton Myers family, of Norfolk. This beginning soon brought on the construction of other buildings in the vicinity that is now 17th Street and Oceanfront.

As was the case in the early days of most cities the growth and forward push of Virginia Beach as a village was motivated by a railroad.

Famous Before 1900
Prior to 1900 Virginia Beach had become famous as an ocean resort and attracted such names as the Vanderbilts and Presidents Benjamin Harrison and "Teddy" Roosevelt. Virginia Beach was popular with all sets in that early age — even as it is today.

It was in the year 1906 that the village of Virginia Beach received its incorporation papers, and from that moment until 1952 it was the Town of Virginia Beach. In 1952 the Town of Virginia Beach became the City of Virginia Beach.

The first mayor of the Town of Virginia Beach was B. P. Holland, who for many years was connected with the railroad here. Mr. Holland still resides here at the corner of 12th Street and Atlantic Avenue. His memories of Virginia Beach and its colorful history offer a story of great interest.

The "Roaring Twenties"
The period of the "Roaring Twenties" really saw Virginia Beach move into the "big-time" as a resort center. It was during this period that the Cavalier Hotel project was undertaken by a group of civic-minded businessmen who sold stock to underwrite the first major hotel construction in Virginia Beach. It is felt by many that Virginia Beach as a resort got its biggest boost with the opening of the Cavalier Hotel in 1927. It was the pre-construction phase of the Cavalier Hotel that brought about an investment by the Laskin family in constructing Laskin Road and the property known today as the Pinewood Hotel. Today Laskin Road is the main highway leading into Virginia Beach, while originally served as a cut-off from the Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Boardwalk Built
It was around 1929 that the two-mile long concrete boardwalk was completed to give Virginia Beach one of its greatest assets. An indication of the effect of the Cavalier on the Beach's progress might be noted in the fact that bids for construction of the boardwalk were first advertised during the initial week of construction on the hotel.

Virginia Beach flourished comparatively speaking, through the depression days of the early 30's and began to move upward noticeably in the late 1930's and then came World War II. During the war period Virginia Beach was home to many servicemen and their families. Hotels and cottages were filled their years around during these trying times. Another great building boom (Continued on Page Two)

Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church Enjoys Progressive Growth Since Founding in 1916

There is a friendly church of one hundred and seventy members, located in the village of Lynnhaven, which is situated about 12 miles from Norfolk just off the Virginia Beach Boulevard. This is the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church. It was built in 1916 by the people of the village and surrounding neighborhood. Much credit is given to the late

Dr. W. H. T. Squires, then pastor of the Knox Presbyterian Church of Norfolk; and to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Calkins (now deceased), charter members of the church, who lived in Princess Anne County at the time of the founding of the church.

A meeting was called in June, 1916, to plan the opening of a Sunday School in Lynnhaven Village. The Community Hall was decided on for the use of the Sunday School. In June, 1917, a meeting was held to organize a church, by a commission of ministers and elders appointed by the Norfolk Presbytery. Growth of the church resulted in the building of the present sanctuary in November, 1919.

Arthur Goehring of Norfolk.

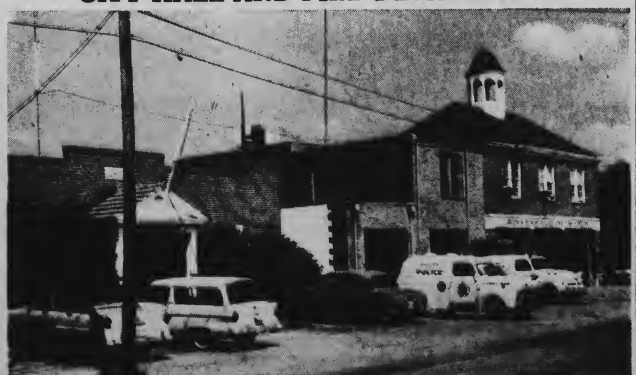

at that time an architectural student at Carnegie Tech, drew and gave the plans for the church.

The first pastor was the Rev. Hugh Fitzpatrick, and following him the Rev. Paul K. Buckles, the Rev. Franklin Taylor, the Rev. T. D. Wesley, the Rev. John Largent, the Rev. John Knight, the Rev. D. B. Kerr, the Rev. Robert S. Morrison and the present pastor, the Rev. Raymond C. Plifton. The men who filled the pulpit before the first pastor took over in 1920 were Dr. Squires, Frank Bain, H. S. Morgan and Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison.

The foundation for the educational building was laid in July, 1948, with the Masonic Order of Virginia Beach laying the corner stone with a very impressive ceremony. This building was completed in June of 1951, when the building committee officially presented the building to the deacons representing the congregation. This work was started during the ministry of Mr. Kerr, who did quite a bit of the labor with his own hands. After Mr. Kerr accepted a call elsewhere, the men of the church persevered, without a leader and labored hard and long to complete the building.

The congregation suffered a very personal loss in the death of their beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Morrison. He had served his pastorate at Lynnhaven only a short while before he was taken, but his love for Christ and His church was so great and so inspiring to the members, that his presence is (Continued on Page Six)

'MILLION DOLLAR BEACH' RESULT OF FINE WORK DONE BY EROSION COMMISSION

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN

Edward H. Church, chairman of the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission, is also president of the Bank of Virginia Beach.

Back in 1952 when the very future of Virginia Beach as an ocean resort was seriously threatened by an even more serious problem of beach erosion and it was at that time that the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission was created by an Act of the Virginia General Assembly.

The purpose of the commission as cited in the Act that created it was to restore the sand beach to its former width and to take steps to conserve and replenish sand that is lost annually.

The original commission as appointed by the then Governor John S. Battle included Edward H. Church, president of the Bank of Virginia Beach; C. T. Whitehead, hotel operator; James G. Kontopoulos, restaurateur; R. B. Taylor, building materials supplier, and H. E. Halstead, city sergeant. Mr. Whitehead has since died and has been replaced by Herbert A. Holt, Jr., automobile dealer.

The commission has followed closely the recommendations of its own engineers as well as those of the United States Army Engineers in the work that it has undertaken.

One of the first steps to be undertaken in the fight against the beach erosion problem was the financing of any measures that might arrest or eliminate the condition. This was done by the City of Virginia Beach in special taxation on cigarettes, rooms, meals and amusements. This gave the commission funds with which to work.

Decide to Pump Sand
After much deliberation, the commission decided that it would be necessary to pump sand onto the existing beach with the probability that this pumping would have to be done periodically as Mother Nature returned the sand to the ocean floor.

Actual pumping operations began on June 12, 1952, and after the sand had been restored to the beachfront the commission went to work in repairing the seawall and walkway. It was after this first year of operation that the commission, through its engineers, decided that a permanent plan of pumping was necessary in order to insure a wide beach each summer season.

In its first year's report the commission listed estimated expenditures to complete the original beach restoration project as $1,163,998.06. During the first year's operation the city placed funds totaling $632,000 with the commission and the State appropriated $80,000. Since that time the Federal government appropriated a sizeable sum to the project.

After the initial project the commission's engineers recommended that a permanent dredging operation be installed. Members of the commission made survey trips to Florida and other places to view similar operations in action.

Those who have been close to the work that has been done are convinced that the work will continue in a permanent way and that replenishment of the beach is a never-ending project. This conclusion is reached, by experience, it has been learned that there is a normal loss of sand each year.

With the permanent dredge in plan of the commission to pump sand from the ocean bottom to the beach whenever it becomes necessary, particularly after nor'easter winds have taken away noticeable amounts.

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission should be in business immediately and it is a good thing that it is.

Modern Trailers Make Comfortable Homes Says Southern Trailer Homes Company Owner

Owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. James Bowen, Southern Trailer Homes Co. 2, featuring modern quality built mobile homes and trailer homes for every taste and preference, are located on the Virginia Beach Boulevard at Oceana.

Mr. Bowen was in the U. S. Army during World War II, when he became interested in this section of Virginia. Originally from Indiana, he was stationed in the Norfolk area while in the Navy when his wife joined him here. After his discharge they decided to make Virginia their home.

Like hundreds of other couples coming out of service, they didn't know just what to choose as an occupation. However, they found during the war, what with the high rent they had to pay and places they had to live, the best thing for them to do was to purchase a house trailer and make that their home.

Trailers were very scarce and they had to buy and pay the price for just any trailer that could be found. They felt that most anything that was livable would be better than living in apartments or cabins under war-time conditions, so they made a trip to Norfolk (they were living in a Trailer park at Virginia Beach at the time) and visited their good friend, Roland Schmidt, who was in the Trailer business. They started in Trailer living with a used trailer. At that time the trailers had very few accommodations, no bath, no electric boxes and very few with hot water heaters, not like today with every convenience of a modern home, but they were very happy for they felt that at last they were on the right track. They followed the seasons, Virginia Beach in summer, Florida in the winter, with a trip back to Indiana in between, traveling with the trailer right behind the car.

By 1947, they found they had saved enough, by having their own trailer all this time and not having to pay rent to purchase a new trailer. Roland Schmidt and his nephew Robert Seary, seeing Mr. and Mrs. Bowen change residences, and knowing how well they liked trailers, convinced them that they should be in trailer sales. That was in 1950. So they started in a small way in Trailer Sales at the front of a Trailer Park at Virginia Beach. With the experience of their own trailer living and traveling, they knew pretty well just what hundreds of others would want in a trailer home. Had it not been for their good friend, Robert Seary, with the aid of Roland Schmidt, trusting in them and believing in their present business would never have had a start.

They started in a very small way with very little capital at Virginia Beach to see if this section was large enough to warrant a Trailer Sales. Because of the Service Personnel, their many friends in the service, and also civilians, who had become their friends during their seven years in this section, they found they could expand a little, and moved to a larger lot in Oceana in 1952. They now have a small, but attractive lot for their Mobile Homes.

They have their prices very low in order to give their many customers the same breaks that they were given when they so badly needed it. It is their motto to try to give the public a fair and square deal. They have seen hundreds of couples, starting out in a low priced used trailer, and building up as they did by trading back in on a better one until they get the Mobile Home they have always wanted.

So they have as yet, no salesman, for in that way they can give the customer the benefit of the salesman's salary. They do all of their own selling, and in that way can give each and every customer the same break they received. They feel that with every customer they sell they have gained another friend. To those thinking of purchasing a new or used Mobile Home, Bowman's advice is to stop and talk to the many people that live in Mobile Homes, such as the ABC, Mobile Cruiser and the Skyline as well as the many other mobile homes.

This is the story of just how Southern Trailer Sales No. 2 came into existence. Mr. and Mrs. Bowen are now living in their 8th Mobile Home, and still liking it, a 46 ft. ABC Super Coach, a far cry from the 18 foot Trailer they started with.

Mrs. Bowen attends the Baptist Church at Virginia Beach, and is on the Board of Governors for the M.A.M.A. The Mid-Atlantic Mobile Association. Mr. Bowen is a member of the Oceana Lions Club, and American Legion, and also a Member of the Mobile Dealers National Association.

and even greater popularity among the vacationing public came to Virginia Beach after the close of hostilities in the war that ended in 1945. The building boom is still going on today and each year finds new and modern tourist accommodations entering the resort picture, with new business places constantly expanding the business

THESE GALS HAVE "CONNECTIONS"

The pleasant voice which queries "Number please" comes from one of the operators shown above, in the central office of the Virginia Beach exchange room of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. The pleasant tradition of personal voice contact with the operator, no longer enjoyed in most places due to the introduction of the dial system, will also be a thing of the past here within the next couple of years, if projected plans are carried out. The impersonal dial will then replace the long familiar "Hello Girls."

Fine New Home of Forbes Candies Is Realization of Life - Long Dream

In 1920, when Charles H. Forbes, Jr., was eight years old, he was visiting a close friend of the family, who operated a peanut plant back of the Union Mission on Church Street, Norfolk, Virginia. There was present at the time an elderly German by the name of "Dietweih," who made candy in his home at 38th and Bowden's Ferry Road. He was driving a horse-drawn cart in an endeavor to sell some of this candy to the operator of the peanut plant where he purchased his peanuts. Young Forbes took an interest in the candy and purchased a box of the 5-cent bars with 75 cents he had in his pocket, which he had earned while putting grass that morning. He took the box of peanut candy across the street to the large laundry operating at that time and sold the entire box within a matter of just a few minutes.

He immediately visited the home of the German family and obtained additional candies from them and started to establish a route through the office buildings and stores in downtown Norfolk. In the winter months the German family made up packages of Peanut Brittle, which was the candy featured on Saturdays on this candy route, and 5-cent bars of all descriptions were sold from a market basket after school each week day.

This was continued quite successfully up to the time Mr. Forbes married the former Marion B. Powell, when they were both students at Maury High School.

In September 1930, Mr. Forbes' mother-in-law granted him permission to convert the wine cellar in their home into a candy kitchen for the purpose of manufacturing their own candies. The Powell family home at that time was the old Burroughs Home on the corner of Fairfax and Colonial Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia. This young couple started making their candies at night and the days Mr. Forbes was not working with the Ford Motor Company. The candies were sold by other school children, whom Mr. Forbes encouraged, and then later to drug stores and wholesale houses.

In June 1933 The Forbes established their first retail store on Atlantic Avenue and 21st St. This store was a converted three-car garage, which was a part of the property of the old Rose Cottage On August 21st that same year Virginia Beach suffered its worst hurricane and the business was completely wiped out. Because of the heavy loss which was suffered, Mr. Forbes was forced to find employment. In 1934 he was again able to reopen this store on Virginia Beach.

In 1939 Mr. Forbes obtained permission from Mrs. Carrie B. Morrison to convert the two-car garage she owned at 17th and Atlantic Avenue into a retail store, where the manufacturing of his candies could be seen by the customers. After a year's operation at this new location, the original store at 21st and Atlantic Avenue was closed, because of the sale of the property.

In 1938 Mr. Forbes called on Mr. William B. Thalheimer, Sr., in Richmond with the idea he had

May Plumbing and Heating One of Beach Area's Oldest Businesses

May Plumbing and Heating is one of the oldest firms in the Beach area, being established 22 years ago by the late W. R. May who died in February of 1951.

The firm, located at 1017 Pacific Avenue, employs 5 people in its operation and has customers throughout Virginia Beach Oceana, Princess Anne area.

Upon the death of Mr. May, Mrs. May assumed control of the business and under her direction the business has continued to grow from year to year.

The firm specializes in general plumbing and heating work, oil burner installation and service and also the installation of wells and water pumps in those locations where city water is unavailable.

ed and in less than six months more than enough was raised for this undertaking. The organ was dedicated in July, 1952, and Mrs. Morrison was present to play for the service.

During the periods the church has been without a pastor, the pulpit has been filled by the chaplains serving the Oceana Air Base. These men have meant a great deal to the church — helping to hold the congregation together, when it was without a leader.

Under the present pastor, the Rev. Mr. Flitton, the church has made many improvements, the greatest physical one being the large parking lot in the rear of the church. This was much needed to safeguard the children alighting from cars. Mr. Flitton has been pastor of the church since September, 1951. He is a young man of great preaching and working ability, and like Mr. Kerr, when something needs to be done, he does the job himself.

His wife is a talented singer and also a great asset to the church. The women of the church have played a most important part in its history. They are divided into four circles with a membership of 60 active members. Mrs. T. S. Moore is the 1954-55 president. Each year certain projects are undertaken and always accomplished through voluntary offering.

The church has a rapidly growing Sunday School with 240 members on roll. Henry Hunt is the present superintendent. The old custom of "covered dish" fellowship suppers is practiced regularly at Lynnhaven. These enjoyable affairs are held at least four times a year, when all ages get together.

The church's most acute problem is that of growing faster than it can build. The Sunday School's need is the most pressing. A forward-looking group of men under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Flitton are planning for the future.

WBOF, Taking to Air in December, Features Programs of Local Interest

Radio, which celebrated its 30th anniversary this year, has joined the progress of Virginia Beach in the form of a new standard radio broadcasting station for America's seashore resort. WBOF officially began broadcasting December 11, 1954. The station is now just seven months old, although the planning and construction goes back two years.

WBOF, which broadcasts on a frequency of 1600, is a 1000-watt daytime standard broadcast station located next to the Southern Materials Company cement plant at 17th Street and Sealack Road, and in the remodeled former offices of the Southern Materials Company. The station, broadcasting from 5:30 a. m. to 7:30 in the evening, basically programs music, news and sports, and is independent, with the accent on local coverage.

WBOF was first officially turned on at 2 p. m. December 11, 1954, when Mayor Frank S. Dusch threw the transmitter switch, putting the station on the air for the first time. Prior to that time the station had been broadcasting without public notice for test purposes for three weeks while final tuning adjustments were made.

Among the first voices to be heard were those of Mayor Dusch, the Rev. R. B. Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who represented all Protestant churches in the area; Father Nicholas J. Habets, pastor of the Star of the Sea Catholic Church; Rabbi Azriel G. Weissman of Temple Emanuel; Judge Floyd E. Kellam; Chamber of Commerce President Claiborne Bryant, and Mrs. Gilmore Tibbott, president of the Council of Garden Clubs.

WBOF is licensed by the Virginia Beach Broadcasting Corporation, which is wholly home-owned and operated. Its officers are Sidney Banks, president of the Cavalier-Jefferson Corp., vice president; James Gunzy, operator of the Traymore Hotel, treasurer; W. W. McClanahan, Jr., president of the City Council and former president of the Chamber of Commerce; James Sadler, vice-president of Southern Materials Company, Inc.; and Leo Hoarty, president and general manager, who is the only member of the board working full time in the business.

The radio station, which operates with a staff of nine full-time and two part-time people, boasts an impressive array of talent and experience in the field of radio and allied arts. Assistant manager and program director is Wade Williams, former actor-director on stage, screen, radio and TV.

Williams is married to the former Sara Sadler Woods, is a member of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre.

A familiar name with many Beach city officials and civic club officers, not to mention hundreds of volunteer news reporters, is Alma Henley, Alma brings to her work as news reporter and Girl Friday at WBOF experience in all kinds of radio, plus a strong interest in Virginia Beach and in Princess Anne County.

Heading up the sales department at WBOF is another man with close ties to Virginia Beach, J. G. Darden, Jr., formerly of Durham, N. C., and Richmond. Darden is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Duke University Law School and the FBI Academy. He is married to the former Miss Shirley Williams of Norfolk and Virginia Beach, and is the father of two sons.

Coordinating the work of the commercial department is William Vidal, who was formerly in sales with Radio Station WGH in Norfolk and Newport News. Vidal, who has had more than 20 years' radio experience, directed much of the initial commercial work with the budding new voice of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne.

Newest addition to Radio Station WBOF is Bernie Brennan, former newspaper representative and Hollywood actor. Brennan has just completed two years in Hollywood, Cal., with United Artists. Two recent pictures that he appears in with Wayne Morris are "Two Guns and a Badge" and "Desperado."

Another now famous name at the Beach is that of Bob McKee, who began broadcasting with the local station from its inception, although at first his shows were strictly newscasts twice a day on behalf of a sponsor. Officially he is news director of the station, and has helped scoop many national stories, which he has reported from Washington. McKee is a former network radio announcer and has worked with many of the top names in radio out of Chicago and New York.

WBOF brings to the Beach for the first time an Associated Press news bureau, which is in constant touch 24 hours a day with AP headquarters in Richmond, New York, and through teletype, the rest of the world. AP news is presented 14 times daily.

Out-of-town Papers at News Centre

A spot where people gather at the Beach is the News Center, located at Atlantic and 23rd Streets, because it is at the News Center that they can get out of town newspapers from all over the country, a complete stock of current magazines, Hallmark Cards, Beach supplies of every description, toys for the children, delicious ice cream and fountain service.

In addition the News Center also handles a large stock of fresh candies, tobaccos and sundries of every description. In fact, the completeness of the stock of the News Center makes it the mecca of most everyone in the Beach area. The News Center offers one day service on the developing and printing of pictures and carries a complete stock of film for the amateur photographer.

The News Center was established eight years ago and has filled a definite need in the Virginia Beach area and the firm has been a great asset to the business.

A change of ownership in the News Center occurred last year when Lee K. Rudman purchased the business in March of 1954 and under his management the firm has expanded its stock of merchandise and service to people of the Beach area.

Mr. Rudman is a native of Ohio and was in the Navy during World War II, being stationed in this area. After 12 years of service Mr. Rudman retired with the rank of Lt. Commander and purchased the News Center at the Beach.

Mr. Rudman, in his short business career at Virginia Beach, has earned the esteem and respect of thousands of people and vacationists in this area.

COURT HOUSE OF HISTORIC PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

Princess Anne Court House, located near the geographic center of the county, was first contemplated at London Bridge in the year 1694, but was located on property of Brick Church (now Donation Church), then to what was known as "Ferry," nearby. Later it was transferred to Newtown, on the Eastern Branch, then to Kemp's Landing (Kempsville), and finally to its present location.

FROM 1691 COUNTY'S RECORD HAS BEEN ONE OF CONTINUING PROGRESS

Huge Population Increase Brings Many Problems for Supervisors; Schools Grow

Princess Anne County, from its humble beginning back in 1691, has grown into what many consider today to be the "fastest growing county in Virginia" and certainly one of the brightest business spots in the entire nation.

The county has enjoyed its greatest period of growth during the past ten years, following World War II. Its population today is reported to be approximately 80,000, as compared to a mere 42,000 just five short years ago.

Princess Anne County has grown from a substantial rural county into an urban area that has prompted many to feel that the area should be incorporated into one large city.

In the early beginning what is now known as Princess Anne County was a part of Elizabeth City County. In 1691 what was Lynnhaven Parish in Norfolk County, created out of a part of Elizabeth City County, was set apart and called "Princess Anne," after the daughter of King James II.

The old court house which is located today at Princess Anne, was first proposed for London Bridge, but the proposal was considered and a year later, it was decided to build the courthouse on the land of the Brick Church, now Old Donation Church.

Since the turn of the century, the county has grown tremendously in all aspects with the resort community of Virginia Beach a shining light in that development.

During and after World War II Princess Anne's population enjoyed a phenomenal growth that brought on many problems, some of which, at times, seemed insurmountable.

SCHOOLS

One of the most pressing problems faced by county officials was in the educational field. With building restrictions during the war it was impossible to add to the existing educational facilities and the school population had swelled considerably.

The county's five-man Board of Supervisors and the County School Board have made tremendous progress in whipping the problem. Few communities, if any, of similar population, have met their responsibilities to the children in their midst as has Princess Anne County.

The school program has been greatly expanded during the past ten years and much new construction has taken place. The school authorities at the present time have a continuing building program at work.

The present Board of Supervisors has probably faced more serious problems than any previous board, and their accomplishments have been many. As an example, some of the action that has been taken in recent years to keep step with the greatly expanded population of the county are the following:

1. A garbage collection and disposal system has been instituted by the county and operated by the county.
2. A Planning Commission was established to insure orderly growth and development of the county.
3. A sub-division control ordinance is in effect which requires developers to build streets that will conform to state standards so that, if and when they are taken in by the state system they will be acceptable.
4. Has, through the School Board, been able to secure Federal funds to help defray the cost of school facility construction.

5. Have authorized the employment of a comptroller, including the over-all bookkeeping of the county's funds.
6. Have authorized purchase of necessary equipment to facilitate work in various county offices.
7. Have established a Police Trial Board.
8. Have authorized funds for erection of a new police headquarters building.

County officials have been awake to the great problems that have faced the county, and while Princess Anne has enjoyed an historic and a prosperous past, it can look ahead to an even greater future.

Princess Anne is truly "Virginia's Fastest Growing County."

Ruritan Club Active in P.A. County Since 1936

Ruritan was founded at Holland, Virginia, in 1928, and since that time, with a very small beginning, has had a wonderful expansion, and at this time is the sixth leading civic organization. It has not tried to expand on an international basis and possibly will not do so for several years, but its growth over the past five years has doubled that of any other civic group, and its percentage of increase during the past year was higher than any civic group. It is an organization devoted to good fellowship and community service in the rural areas. While there is no restriction against a Ruritan Club being formed in a community of more than 5,000, it has been the policy not to go into communities of more than that number.

In Princess Anne County Ruritan started in Princess Anne County in about 1936, and from the very beginning it has had a wonderful group of fellows who joined in this great work. The first president was Marion G. Bright, who is now a member of the Creeds Ruritan Club and of the local Ruritan Club. Since the beginning of Ruritan in Princess Anne County, there have been two other clubs formed within its boundaries, and in each instance they have been of great value to their communities and the county as a whole. The Princess Anne Ruritan Club has been the largest club in Ruritan for many years, although at the present time it is being challenged for this leadership by two or three other clubs.

For many years the Princess Anne Ruritan Club raised and spent in the county about $6,000 to $10,000 a year. It has a most active group of members, and whenever called upon, always is ready to help in any community undertaking. Frank Kellum, of this club, is at present serving as president of Ruritan National.

First Permanent English Colonists Landed at Cape Henry April 26, 1607; Raise Flag on 29th

Many years prior to 1607 the Spaniards sailed into Chesapeake Bay, probably establishing a settlement on the banks of the Potomac River, but this settlement did not become permanent. It fell to the lot of the English to establish the first permanent colony in Virginia.

The fleet, in command of Christopher Newport, containing these first permanent colonists, sailed into Chesapeake Bay on the morning of April 26, 1607, and anchored off Cape Henry. Thirty men composed the party who first landed on the shores of the Cape.

After prospecting around the Bay, on the 29th, the fleet returned to Cape Henry, another landing party was sent ashore, and then it was a cross was erected, thereby giving notice to all the world that this country was claimed for God and England.

Thus the first landing of the first permanent English colonists was had upon the soil of what is now Princess Anne County.

It was not far distant, at Jamestown, that the colonists settled, and there was held the first elective legislative assembly in America; not far distant, at Yorktown, English government ended in the colonies; hence on the soil of Princess Anne began the history of the United States.

Supply French

It was from the Cape lands that the French fleet, while besieging Yorktown, obtained their food and water, and from what was known as Pleasure House Beach this fleet obtained its fresh meat, poultry, etc., which the natives were anxious to sell for the hard cash. Within sight of Cape Henry the British ship of war, Leopard, in command of Captain Humphries, fired upon the U. S. ship Chesapeake, in command of Commodore James Barron, killing and wounding a number of men on the Chesapeake. It was this attack that was the immediate cause of the War of 1812.

During this war, Colonel William Tatham dubbed "an old Revolutionary" soldier, enthusiastic and romantic, submitted to the federal government plans for the fortification of the Cape and the shores of the Bay. Only in recent years has the federal government adopted what would appear as some of Colonel Tatham's plans.

Here at Cape Henry in 1792 the federal government erected its first lighthouse in the U. S., still standing within the confines of Fort Story.

Prior to 1637 this county, like Norfolk County, was a part of Elizabeth City County; in that year all the land on the southern side of Hampton Roads was made into a new county, called New Norfolk County. In 1691, what was Lynnhaven Parish in Norfolk County, was carved out of that county and called Princess Anne, after Anne, daughter of James II.

After the county had been created, it was in 1694 proposed to erect the first Court House at London Bridge, on John Keeling's old plantation. The following year this order was rescinded and it was then ordered that the Court House be erected on the land of the Brick Church, now Donation Church.

Lynnhaven was an English settlement near the mouth of the river of that name; it had been the site of an Indian town. Here the English had a collector of customs as late as 1736.

In 1735 the Court House was removed to the "Ferry" — now the Barnett farm — adjoining Donation Church, which church was first erected prior to 1694.

In 1755 the Court House had been removed to Newtown, on the Eastern Branch. In 1781 it was removed to Kemp's Landing — Kempsville — and about 1824 it was moved to its present location, near the geographic center of the county.

Many Tories

Prior to the Revolution there were many rich and influential people in the county. Many of these remained loyal to the English government. The county was predominantly Tory.

During the War of 1812 there was stationed at Pleasure House Beach — now called Chesapeake Beach — a large body of troops to protect Norfolk from any landing the English might make on the shores of the Bay side.

There were a number of settlements, villages or towns in the county in these early days, only one of which remains. The first was at or near the mouth of the Lynnhaven River, the inlet then being through Lake Joyce, a portion of which was known as "Pirate's Cove," from the tradition that pirates made this lake or inlet their rendezvous.

Then there was the small settlement at the county seat at the "Ferry" in 1735, with the Court House, pillory, stocks, jail, tavern and other buildings, some within and some without the Court House enclosure, and nearby was Donation Church.

Newtown, on the Eastern Branch, was another town of considerable importance. The Court House with other public buildings was moved here in 1751, and remained until 1785, and here were concentrated a large number of the refugees from Norfolk after its destruction, January 1, 1776. Here, too, the British maintained for quite a while during the Revolution, a cavalry troop.

To the west of Newtown and across Hoskins Creek, with its tide mill at its mouth, was Rolleston, now called Glen Rock, just before the Civil War, was the home of Governor Henry A. Wise, which home, upon the capture of Norfolk, was promptly sacked by the Federal troops.

Then there was Cypressville —

North Landing — which was platted into 240 lots by the Colonel Tatham previously mentioned. In making his plat the Colonel reserved 110 feet for the right of way for a canal which was to connect the North River with the Southern Branch. The canal for which the right-of-way was reserved was not completed until about 1857, and is now government property, known as the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

Probably the most important of these early towns, because it has continuously existed, is Kemp's Landing, or Kempsville. Situated at the head of navigation of the Eastern Branch, it became quite a busy place, and was the shipping point for practically all the tobacco, corn, wheat and lumber produced in the county.

Lord Dunmore, at the head of his British Grenadiers, in November, 1775, captured the town without a struggle, from the local militia and made his headquarters at George Logan's, a Scotchman and loyalist. From here Dunmore marched his troops to Great Bridge, where they were defeated in December.

Kempsville was for many years an educational and social center, and its Independence Ball, held July 4th, each year after the Revolution, was the great social event of the year. The building in which these balls were held is still standing, although now converted into a dwelling. The Court House remained here until 1821, when removed to its present location.

Grace Sherwood

The county has obtained considerable notoriety because of the many fanciful and untrue tales about the trial of Grace Sherwood in 1706, who was prosecuted for witchcraft.

She was tried by a jury of eight women. By her own consent she was tried in the water of John Harper's plantation, about one mile north of Donation Church, which ever since this event has been called "Witch Duck."

Many people have an idea that Grace was drowned, but quite the contrary is true. The Sheriff was directed to take particular care that she did not drown, and that she was not drowned is evidenced by the fact that in 1733 she made her will, which in 1740 was admitted to probate.

She left her real estate, consisting of 145 acres of land in Muddy Creek, together with her small personal property, to her three sons.

The Oceanfront

No account of the county would be complete without mention of its ocean frontage, extending in an unbroken line from the North Carolina line to Little Creek Inlet, the terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Eighteen miles east of Norfolk on this ocean front is Virginia Beach — the state's great seaside resort. A few miles north of Virginia Beach is Cape Henry, the site of one of the great forts of the Federal Government. A few miles west of Cape Henry is Ocean Park, and then Chesapeake Beach — the old Pleasure House Beach — and then a few miles west is Ocean View, Norfolk's great seashore resort.

All these points are now connected by a concrete highway. The county is justly famous for the production of many things that appeal to the appetite of the epicure, the widely known Lynnhaven oyster, which came into favor when the first colonists found the Indians roasting them, and which were found better than any in England; the turkeys and other domestic poultry, wild geese, canvas back and red-head ducks, as well as many other wild water fowl, and the products of its truck farms.

Developments in Princess Anne County during more recent years has been nothing less than phenomenal. Particularly has the county grown since World War II, with its commercial and residential development. Its future seems even brighter than its glorious past, and not only can it boast of being the beginning of American history, but one of the fastest growing sections in the entire United States.

COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

These men today guide "Virginia's Fastest Growing County" in keeping abreast of today's progress. They are (l. to r.) Floyd T. Deary, Lynnhaven District; E. I. Herrick, Kempsville District; Paul M. Brown, Seaboard District; Louts Parsons, Blackwater District; and Kenneth Whitehurst, Pungo District. Standing is V. A. "Jack" Etheridge, board secretary, and John V. Fentress, clerk to the board.

Beach Presbyterian Church Interested in All Phases of Christian Service for Community

The Presbyterian Church began its work at Virginia Beach in February of 1921, when the Rev. John C. Ramsey, superintendent of Home Missions for the Norfolk Presbytery, began to gather the Presbyterians into a working organization. Under his direction, R. W. Cousar and William Crowe, III, students of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, spent the summers of 1921 and 1922, respectively, as student pastors to the group.

A Sunday School and Woman's Auxiliary were organized. With the aid of interested friends, the northeast corner of 22nd Street and Pacific Avenue was purchased, and an old army barracks was bought and reconstructed on this site. An application signed by 21 persons was presented to the Presbytery on December 30, 1922, for the organization of a church, which was approved, and the church was organized on January 28, 1923.

The Rev. Paul K. Buckles, who had taken charge of the work in June, in connection with his pastorate in Lynnhaven, became the first pastor, serving until July 6, 1925. The first statistical report, March 31, 1923, recorded seventeen resident and four non-resident members. Supplies under the direction of Mr. Ramsey served until June, 1925, when the Rev. Frank H. Scattergood became pastor, serving until June, 1928.

When the Rev. Frank H. Scattergood became pastor, serving until July, 1933. In 1929, the barracks was moved to the rear of the lot for Sunday School space and a Spanish styled, stucco building was erected for a new church. The Rev. Joseph B. Clower, a fellowship student at Union Seminary, supplied the church from time to time, beginning in October of 1933, until he was installed pastor on July 15, 1934. In 1940, the church was relocated on the southwest corner of Pacific Avenue and 36th Street, the new building being occupied in March, 1941. The next year the house at 303 36th Street was purchased for a manse. Mr. Clower ended his pastorate on October 17, 1943. It was during his pastorate that the church became self-supporting.

The Rev. Robert P. Davis began his work on July 15, 1945. Crowded conditions in the Church School brought about the addition of a south wing to the original building which was occupied on December 6, 1949.

Hold Identical Services

Identical services were begun for the summer months in 1951 in order to relieve crowded conditions in the sanctuary. Each summer, these services were continued later into the fall until 1954, when identical services were begun in February and will continue until a larger sanctuary is constructed. Construction of the west wing of the educational building was completed in October, 1953, although the building had been used for several months before this. The membership in 1952 was 60 with a Sunday School of 80. In 1942 the records showed 153 members and 144 in Sunday School. Today there are 720 members and 617 in Church School. The Church School is well organized and graded according to school years, with active ladies' and men's Bible classes. Charles H. Hitchings has served most efficiently as Sunday School superintendent for many years until January of this year, when M. P. Strickley assumed this position.

The women of the church were organized into an Auxiliary before the formal organization of the church. Through the years, the women have done outstanding work in Bible study and leadership, supporting all of the advances the church has made. Today, Mrs. Robert B. Webb, Sr., is serving as president of the Women of the Church.

The Men's Club was organized about 1942 and has functioned continuously since then. R. Bradshaw Pulley is serving as president of the Men's Club. Feeling the need of a Bible class, the Men's Club sponsored the organization of such a group in 1944. It appealed to men of all denominations. The name is now the Edward M. Hardy Bible Class, to honor one of the main spirits of its organization. Lewis E. Smith is now serving as president of this class, with W. Harley Ross the teacher.

The young people of the church work in two organizations besides the Church School, the Senior High Fellowship and the Pioneers. These groups meet each Sunday evening for fellowship and worship. Donald Batchelor is president of the Senior High group and Edmond Strickler is president of the Pioneers. William E. Renn, adult advisor of the Senior High group, was responsible for organizing an inter-church basketball league this year.

The Scout movements have been an active part of the church since about 1942. Boy Scout Troop 60 was taken over for sponsorship by the Men's Club. In 1946, the need for another Cub Pack was answered by the organizing of Pack 61 which was later changed to Pack 60. Girl Scouts have met in the church building from time to time and today there are three Brownie troops.

To Build New Sanctuary

The congregation is looking forward to the erection of a larger sanctuary and a contract has been signed with an architect, A. Russell Fink, A.I.A., designed the first unit, and will continue the plans for the sanctuary.

The worship service of the church is a little more liturgical than that of the average Presbyterian Church. Its service has been greatly beautified by an efficient choir, for many years under the leadership of Mrs. O. Russell Gimbert, and today directed by W. Fred Bonney, Jr. Mrs. Charles H. Hitchings has served during this time as organist.

Among the charter members who have served faithfully and are still serving the church, are Miss Lillian Barclay, B. O. Porter, Harry Holland and Mrs. Walker Martin.

COLONIAL OIL COMPANY ONE OF OLDEST FIRMS IN COUNTY

This is the modern plant of the Colonial Oil Company, one of the oldest such firms in Princess Anne County, located on 18th Street, between Arctic and Baltic Avenues. The firm began with a second-hand truck with a 300-gallon capacity; now has three up-to-the-minute tank trucks serving the needs of Beach and County.

Admiral Storage Suited to Serve Needs of Area

"Feeling the need for a modern, fire-proof storage facility in the Virginia Beach area, a group of progressive, enterprising Beach residents, in 1933, formed the Admiral Storage and Transfer Corporation. The first step in the organization of the business was the leasing of a modern, fire-proof building at 33rd Street and Atlantic Avenue.

From the beginning business was good with the firm, and its growth more than matched the growth of the area served. In fact, it was soon necessary for the firm to look for enlarged new quarters, and they have now moved to their new location which is a modern fire-proof warehouse with more than 6,500 square feet of floor space on 18th Street between Arctic and Baltic Avenues.

Admiral Storage and Transfer Corporation is agent for Allied Van Lines, Inc., a national organization equipped to move anything to any point in the country.

Full facilities for both local and long-distance moving, packing, crating and storage are offered all residents of Virginia Beach and the Princess Anne area.

Admiral has great faith in the future growth and progress of the Beach area and its operators are all active in the civic affairs of the community.

the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County area, and the satisfied customers of the firm run into the thousands.

In the early days of the business, it operated only one second-hand truck with a capacity of only 300 gallons. Today, the firm serves all of the eastern and southern parts of Princess Anne County with three modern trucks having a capacity of 4,135 gallons. It employs five persons in its operations, and has 52,000-gallon storage capacity for fuel oil, kerosene and gasoline.

The complete line of Puroil products, including tires, tubes, batteries and automobile accessories is offered the public Colonial Oil Company supplies many of the hotels, cottages and residences at the Beach, as well as serving a large number of farms and commercial accounts.

Mr. Kornegay was at one time a Ford dealer at Virginia Beach. He is active in the affairs of the Oil Heat Association and the activities of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. He is married to Dr. Cora Z. Corpening, of Mars Hill, N. C. Both are graduates of the University of North Carolina, and Dr. Corpening graduated from Tulane Medical College. The Kornegays have one daughter, Mrs. Jane Kornegay Kibler, wife of Capt. Robert F. Kibler, and they have three children.

The Colonial Oil Company has always taken an active part in the development of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, and feels that the future is unusually bright for this entire area. The company has adopted the national slogan of the Pure Oil Company, "Be Sure With Pure," and it works around the clock to assure its customers complete satisfaction in every transaction.

It's a long step from 1937 to 1967, and remarkable things have happened in the interim. Miraculous things will still happen, and we will go along with them.

Swain Long Experienced In Tile Field

Grover J. Swain, proprietor of the Grover J. Swain Tile Company at 213 24th Street, Virginia Beach, is following in the footsteps of his father. For ten years before he opened his business at Virginia Beach in August of 1954, Mr. Swain was associated in the tile business with his father, Joshua Swain, of the Joshua Swain Company, Inc., in Portsmouth.

Feeling that Virginia Beach and the Princess Anne County area was a fertile field for a tile and marble business, Mr. Swain opened the doors of his new firm just a little less than a year ago. His faith in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County has been good. From a small beginning, Mr. Swain now employs an average of ten expert mechanics in the operation of the business and does a large volume of work not only in Princess Anne County but in Norfolk and Portsmouth. Two trucks and a station wagon are used in the operation of the business and customers of the firm are assured of prompt, efficient and most courteous service at reasonable prices.

The Grover J. Swain Tile Company does fine tile work and also specializes in marble for store fronts, and have done some exceptional fire places in broken tile. The firm has a complete stock of tile, marble, medicine cabinets and shower doors.

Mr. Swain is a native of Portsmouth and has lived in the Tidewater area his entire life time. He is married to the former Miss Audrey Jenkins and has one son, Stephen Swain, now seven years old. Mr. Swain is active in affairs at the Beach and is a member of the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Beach Lions Club.

The Swain firm is just one of many that have located in the Virginia Beach area in recent years and have found business good in this growing, progressive resort and residential community.

Atkinson Realty Serves Area Well; Meets Needs of People

Any community growing as fast as the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area must of necessity have a large volume of real estate activities, and competent realtors to handle these transactions.

Frank Atkinson, realtor, at 54th Street and Atlantic Avenue, is one of this area's most progressive real estate men, handling transactions between a half-million and a million-and-a-half dollars a year.

Mr. Atkinson opened his real estate business at Virginia Beach in 1943, with offices above the former National Bank of Commerce, and remained in that location until 1949, when he moved to his present address.

In addition to handling sales of real estate and business properties, the firm does an extensive rental business in beach properties, and has just recently gone into the insurance field, handling all forms of insurance.

The services of Mr. Atkinson, head of the firm, are in constant demand by banks, lending institutions and prominent attorneys as an expert appraiser and expert witness in condemnation proceedings.

Mr. Atkinson is a firm believer in the future of the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area. In addition to his real estate and insurance activities he is part owner of the Atlantic Courier and Transfer Corp., and the Soland Court apartments.

Prior to moving to Virginia Beach and establishing his business here, Mr. Atkinson resided in Norfolk, and he is widely known and respected. He is an ardent golfer and sports fan, and a director of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Atkinson resides with his wife and four children on Ivy Drive, facing the beautiful Princess Anne golf course.

They come, they see, they settle down—in Princess Anne!

Glenrock Presbyterian Church Had Beginning in 1919; Grows with Times

Calvary Presbyterian Church in Glenrock had its beginning on December 7, 1919, by the institution of prayer meetings twice a month by the Rev. S. K. Emurian, pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church. The first prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Carney with 27 people present. Through the efforts of members of the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church a mission was organized on March 21, 1920, and on March 30, 1920, the Ladies Auxiliary was organized. This society was first given the name of "Ladies Aid," but was later changed to "Circle 6." Meetings were held at the homes of various members every two weeks.

A building committee was appointed to consider ways and means for the construction of a church. Six lots were donated by the Carney family and two lots were purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Carney at a cost of $100, making a total of eight lots.

On April 18, 1920, the congregation as a body walked from Mr. Boush's home to the present site of the church for the purpose of breaking the ground for the erection of Calvary Church. Mr. Carney was designated to use the spade while the Rev. S. K. Emurian officiated. One hundred thirty people were present, among whom were friends from Park Avenue Presbyterian Church.

First Sunday School
The first Sunday School was held in the church building at its present location on First Street and Cobbs Road on June 20, 1920, although the building itself was not completed. Dedication services for the church were held December 10, 1922. At this time J. L. Steele, J. F. Boush and I. J. Carney were elected, ordained and installed as elders of Calvary Church. The Rev. J. C. Hicks was extended a call as the first pastor on December 17, 1922. On December 31, 1922, the Rev. Mr. Hicks was ordained and installed as pastor by the Home Mission Board. The Rev. Mr. Couser presented the charge to the pastor and the Rev. Mr. Grouse presented the charge to the congregation. During the period of the Rev. Mr.

Hicks' pastorate, he took special pride in building up the church choir and encouraging Christian Endeavor work. In November, 1926, the Rev. Mr. Hicks received a call to the Phoebe Church and submitted his resignation.

Early in January, 1926, the Rev. T. D. Wesley was installed as pastor and remained in this pastorate until April 1, 1938. Numerous pastors supplied the pulpit during the years 1938 to 1949. On December 31, 1949, at a meeting of the Session of Calvary Presbyterian Church, it was decided that the church would sponsor the newly organized Sea Scout Troop. At the first meeting 14 members were enrolled. A flag and staff were presented to the church at formal dedication services on April 9, 1950. The Rev. T. D. Wesley accepted and dedicated them to use on behalf of the congregation. The Charter was presented by a representative of the Tidewater Council, Boy Scouts of America on April 16, 1950. Shortly after the ship was organized, a 35-foot cabin cruiser was turned over to them by the District Council, Ship 68 was recognized as the largest ship in the Tidewater District.

In January, 1950, the Rev. Mr. Wesley returned to supply the pulpit. The church and Sunday School continued to grow during this period. On June 25, 1950, members of Calvary Presbyterian Church gathered to celebrate the 30th anniversary of its organization. Eleven persons who were present at the first service in June, 1920, attended.

Edwards Decorating Company Serves People from All Sections

The B. W. Edwards Decorating Company was founded in May, 1922, by B. W. Edwards and located on Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach, and has been in continuous operation ever since in the same location.

In the beginning the building was rented from W. H. Terry, realtor, but was purchased in November of 1939, through W. H.

In 1951 a Boy Scout troop was organized with eleven members.

Educational Building
After many years of striving, the educational building was a reality and on July 8, 1951, the new structure was dedicated by the Rev. T. D. Wesley, the Rev. Royce K. McDonald, the Rev. W. W. Williford and N. B. Etheridge. The cornerstone was laid by W. A. Spruill.

The continual growth of the community of Glenrock has resulted in a corresponding growth in the spiritual needs of the community. With this in mind, there has arisen a strong desire to secure a permanent pastor for Calvary Presbyterian Church. In this connection a congregational meeting was called for the purpose of constructing a manse to house a permanent pastor and his family. On July 18, 1954, ground was broken for the new manse at the corner of Clark and Fourth Streets. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. T. D. Wesley, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Williford of Norfolk and the Rev. S. K. Emurian, founder of Calvary Presbyterian Church. The ground was broken by Ira F. Hatfield, senior elder, the Rev. Mr. Wesley.

Calvary Presbyterian Church is looking forward to continued growth. This expected continued growth necessitates a realistic look into the future. Included in future planning is consideration of enlarging the present church building to provide a kitchen and social hall.

Terry from the Scoffin Realty Company of Norfolk. In 1946 the original building was torn down and the present building erected.

Wide Clientele
The B. W. Edwards Decorating Company has had the pleasure and privilege of serving people from all sections of the United States, Canada and Cuba, civilian and military.

Floyd Deary has Seen County Grow; Began Garage Business in London Bridge in 1919

Floyd T. Deary, of the Floyd T. Deary Co., is one of many who tell all about the growth and progress of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. And he can take great pride in the part that he has played in this progress.

Just at the close of World War I in 1919 Mr. Deary established a grist mill and garage at London Bridge, near Virginia Beach. The principal activity of the firm at that time was grinding meal for the farmers of the area.

In 1921 the business was moved to a site on the Virginia Beach Boulevard, and the first welding shop in Princess Anne County was started. Shortly afterwards the firm's building and showrooms were enlarged and the firm started selling Fords and Chevrolets.

Farm Machinery Repairs
In 1946 Mr. Deary sold the business to J. P. Parker and brothers, but his activities in the business life of Princess Anne County did not cease, as he immediately built a concrete block building just south of the railroad tracks at London Bridge and started a shop for the repair of farm machinery and contractors' equipment. And again, in 1950, Mr. Deary again expanded his facilities, purchasing the business' present site and added machine shop facilities. These facilities have been added to and modernized from year to year. The firm now specializes in the repair of heavy equipment, cranes, bulldozers, farm and laundry equipment.

They also sell and service Clin-

In the beginning Mr. Edwards did his own scouting for antiques but as time went on and the business grew he employed scouts or runners to find his antiques for him as he was needed more and more in the shop.

Mr. Edwards attributes the phenomenal growth of his business to a creed of honesty and fairness to the customer, with the best possible work at the cheapest price. Having been in the furniture business for the past 32 years in North Carolina and Virginia, he feels that Virginia Beach is one of the best places to locate and carry on a business. He feels that this section is the "garden spot" of the world.

ton and Briggs & Stratton engines, oil pumps, water pumps and assorted equipment. Shop equipment includes all kinds of welding equipment, modern engine lathes, drill presses, shaping and sharpening equipment and hydraulic pipe bending equipment. Two trucks are operated to service its customers and the company served a wide area in Virginia and points in Maryland.

The company for the past 25 years has represented the State Farm Mutual Insurance Company.

Mr. Deary has been most active in the affairs of his community. For over 20 years he has been a justice of the peace for Princess Anne County. In 1950 he was elected to the Board of Supervisors from Lynnhaven District. It was he who first suggested a Planning Commission for Princess Anne County and under his guidance the Police Board, made up of business men with authority to hire and fire, was set up.

This has resulted in greater efficiency and less confusion in the operation of the police department of the county.

Mr. Deary's accomplishments for his community also include the air conditioning of the courthouse, and the setting up of a modern revenue department in the county that brought modern accounting practices, particularly in tax matters, to the residents of Princess Anne County. He also instigated the building of the county health center at the court house, and is now working on the establishment of a controller's office to efficiently keep track of all expenditures. He was the father of volunteer fire companies in the county, setting up six of them under the civilian defense program. These volunteer companies have now grown to 11 in number. He was director of civilian defense for Princess Anne County during World War II.

Mr. Deary is a member of the Lions Club, the Ruritan Club and the Masonic order, and is active in the London Bridge Volunteer Fire Department. He has three sons, two of whom are associated in business with him. He has three grandchildren, two girls and a boy. Mr. Deary attends the London Bridge Baptist Church.

Garner-Forbes On 25th Street

One of Virginia Beach's newest businesses was opened five months ago under the name of Garner-Forbes Company, located at 209 25th Street in the location formerly occupied by Shelly's Variety Store.

The new owners are Donald Garner and Haywood Forbes, who came to the Beach from Norfolk, where they were employed by Sears. Mr. Garner was with Sears for seven years and Mr. Forbes was with the firm 13 years, both working as division managers in several divisions.

Mr. Garner is active in civic work. He is a Mason, member of the Virginia Beach Chapter of Commerce, American Legion Post 113 of Princess Anne County, and vice president of the Diamond Spring Civic League. He is married and has two children.

Mr. Forbes, who now resides in Norfolk, plans to move to the Beach this year. He is a Mason, a member of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, Exchange Club, Army Reserve, and the Baptist Church. Mr. Forbes graduated from Wake Forest College in 1941. He is married and has three children.

The only change the new owners plan to make is to add to the merchandise items which were not previously stocked by the variety store. A complete line of children's and Imperial wall paper has been added, and is sold both retail and wholesale.

R. B. Carter will continue as buyer and manager of the variety store. Mr. Carter has been with Shelly's for seven years. He is a member of the Princess Anne Ruritan Club, is Sunday School superintendent for the London Bridge Baptist Church. Mr. Carter resides in Lynnhaven and has been a resident of Princess Anne County for 36 years.

Mrs. Page Millard will remain with the new firm and she will assist Mr. Carter in operating the store. She has been a resident of the Beach for 46 years. Mrs. Millard is a member of the Callee Episcopal Church and the Virginia Beach Garden Club.

COMMUNITY METHODIST CHURCH

Construction of this modern sanctuary began in December, 1953, and the congregation first worshipped here on October 11, 1954. From a beginning membership of eighty-four in 1952, the church now has over four hundred members.

COMMUNITY METHODIST CHURCH GROWS RAPIDLY; NEW BUILDING BEING PLANNED

PASTOR

THE REV. DOUGLAS NEWMAN, PASTOR

On July 20, 1952, Dr. E. A. Potts, Superintendent of the Norfolk District, conducted the initial service of the Community Church in the Kempsville Community Hall. Fifty-nine people were present and the church was formally organized. Twenty-four people indicated a desire for full membership, and five more said "probably." The Rev. M. D. Newman, pastor of the Oak Grove Methodist Church, was appointed pastor.

Charter memberships were received through September 7 of that year. Eighty-four charter members were enrolled, and on the same afternoon, the building site donated by John L. Wood was dedicated.

Move to School
On October 26, 1952, the congregation moved to quarters in the Kempsville School, having outgrown the facilities of the Community Hall, Fire Station, barber shop and office building.

There were six Sunday School classes, with Mrs. A. V. Nuckols serving as superintendent, a Woman's Society of Christ, a service, a junior choir, a fully organized official board, a budget of $3,000 (exclusive of building activities) and a fully functioning building committee.

A tentative plan for the new building had at this time been adopted. Sketches were drawn and tentative estimates of the cost were being secured. A plan for financing the building program was about to be inaugurated.

New Edifice Occupied
Construction was begun on the new sanctuary on December 11, 1953, and the congregation held its first service in the new unit on October 11, 1954.

Norman Marshall was lay leader, and W. W. Johnson was chairman of the building committee. There are now well over four hundred members on the church rolls.

This beautiful building enables Community Methodist Church to take its rightful place in the service of its people and of its God. It is already overflowing, and at present plans for the next unit are well underway.

Kempsville School Makes Giant Strides Since Humble Beginning Back in 1794

The history of the Kempsville Elementary School reflects the changing and broadening of educational standards in our country and also reflects the growth of the rural area.

The first school at Kempsville of which we have record was the Dickson Free School, erected in 1794. One Maurice Fitzgerald was given the post of schoolmaster by commissioners appointed by the vestrymen of Lynnhaven Parish. He agreed to tutor for three years twenty-five paying pupils and other boys whose families were unable to pay for tuition.

The next established school was the Kempsville Academy, or the Male and Female Seminary, founded in 1836. This school was housed in the old jail building (Kempsville was at one time the county seat).

Population and School Grow
In 1910 the O. B. Mears School was erected for a price of $5,000 on land donated to the School Board by the Mears family. It was, in great measure, due to the foresightedness of Mr. O. B. Mears who was school superintendent for forty years—that the one-room school house idea was abandoned and schools were consolidated under one roof.

As the population in the Kempsville District grew, so did the Kempsville School. The need was felt for a larger school and a second building was added.

Then came the High School building, in 1941, and a gymnasium.

By 1952 school enrollments had jumped to an unprecedented high and two temporary Quonset type buildings were added.

In September, 1954, the Kempsville High School building was made available to the grammar grade students. This brought the number of school buildings to five.

Four years ago, the enrollment of students was 826, today it is 1,403. A conservative estimate of the enrollment in the fall of this year puts the number of enrollees at 1,620. To meet the school requirements, there are a principal, thirty-seven regular teachers, one full-time music teacher, one full-time librarian, and a clerk.

Luncheon Serves 500
The luncheon, whose staff consists of a manager, assistant manager, and six helpers, daily serves approximately five hundred students.

To transport the students to and from school, there are twelve buses, each making as many as two trips, and each loaded to capacity.

The Kempsville Woman's Club has most generously donated a dental clinic to the school and this year we were most fortunate in securing the services of Dr. A. G. White, of the Health Department, as a full-time dentist.

For the 1955-56 school term, we anticipate having forty-eight faculty members, and hope to add two special classes, whose function will be to help those who are slow to learn.

Vision of Area as Great Resort Center Fulfilled Far Beyond Pioneer Promoters' Fondest Dreams in Few Short Years

The following article, by Frank Sullivan, Norfolk newspaper man, is a very slightly revised re-print of an article appearing in "The Commonwealth," official publication of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. We wish to thank both Mr. Sullivan and the State Chamber of Commerce for permission to use it in this Anniversary and Progress Edition.

By FRANK SULLIVAN

The Cavalier Club at Virginia Beach, which was opened in 1927 as a major step in the development of the resort, has now rounded out two years of operation as a private club, and Sidney Banks, president of the Cavalier-Jefferson Corporation, which owns the extensive club properties, is enthused over the outlook for operations under the new policy. The club-type operation was put into effect on July 1, 1953, and now has members in thirty-two states and several provinces of Canada.

Mr. Banks said recently that the members are spending more time at the Cavalier and making fuller use of its recreational facilities than did the guests of the hotel in earlier years. He said his associates, F. E. Watkins, vice president of the corporation, and Albert Suttle, secretary-treasurer, share with him the conviction that the change to a club will prove beneficial to the entire resort area. The three men joined forces to acquire the Cavalier properties after they were released by the Navy in 1946, and later the corporation acquired the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond and undertook a program of renovation there.

Mr. Banks said that an exhaustive study of comparable private clubs showed that the Cavalier, by owning all of its supporting facilities, "was in a particularly advantageous position to make the transition without undue expense." He noted that seasonal hotel operations are becoming progressively more difficult, but under the present club setup fuller use of the facilities is anticipated as a result of a diversified year-round program of events now being planned.

Long Experienced
Mr. Banks is convinced that the original sponsors of the hotel had in mind the type of operation in which the Cavalier is now engaged. He should know, for its roots in the resort go back to 1927, when he became manager of the Princess Anne Country Club. This was the same year the Cavalier was opened. He began his long sojourn at the Cavalier four years later as the hotel's third managing director, and held this office until he took over the operating direction of the Chamberlain Hotel at Old Point Comfort in 1936. He returned to the Cavalier in 1946, and in 1949 he was again at the helm when the corporation acquired it after its wartime use by the Navy. Since that time, the corporation has spent better than a million dollars on plant and capital improvements at the Cavalier.

The conversion to club use, the upper floors of the eight-story hotel were closed for a time for alterations. Many of the rooms were enlarged, the corridor ends were enclosed to provide the larger suites desired by family groups. The kitchen likewise was expanded and equipped for club service. Many of the bedrooms and public rooms were refurbished and air-conditioned. During the conversion, club members and their guests were accommodated overnight in the Cavalier Lodge and Cavalier Inn, which are among the new facilities built by the present owners since they acquired the resort property some ten to eleven years ago.

The policy adopted by the club precludes a limited number of educational, professional and business associations to avail themselves of the facilities at certain periods of the year. The use of the club for such gatherings is subject to the approval of the membership committee.

Big Role in Progress

The role of the Cavalier in opening up Virginia Beach and its environs for the phenomenal development of the last quarter century is well documented, but only a few of the older residents recall the spirited promotional efforts which were taking shape three decades ago to set up the hotel at the fledgling resort. Virginia Beach had no water supply when the movement got under way, and it was only after the line was laid that the stock-selling campaign was allowed to proceed.

Colonel S. L. Slover, chairman of the board of Norfolk Newspapers, Inc., says the resort undoubtedly got its biggest boost from the hotel project. He was active in all phases of the Cavalier promotion and was president of the controlling corporation when the hotel was opened. Richard D. Cooke, a former Norfolk mayor and vice president of the hotel corporation in the early years, says the hotel focused attention on the attractions of the resort area and more than anything else sparked the development of Virginia Beach.

Laskin Road, a cut-off from Virginia Beach Boulevard, and now the main highway into the Beach, and the Shore Drive, another approach by way of Cape Henry, were built as a result of the pre-construction promotion given the Cavalier. It is significant that bids on the resort's two-mile concrete boardwalk were opened during the first week of the hotel's operation. An advertisement in the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot of that era offered building lots at Virginia Beach for $50 each and noted that the purchaser could pay $10 down and $5 a month. Those same lots today would cost almost 100 times that amount.

A special edition of the Virginian-Pilot, published on April 9, 1927, to signalize the opening of the hotel, traced the genesis of what is today the Cavalier back to the fall of 1924, when the late M. C. Ferebee, retired banker and financier, returned to Norfolk from a world-girdling tour. His trip had been prompted by a desire to spend his declining years in pleasant surroundings and a colonial climate.

Mr. Ferebee, who later served as secretary of the hotel corporation, found no setting in his world travels that he liked better than the Virginia seacoast, with which he was so familiar. Immediately upon debarking, he launched a determined campaign to develop Virginia Beach. His enthusiasm was contagious among the officials of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, including the late Dr. S. S. Leigh, a former president of the chamber. He joined at that time executive vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, also was impressed with Mr. Ferebee's vision and was prominently connected with the initial phases of the promotion.

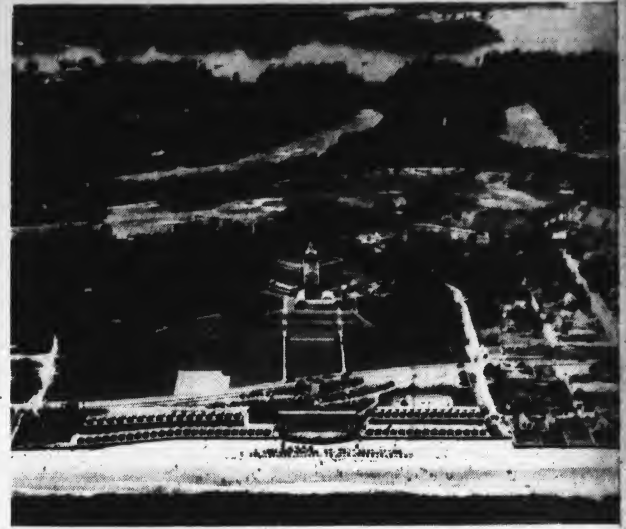

Mr. Lee retained in his own railroad, the Pennsylvania, served competing resorts, notably Atlantic City and Asbury Park, but he thought so much of the undertaking that he personally interested N. D. Maher, then president of the Norfolk and Western, in it. Mr. Maher continued an active interest throughout the promotional and construction period of the hotel. He also was instrumental in enlisting the support of high officials of steamship lines and other railroads. He helped to organize the resort advisory group appointed in March, 1923, when it was decided that the time was ripe to do something concrete in the way of capitalizing on the resort area.

Besides Messrs. Slover, Maher, and Lee, the committee was composed of George R. Loyall, president of the Norfolk Southern Railway; D. J. Callahan, president of the Norfolk and Washington Steamship Company; Hugh M. Keer, president of the Trust Company of Norfolk; J. W. Brownlee, president of Ames and Brownlee, a Norfolk department store; R. S. Cahoon, president of the Norfolk National Bank of Commerce; and H. H. Rumble, an attorney.

meeting on October 27, 1923, when it became apparent that plans for the hotel and other development of the resort could not be realized without an established water supply. But Norfolk authorities did not need too much convincing that a thriving resort at the city's doorstep would be beneficial to the economy of the community. The water line was laid within a year, and since that time it has been expanded many times.

On January 15, 1925, over 100 business and civic leaders met at the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce to give the undertaking further impetus. Less than a month later, the Virginia Beach Resort and Hotel Corporation was chartered, and on March 23, 1925, a stock-selling campaign was under way. The drive ended a week later with upwards of $800,000 in hand or pledged for the construction program.

It was in this period that the sixty-acre "Hollies Property," which was almost a unanimous choice for the hotel site, was taken under option. The purchase was consummated in April, 1925, and in the same month, Neff & Thompson, architects and engineers of Norfolk, were retained to draw the plans. George P. Post and Sons of New York were retained as consultants. Subsequently, Baker and Brinkley, Norfolk contracting firm, was awarded the contract, and the work had progressed sufficiently to lay the cornerstone on May 9, 1926. The principal speaker on that occasion was the then mayor of Norfolk, the late B. Heth Tyler, whose son, J. Hoge Tyler, III, is today president of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

Construction of the hotel took about thirteen months. A round of festive events brought dignitaries to the resort during the week preceding the opening of the hotel for business on April 9, 1927. The hotel, together with furnishings and equipment, represented an investment of approximately $2 million.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd, then Governor of Virginia, was among the principals at the opening. Newspaper, railroad and steamship officials of the East, and leading figures in Virginia's social, business, and industrial life also were present at the ceremonies.

Initially, the Cavalier had an arrangement whereby the golfers among its patrons could use the Princess Anne course, but it was not long before its own facilities on Birdneck Point were ready for use. A year before the hotel opened, Richard Crane of "Woods" donated ninety acres of his Birdneck Point property to the Cavalier as a supplement to the 200 acres provided about the same time by the Cape Henry Syndicate.

44-year-old Virginia Beach Methodist Church In New Home; Looks Ahead to Further Expansion

BEACH METHODIST SANCTUARY

The Methodists have been holding services at Virginia Beach continuously since 1911. During this 44 years, they have been constantly developing their facilities and resources for serving the spiritual needs of the community. Their congregation has grown from a scant half dozen to a total of more than 660 today. The Church School enrolls nearly 600 persons.

When the government took over the property owned by the Methodist Church in Cape Henry, the congregation voted to devote these funds to the building of a church at Virginia Beach. This took place in the latter part of 1911. Lots on 18th St., the present location of the church, were bought at that time and in 1913 a church was built and dedicated.

For many years the Virginia Beach church was linked with the Oceana Church in a two-point Methodist circuit. In 1939 this arrangement was abrogated and the Rev. S. E. Donald became the first pastor of the Virginia Beach church. In 1947 a spacious educational building was erected. In 1952 the then inadequate sanctuary was torn down and replaced with another seating 550 persons. Both the educational building and the sanctuary were completely air-conditioned at that time. This was accomplished under the leadership of the Rev. Graham S. Carlton.

Facilities Still Inadequate

The additional facilities were thought to be adequate for many years to come. They have already proved inadequate, however, and the official board of the church is projecting a program to add considerably to them. The Rev. C. Stanley Lowell assumed leadership of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church in July of 1954. In March of this year a program was put into effect by which most of the church's activities are two-platooned. Most divisions of the Church School hold sessions at 9 a. m. and again at 10:10 a. m., thus making possible a double use of the same rooms on Sunday morning. At the same time the worship program of the church was re-arranged so as to provide nearly identical worship services at 9 and 11 a. m. A nursery for small children operates continuously from 9 a. m. until noon. The music program at the Methodist Church began a new development when J. Harold Vest assumed his responsibilities as Minister of Music last fall. There are now three choirs at the church — the chancel choir, the youth choir and the junior choir. All participate regularly in the worship service.

Youth Programs

The Methodist Church has been known as "the young peoples' church." It provides facilities for various Scout groups and sponsors a team in the Little League. It has a strong accent on youth throughout its program, yet there are groups and activities for persons of all ages. In addition to the classes of the Church School, there are two fellowship groups for young people — the Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Intermediate Fellowship. A third fellowship for Young Adult Singles is now in formation. There are four classes for adults — the Men's Class, Couples' Class, Beasley Class and Dawson Class. These groups hold Sunday morning meetings and other meetings during the month.

The Wednesday night group for Bible study and prayer is one of the most popular features of the church program for adults.

Haygood Memorial Methodist Church Can Trace Beginnings Back to Traveling Preacher Before Year 1832

Prior to the year 1832 a traveling minister presided over a large area of the Norfolk district and visited the Bayside section quarterly to preach. In 1832 a small wooden church, was erected on or near the present Haygood site, to be known as the Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, South. This building was used for more than thirty years; then it was sold to George W. Smith and moved to his farm nearby. In 1867 a new church was erected during the pastorate of the Rev. J. J. Hall, a local preacher, who served faithfully as a teacher of day school and preacher and ministered to the needs of the community in general. This building served as a church edifice until 1896 when it was moved and made into a parsonage for the minister. The foundation of the present building was laid in March, 1896, and dedicated June 7, 1896, by the Rev. W. J. Young as the Haygood Memorial Methodist Church.

South. The change in name of the church from Ebenezer to Haygood Memorial is believed to have been made to honor Bishop Attilius G. Haygood, a newly elected bishop of the Methodist Church. Church School About 1900 A Church School was organized around 1900 with W. E. Biddle as superintendent and Mrs. S. K. Odell, Ida Shelton, Mrs. J. L. Babcock, Mrs. H. W. Smith and Ida V. Twiford as teachers. The Church School met for many years in the church sanctuary; but, as the enrollment increased, the need for an educational building was realized and June 20, 1943, saw a dream come true when Bishop W. W. Peck dedicated the present educational plant. By this time the need for a parsonage was evident. The old parsonage was sold in 1946 and a modern brick parsonage constructed soon thereafter. For many years Haygood was a part of the circuit composed of three, and later, two, churches served by the same pastor. At the Virginia Methodist Annual Conference in October, 1953, Haygood became a station appointment with the Rev. Lee Roy Brown as its first full-time pastor.

From her early beginnings to the present day, Haygood has increased her scope of interest, now providing a program for all ages and interests. The Church School, which meets each Sunday morning at 9:45 under the leadership of its general superintendent, Dr. M. Bagley Walker, offers training for everyone from the nursery age through mature years. Additional sessions are provided for our Intermediate and Senior Youth in their Methodist Youth Fellowships on Sunday evenings. These Fellowships consist of devotionals, study and recreation. Miss Anna Bland Faison, Senior MYF president, and Lew Dillon, Jr., Intermediate MYF president, are providing capable leadership for the groups.

Women's Societies
The Women's Society of Christian Service, with its emphasis upon the missionary phase—both home and foreign—of our church work, offers to the women a program of inspiration, information, and activity. Mrs. Ross W. Brubaker is leader of this group. In February, 1955, a Methodist Men's Club was organized at Haygood with J. F. Jernigan as president. This club has as its purpose the deepening of the spiritual life of the men of the church and the strengthening of all phases of the church program.

We at Haygood believe that music is a vital force in the life of a church, and have three volunteer choirs. A Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. C. G. Clough; a Youth Choir with Miss Betty Landers as director, and a Senior Choir under the leadership of S. Weston Tuttle and Mrs. H. W. Newsome, organist, provide music for our Sunday morning worship and on special occasions. The official board, J. L. Bowman, chairman, is composed of the duly elected stewards, trustees, and representatives of the various organizations. It seeks to coordinate our church activities and to further her advancement for the Kingdom of God.

Future Challenges
With the rapid growth of housing developments in Princess Anne County, Haygood is challenged to face her future with faith and confidence in a contin-

Beach Popular In "Gay Nineties"

Those who have been residents of Princess Anne County or Virginia Beach only for the past few years may well marvel at the phenomenal growth of this Tidewater and seaside community, but the real "old timers" are truly amazed when comparisons are made between what their eyes now behold and the days of yore. But, they will tell you, the attractions of Virginia Beach are only in number—not in degree. During the period preceding the turn of the century, in the "gay nineties" period, Virginia Beach was a place of high repute for elite vacationers, even before the days of modern motor car travel and four-lane highways, which make access so easy today. Presidents and financiers made the Beach their playground then, much as do vacationers today that were attracted to it. Accommodations were not what they are now, and they were in many instances compared to the standards of that day, but the majestic Atlantic was there, with its glistering beach, its glorious surf and its sun-drenched health-giving sunlight. So let us not be envious of our area. It was then, as it is now, blessed by nature in her most generous mood. Let us rather attempt to make its bounty available to more people, and so capitalize on its merits.

WHEN VIRGINIA BEACH WELCOMED SHRINERS

GROWTH OF WOOL LUMBER COMPANY CLOSELY PARALLELS THAT OF VIRGINIA BEACH AND COUNTY

The growth of Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County and the Tidewater area closely parallels that of the John E. Wool Lumber Company. From a modest start in 1948, with John E. Wool as president and owner, a staff of only three employees, and operating from offices in the Flatiron Building in Norfolk, the firm has shown consistent growth and now operates two large lumber yards, selling more than a million board feet of lumber a month.

In 1946, three years following the inception of the company, Joseph C. Wool joined the firm as vice-president and secretary, and in 1946 a lumber yard was opened at the old Wyckoff Pipe and Casing Company site in Portsmouth. However, due to the great increase in demand for lumber, and an increase in customers, the Wools established their present Norfolk lumber yard in Berkley in 1946. Until 1947, the firm handled lumber in wholesale quantities exclusively.

It was in 1947 that the decision to enter the retail lumber field was made, and this branch of the business was started, although the firm still maintained its growing activities in the wholesale lumber field. Two delivery trucks were added to the firm's equipment, and the number of employees at that time, Mr. Wool recalls, had increased to twelve. The firm soon established itself as a small but fast-growing retail outlet, and as building construction in the Tidewater area has advanced, so has the volume of business done by the firm increased.

Another Mr. Wool, in this instance John E. Wool, Jr., joined the firm in 1950 and he was the firm's representative for Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach. Realizing the rapid growth of this area meant an increased demand for lumber, the Wool firm decided to open a Virginia Beach branch. The venture was an immediate success.

The John E. Wool Lumber Company is well equipped to handle its share of the lumber and building material business in the Tidewater area. It has its own manufacturing plant and complete dry kiln facilities, and is extremely proud of the beautiful "satin finish" lumber distributed from its two yards.

At the present time the company has approximately sixty employees and operates a fleet of 14 trucks. It is very proud of its slogans: "Two Yards to Serve You" and "Good Lumber at Reasonable Prices with Sudden Service."

The firm has great faith in the future growth of the area it now serves, and is planning to expand its plants and services as the community grows.

over whose greens is played each year the PGA-recognized Open Golf Tournament, of which Chandler Harper was this year's winner.

Within 100 yards of the country club building are the Cavalier stables, with show rings and bridle paths through tall pines and other woodland.

ing him to the Chamberlain and then back to the Cavalier.

In an organization where length of service is given significance, Duke Smith, whose primary concern is the maintenance of the terraces and lawns, has an advantage over other employees. He helped build the Cavalier and participated with Charlie Applin, another veteran employee, in laying out the grounds. Mr. Applin, a nationally-known landscape artist, is still on the staff.

Bill Murphy, the sports director, set a different kind of record. He came to Virginia Beach for the opening of the Cavalier in a diving exhibition which included in its cast Helen Wainwright, an Olympic swimmer, and Dutch Smith, an Olympic diver. Miss Wainwright and Mr. Smith went on about their business, after filling the engagement, but Murphy stayed on and today is one of the most respected citizens of the resort community.

There are a number of other employees who participated in the formal opening of the hotel and who are still on the payroll. R. H. Brown, the headwaiter at the main clubhouse, and Sam Foster, the bell captain, are in this group. In the same classification is Francis Taylor, headwaiter at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club, who is one of the oldest employees in point of service.

Geno Qualeco, the chef, like so many members of the staff, has been with Banks for nearly two decades. He has presided over the kitchen at the Cavalier for over ten years, and before that was at the Chamberlain for almost as long. Earl Fiesanza, superintendent of service, has almost as long a record as a staff aide to the Cavalier president.

Other key members of the Cavalier Club staff include Lorraine Shirley, espalote, assistant to Mr. Banks and secretary of the membership committee; Burke Hamner, general manager; R. E. Chase, manager of the club; Charles Krummel, maître d'hôtel; Sally Sloane, publicity director; Les Larson, golf professional; Nellie Morris, housekeeper; Raymond Mills, groundskeeper; E. H. Armstrong, engineer, and James Fonce, reservations manager.

WOMEN'S CLUBS GREAT INFLUENCE IN COMMUNITY PROGRESS

Junior Women's Welfare Bank Example of Fine Projects Affecting County's Betterment

The Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County was organized in April, 1947. Its purpose is to promote self culture, education and public welfare. Mrs. William P. Kellam was first president and Mrs. Wallace Clark the first sponsor from the Senior Woman's Club. The Junior Women have contributed not only their financial support but their time to a wide range of civic undertakings in the past eight years.

The first five years a "Beach Follies" was presented as the one big money-raising event. It was staged and directed by a New York company. For the past three years the Juniors have produced their own variety shows. Proceeds from these annual productions have been used for many civic projects: Purchased eye and ear testing equipment now in use by all Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach elementary schools; contributed $500 to the Oceana High School athletic field, donated approximately $1000 to the Community House during the past eight years, gave $300 for the North Atlantic Boulevard beautification program, presented $1,825 to the Virginia Beach High School for equipment, donated $1,175.28 for playground and equipment at the Seateck Elementary School for the Negro children, contributed toward the churches of the community. This year the "bank" clothed 223 adults and 541 children, and helped 10 burned-out families. The club received the Corrine Murray State Welfare Award for this project for two years. This award is presented to the Junior club in the state that does the most outstanding welfare work. Each year a substantial amount is put into the Welfare Bank from the money-making project, for the continued operation of the "bank." The club also maintains a hospital loan closet with hospital bed, wheel chair, etc., loaned on a temporary basis.

Work on Many Projects
Each year the Juniors open emergency cases. Work is done in cooperation with the Princess Anne County Welfare Department, the Red Cross, local school authorities, civic clubs and the churches of the community. This year the "bank" clothed 223 adults and 541 children, and helped 10 burned-out families. The club received the Corrine Murray State Welfare Award for this project for two years. This award is presented to the Junior club in the state that does the most outstanding welfare work. ## Princess Anne Woman's Club Formed in 1925; Instrument for Broadening Services to Humanity

By MARION AMES

The Woman's Club of Princess Anne County is one of the oldest, largest, and most active organizations in the county.

On October 30, 1925, all women who were interested in the formation of such a group were invited to join. There were 35 charter members, many of whom hold membership today.

It was through the combined efforts of Mrs. A. E. Ewell and several members of the Kempsville Home Demonstration Club that the club was organized.

In the words of the first president, Mrs. Ewell, "This group met a challenge and the needs for better community services throughout the county, and with this basic idea in mind the women from all sections of the county broadened their services for humanity."

Creating interest in welfare, education, music, fine arts, government and philanthropic activities of all kinds has been the program of the Woman's Club through the years. As the growth of Virginia Beach and the county demanded, additional objectives and departments have been added within the club.

Incorporated in 1927

During the term of the second president, Mrs. R. B. Taylor, a tract of land in Obermeier was donated by Mrs. Arthur Masury as a site for a clubhouse.

In 1927 a certificate of incorporation was issued to the club by the State Corporation Commission. Under the capable leadership of Mrs. R. W. Fitzgerald and Mrs. H. O. Brown, the membership increased rapidly. Spring festivals were held at Wildchuck and the Thoroughgood Farm, both historically famous. The pageants for these festivals were written by Mrs. John D. Leitch, one of the active members of that period.

Mrs. E. J. Smith, library chairman, in 1929 reported that fifty-six books had been collected and placed in the library of Oceana High School. They included fiction, history and philosophy. The years of Mrs. Webster Hite-shew, Mrs. E. H. Herbert and Mrs. Blair Potate as presidents of the Woman's Club proved fruitful as the scope of activities broadened, the treasury increased and plans for a clubhouse materialized.

The choral group seen above was formed by combining voices from both the Junior and Senior Women's Clubs of Princess Anne County. They have been heard in many excellent presentations.

CHORAL GROUP FORMED BY CLUBS

High School. They included fiction, history and philosophy.

The years of Mrs. Webster Hite-shew, Mrs. E. H. Herbert and Mrs. Blair Potate as presidents of the Woman's Club proved fruitful as the scope of activities broadened, the treasury increased and plans for a clubhouse materialized.

In the treasurer's report for 1943-44 it was noted that the sum derived from the sale of the clubhouse had been invested in the Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Joins Federation in 1939

In order to further broaden its scope of activities, the membership voted to join the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, and became a member of the Federation in 1939.

During the war years Mrs. L. W. Meachum and Mrs. Wallace Clark were untiring in their efforts. With Mrs. Walter Gresham as chairman of the American Citizenship Department and Mrs. Sidney Kellam as Chairman of War Service, members sold War Bonds and stamps at each meeting, served at the Virginia Beach USO on numerous occasions, assisted in Red Cross programs and were highly commended for their efforts.

Mrs. Russell Hatchett, in her inaugural message as president, said, "As I start on this venture I will need your cooperation, consideration and loyalty. It will be our goal to make this Woman's Club of Princess Anne County the strongest, most respected and outstanding organization in our community. With your help and earnest endeavor we cannot fail."

During her administration, War

Service, Fine Arts, Welfare and Literature departments reported outstanding programs.

First County Fair Held

With Mrs. George C. Manson as president, the club sponsored its first Princess Anne County Fair, which was held at the New Casino and was an outstanding success.

In 1950, presiding at a meeting in the Panorama Room of the Cavalier Hotel with husbands and escorts of members as guests, Mrs. Kernell Land, president, expressed gratification that the Fair, sponsored jointly by the Woman's Club and the Ruritan's, had made headlines in local and Norfolk papers. The program included drill by the Drum Majorettes of Oceana High School and selections by a well-known quartet, planned and arranged by Mrs. R. L. Ingram. Mrs. Frank Cox, membership chairman, reported 38 new members.

Mrs. Fred Perkins, president in 1953 and 1954, planned with her Fair committee early in the year, and the Fair, which had become an annual event, was most successful. Proceeds were gratifying and swelled the treasury.

Fine Arts Department Grows

The first term of Mrs. R. H. Owens' administration was marked also with a successful Fair. Another outstanding achievement was the expansion and broadening of the Fine Arts department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. D. Y. Malbon.

Mrs. Owen and Mrs. Malbon also were instrumental in bringing the Automobile sponsored by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and containing a collection of famous paintings, to Virginia Beach as a public service, with other Women's clubs in the area cooperating and serving as hostesses.

Confidence in Future

A new club year has just begun with Mrs. Aubrey Holmes installed in April, and club members are looking forward confidently another year of achievement under her direction.

The Woman's Club of Princess Anne County takes pride in the fact that it has aided materially in the cultural growth of the several communities of Princess Anne County and will continue to "Honor the Past, Consecrate the Present, and Have Faith in the Future."

Mrs. Everett P. Seay, Year 1954 chairman; Mrs. Howard Maria and Mrs. Reed compiled the first year book for the club, Mrs. Howard P. Seay drew the pen and ink sketch of the club flower, the native American Lotus, which appears in the year book.

The club has furnished: Three state officers in the Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. R. W. Spruill, Mrs. R. L. Owens and Mrs. Cecil H. Reed; Twenty-nine club members who are serving as officers in other clubs and organizations other than the Cape Henry Woman's Club.

One TV star: Mrs. Wallace Clark, who was honored with the 1953 Zenith Television Award for her public service and community interest programming. Mrs. Clark appears on WTAR-TV two days each week, with her program "Let's Cook" with Lucille Clark.

She is also food editor for the Virginia Beach Sun-News. She has been interested in civic affairs and her abiding love for children prompted her to accept the chairmanship of the March of Dimes for Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach.

PRESIDENT

Mrs. A. N. Holmes, newly installed president of the Woman's Club of Princess Anne County.

Cape Henry Woman's Club One of Most Active; Organization and Members Serve Many Ways

Mrs. Wallace T. Clark and Mrs. Cecil H. Reed, dining at Thalia Acres Inn, February 6, 1954, discussed the many friends that were asking why not organize a new woman's club, and wrote down the names of friends who had requested that such a club be organized.

Mrs. Robert J. Steinhilber joined the table and added other names of friends to the list. Many of these people were new residents of Princess Anne County.

Mrs. Reed suggested the club be named the Cape Henry Woman's Club.

It was on February 11, 1954, that Mrs. Steinhilber, Mrs. James Darden, Mrs. R. W. Ashworth, Mrs. James E. Garrett, Mrs. Everett K. Wilson and Mrs. Reed met with Mrs. Clark in the living room of her home on 53rd Street, Virginia Beach, and planned the call to go out to friends for a meeting on February 16 at Thalia Acres Inn to organize a woman's club.

Thirty-three women assembled at two o'clock on the afternoon of that date at the Inn. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. D. W. Cassada, and nominations were called for to name temporary officers.

Mrs. Clark was elected temporary chairman, with Mrs. Steinhilber chosen temporary recording secretary.

Resolutions

Mrs. Reed was appointed to draw up the following resolutions, which were presented by Mrs. R. W. Ashworth:

(1) Resolved, that we shall form a woman's club to be affiliated with the General and State Federation of Women's Clubs; to be known as the Cape Henry Woman's Club.

(2) Resolved, that the temporary chairman, Mrs. Wallace T.

PRESIDENT

Mrs. W. W. Connell, who is the new president of the Cape Henry Woman's Club.

Clark, be empowered to appoint a committee of five to draft the by-laws.

(3) Resolved, that the club meet at Thalia Acres Inn on March 9, 1954, to perfect the organization.

(4) Resolved, that the women present today who desire membership in this club affix their signatures to the attached sheets.

Mrs. Clark appointed as a committee to draft the by-laws: Mrs. Cecil H. Reed, chairman; Mrs. W. W. Connell, Jr., Mrs. E. L. Cooper, Mrs. R. W. Ashworth and Mrs. Everett K. Wilson.

A nominating committee was nominated from the floor, and was composed of Mrs. James Darden, chairman; Mrs. J. D. W. Cassada, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. R. S. Creamer and Mrs. Robert T. Wynne, who were to agree upon a ticket and report at the meeting on March 9 to perfect the organization.

The March 9th meeting was called to order by Mrs. Clark, the temporary chairman, and Mrs. Steinhilber, temporary recording secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The by-laws, presented by Mrs. Reed, chairman of the by-laws committee, were adopted.

First Officers Chosen

Mrs. Darden, chairman of the nominating committee, offered the following slate of officers for the new organization:

Mrs. W. W. Connell, Jr., president; Mrs. Everett K. Wilson, first vice president; Mrs. William P. Kellam, second vice president; Mrs. R. W. Ashworth, third vice president; Mrs. Robert J. Steinhilber, recording secretary, and Mrs. R. S. Creamer, treasurer.

The officers were unanimously elected, and were installed immediately thereafter by Mrs. R. Richard Schweitzer, president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Connell appointed Mrs. P. B. Nichols as corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Cecil H. Reed as historian.

A new club, with 100 charter members, the Cape Henry Woman's Club was welcomed into the Federation of Women's Clubs by its president, Mrs. Schweitzer, who congratulated the organization and said by the very large membership it was apparent that there was a real need for a new club. She wished the club a very real success.

Mrs. James A. Woodard, president of the Tidewater District of Women's Clubs, spoke briefly and congratulated the club on the large number of charter members and the excellence of its by-laws.

FOUNDERS

Mrs. Wallace Clark and Mrs. Cecil Reed, above, were founders of the Cape Henry Woman's Club.

Charter Received

The club received its charter at a meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs meeting in the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, on April 20, 1954. Mrs. Connell, club president, was present to receive the document.

The club has held eight regular meetings during the club year.

Achievements have been many and varied, and the club's activities have been far-reaching into the social and civic life of the county and city. Under the direction of Mrs. William P. Kellam, second vice president, and Ways and Means committee chairman, club members have served as hostesses at the opening of the new Colonial store on 31st Street, Virginia Beach; at Overton's Market at Robbins Corner, and added $100 to the club treasury, and sponsored the sale of 500 theatre tickets on a 50¢ basis for the Virginia Beach Little Theatre production of "Angel Street." Plans are being made for a trip by motor bus to visit the United Nations.

Mrs. Delmar J. Dee, Sr., Garden Department chairman, and members of the Garden Department, held a plant sale and realized $150. They have assisted the National Council of Garden Clubs in the nation-wide "Litterbug" drive and have assisted the Eastern State Hospital with material for therapy work.

Mrs. R. W. Couch, American Home Department chairman, together with other members of the department, held a bake sale and realized $80.

Aid Scouting Movement

The club gave a shower for the Girl Scout Day Camp located in Seaboard State Park, to help with camp equipment. Under the supervision of Mrs. James J. Standing the club sponsors Brownie Troop No. 219.

Under the direction of Mrs. Robert S. Wahab, club members are assisting at the Cancer Clinic. Club members have assisted with the March of Dimes and Red Cross drives. The club served as hostess to the Tidewater District meeting March 16 of this year at the Cavalier Club, Virginia Beach.

Under the direction of Mrs. R. W. Spruill, the Art Department organized an art class, with Mrs. Otis L. Shumate as instructor in pastels and oil painting.

Through the Art Department the club has instigated the concerting of the native American Lotus, and is planning a Lotus Festival for the week of July 22-28, of this year.

The club has contributed $10 to the Art Mobile fund; $10 to the Panny Sterne Fellowship fund; $10 to the Dorothea A. Buck Fellowship fund; $50 to the Princess Anne County High School Choral Group; $50 to the March of Dimes, and established a $300 scholarship fund for future teachers.

CREEDS PTA TAKES PRIDE IN CARRYING OUT OF OBJECTIVES OUTLINED IN 1912

Mrs. Linda Kelly

The Creeds School Parent-Teacher Association was organized in 1912 under the direction of Mrs. N. A. Nicholson and the Rev. E. J. Harrell, then pastor of the Oak Grove Baptist Church. Down through the years this fine organization has sponsored many projects which have added to the betterment of the school in particular and the community in general.

The old frame building which was the original Creeds High School still stands as a reminder to all who look upon it of the wonderful progress that has taken place in school facilities in recent years. In a cloak room of this old building, our luncheon program was started. This program has been maintained completely under the sponsorship of the Parent-Teacher Association until federal funds for lunchrooms were adopted recent years.

Written records for the early years of the Creeds PTA are non-existent, but conversation with its early leaders has convinced us that though the association's program has broadened, its general objectives have not changed: the welfare of the school, its teachers and its children. Though the association is not first of all a money-making - money spending organization, it has helped to provide many things for the school which have been an asset to its program. Some of these things through the early years have been a piano, stage curtains, shrubbery, books for the library, phonograph players and recreation fund.

Health Program Begins

The present Creeds School, of brick construction, is located on "Blossom Hill," about three miles north of Creeds. Since occupying this building in 1939, an extensive improvement in the PTA program has been accomplished. A health program which provides clinics for pre-school children, dental attention for those children who need it, providing first aid materials for the class rooms and operating generally with the County Health Department, are annual procedures. The association has had as many as fourteen enrolled in a first aid class which was taught by Red Cross instructors.

The lunch room or cafeteria of the present building, modern in every detail, is a far cry from the "cloak room diner" which the old building housed. We are happy to have had a part in giving some financial aid toward some of the equipment.

The importance of parent education has been recognized in recent years and study groups are organized to consider certain subjects which specialists consider important to parent - teacher - child relationships. These sessions are an important phase of our work today.

A definite music promotion program was launched in 1946-47, and a PTA committee requested that two days a week be given to band work instead of one. This was granted and was gradually increased to a daily band practice. A Band Booster Club was organized under the Music Committee of the PTA and progress to the tune of $2,700 worth of uniforms, purchased and paid for in one year, was accomplished. Later a music teacher was added to the faculty.

In 1949 the dream of a gymnasium became a reality. A committee from the PTA had met with the superintendent of schools and requested a gymnasium and the board had granted the request. We have been able to finance certain pieces of equipment for this project. The athletic program grew until football was added to the already popular basketball and baseball. An athletic committee, PTA-appointed, was able to raise the funds with which the boys would be provided uniforms and equipment.

In 1952 it was necessary for the PTA to spearhead a program to learn whether or not the citizens of the Pungo district wanted to be included in the plans for a consolidated high school in Princess Anne County. A petition was circulated and the result was that Pungo district requested that it be included in the plans. As a result of the consolidated high school, Creeds has become an elementary school.

Time marches on and this, our first year as an elementary PTA, has equaled and in some instances surpassed its fine record of many years' service. A long-sought plan to move our playground from the front of the building to the rear has at long last been realized, with additional equipment added for good measure. One hundred dollars has been contributed for library improvements. Our health program continues with the pre-school clinic on the agenda, and we have 157 of a possible 171 homes represented in our PTA.

To all those who have served as officers, teachers, principals, doctors, ministers and every past and present member of the Parent-Teacher Association, we say "thank you" for your part in helping to hold high the ideals for which this great organization was first founded.

LUTHERAN CHURCH HAS BRIEF BUT BRIGHT HISTORY AT VIRGINIA BEACH; LOOK FORWARD TO BUILDING SOON

The history of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Virginia Beach, is brief but bright. For a number of years, the United Lutheran Church in America felt the need for a Lutheran Church at Virginia Beach, and planned to organize a congregation there. These plans began to materialize in the fall of 1954 with the coming of the Rev. and Mrs. John David Keister.

The Rev. Mr. Keister received his A.B. degree from Roanoke College in 1950, and his B.D. degree three years later from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Penn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Keister studied at the Divinity School of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in the fall and spring terms of 1953-54. Following their studies at the university, the couple made a four-month tour of Europe and the Middle East which took them into fifteen different countries. They returned home in July of 1954 and shortly thereafter received a call to establish a church at Virginia Beach. They arrived October 1 to begin work.

After a little over a month of survey and visitation, the first worship service was held at the Community House, 18th and Arctic Avenue, on November 7. A capacity crowd of over two hundred persons were in attendance, with many guests and visitors from the entire Tidewater area. Among the visiting ministers were the Rev. Jack Martin of Ocean View, the Rev. Roy Sloop of Newport News, the Rev. Gordon Hite of Norfolk, the Rev. Marion Lane of Hampton, the Rev. Crockett Huddle of Lansdale, the Rev. Robert Davis of Virginia Beach, and the Rev. Dickson Taylor of Portsmouth. Services have been held regularly thereafter at 11:00 a. m. in the Community House.

Sunday School was organized a month later. The time was set at 9:45 a. m., and classes provided for all age groups from three years of age through the adult group. The enrollment began with forty students and teachers, and has since climbed to over eighty. The Sunday School staff includes H. O. Erhard, 433 Lakewood Circle, superintendent; Marvin Marshall, 112 Pinewood Road, assistant superintendent; Mrs. George Bush, 146 Pinewood Road, superintendent of the Beginners Department; Carl Fosman, London Bridge, secretary; and Mrs. Avis Walter, Tabor Court, pianist.

PASTOR

JOHN DAVID KEISTER

The big day in the life of the Virginia Beach Lutherans came on February 27, 1955, with the formal organization of the congregation. The church was born with one hundred and fifty adult members and fifty child members. Over one hundred and sixty-five people attended this organizational service. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Luther W. Strickler, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, Norfolk, and chairman of the Home Mission Committee of the Virginia Synod. The following men were elected to serve as deacons:

Herzhberger, Lynnhaven.

Officers elected were: The Rev. John D. Keister, president; F. S. Cook, vice president; George Bush, secretary; W. E. Strole, financial secretary; and H. O. Erhard, treasurer.

Look Forward to Building
A choir was organized soon after services began and has greatly enhanced the beauty of the worship. The group now has over twenty members. Mr. James Midgett is choir director and Mrs. Will Baugh is pianist.

The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd looks to the future with great hope. A two-acre lot has been purchased on Laskin Road across from the entrance to the Linlier residential area. Since Laskin Road will probably become the main approach to Virginia Beach, the location is ideal. The ample size of the lot also insures adequate space for parking and unlimited expansion. The church hopes to begin work on the first unit in its building program in the not too distant future.

So the Lutheran Church was born and flourishes and plans for the future. It is the firm conviction of the congregation that it can be a strong witness to the Lord Jesus Christ and as such will be of great service to the community of Virginia Beach in the years ahead.

from the parties by club members and receive many presents from Santa. Last Christmas the club entertained 150 children.

The Junior Women have worked with the following local and state projects:

The Bloomobile, the mobile TB unit, the Little Theatre, March of Dimes, and have sent hostesses to aid the Red Cross at the Port of Embarkation. They have contributed to Flood Relief, the Eastern State Hospital, the Crippled Children's Hospital, and CARE. They also sponsor a Girl Scout Troop, give a Girl Scout Campership, send a girl to Girls State, and helped send a Boy Scout to the World Jamboree.

For the past five years the club has conducted the "Mothers March on Folio." Proceeds from this one event make up the largest single contribution to the March of Dimes. This year the Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club co-sponsored the drive with the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club and netted $10,878.75.

This year the Fine Arts Department of the club has offered instruction in art, music and drama. Forty-one members exhibited paintings and were awarded five ribbons at the Tidewater Institute held at the Cavalier Club in March. A Choral group was formed with the Senior Woman's Club and made several appearances.

"Fashions and Follies," a fashion and variety show, was presented in March, 1955, and the proceeds from this will go to the Girl Scouts' Camp Linkhorn, the Princess Anne High School and the Community House.

As these charitable, civic, social and cultural activities indicate, the Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club is playing a vital role in the community.

Currently one of the principal objectives for the future is the building of a club house to serve both the Junior and Senior Woman's Clubs and help them carry forward the programs they have undertaken. Under the leadership of Mrs. James G. Kellam, president of the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County for 1955-56, they hope to come nearer to obtaining this goal.

The summer visitor and new resident alike will find a church of their denomination where they will feel at home in their worship. Congregations and pastors alike welcome you to attend Sunday and special services.

George M. Meredith Pioneered Drug Store Business in Princess Anne County at Beach

MEREDITH DRUG STORE NO. TWO

A pioneer who foresaw the potentialities of the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County area when the Beach was mostly just that — a sand beach — with a few summer cottages and small hotels, Mr. George M. Meredith came here from Norfolk and opened his first store back in 1912. He now operates two up-to-the-minute stores, one on 17th Street and one at Atlantic Avenue and 22nd Street.

George M. Meredith, proprietor of the Meredith Drug Company at Virginia Beach, has the distinction of having opened the first drug store in Princess Anne County. Mr. Meredith's original location was at Park and Brambleton Avenues in Norfolk. In 1912 he opened the Beach's first drug store on 16th Street and about 20 years later he opened his second drug store at 22nd and Atlantic Avenue.

Both Meredith drug stores at the Beach are complete in every detail and carry a full line of drugs, drug sundries, patent medicines, prescription drugs, Eastman Kodaks, Norris candies and other items usually found in a modern, up-to-date drug store.

Three registered pharmacists and about twenty clerks are required to handle the business of the two stores.

Mr. Meredith attended a pharmacists' school in Norfolk, which was conducted by a Dr. Thomas. In 1892 and 1893 Mr. Meredith was in charge of the apothecary shop at the Naval Hospital in Portsmouth. He is a native of Stafford County, Virginia, but has been associated with the growth of the Virginia Beach area for so many years that he is regarded as one of the pioneers in the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area.

Sam Manages Stores

W. B. Meredith, son of the founder, is a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia, having received his diploma there in 1930. He is now manager of both of the Meredith Drug Company establishments at the Beach. M. O. Godsey is manager of the 22nd Street and Atlantic Avenue store.

The 17th Street store is regarded as "prescription headquarters" for the entire Virginia Beach area.

Mr. Meredith, having seen Virginia Beach grow from just a few small cottages and a few hotels, has great faith in the future for the outstanding Atlantic coast resort.

He has seen property values greatly increase, thousands of new homes built, and the entire ocean front lined with modern hotels. He has seen the population of the Beach double and redouble many times, and has been active in all of the resort's activities.

GROWTH OF WELFARE DEPARTMENT KEEPS PACE WITH COUNTY EXPANSION

By Roseline F. Simpson
Superintendent

The present board members of the Princess Anne County - Virginia Beach Department of Welfare are J. L. Hargrave, chairman; Elliott Williamson, vice chairman; C. W. Cashman, Fred Haycox, Mrs. P. H. Allen, Hon. J. Davis Reed, Jr., judge of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, and Judge John Leitch, assistant.

The Welfare Department was organized in the office of the Clerk of the Court in Princess Anne County August, 1938, and at that time a budget of $22,200.81 was approved, the larger percentage of which, as now, was allocated by the Federal and State government. Shortly after organization the entire case load consisted of 102 cases in all categories, including Service cases. The staff consisted of a superintendent, one case worker and two WPA clerks.

The budget request for 1955-56 is $241,358.00 for the county and $25,862.00 for Virginia Beach. This amount will be made up of Federal, State and local funds and is exclusive of the amount to be allocated by the State and local government for hospitalization for the indigent ill.

Case Load Heavy

Today the case load is 667 cases, representing many more persons as cases, not members of families who benefit, are mentioned. There are 24 children in foster care and 73 children receiving varied services of the department under the Child Welfare program. These include children referred by the Court for supervision who have been placed on probation, adoptions, neglected children.

The department also participates in family counseling with domestic problems and works closely with other agencies in the area and in other states. The demands on the local Welfare Department increases as the population of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach increases and the growth of the Welfare Department is reflected throughout the State of Virginia as statistics show an increase of assistance cases of 4.3% in 1954.

Financial assistance to those in need is necessary, however, meeting such need with a monthly grant is by no means the ultimate goal and purpose of the Welfare Department. Every effort is made to develop resources whereby persons can become self-supporting. This is frequently accomplished by referral to the Vocational Rehabilitation Program which processes the referral through medical examinations and when feasible refers them to employers who give employment to the rehabilitated handicapped person. This applies to adults of all races.

Not a Relief Agency

Many people are of the opinion that the Welfare Department is principally a relief agency. This is an incorrect assumption as one of the primary functions is to help people help themselves through any resources which may be found suitable to alleviate existing conditions.

It is the desire of the Welfare Department that everyone have the opportunity to have a decent home with healthy family ties, and an opportunity to work, having the type work available to them which will furnish the most satisfaction according to their capabilities. When our people are no longer able to provide for themselves, we hope they can be assured of the interest in their welfare of the people of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach, and that funds are available to meet at least their basic need.

The Welfare Department is hoping that the near future will bring to the residents of this community a home for the chronically indigent ill and a detention home for the children committed by the Juvenile Court to the State Department of Welfare and Institutions in Richmond, who are awaiting transfer to one of the State schools. Unfortunately there are occasions when children have to be held in the county jail.

Although the Welfare Department is the custodian of Federal, State and local funds for those in need, the accent of the department is on service to the community and the public welfare field is forced to respond to the changing needs of the public which it serves. Working with children and their problems is fast becoming time consuming of the welfare program. More and more people are becoming aware of the services of the agency and therefore referrals are rapidly increasing.

Jalousie Company Expands With Growth of Beach Area

Established just a little over five years ago, in April, 1950, the Virginia Jalousie Company, on Virginia Beach Boulevard at Seaboard Road, has made great progress and is today a substantial part of the forward progress of the Beach area and Princess Anne County.

The firm is owned and operated by Charlie and Mamie Barnard. From its inception, the firm was successful, so much so, in fact, that in October, 1951, it moved to its own building at Laskin and Great Neck Roads, where it has been since that time. The new quarters are large, occupying over 5,000 square feet of floor space.

Starting business with limited stock and just one pickup type truck, the firm has grown to where it today operates two trucks, a station wagon and automobile, and employs from four to eight persons in the operation of the business. Its area of operation includes the entire eastern half of Virginia and parts of the northeastern section of North Carolina.

Mass Relief Thing of Past

The staff consist of a superintendent, child welfare worker (who also represents the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court); two case workers, a secretary and a clerk. Over three thousand miles a month are covered by the staff in the county and the Beach, as this is a far-reaching territory.

The Princess Anne County-Virginia Beach Welfare Department has membership in the American Public Welfare Association and the professional staff hold individual memberships in the Virginia Conference of Social Workers.

The mass relief of the 1930's is a thing of the past. Nevertheless, the department has to be constantly on the alert to local situations. Virginia Beach, an entirely urbanized locality, is different from the county and needs of the people are vastly different.

More than 1200 porch installations have been completed by the Virginia Jalousie Company in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County alone.

Just recently the firm has added a new line of pre-cast patio tiles in various colors, and these tiles are proving very popular. The tiles may be had in 12 x 12 inch, 18 x 18 inch and 24 x 24 inch sizes and are installed by the company, or may be laid by those with a "do it yourself" instinct.

All sales are personally handled by Mr. Barnard, and he is proud of his slogan: "Selling comforts of living to satisfied customers." Courteous employees, prompt and efficient service and quality products have done much to contribute to the success of the firm.

Mr. Barnard is a member of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, and the national and local orders of the Moose. Mr. and Mrs. Barnard have one daughter, Mrs. Browning, and two grandchildren living in Richmond. The Barnards are associated with a church in Amelia County.

Princess Anne County, however, is unique in that many areas are urbanized and other areas strictly agricultural.

Out of a small group meeting in August, 1938, to discuss and organize a Welfare Department, at the time possibly accepting such a new department halfheartedly, has grown one of the most important departments of this county and city government, whose services are widespread.

The interest of the department is in helping others, and especially to protect children from improper home environment in an effort to give them an opportunity to become better citizens and to provide security to the aged, the blind and the permanently disabled, and to explore every possibility to make a better community for the citizens of Princess Anne County and the City of Virginia Beach.

ST. JOHN'S BAPTIST CHURCH HAD ORIGIN BACK IN 1853

On Holland Swamp Road, near the Princess Anne Court House, is a small church known as St. John's Baptist Church. This church was constituted October 16, 1853. Elders J. Hendren, H. J. Chandler and T. Hume, Sr., constituted the presbytery.

Its membership consisted of 22 people, dismissed by letter from London Bridge Baptist Church, who then proceeded at once to build their church. The church secured the services of H. J. Chandler as pastor.

Up to the breaking out and during the early part of the Civil War, they were served by the Rev. N. M. Munden and H. Petty. As the war progressed, the members became scattered by death and removal, so that at its close, there remained but a small remnant of the original church.

In July, 1869, under the auspices of the Norfolk and Princess Anne Union Meeting, Elders J. F. Tuttle, R. H. Baylor and N. B. Cobb held a series of meetings which revived interest.

After that time the church struggled for existence, a portion of the time being fostered by the Union Meeting of the Lower District of the Baptist Association; Elders J. A. Speight and E. M. Buyn, preaching for them, the remainder of the time having the pastoral oversight of Elders Tuttle, Baylor, Repton and Luke. At this time the church numbered twenty-five members.

Succession of Pastors
From the 1880's until 1943 there was a succession of pastors. Much of the following information was obtained from Mrs. J. C. Sawyer of Lynnhaven, who has attended St. John's church all of her life. She is teacher of the women's class, and has been for many years. She was also church treasurer for many years.

Two other women of Princess Anne, who have been long-standing members, are Mrs. Leola Woodhouse and Mrs. Ola Seneca. Mrs. Woodhouse is still very active but Mrs. Seneca has been unable to attend the past year due to ill health. These three women have helped much to keep St. John's Church on its feet, through their loyalty and devotion. Their families are active church members at the present time.

In 1890 the pastor was Frank Clark, who was also pastor at the London Bridge Baptist Church. There were other pastors who on alternate Sundays preached at Oak Grove, Creeds or the Centerville Baptist Church in Norfolk County.

First Permanent English Colonists Landed in 1607

Princess Anne County is rich in tradition. And well it should be, for it was on the beach at Cape Henry, just within the gates of what is now Port Story, that the beginnings of the first permanent English settlement was made — with the landing in 1607.

That was 348 years ago, and today the pioneers of that great adventure would think they were landing in another universe, should their sturdy sailing boats approach our beaches in this year of 1955.

But these folk brought a culture and a way of life which was to make Virginia — and, indeed, all America — what it is today. They brought a love for family, and for religion . . . and for beauty.

Some of our very earliest references to those days so long ago are to the churches of that time. This is not strange, for the early church was the center of all things. . . it was in the books of the church that births, and marriages and deaths, were recorded.

There are references to a Parish Church in Princess Anne County as far back as 1639. This place of worship was located at what is known as Church Point, near the present Bayville Farm. Legend has it that this church was abandoned when the mouth of the Lynnhaven River was altered and the water rose so as to make accessibility difficult.

The oldest church now standing in our county is Old Donation, built in 1736, and from this beginning is now a modern church with a large congregation.

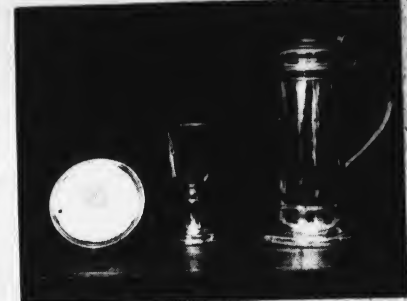

A Chapel of Ease was built on the eastern shore of the Lynnhaven River in 1689. This church, has been re-built several times, and is now located on Laskin (Continued on Page Three)

Virginia Beach High School Makes Tremendous Strides In Three Years Existence; On State Accredited School List

Virginia Beach High School recently came to the close of three very successful school years. It is a school of which the whole city is justly proud. It is a school which is the realization of years of dreams and anticipation on the part of many of the permanent residents of Virginia Beach. It is not a large school as far as numbers go, having a faculty of only twenty-three.

Three years ago when Virginia Beach High School first opened its doors to welcome an enthusiastic group of students, the building was far from being completed — as the auditorium, the gymnasium, lockers and athletic field had not been finished.

When representatives from the State Department of Education examined the school at the beginning of its second year, they found it good. They expressed satisfaction and surprise that a new school had progressed so rapidly and recommended that the State Department place Virginia Beach on the list of accredited high schools.

This was done and now the school has applied for membership in the Southern Association of Junior Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Approved Curriculum
Virginia Beach High School has a curriculum that is set up to reach the standard requirements for college entrance. The twenty-three faculty members, whose responsibility the curriculum is, are all well trained and carefully selected to carry out the aims set for them. Though not as extensive as might be desired, the plan of study is thorough, as the achievements of the last few years show. In the Latin department there was one "maximum cum laude" medal awarded in the national Latin test, as well as several other medals. In competitive examinations for scholarships and essays, two young people won scholarships amounting to more than one thousand dollars.

In the Domestic department during the last two years, the school won distinguished rating equipped place of educational ac-in the district and first-place in state in Prose Reading.

The Debating team has made creditable showing during the last few years.

The school has shown marked development also in its Journalism department, having published a school paper called "The Beachcomber," which is written and edited by the students.

Virginia Beach High School has a department of Industrial Arts and Mechanical Drawing with a well-equipped general shop. In the Art department are included designing, painting, sketching in charcoal and crayon, sculpture and ceramics, with even a kiln. It may be noted that the local school is one of the very few in Virginia with a kiln for the use of teaching ceramic art.

Library Grows
The Virginia Beach High School library, under the able direction of Miss Edwards, has developed from a large room with empty shelves, into a beautiful, well-equipped place of educational activity. In addition to nearly 3,000 books, 45 magazine subscriptions, and four newspapers, the library has globes of the world, colored maps, and many audio-visual aids. The latter includes movie and sound projectors, screens, tape recorder, film strips, radio and phonograph combination and record player.

The Virginia Beach High School Band is also growing, with the backing of an active Band Parents Club. It has at this time more than $6,000 worth of equipment. Last year the members of the band won three first places at the Music Festival.

Athletic Department
It would take columns to trace fully the development of the Athletic department of the Virginia Beach High School. Those in charge of athletics have made every effort to provide some type of wholesome athletics for every student. Last fall the football team lost only one game. In addition to football, there is basketball, track, tennis and golf.

There is some form of extra-curricular activity for every student. There are the Student Cooperative Association, Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y, Chorus, and many other activities.

Out of the sixty-one members of the first graduating class, forty-two went to college, and of this number only two have dropped out. The others are doing creditable work, showing that, although Virginia Beach High School has had only two graduating classes, the training and teaching in the school is already helping young people to find their places in the world.

SERENITY IN NATURE'S BEAUTYLAND

The Wildflower Preserve in Princess Anne County, located on a part of a 5,000-acre crown grant to Anthony Lawson in the 17th century, is a natural garden which attracts hundreds each year. They can picnic in the midst of nature's unmolested handiwork. The preserve is a project of the Princess Anne Garden Club.

COX BEACH MARINA KEEPS PACE WITH NATION'S URGE TO "GET ON THE WATER"

Boating all over the United States has grown tremendously during the post-war years, and boating in the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne area has more than kept pace with the nation's average. To take care of the needs of the boating public, Bill Cox, with more than 20 years of boating and yachting experience, in 1952 opened the Cox Beach Marina.

In sheltered water, with fine facilities for both winter and summer storage of boats, Cox Beach Marina quickly became the mecca of water enthusiasts throughout the area. Bill Cox knows boats from stern to stern. He deals in new and used boats, is the only dealer in Princess Anne County for Johnson outboard motors, sells Mobile gas and oil, International Yacht Paints, the finest obtainable, and has a complete stock of water skis for the more adventurous. Bill Cox also sells the Sailfish, a small one design craft, that is extremely popular in this locality.

Bill Cox knows his boats, and for many years has been a staunch advocate of sailboat racing. He was the winner of both National and International sailing championships. He is interested in marathon racing and every phase of water sports.

C. E. Hobeck, Beach's First Plumber, Pioneer Resident, Recalls "When..."

C. E. Hobeck is one citizen of Virginia Beach who can remember when the playground of the Atlantic didn't amount to very much, with dirt streets and a scattering of hotels and cottages along the waterfront. In fact, Mr. Hobeck has the distinction of being Virginia Beach's oldest plumbing contractor, he having bought out a Mr. E. B. White, who operated from his home, in 1921. Mr. Hobeck also at first operated from his home, but in 1925 he opened a place of business at 17th and Arctic. He originally employed four people. However his business continued to expand from year to year and he subsequently moved from his original location to 24th Street and later to 31st Street, where he now employs 17 skilled mechanics and helpers.

A complete stock of plumbing and heating equipment for both residential and commercial use is shown in the more than 3,000 square feet of floor space occupied by the firm. The firm's activities cover Virginia Beach, all of Princess Anne County and the surrounding Tidewater area.

Complete equipment for handling any kind of plumbing and heating job, including welding equipment of every sort, enables Mr. Hobeck to contract work of the most intricate kind.

Before the city secured its own equipment for tapping services on water mains, Mr. Hobeck did this work. He has also done plumbing and heating installations in many of the Beach's leading hotels, including the Trafton-Chalfonte, Albermarle, Avalon, Sinclair, Waverley and other hotels along the beachfront.

Among the larger jobs now being done by Mr. Hobeck are the Consolidated High School in Princess Anne County, the new Bank of Virginia in Portsmouth, and mechanical work for the new fuel oil depot at Little Creek. He has also done much work for the county school system, and is at present working on a steam distribution system for the Oceana Naval Air Station.

Each year has seen a substantial increase in the work done by Mr. Hobeck. Proof of this is demonstrated in the increase in the payroll... from $150 weekly in the nearby days of the firm to a $1,500 weekly payroll today.

Mr. Hobeck is a member of the Norfolk Association of Master Plumbers and Heating Contractors, and has been active in the affairs of the association.

A native of Petersburg, Mr. Hobeck moved to Virginia Beach in 1918. In 1924 he married Gertrude Gensler, of Washington, D. C., and they have three children, Marion, a teacher at Little Creek Elementary School, and twin sons, Edward and David, students at Virginia Beach High School. The family attends the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Hobeck is Past-Master and treasurer of the Virginia Beach Masonic Lodge.

County Rich in Places of Historic Interest and Beauty

Road. Old houses are a source of pride to the people of the county, and we have several standing. Perhaps the most famous is the Adam Thoroughgood House, a place of classic proportions, and a majestic memorial to the craftsmen of three centuries ago. Threatened with extinction in this modern, rapidly expanding day in the life of our community, this house has been saved through the efforts of Norfolk and Princess Anne folks, who believe it should always stand as a reminder of the beauty and grace which is our county's heritage.

Across the river — the Lynnhaven — from the Thoroughgood House, is the Adam Keeling home, which shows little wear from its 300-odd year existence.

Sight-seers "Musts." These houses, and others, were included in the April, 1955, Historic Garden Week Tour. Also included were Sea Breeze Farm, made famous by the Misses Hill, for their fairland of flowers.

Another spot of great beauty which never fails to excite and enchant the visitor, is the Wild Flower Preserve. This is a natural garden on a part of the 5000-acre crown grant to Anthony Lawson, a most important man in the 17th century in the Old Dominion. The preserve is a project of the Princess Anne Garden Club.

BANK OF VIRGINIA BEACH ENJOYS RAPID GROWTH IN PAST TEN YEARS

The Bank of Virginia Beach is home-owned, with all of its officers and directors being prominent people in the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne section.

The bank first opened just 10 years ago in a building at 1802 Atlantic Avenue. From the day the bank first opened it's doors it met a splendid reception at the hands of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County people.

The bank grew and prospered to the point it was necessary to enlarge it's quarters and a new building was constructed for the bank early in 1954 at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue.

Upon the opening of the new main office the bank continued to operate the original location at 1802 Atlantic Avenue as a branch. It also operates a facility at the Naval Air Station, Oceana, which was opened the first of April this year.

The new main office of the institution was formally opened on June 5 of last year and the opening of the new bank was quite impressive, with a large number of people turning out for the affair.

The past year was one of the best in the history of the bank. The following paragraphs quoted from the annual report to the stockholders of the bank shows increase in individual deposits, increase in earnings, and increase in loans and excellent dividends paid for the year 1954.

"CAPITAL FUNDS: During the year 1954, Capital Funds were increased, out of net earnings after Dividends, Reserve for Losses, 1953 tax adjustment and income tax, by $48,744.00. Capital and Surplus remain at $300,000.00; Undivided Profits, however, have increased to $109,319.47. The book value of your stock rose from $23.64 per share on December 31, 1953, to $26.89 per share on December 31, 1954.

"DEPOSITS: Deposits at the year-end amounted to $5,796,934.99, as compared to $6,130,301.89 at the end of 1953. Actually we showed an increase in our regular deposits as there was a decrease of $694,000.00 in public funds on deposit with us at the end of the year.

"EARNINGS: In 1954 your bank had a gross income of $284,814.32 and expenses of $175,554.65, leaving a net gain of $89,259.67 before income taxes and other adjustments. We have allocated this net income as follows: 1953 income tax adjustment, $960.50; reserve for losses, $1,118.93; Federal income tax, $23,436.24; dividends paid in 1954, $15,000.00; and the balance, amounting to $48,744.00, carried to Undivided Profits.

"INVESTMENTS: At the year-end our investments amounted to $2,276,267.18, as follows: $2,061,793.01 in United States Government Bonds and Notes, $674,474.17 in Municipal Securities, $10,000.00 in Corporate Securities, and $100,000.00 in the Bank of Virginia Beach Holding Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary which owns the land and buildings where we operate.

"LOANS: Throughout the past year, there has been a substantial increase in our loans. Our loans increased from $1,847,496.95 on December 31, 1953, to $2,470,946.12 on December 31, 1954, or an increase of $623,449.17. This increase is largely due to our Installment Loan Department which has more than doubled in size during the past year.

"DIVIDENDS: As noted above, your bank earned $4.25 per share during 1954, and your directors declared and paid cash dividends amounting to $15,000.00 or $1.00 per share, it being the regular dividend of 6% plus extra dividends amounting to 4%."

The bank's financial statement as of December 31, 1954, showed assets of $6,275,389.67.

Directors: Sidney Banks, Edward H. Church, Frank W. Cox, John B. Dey, James P. Guzey, Fred A. Haycox, H. A. Holt, Jr., Floyd E. Kellam, Sidney S. Kellam, James G. Kontopoulos, C. W. ## From Scattered Few in 1915, Beach Catholic Church Now Has 2,500 Parishioners During Summer Months

Little did the pioneers of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Norfolk in 1915 imagine that one of its future priests would reside as pastor in the land of the Cavaliers at the far-flung ocean shore less than 125 years later.

For Father Philip P. Brennan bounced on his motorcycle to far-off Virginia Beach in 1915 to attend to the religious needs of the few Catholics who had summer cottages there. At first he said mass in one of the cottages, but soon a fine piece of land was acquired as a gift from Mr. W. Davis in sight of the ocean and the Star of the Sea Catholic Church was born.

Slow was the growth of its membership, but church attendance increased with the popularity of the beach resort at the end of the Norfolk steam trolley. The automobile annihilated distance and more families came all-year residents.

Father Brennan's devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes inspired him and Mr. M. Herndon to build a grotto on the spacious church grounds while the Cashin family of Norfolk also erected the large crucifix as a memorial to Father Joseph Prioli, the first pastor of Father Habets while assistant at St. Andrew's Church in Roanoke from 1919 to 1924.

In 1926 the growth of membership called for a double size of the original chapel and again in 1948 the parish hall was built to take care of the summer season overflow and as a center of parish activity. However, this hall never appealed to the people as a place of worship.

In June, 1950, Father Brennan asked to be transferred to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., and Father Nicholas Habets, former pastor of Our Lady of Victory, Portsmouth, became his successor.

Building Expanded

A church fire in March, 1951, damaged the interior considerably and made large repairs and improvements necessary. In the same time the project of progressive beautification of the church building and grounds began, with the eventual plan of a second addition. The south wing was built in 1952, in architectural harmony with the original, by T. David Fitz-Gibbon, local architect.

With the new liturgical altar, the golden-hued sanctuary, the cathedral lanterns, the antiquing of woodwork and pews, the dramatic sculptured scenes of the Stations of the Cross from old St. Vincent's Hospital Chapel, the replacement and redecoration of statues and the golden symbolic vinyl tile floor now being laid, the Star of the Sea Church is now a thing of beauty and we hope a joy forever.

The constant growth of church population from 25 to 500 residential parishioners with a summer congregation of 2,500 not only brought about the increase of Sundays masses from one to five but also called for the church extension from 400 to over 600 seats, in addition to the modern "crayroom" for mothers and their little ones.

Naturally the facilities for parking also became a "must" and the street parking problem was solved completely in 1954 so that one hundred cars are able to use the extensive church parking lot.

With the improvements in church buildings the beautification of the spacious grounds is keeping step. A rustic extension to the Lourdes grotto, an impressive group of our Lord's grandmother, St. Anne of biblical times adorns the lawn, while on June 27, last year, the Most Rev. Bishop Trettin officiated at the solemn dedication of a statutory group of Our Lady of Fatima on a green knoll, a memorial to their parents donated by Messrs. George Deffoff and Joseph Giannotti of Norfolk. St. Francis of Assisi, the friend of birds and men, stands in a colorful circle of flowers.

All this makes the Star of the Sea a center of attraction, of praise and admiration by visitors and tourists.

The Tudor-styled quaint rectory was enlarged by a modern office and enclosed patio and the preliminary expense was incurred for the newest project of a parochial school by the purchase of the Willett property on Lake Holly as an eventual convent for the teaching sisters when they become available.

At present a goodly number of the children attend Sacred Heart and Catholic High in Norfolk, while the Holy Name and Blessed Virgin societies are sponsoring the youth activities of the parish.

Soon the Star of the Sea Cubes and Boy Scouts will have their own quarters on the church grounds.

It goes without saying that the Star of the Sea Church and rectory have played hosts not only to four diocesan bishops, to movie stars, opera singers, orchestra leaders, United States ambassadors, national Catholic and foreign church leaders, but even a few weeks ago to His Excellency the Most Reverend Amleto Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States of America.

Progress, spiritual and constructive, is the humble motto of the Star of the Sea Church.

St. John's Baptist Began in 1853

A. W. Burfoot was pastor for quite some time with alternate Sundays at Oak Grove. In 1906 Mr. F. Wallington of Richmond College came and served for two years. Others were W. B. Sisk, who stayed for four years; Mr. Barnes, Mr. Phil Petty, Mr. Mapp and Mr. Liles.

In 1943, the Rev. Walter John Meade, pastor at London Bridge, offered his services to the church, which were gladly accepted. And three years ago, under his leadership (he had retired) worship services and Sunday School both were held every Sunday morning.

Membership Growing Since that time, the church membership has grown to well over one hundred, and Sunday School enrollment now stands at more than 125. There are Adult and Young People's Training Unions which meet every Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

In 1952, a new wing consisting of two small rooms and one large room, which is divided into two rooms for classes on Sunday mornings, was built by the men of the church. In 1953 the church was completely renovated, a new roof was installed, the exterior and interior of the building repainted and the floors sanded and finished.

Plans are now being readied for an additional wing, consisting of class rooms, kitchen and lavatories. A gratifying amount was contributed to the Easter Sunday Building Fund collection. It is hoped that in the near future, with a growing membership and building fund, St. John's Baptist Church will be able to start its new building program.

YEAR-ROUND RESORT

Originally only a summer resort, Virginia Beach now enjoys a constant stream of visitors — spring and fall — who enjoy the climate, the entertainment and the folks who make their permanent homes here.

Hotels that formerly closed at the end of the "season" stay open the year around, and the motels have a regular clientele right on through the winter months.

The usually temperate climate enjoyed here is due in part to the proximity of the sea and the Gulf Stream, which passes a few miles to the east, after swinging out toward mid-Atlantic at Hatteras.

PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD

School Enrollment in Princess Anne County Triple That of Ten Years Ago; Still Growing

The problems that have faced school authorities in Princess Anne County in recent years are the same that face many a community in our nation, but on a much larger scale than is usually seen.

The saying that Princess Anne is "Virginia's fastest growing county" is no idle boast, and this very fact has caused the acute problems faced in the recent years and still face county. That these problems are being met, no one can deny for schools and additions to existing facilities have sprung up all over the area, and more are in the planning or actual construction stage.

The problem can perhaps best be stated by the following figures:

Number of Dwelling Units
1960 (Estimated)	27,000
Census of Population
1940	19,282
1950	42,224

The Honorable Floyd E. Kellam, judge of the Princess Anne County Circuit Court, is the busiest jurist in the State of Virginia, according to records released early this year.

With the expected population increase shown in the second table above, which projects a two-thirds increase by 1960 it can be reasonably expected that our school population will increase at a comparable rate, with a foreseeable enrollment in Princess Anne County school of 16,000 to 17,000 five years hence.

Progress Made

John B. Dey, chairman of the Princess Anne County School Board, in a statement issued recently declared that "the school board has received much satisfaction in being able to provide adequate and modern school buildings for the boys and girls of our county. It is apparent that the need for additional buildings will continue as the population increases. The board is determined to meet this continuing need with the assistance of the people of our county."

He continued by saying that "it is the thought of the board that there can be no investment which pays as rich dividends as the investment which we make in the education of the youth of our county." This statement fairly sums up the ideals impelling the school board in their work to show the county's increasing needs for up-to-date educational facilities.

MORE BUILDINGS, ADDED ROOMS ARE BEING PROVIDED TO HANDLE UPSURGE

62 Additional Classrooms by End Of Year Now Under Construction; Two More Schools Also Planned

The earliest of the modern elementary schools in Princess Anne County that is still in use, is the Kempsville School. This building was constructed in 1920 at a cost of $40,000. In 1941 a High School building was added, costing nearly three times the cost of the original building — $110,000.

In the year 1949, to meet the ever increasing needs for facilities in the Kempsville area, a five-room addition, together with the enlargement of the cafeteria, and a gymnasium were added, these costing $225,000. With the needs still pressing, fourteen more classrooms were added in 1952 at a cost of $45,000.

Now housing elementary students only, from the first thru seventh grades, the school has 40 teachers and an enrollment of fourteen hundred pupils.

Credits
The Credits Elementary School was built on Highway 615 between Back Bay and Credits in 1938. The cost was $80,000. Then in 1948 a four-room addition and gymnasium were added, costing $100,000. The facility has an auditorium, a cafeteria, gymnasium library and administrative offices. Now an elementary school exclusively, it housed, until 1954, a high school contingent. The enrollment is 280 students, taught by a seven-member faculty.

Oceana
For many years, the Oceana School was the alma mater of all Virginia Beach high school students. Built in 1929 at a cost of $100,000, the school was enlarged in 1945 at a cost of $120,000 by the addition of ten classrooms and a cafeteria. The facility has an auditorium, cafeteria, library, gymnasium, and administrative offices. In 1954, with the building of the Princess Anne High School at Thalia, the school became exclusively an elementary school. Forty-one teachers handle an enrollment of 1,325 first thru seventh grade students.

Courthouse
The present school at Princess Anne Courthouse was erected in 1931 at a cost of $35,000. Included in the facilities are an auditorium, cafeteria and administrative offices. An enrollment of 315 pupils is taught by nine teachers.

Bayside
The year 1941 saw the construction of the Bayside Elementary School. It is located on Highway 13-Y near Little Creek Ferry and cost $65,000. Five rooms were added in 1949 at a cost of $100,000, and still needing room, ten more were added in 1952, costing $325,000. There are an auditorium, a library, a cafeteria, and administrative offices. Nine hundred and fifty pupils were enrolled last term. The school boasts 25 teachers.

Seatack

Boasting an auditorium library, cafeteria and administrative offices, the Seatack Elementary School was built in 1952 at a cost of $380,000. The school has an enrollment of 860 pupils and is staffed with 18 teachers.

Little Creek

Twenty-seven teachers comprise the staff at the Little Creek Elementary School, which has an enrollment of 995 pupils. The facility is located on Little Creek Road, and has an auditorium, a library, cafeteria and administrative offices. It was built in 1954 at a cost of $475,000.

Princess Anne High School

Partially completed for the fall term in 1954, the Princess Anne High School at Thalia on Route 58, has an auditorium gymnasium, library, cafeteria, shops, business and homemaking departments, music room and other auxiliary spaces. There are 70 teaching stations and will, when completed, house 1,800 students. The construction and equipment cost of $3,500,000, is in part met by a Federal grant of one million dollars.

Other Facilities

Other school facilities in the county include the Shelton Park Training School, the Princess Anne Training School and the Oceana Annex building.

By the end of this year, there will be added 62 additional classrooms.

Now under construction, the Linkhorn Park Elementary School with 20 classrooms; the Seaboard Elementary School with 16 classrooms; the Little Creek Elementary School with 11 more classrooms under construction; the Seatack Elementary School with seven additional rooms being constructed, and the eight room addition to the Courthouse Elementary School.

Plans are also being formulated for two additional 20-classroom elementary buildings to be built in the near future.

PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY HIGH

Located on highway 58 at Thalia, partially completed in September of last year. There are a total of 70 teaching stations and will house 1,800 pupils. Cost when completed will be $3,500,000, and it has auditorium, gymnasium, library, cafeteria, shops, home-making and business departments and a music room.

Twenty-eight years ago, some two years after the birth of this newspaper, W. Russell Hatchett, who heads the real estate and general insurance agency bearing his name, decided to make Virginia Beach his home. At that time and for some ten years after, he was associated with the Philadelphia and Norfolk Steamship Company with offices in Norfolk, and commuted from Virginia Beach daily. From 1938 to 1951 he served in positions both executive and appointive as a public official for the County of Princess Anne and the Town of Virginia Beach.

In 1952, the firm of W. R. Hatchett and Company was established at 20th and Pacific Avenue, for the sale, rental and management of real properties, general insurance, offering coverage, consultation, and surveys by trained field representatives of The Travelers Insurance Company, The Home Insurance Company, and the Newark Insurance Company. Associated in the insurance business and real estate is Claude Turner, formerly of Martinsville, Va., now permanently located at Virginia Beach. Mrs. Blanche Fulford and Clifford Hoier are associates in the sale, rental and management of properties. Mrs. Edith Burroughs is secretary for the company.

It is the desire of all personnel at W. R. Hatchett and Company to be year 'round boosters of our city and county and to lend our best efforts to its growth. To coin a phrase, the company feels they really have the "Forward Look" for this area and its future development.

Flanagan's Paint Store Carries Dupont Line

Flanagan's Paint Store at 503 21st Street, Virginia Beach, features the complete line of DuPont paints, including exterior and interior paints, floor varnishes and all accessories needed by painting contractors or those people who do their own painting. In addition to the DuPont line, the firm does floor sanding and finishing on contract and is at present doing several large jobs of this character in the Beach area.

Its fast, careful methods restore the original beauty to floors at a very moderate cost.

Mr. Flanagan calls the attention of his customers to DuPont's latest paint development — an odorless rainbow custom paint in a range of 372 rainbow custom mixed colors in first quality DuPont interior enamels as well as 227 colors in rubber-base wall paint and 180 colors in house paint.

A new home decorating aid in the form of an album of color display cabinet, makes color scheme selection far easier than ever before, says Mr. Flanagan. He adds that now the home-owner can find matching or harmonizing colors for virtually any drapery, rug or fabric color in the wide range of hues exhibited. The custom color enamels in all sheens — flat, semi-gloss and gloss — are alkyl resin finishes of the odorless variety, the latest type of interior finishes to emerge from DuPont laboratories. Match-colors in all sheens permit painting walls and woodwork the same color, after the popular modern manner.

Mr. Flanagan invites decorators, architects, painters and homeowners to preview the DuPont album of color array at his store and to see the color mixing system in action.

Mr. Flanagan is owner of the business and is very active in its conduct. He was for many years in the painting and decorating business and is a native of Virginia Beach.

He married Harriet Smith of Virginia Beach and they have two children, Edward, Jr., three years of age, and Nancy Ann, eighteen months. Mr. Flanagan is a veteran of World War II and is a member of the American Legion.

Associated with him in the operation of the business is W. M. Milligan, who is a salesman for the store. The firm has customers not only in the Virginia Beach area, but throughout a major part of Princess Anne County.

GLOBE IRON BUSINESS FORCES RAPID EXPANSION

The Globe Iron Construction Company started operation in the year 1923 with a shop in a garage building with five employees doing miscellaneous iron work; today they have a modern electric plant covering 150,000 square feet, employing 175 persons, and performing contracts containing structural steel, architectural iron, plate and non-ferrous metal running into the thousands of tons for single contracts.

Construction of a new office building became necessary due to the expansion of their metal fabrication facilities and the addition of building material lines.

In recent years they have added to their metal fabrication facilities a 400-ton, by 14" press the Resolute Corporation, manufacturers of translucent fiber-brake, a 10' x 5-8" plate shear, a 1-2" x 48" rotary shear, a 10' x 5-8" plate rolls modified to roll beams and channels, a column facer and automatic sawing equipment.

The Globe Iron Construction Company now represents Reynolds Metals Company, in this area and maintains stocks of industrial corrugated aluminum sheets together with all necessary accessories to completely cover farm buildings, industrial buildings and commercial buildings. The Globe Iron Construction Company also represents Reynolds Metals Company for their aluminum acoustical ceilings and the deluxe aluminum metal wall partitions and also curtain wall construction.

They also are distributors for glass in sheets and panels.

Over the past years needs of their many customers indicated the necessity for a complete steel warehousing service in this area, and one year ago they announced to the public the formal opening of their warehouse division. Their warehouse is the most complete facility in the area and is constantly being augmented to maintain the services to continue to meet the needs of the area.

Recently the Globe Iron Construction Company introduced their own GICCO prefabricated aluminum, clear span buildings and have already a very representative number of installations in the area serving such activities as furniture warehousing, paper processing, brick manufacturing, the building supply stores and repair shops.

The management of the Globe Iron Construction Company has indicated their sincere faith in the future of the Tidewater area by their constant expansion and diversification in advance of the actual needs of the area. Their continuous study of the activities and expansion of this area indicates to the extent they will continue to expand and improve their services to do a first-rate job in their lines.

The firm was founded by Sol Mednick, who headed the organization until his death in 1953. The present officers are Mrs. Celia Mednick, president; M. L. Mednick, vice president; Arthur Perogoff, secretary-treasurer.

W. T. Cooke PTA Came Into Being in 1922; Provides Lunches, Sponsors Scouts, Aids Library

The Parent-Teacher Association of W. T. Cooke School came into being in 1922 with Mrs. J. A. Callenback as its first president. Before this time the parents did a good deal of work promoting school facilities but were not organized as such.

In 1904, the first school was started with 30 pupils and their names were two attic rooms in the oldwood Cottage. Laura R. Washington was the principal of this private school. In 1906 the public school became a reality, housed in two rooms over the old and old Princess Anne Golf Club at 14th Street, with Clinton Woodhouse as the first principal. He was followed by Mr. Baker, Mr. Gedick, Mrs. Greenham, Mrs. Sawyer, Miss Mary R. Kellen and Mrs. Emily Parks, the present principal.

The Food Problem
The PTA from the very beginning, had a struggle with the problem of food for the children. The principal's office some times was used in the lunchroom. Each morning all utensils and dishes had to be sterilized before the food could be prepared because the "Fled Piper of Hamelin" had apparently lured all the mice in the neighborhood to the school. Water had to be carried from a pump down on a corner of the grounds.

In 1928 the PTA installed a drinking fountain and the Municipal League another one. Green soup was provided for the children's hands before going into the lunchroom.

Organize Scouts
Around this time the organization sponsored the first Boy Scout movement, and a flag was given the first troop.

Raising money for the lunchroom and for a free lunch fund was a constant thing and during the early years the style was to present an operetta, working mothers, teachers and children to a "frame."

Around 1936 the PTA was financially successful in getting the "Chic Sales" replaced with inside lavatories. Room mothers were organized and music instruction was obtained for the first time. Also an oil stove was purchased to heat soup at the school, where thereafter the 7th grade boys pulled a toy express wagon to school from a home where the soup was made, with a mother walking along side holding the lid to steady the kettle.

In 1938 the "Clare Tree Major" plays were obtained, giving additional culture to the children, and shortly thereafter a motion picture machine was acquired.

$1,500 Raised
During 1940-48, $1,500 was raised by giving a carnival, and the tracks and curtain for the stage of the present auditorium were purchased, with the remaining money being spent for a badly needed refrigerator for the lunchroom, which had been built.

The Town Council was most cooperative and in 1940 gave $1000 for playground equipment that was sorely needed. The PTA at this time bought bicycle racks, instigated the book rental system and procured Federal aid for the lunchroom. A safety program in the north end was inaugurated by the Council. This included a controlled speed limit and policemen following the school buses for additional safety for the children.

In 1951, Miss Mary Kellam, the school principal for 28 years, retired and Mrs. Emily Parks came to the school. The PTA enrollment has increased from 22 in 1928 to 931 in 1956. The pupil enrollment has increased from 54 in 1905 to 905 in 1956.

The School Board replaced the hard-earned stage curtains and refurnished the auditorium, which was damaged by fire in 1953. In 1954 they provided first aid kits for all the classrooms and bought a scale to be used in health examinations. A new eight-room addition was built in 1952.

The PTA with its first man president gave $500 to the school library for the purchase of books. The association has taken over the entire health check-up that was formerly done by the teachers and a dental program has expanded.

Coates Motor Co. Celebrating 9th Year of Chrysler-Plymouth Sales

The Coates Motor Company, Inc., at 21st Street and Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach, Chrysler and Plymouth dealer, is this month celebrating its ninth anniversary. This company had its formal opening on June 7, 1946, and from its inception has had a steady growth. The business was originally established by Hugh Coates, shortly after its opening William G. Thompson, Jr., became associated with Mr. Coates as a partner in the business. Mr. Coates, the founder of the automobile agency, died in January of 1953, and Mr. Thompson subsequently purchased the interest of Mr. Coates from his widow. Mr. Thompson is now president and treasurer of the firm, with Mary C. Thompson, secretary.

Coates Motor Company is regarded as one of the outstanding Chrysler-Plymouth agencies in the eastern part of the state. Its two-story steel and concrete block building, occupying approximately 20,000 square feet, is most functional, and its facilities are modern in every respect. The new car display room is attractive, its used car facilities are adequate in every respect; its shop is equipped with every type of factory equipment for the efficient servicing of cars and its spare parts department is well stocked with parts, accessories and tires. Large areas are available for customer parking and new car storage. Outside motorists use the storage facilities of the agency, including U. S. mail trucks, trucks of the C. & P. Telephone Company and military personnel stationed in the Beach area. A modern used car lot is operated on 17th Street with Howard Morrisette as manager at that location.

Key personnel of the agency include John C. Bradburne as new car sales manager, Anne Robillard, office manager, and Luther S. Mills, service and parts manager.

Continuing its policy of service to Beach and county motorists, the firm, in 1949, constructed a modern Esso Service Station at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue; and this station, under the direction of Danny Hill, has proved most popular in the Beach area. All Standard Oil Company products are featured.

Coates Motor Company is distributor for U. S. Tires. It also operates a complete automobile refinishing and body shop. Proof of the growth of the business is shown in the ever-increasing number of people employed in its operation. As of this month there are more than 25 people, mostly natives of the Beach and county areas on the payroll of the company.

Coates Motor Company is a member of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Automobile Dealers Association, the Automotive Trade Association of Virginia and the Norfolk-Portsmouth Automobile Dealers Association. For the past five years Mr. Thompson has been area chairman of the National Automobile Dealers Association and chairman for Princess Anne County of the State Advisory Committee of the Automotive Association of Virginia.

The Lindsley Oil Company now serves thousands of residents in the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County areas. It owns and operates five modern 1300-gallon tank trucks and leases up to five other trucks to handle the large volume of business done.

The firm serves many residents of Virginia Beach and throughout Princess Anne County. It employs from 10 to 25 persons, according to the season. Lindsley has the finest equipment available and gives prompt round-the-clock service at all times.

Believing that its customers appreciate the best quality fuel oil and petroleum products, the company secured the distributorship for Esso products and has concentrated constantly on that line.

PREMIER MILLWORK PROUD OF PRODUCT

Regardless of how well a home is built, it is the interior trim and exterior trim that really sets it apart from its neighbors. The Premier Millwork and Lumber Company, located on Birdneck Road, is primarily dedicated to the production of fine interior and exterior trim, stairways, window and door frames, screens, kitchen cabinets and special detail work found in fine homes.

Established in 1952 by Paul Gallup, the Premier Millwork and Lumber Company is a progressive and fast-growing industry of the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area. It serves many builders, not only in the Tidewater area, but points as far away as Charlotte, N. C. One of the company's installations of which it is particularly proud is the altar and pulpit for the Fairmount Christian Church.

The spacious plant of the company, occupying over 13,000 square feet, is modern in every detail. Its equipment is new, and its operators are all skilled and proud of their work. Plans are now underway for the expansion of the plant, with the addition of a building to be 55 by 75 feet in size.

Paul Gallup, founder of the business, is a native of Princess Anne County, and he has seen the Virginia Beach area grow by leaps and bounds from an obscure seashore resort to a city of fine homes and hotels, and playground of the Atlantic Coast.

Mr. Gallup is active in the affairs of the Beach area. He is a member of the American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars. He married Hazel Madlin of Wilmington, N. C., and they have two children, Helen Paul and Stephen Anthony Gallup. They attend Galilee Episcopal Church at Virginia Beach.

The PTA provides materials for the teachers to work with, such as library books and playground equipment for each class, which new school already has a well is stored in the class rooms. The equipped audio-visual center in the school with all the teachers trained in this subject.

A good film strip library has been started with about 40 films. The school has a flash camera and other photographic equipment. Each teacher has tape for tape recording for classroom use. The school also utilizes state resources by sending these tapes to the head of the State Bureau of Teaching Materials to have special recordings made on them.

There is a school art center which makes more material available to teachers who have found this to be truly a resource center. The service personnel and facilities in the community have proved enriching experiences for the children. Several class-groups have visited the US NAB at Little Creek, the NOB and have been aboard vessels such as the Aircraft Carrier Valley Forge. The SCA in their World Friendship theme had Roger Ragoet Frenchman from the Norfolk Museum of Arts, to speak at the school.

Classes have also used community resources by visiting such places as Bayville Farms dairy, Norfolk city court, the Capitol at Richmond, the Virginia Truck Experiment Station, and Williamsburg.

The AAA School Safety Patrol is sponsored by the PTA, and ten patrol members went to Washington on May 7 to parade before the National Capitol.

A weekly school newspaper under PTA sponsorship carried messages to the homes about PTA school programs and classroom work, and the PTA hopes to be represented at the Summer Workshop in Williamsburg this month.

A May Day Frolic was held on May 20 on the front lawn of the school with May Pole dances, a five-pointer parade led by the school band followed by the crowning of the King and Queen of Health.

The school goal is to have an opaque projector which will be a valuable audio-visual aid to help in the reading program and in visual perception skills. It will also be valuable in projecting flat pictures, objects, models and specimens. The school plans shortly to fill the shelves in the library.

Thus far, the PTA has bought about 200 books. A librarian is under contract for the coming school year, and a new music teacher will also be engaged.

Shelton Park is looking to an improved physical education program through facilities provided by the school board — more black top play area and more equipment provided through parent interest.

With increased enrollment expected in the coming fall term, Shelton Park is asking for more adequate safety measures for the protection of children coming to and from school, and needs more sidewalks for the protection of walkers in the growing school community.

Epoch Ends as County's Oldest High School At Oceana Graduated Last Senior Class in '54

With the graduation of the class of 1954 at Oceana High School an epoch came to an end in the history of Princess Anne County. On that June night the last of 42 classes was graduated from this, the oldest high school in the county. To those who have lived the years come and go in this area it was with saddened hearts that they realized there would be no more young men and young women to boast of the fact that they are graduates of Oceana.

One of the most outstanding achievements of this and many other communities received their educational start in Oceana High School. It was the first rung on the ladder to success. The old white building now dipping behind the beautiful structure was the house of learning in this area for 26 years. Those days there were seldom more than 200 pupils in the entire school and the classes were crowded. I. E. Youngblood was principal at Oceana and there were but two candidates for diplomas.

Each year the number increased. George Zaun was the next principal, and served until 1917. It was in that year that J. H. Carroll came to Oceana and was principal for several years until he was appointed to the superintendency of the county school system, a position he held until 1928. Other principals who followed Carroll included F. K. Sudth and Henry Simpson, both of whom were pastors of local churches at the time they were school administrators. It was during this period that Oceana became well known in the athletic world. Its track team, as many will remember, held many state and district records. The baseball, basketball and football teams were equally famous. Space limitations forbidding the outstanding athletes who helped put Oceana on the map.

In 1923 K. D. Browning became principal at Oceana and the student body was growing in number. A new growth a need for a new educational plant was so that a new high school was built in 1926-27. It was indeed a wonderful thing for those who were first graduated from its halls, as were many now active in the life of our community. In the center of the building was the auditorium and the gymnasium, the first indoor gymnasium in the county. The front and sides of the building were devoted to the more prosaic classrooms.

Robert J. Johnson became principal of Oceana High School in September of 1936, and had the privilege of graduating the first class from this new building. Only two classes knew the pleasure of this school, for it burned to the ground in 1938.

Immediately the present building was started and the east wing was ready for the 1939 graduating class. In September, 1938, Mr. Johnson was made superintendent of the Princess Anne County schools and Frank W. Cox was made principal at Oceana. In 1933 Mr. Cox became County School Superintendent and R. H. Owen was engaged as principal of the school. Mr. Owen served as principal until 1951, thus serving in that capacity longer than any of his predecessors. It was during Mr. Owen's tenure of office that Oceana saw its greatest student body growth.

With the beginning of the second World War, many defense centers came into the area. With the opening of the Oceana Air Station the population grew by leaps and bounds and is still expanding, with a consequent record enrollment in the school.

In 1945 another wing was added to the school building. Since 1929 the old white building had not been in use except for storage and the lunchroom. In 1948 it had to be put back into service for needed classroom space. At present, five of its rooms are used for instruction.

With the completion of the new Princess Anne High School at Thalia, the history of grand old Oceana High School came to an end as far as graduation classes are concerned. Its glory and memories will, however, live on in the hearts of many who taught and were taught within its halls.

planning on the part of the school board the board of supervisors, and the people of the county. To say that the school and fiscal authorities, with the fine cooperation of the people, have met a difficult problem well is a mild statement of the facts. During the five year period the county has voted an obligation of $5,000,000 for additional school facilities. There is every reason to be proud

Golden Dragon Restaurant Is Popular Eatery

One of the most popular dining spots at Virginia Beach is the Golden Dragon Restaurant at 2810 Atlantic Avenue. Specializing in authentic Cantonese style cooking and family dinners of 4 to 5 courses, along with American dishes, the Golden Dragon can seat over 100 persons in the main dining room. In addition a new private dining room offers facilities for 40 diners, and is often used for small parties, banquets and special gatherings.

The Golden Dragon Restaurant is open daily from 8 a. m. to 2:30 a. m., and meals are served all through the day, including breakfast and complete luncheon service.

Chinese gifts and curios are offered and the restaurant has exclusive distributorship for the popular Ming Trees by Exotic China Products.

The restaurant has been in business at Virginia Beach since 1949, when it first opened on 17th Street. In 1952 it moved to its present location on Atlantic Avenue, near 28th Street, with ample parking spaces for guests. Stephen Yee is the sole owner of the restaurant, while he employs an average of 16 persons.

of this accomplishment."

The vast influx of service personnel in the county has added greatly to the school problem. The county is proud of such personnel, and is determined that the very finest educational facilities possible be afforded their children. In recognition of the greatly increased plant and operating expense caring for the children of families who have service connections, the Federal government pays a portion of the cost for building school plants in this and other similarly situated areas. As an example of the cost sharing by the Federal Government, approximately $1,000,000 of such funds went into the payment of the $3,500,000 Princess Anne County High School now being completed at Thalia.

NIXON ELECTRIC HANDLES ALL TYPES WORK

John E. Nixon, Jr., proprietor of Nixon Electric, at 606 17th Street at Virginia Beach, started his electrical training when he was only 16 years old. In the early part of World War II, Mr. Nixon followed the electrical trade as an electrician's mate. He attended two specialists' schools in the Coast Guard on electricity.

Upon his honorable discharge from the Coast Guard in 1945, he started his own business at Oceana. His business at that place showed rapid growth in its early years and in 1951 Mr. Nixon moved to his present location at Virginia Beach.

Mr. Nixon is a native of Norfolk, receiving his early schooling in that city. At the age of 13 his family moved to Virginia Beach and he has lived at the Beach, at Oceana and in London Bridge since that time. Mr. Nixon married Rhea Lee Hogshead of Harrisonburg and the Nixons have one son, now eight years old.

Nixon Electric is equipped to do any kind of electrical work. The firm has been the electrical contractor on a large number of home and commercial building projects throughout the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County area. We take this means to salute these people of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach, to call attention of all the people of the community to their steady and hard work in behalf of us all, and to express our confidence in the future which they are building for us. ## HISTORY OF GALILEE CHURCH BEGAN IN 1887; NEW EDIFICE BEING PLANNED

By Bertha H. Robinson

The history of Galilee Church goes back to the summer of 1887 when three men sitting on the porch of the old Princess Anne Hotel decided to build summer residences at Virginia Beach. These men were Barton Myers, Sr., Robert M. Hughes, Sr., and Frederick S. Taylor, Sr. They interested others, among them the Rt. Rev. Beverly D. Tucker, then rector of St. Paul's, Norfolk.

Prior to this time Mr. Tucker had been holding services at his summer cottage for his family and friends, but now the need for a place of divine worship arose and eventually the lot on which the present church stands was purchased for the sum of $500, and on it a "Union Chapel" was built, the deed specifying that it was for the free use of all denominations.

Services were held regularly during the summer months by visiting clergymen, usually Episcopalians, there being one notable exception, the Rev. E. L. Powell, of the Christian Church. Among the Episcopal rectors was the Rev. Churchill Gibson, of Petersburg, grandfather of the Rev. Churchill Gibson, rector of St. James' Church, Richmond. Mr. Gibson also held services for the colored servants on Sunday afternoons.

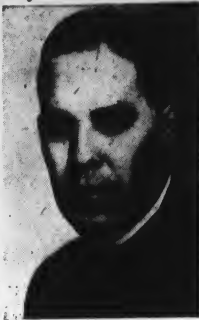

There was no organ nor choir, but a small melodeon was donated and volunteer organists and singers, many of them summer visitors, led the singing.

That the provisions of the deed were carried out is evidenced by the fact that the building was used at an early hour on Sunday mornings by the Roman Catholics, at 11 o'clock by the Episcopalians, in the afternoon by the Baptists, and at night by the Methodists. Later it was also used by the Presbyterians.

The first permanent Episcopal supply rector was the Rev. W. V. Savage, of Eastern Shore Chapel, Oceana, and the organist was Mrs. B. P. Holland, Sr., then Emily Gregory.

The first permanent rector of Galilee Church was the Rev. Edward Patton Miner, who served faithfully for more than 25 years. In 1923 Mr. Miner closed his pastorate here and was followed by the Rev. John F. Millbank, an Englishman, from Williamson, fall of 1926 the cornerstone for the present building was laid with Masonic rites, Mr. Barton Myers, Sr., reading a history of the church. The chapel was moved to the rear of the lot and is now known as Tucker Hall, being used for the Nursery Department on Sundays, and by various organizations during the week. The new church was consecrated on April 14, 1940, by the Rt. Rev. William A. Brown, then Bishop of the Diocese of Southern Virginia. Permission was given to call the new edifice Galilee Episcopal Church, the Beverly Dandridge Tucker Memorial. At the inside entrance is a bronze tablet bearing these words:

"This building is erected in loving recognition of the services and Godly leadership of our beloved Bishop, The Rt. Rev. Beverly Dandridge Tucker, D.D., L.L.D., 1926."

Complementing it on the other side of the door is a large framed photograph of Bishop Tucker.

Through the years the growth of Galilee has been steady, each rector contributing thereto. At the present time, the Church School enrollment is 407, with a weekly attendance of over 250. Several years ago, The Haven, a summer cottage next door to the church, was purchased for use as a Parish House, where the Church School is held. The church itself is inadequate to hold the congregations, and The Haven is too small for the Church School, and is, also, badly in need of repairs. The original chapel is likewise giving way under the stress of time. In fact, all of the church facilities are too small and in most cases outmoded. There is seldom a day that some sort of meeting is not being held in either Tucker Hall or The Haven, and some of the organizations have had to seek other quarters for their meetings. The congregation is, therefore, faced with the necessity of building a new plant. A short time ago the vestry purchased a lot on 40th Street, and a highly successful campaign to raise the money for a new building to be erected on this lot has just been concluded.

Religious Yearnings Find Answer In City and County Churches

New residents and summer visitors alike will find the church of their denomination in both city and county, in the vast majority of cases.

Due to the increased interest in religion in recent years, added to the great influx of worshippers due to population increases, the churches, both city and county, have been embarking on expansion programs . . . and some are considering further expansion after completing new sanctuaries in recent years.

Many of the churches in Virginia Beach are solving the overflow congregations of worshippers during the "season" by holding duplicate Sunday morning worship services, and some are also holding duplicate Church School classes in some departments.

The Sun-News each week carries a complete listing of all worship services, along with an inspiring message on its Church Page, and on an adjoining page is found a down-to-earth short sermon under the heading "Everyday Religion," written especially for the paper by the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. Also to be found on that page is an interesting feature written by the Rev. E. K. Emurian, of Portsmouth, called "Hymn of the Week," in which he gives the inspirational background and a brief biography of the authors of our best-known and loved Christian hymns.

The ministers of the churches in both city and county are true to their calling, being willing and able to minister to the needs of individuals, families and the community in general, and giving unselfishly of their time, their efforts, their prayers and counsel to all who call upon them.

You will find a warm welcome awaiting your visit to any service of any denomination you choose in either city or county church.

Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill, One of Organizers, Retires as President; Had Served Since Inception

Mrs. C. F. Greene Elected to Head Organization

By Julia Old

It is very appropriate that the Princess Anne Garden Club should share in celebrating this 30th anniversary of the Virginia Beach Sun-News, since this year marks also for the club the end of a remarkable epoch in its own history.

The Princess Anne Garden Club was formed at "Seabreeze Farm" in February, 1912, under the direction of the Misses Hill. Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill was chosen the first president and each succeeding year she has been unanimously re-elected. This year, to the sincere regret of all the members, Miss Hill has retired from the office which she filled so faithfully and so successfully.

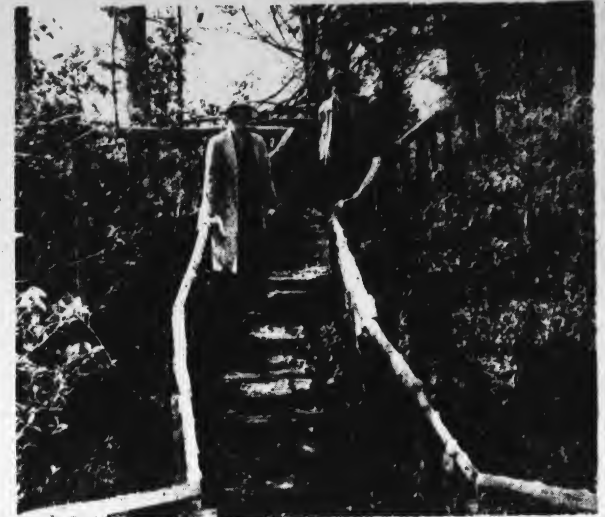

The objectives of the Princess Anne Garden Club were, and are now, to stimulate and encourage the love of gardening among amateurs; to aid in the protection of native flora and birds; to promote roadside beautification and to preserve historic shrines.

In May, 1932, when the club was only three months old, the National Conference on State Parks meeting here in reference to establishing Seashore State Park, was entertained at Sea Breeze Farm. It was the first club to join the Seashore State Park organization.

The Princess Anne Garden Club held the first Rose Show in Tidewater Virginia, and since then, a rose show has been their annual Spring event, except a few times when conditions beyond their control have prevented.

Many noted specialists of the horticultural world have been guest speakers for the club. To name a few, there have been Mrs. Frederick Love Keays, author of "Old Roses," and a noted collector and grower of old roses; Dr. J. A. Nicholas, a rose authority and author; Dr. J. A. Gamble, chairman of the committee of the for the National Rose Garden; Richardson Wright, former editor of "House and Garden"; Dr. Robert Cushman Murphy, curator of birds of the American Museum of Natural History; Dr. Arthur A. Allen, ornithologist, Cornell University; Gordon Dunthorne, renowned author and artist of flowers and birds; and for arrangements the club has had Virginia Sholtz, Esther Wheeler and Claire Stickle, nationally known authors and artists.

Miss Evelyn Collins Hill Writes on Horticulture

Miss Evelyn Collins Hill, a recognized authority on horticulture and conservation, was for a long period Conservation chairman, visiting county schools, offering prizes individually and from the club for conservation work; she had numerous articles published in Norfolk and Virginia Beach papers at seasonable times urging conservation of native trees, wild flowers and shrubs, and telling how to protect them. Her articles on horticulture have been published in numerous magazines.

Mrs. B. D. White was first chairman of Restoration and has held that chairmanship for many years. One of the outstanding accomplishments of her committee has been the preservation of old and historic tombs of county families and having stones moved from cultivated fields to church yards.

Miss Grace Keeler and her committee were first in the county in interesting the State Highway Department in erecting markers (Continued on Page Four)

Ocean Park Woman's Club Founded in 1944; Work with Youth is Among Objectives

The Ocean Park Woman's Club began on the afternoon of October 11, 1944. Seventeen women met and formed the club, and Mrs. Catherine McWilliams was the organization's first president.

The club sponsored a group of Girl Scouts, worked with the Red Cross organization in distributing Christmas boxes to service hospitals and gave donations to hospitals for vocational therapy.

Mrs. R. S. Bugge was the next president. The main event of the year was the bingo party and bazaar. Plants were donated and distributed among residents of the area for beautification.

In the third year, the Ocean Park Woman's Club had grown in size, membership and in fellowship with the community. The meeting place was changed to the Club Room of the Fire Department, and during the year a piano, smoking stands, curtains and combs for windows, plates, tableware for the kitchen and Bibles to be used by the group in Week Day Religious Education were furnished. Contributions were made to the Fire Department of Ocean Park and to the Red Cross, March of Dimes, Welfare and Chesapeake Beach Fire Department.

During this year shrubs were presented to the club. The Girl Scouts became affiliated with the Tidewater Council of Girl Scouts of Norfolk and the club became a member of the Virginia Conference of Social Work. The club ended the year with 60 members.

In 1947-48 Mrs. G. C. Lyon was president. The club continued its usual activities and also sponsored the TB mobile x-ray unit. Parties were held for the children and a playground on the Club House grounds was begun. The Garden Group obtained highway markers and sponsored a garden tour. A new group began its activities in 1948. The Fine Arts

The other groups presented encouraging plans as evidenced by the Home Group sending boxes each month to a Baptist missionary in Japan and the Garden Group planting trees on the playground.

Mrs. J. C. Wood, Sr., was adopted as "Club Mother" — being the oldest charter member. Mrs. C. L. Stened became the next president. The club donated $60 to the Bay-side School PTA for playground equipment. A new project was begun with Mrs. Hugh Jones as chairman, the Ocean Park Aid Center. Its purpose is to have articles needed by sick persons on hand for lending in emergencies.

The following year, two swimmers were added to the playground equipment and the club donated $25 towards the purchase of an ambulance and voted to care for the linens and to operate the ambulance during the day.

Mrs. D. B. Hill became the club president in 1951. The club stressed youth in all its activities. The club entered the Federation contest, "Build Freedom With Youth," and began constructing a two-story court. A very successful year party and bazaar was held.

During 1952 the Welfare Department was most outstanding. Members of this department worked with the Red Cross Bloodmobile and helped address and fold TB Seal mailings. They wrapped gifts at Christmas time and sent boxes of books to the American Red Cross. The club voted to sponsor a drive to acquaint all the clubs, civic leagues and churches of the need for a municipal center. The center would include a house for the aged, a TB ward, a day home, foster home, facilities for aid to the handicapped, a ward for bed patients and a mental hygiene clinic. F. O. Jarvis & Son
Began in 1919

The firm of F. O. Jarvis and Son is one of the oldest in the Tidewater area, having been established in Norfolk in 1919. Originally the firm devoted its activities exclusively to the plumbing and heating contracting business, but five years ago it branched out into the hardware and plumbing supply business and its present location is at Thomas Corner, on the Virginia Beach Boulevard.

The firm has a large volume of business not only in the city of Norfolk, but throughout Princess Anne County, Virginia Beach and the Norfolk County section of Tidewater Virginia.

The firm has established an excellent reputation in the community. It firmly believes that it is the best policy to tell the public and its customers the complete truth regardless of what it may cost in the way of lost business.

F. O. Jarvis, Jr., is associated in the operation of the business with his father, and both father and son are well versed in the requirements in both plumbing installations and hardware, both having had many years experience along these lines.

In addition to the firm's activities as plumbing and heating contractors, a complete stock of hardware, paints, oils and glass is offered customers of the firm, and prompt delivery service is maintained throughout the Tidewater area.

Camp Furniture Expands; Opens
Modern Homewares Spot at Hilltop

Camp Furniture Company, Inc., has recently expanded its operation to include a new modern store at Hilltop in Oceana. Miss M. F. Camp, president of the corporation, stated this week that the reception of this new store has been more than satisfactory, exceeding the expectations of the people involved in the venture.

Camp opened his first Virginia Beach store in March, 1951, in the only building available to him at that time. His original plan, which has been carried forward into the Hilltop store, was to offer home furnishings at a price as reasonable as Norfolk prices, and, where possible, at a lower price. Both of the stores have a policy of customer satisfaction that is unparalleled in modern merchandising. Not only is the customer always right, but the merchandise sold to the customer must always be right. The word "guarantee" to this firm means what the dictionary says it means.

Quality lines of home furnishings are offered at the Camp stores; Heywood-Wakefield, Ethan Allen, Birchcraft, Western Carolina, Traditional (Kroehler, Unagusta, Simmons, Lightoller, Thayer, Dallas, Colony Court, Esra Storm and Wunda Weve are a few of the well-recognized brand names of merchandise stocked in Portsmouth. He and his wife, the former Emily Busby, have moved to Virginia Beach, and now reside at 7300 Atlantic Avenue. The firm at present consists of 12 employees, additional people being employed as the business expands.

Camp and his associates are highly optimistic about the future of the new Hilltop store. They envision that a tremendous trading area will develop at Hilltop in a few short years.

Asked about the future of the 17th Street store, Camp said, "We have just signed a new three-year lease on this property. It has been successful since the first day its doors were opened. Under the able management of E. K. Walsh this store is proving its worth. Its future, as its past, is assured."

Virginia Beach Florists, Managed Marks & Brothers, Grows Rapidly

Curtis F. Marks and Jack Brothers, owners and operators of Virginia Beach Florist, at 204 23rd Street, Virginia Beach, are both graduates of VPI, where they majored in horticulture and agriculture, giving them a most scientific background of the operation of their business.

Established in 1951, the business of the floral company has shown a steady growth from year to year. The shop is most attractive, and a complete line of cut flowers and potted plants is offered residents of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

Two trucks are operated by the company, and deliveries are made to funerals, hospitals and homes throughout the Beach area and to points in Norfolk and Portsmouth. The company specializes in funeral designs, flowers for weddings and parties, corsages, as well as flowers for home decoration. Both members of the firm are skilled designers and have created many beautiful and artistic arrangements.

Plans are now being developed for the building of a larger flower shop and greenhouses in keeping with the growth of the company. The partners feel that Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County will continue to grow at a rapid pace for many years to come, and they plan to have their business advance with the growth of the area which it serves.

Both Mr. Marks and Mr. Brothers are natives of Norfolk County, and they are both active in the civic and social life of the Virginia Beach area.

natives of the Princess Anne area and attend the Virginia Beach Methodist Church. They have one son, B. Creamer, who attends the Virginia Beach High School.

The policy of Virginia Beach Hardware of courteous service to its customers, plus the fact that the firm makes every effort to have its stocks complete in every particular, has won for the firm a host of friends, and this in turn has resulted in a steady, helpful growth of the business with the passing years.

Mr. Ricks is an ardent booster for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. He feels strongly that the area is full of opportunity and future growth, and that the surface has barely been scratched in this area.

Mrs. J. S. Neidlinger became the next president of the group. The Welfare Department again was outstanding and sick room supplies from the Aid Center were loaned to several families. A box of toys and clothing was sent to Greece. The TB x-ray mobile unit was again sponsored.

Mrs. R. G. Holloman is present president of the club, and was recently re-elected to serve next year. Programs were held each month by the department chairmen. The Girl Scouts, under the leadership of Mrs. G. C. Lyon, have shown tremendous growth, and from a start of 16 girls there are now 33 in the troop. The organization is the largest troop in the Bayshore area, with an assistant leader, leader and two mothers on call.

The park, which the club had acquired, was cleared off for a tennis court and a skating rink and benches have been added, along with a fireplace.

The club this year entered the Community Achievement contest and chosen as its project "Recreation to Build a Brighter, Cleaner, Safer, Healthier and Happier Community for your Youth" designating historic spots and old road names.

From the enjoyable culture of flower gardens and decorative plants the club turned with as much enthusiasm during the war years to cultivating Victory Gardens. Among the war activities were the sale of war bonds, the distribution of flowers and the Christmas decoration at Fort Story USO, and Red work. For their war work and bond sales among members, the club received several citations and awards.

Thousands of trees have been planted, a school ground beautified, billboards curtailed and property adjacent to highways improved in appearance due to the work of the Beautification committee.

The Wildflower Preserve on Lake Lawson is now maintained exclusively by the club and contains a fine collection of native flora, listed and tagged with scientific and common names. Strawberry Farm devotes sixty acres to a bird and wild life sanctuary. Two of the members have made a large collection of wild flowers; one conducts a group in Nature Study at the Virginia Beach High School and has received awards from the Garden Club of Virginia for her work. Another member specialized in photography of birds.

Miss Evelyn Collins Hill's achievements in the horticultural field have been nationally recognized and she has been honored in England by being made a Fellow of the Royal Horticulture Society. Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill has been for four terms, first vice-president of the American Rock Garden Society. Dr. Foreman T. McLea, a noted horticulturist and member of the club, is well known for his work.

Through the years a considerable amount has been contributed to the Garden Club of Virginia for their Restoration Fund, by annually opening historic houses and gardens.

The club held the annual Rose Show for the Garden Club of Virginia in 1946 and was hostess for the annual meeting of the Garden Club of Virginia in 1947, both at the Cavalier Hotel.

The American Camellia Society was honored by a reception at Strawberry Farm in 1953, and in 1954 the New York Horticultural Society was entertained there.

Through twenty-three years the club has promoted horticulture, conservation, beautification and restoration in Princess Anne County and the State of Virginia.

Under the administration of Mrs. Charles Frank Greene, the club is looking forward to continued years of ever-increasing constructive service.

Price's Block Works, located near Lancaster, Pa., prior to opening his present business in 1947.

The company manufactures concrete blocks of various sizes, rock face, also stone face and manufactures bar tile roofing. It supplies these materials to contractors throughout Princess Anne County as well as parts of Norfolk and Nansemond Counties.

Four people in addition to Mr. Price are engaged in the operation of the business which has shown a constant growth from year to year.

THE DONKEY AND THE THISTLES

He was hungry all right, but not for any of the food he was packing out to the field hands for lunch. That didn't tempt him a bit.

Then he spotted some delightful looking thistles. No donkey could pass them up, of course, so he sat down and munched happily away. Which was the way Aesop said that one man's meat is, indeed, another man's poison.

And in this business of investing, that's a point well taken.

Some people should stick to stocks that are comparatively safe — stocks that don't fluctuate too widely in price and have an unbroken history of dividend payments.

Others can afford greater risk for the sake of a greater return on their money.

Some people should select stocks on the basis of their prospects for price appreciation over the years ahead regardless of present yield.

And of course, there are others who, quite frankly, shouldn't buy stocks at all, who should take care of a home, insurance, and a fund for emergencies, first.

What should you do in your own situation? Which stocks should you buy?

We'll be happy to prepare the most suitable program we can to fit your funds, your objectives.

There's no charge of course. No obligation, either. Simply write to —

CLUB FORMED IN 1950; YOUTH WORK SPECIALTY

The Kempsville Woman's Club had its beginning in December of 1950, when a group of ten ladies residing in the Kempsville area met to form a club for the betterment and progress of the civic life of the community.

A second meeting brought out twenty interested ladies and an agreement to affiliate with the Federation of Women's Clubs.

In May the club was granted a charter, with 66 members, and the first officers were installed. Mrs. W. Roy Parsons was the first president.

The preliminaries of the organization being completed, a means was needed whereby to begin the undertaking of several civic projects. A horse show was decided upon and was successfully carried out.

This past year marked the 4th successful Horse Show.

With the funds that have been raised by this means, the Kempsville Woman's Club has participated in all community drives and in Federation activities. An annual scholarship has been presented to a deserving senior in the Kempsville High School and more recently to a senior from the area who attends the Princess Anne High School.

The club sent a boy to a speech camp for two summer periods. It has sponsored Girl Scout and Brownie troops and presented camperships. A dental clinic was completely set up in the Kempsville School and an x-ray machine given to the Grandy Sanatorium.

The club aided in securing a post office in Kempsville and are sponsors of the Cavalier Junior Woman's Club.

The above are some of the high spots in the life of the club. The group feels very proud of its accomplishments, and yet, a spokesman declares, very humble, that the members could play a small part in the development of such a fast-growing, progressive area. Kempsville is rich in history and the club is happy to make some contribution to its betterment.

Following the presidency of Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Swindell Pollock stepped into that office. Mrs. Robert Wasdon was the third president but resigned due to her acceptance of a teaching position at the Oceana School. Mrs. Lyman Clarke completed Mrs. Wasdon's term of office and has just recently been elected as the present president of the club.

To mention a few others: the newly constructed residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fielding F. Jeter at 48th and Oceanfront, the Rose's 5 and 10 cent store on 31st Street, and the Earl C. Van Buskirk residence on the Linkhorn Bay in Bay Colony. His residence located in Bay Colony is among the nicer homes in Princess Anne County.

the high standard of construction the people of Princess Anne County in the best and most desirable manner possible.

FORT STORY, ONLY AMPHIB TRAINING CENTER IN U. S., DEVELOPS WITH AREA

The growth of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County has been attended by corresponding development and change inside the gates of Fort Story. No record of our community's progress would be complete without a salute to the Cape Henry Army post which is 39 years old this month.

Older residents of this area can easily remember when Fort Story bristled with heavy armament.

Established as a Coast Artillery installation to guard the southern entrance to Chesapeake Bay, it had the most lethal cannon power of any fort on the Atlantic coast. But today the batteries of six-inch guns, the 16-inch rifles and howitzers, are obsolete weapons, long since dismantled and cut up for scrap.

Without interruption, however, Fort Story's communal links with Virginia Beach have been firm and friendly. Successive commanding officers of the post have affirmed and reaffirmed a policy of courteous, helpful relations with the municipal leaders. As they depart for reassignment to other military stations, Virginia Beach has grown accustomed to the fact that it loses one loyal friend only to gain another.

Has Indispensable Role

In Economic Life of City
In the city's seasonal economic life Fort Story plays an indispensable role. When the year's last beach towel or souvenir is sold, when the last empty bottle of suntan lotion bobs on the surf off one of the bathing piers, when the shutters are secured on the hotels and tourist homes along Atlantic Avenue, the importance of the Cape Henry Army post to the business well-being of Virginia Beach is a pulsing reality to every merchant and businessman.

"Transient" is no accurate tag for the officer or enlisted man at Fort Story. He is more likely to be a home-owner and taxpayer—at any rate a prospective resident who, returning to civilian life, will enrich the community with his experience in public service. But long before he retires from active duty, the career soldier familiar to our community has become an amiable fixture on the local scene. He rents a house or apartment for his family on a year-long basis — a fact that for the property owner may spell the difference between annual profit or loss. This same soldier patronizes the city's stores when the last vacationist has packed up; he does business with our banks, he attends our churches. And he has been with us and part of us, in varying numbers, since World War I days.

PERSONNEL ASSET TO CITY AND COUNTY YEAR ROUND

Former Coast Artillery Post Established 39 Years Ago; Big Guns Dominated Bay

Only Amphibious Training Center in Nation

That is Fort Story — the miles of coast rounding the tip of the Cape. It has given not only our city and county, but the nation as well, decades of valued service. Maj. Gen. John Patten Story, the Army's Chief of Artillery in the early days of this century, could take pride in giving his name to the post.

Many people may not know that Fort Story today, as a major unit of the Transportation Training Command with headquarters at Fort Eustis, is actually the Army's only amphibious training center in the country. The trim, durable DUKWs that meet the motorist's eye just inside the east and west gates of the fort are sturdy symbols of the day-to-day military activity conducted there.

If war came tomorrow, such Army organizations as Fort Story's 5th Transportation Terminal Command "B" would be rushed into logistical support of America's fighting forces. No amphibious operation by our troops anywhere in the world could dispense with the DUKWs and their trained, resourceful crews whose job would be to keep a steady stream of cargo flowing from ships offshore to beachheads and inland supply dumps.

Constant Cycles of Training

In preparation for just such an eventuality, the Fort Story command conducts constant cycles of amphibious training. Raw youngsters, many of them fresh from the farm and new to Army ways, become adept at handling their versatile water-going trucks in all kinds of weather. The training is rigorous, thorough, but it has been planned to give the Transportation Corps a reservoir of skilled salt-water soldiers who take pride in their rugged work. And the plan has paid rich dividends. Thousands of these husky, self-reliant TC men at Army installations all over the world, men who reminisce about Atlantic Avenue and the Cavalier, who talk about Virginia Beach as if they were remembering their own home towns.

Deagle in Command

For the past year the officer responsible for executing this plan has been Col. Edwin A. Deagle, well-known and admired in the Virginia Beach community. Under his guidance Fort Story has acquired a brisk operating efficiency and military snap. New units have been activated, and the older ones have developed the esprit de corps that is indispensable to any healthy military group. The energy and organizational ability which Colonel Deagle has contributed to the work of local civic bodies in matters affecting the general community welfare have won for him respect. When an officer and a gentleman of his caliber represents an Army post in relations with the local community, the feeling between civilians and the military could not be other than cordial.

Colonel Deagle is not unique in this respect. The key officers of his command all share his good sense and civic spirit. To mention only a few, we think of Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward, the deputy terminal commander; Lieutenant Colonel John W. Daly, deputy post commander; Lieutenant Colonel James F. Wolaver, commanding the 10th Transportation Battalion, and Maj. Carl D. Reed, commanding the 376th Transportation Battalion. These and other officers are sincerely devoted to the welfare of the troops at Fort Story. They are men of experience and integrity.

Fort Has Changed With Times
To look back at the post's varied history is to realize anew how it has served the changing times. Even before its Coast Artillery mission expired, it became the site of the Convalescent Hospital which the Army established in September, 1944. Thousands of soldiers from the battle fronts of World War II were nursed back to health before this hospital was closed in March, 1946.

Since that year Fort Story has been identified with the Transportation Corps which officially acquired the installation in July, 1948. In the years that have gone by since then, the DUKW has become almost as familiar a sight to Virginia Beach and Cape Henry as an ordinary Army truck. Less often encountered, because of its tremendous size, is the 98-ton BARC, the giant experimental amphibious carrier. The four huge vehicles built to date are all based at Fort Story, and soon the first of twelve more is scheduled to arrive.

The fort today bustles with activity. Not far from its east gate the Navy maintains a Harbor Entrance Control Post. A Nike guided missile installation is manned and operated by the 3d Antiaircraft Artillery Group. The U.S. Treasury Department truns the Cape Henry Light, and only a short distance from this local landmark is a U.S. Government Weather Station.

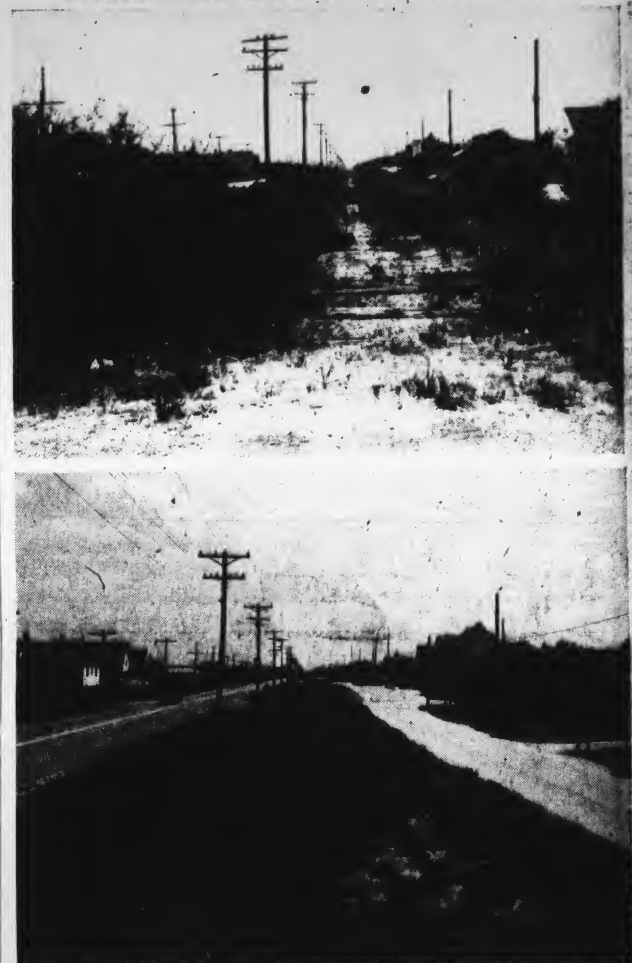

The community has another reason to be gratified by the presence of this Army post. Fort Story's soldiers and their families make up a year-round market for Virginia Beach merchants, but the post is also an employer whose non-military payroll helps to keep the area prosperous. About 400 civilians work side by side with the soldiers of Colonel Deagle's command. For them Fort Story is a livelihood.

One thing is certain: Virginia Beach and Fort Story together furnish a brilliantly successful example of friendly cooperation and mutual goodwill.

If the Jamestown colonists landed on Cape Henry today, they would probably never go on to establish their settlement elsewhere. But if they insisted on so doing, Colonel Deagle undoubtedly would put his DUKWs and his BARCs at their disposal — in the best tradition of the Army Transportation Corps.

FROM RIGHT-OF-WAY TO PARKWAY

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County has made much progress in beautification since it was organized on July 31, 1950.

On April 5, 1950, the Virginia Beach Garden Club, of which Mrs. Floyd Dormire was president, called a meeting of the executive boards of all garden clubs in the area to hear Mrs. Wright, of MacClesfield, N. C., tell of the clean-up campaign conducted in her home town, an accomplishment so spectacular that the town was awarded the sweepstakes prize in a contest conducted by "Better Homes and Gardens." The group — so inspired by Mrs. Wright's account — formed a temporary Council of Garden Clubs, consisting of garden club presidents. A clean-up campaign of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County was undertaken. Trucks were secured from the Board of Supervisors and the Town of Virginia Beach to collect trash and clean up vacant lots, under the direction of garden club members. The results were so pleasing that the permanent Council of Garden Clubs was organized on July 31, 1950, and the charter member clubs were: Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County, Bay Colony, Cavalier, Linkhorn Park, Birdneck Point, Camellia and Evergreen Garden Clubs. Mrs. Floyd Dormire was elected chairman for a term of one year, Mrs. George T. Mullen, vice-chairman, Mrs. Rudolph Watson, recording secretary, Mrs. Hush Lindsay, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. C. W. Emanuelson, treasurer.

Inherit $917.56

From a fashion show given by the temporary Council of Garden Clubs on June 30, 1950, at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club the sum of $917.56 was inherited.

Later on, during the same year, the Council gave prizes to contestants in a beautification campaign in an effort to stimulate enthusiasm and competition in a county-wide beautification program. Following this contest, together with the clean-up drive, the Council felt it was on the right track toward its goal. Garbage and trash collections were secured for Seatack, Atlantic Park and the Great Neck sections. A letter was written to General Anderson, head of the State Highway Department, suggesting use of the abandoned right-of-way of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad. The Council appropriated $100 to the Evergreen and Camellia Garden Clubs for the purpose of beautifying the Seatack Community Center. The ocean end of 31st Street, which at the time was being used for commercial purposes, was beautified.

Main Beautification Project

The phrase "Never underestimate the power of a woman . . . or women" was never better exemplified than by the pictures above, which (top) shows what the old Norfolk Southern right-of-way looked like after the tracks were taken up, and (bottom) the Atlantic Parkway, product of the inspiration, aspirations, determination and perspiration of the ladies comprising the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. Called "the world's largest beautification project," the area covers 42 city blocks, from the northern end of the Cavalier Club to the East Gate of Fort Story.

Oak Grove Baptist Church in Norfolk Area; Organized in 1762, Was First Called Pungo Baptist

THIRD OLDEST IN OLD DOMINION; FORMED BY MEMBERS OF SHILOH CHURCH; FIRST BUILDING BURNED

Oak Grove Baptist Church, the oldest Baptist church in the Norfolk area, and the third oldest Baptist church in Virginia, now organized in 1762, and was first called Pungo Baptist Church, with a building about 400 yards south of the present building. This church was organized when 45 members of the Shilo Baptist Church in Virginia, now a part of North Carolina) took their letters and started the Pungo Baptist Church, which name is derived from the Pungo Ridge on which it was built. About 45 years later the church and all records were burned.

The first Baptist came to Virginia in 1714-1740 and settled in these parts, according to Simple's History of Virginia Baptist, thus making Oak Grove one of the earliest Baptist churches organized.

Shilo Baptist Church, which is the mother church, was then one of the oldest in Virginia, (now North Carolina) being organized in 1727. The present Oak Grove Baptist Church is just four miles from the Carolina line, and in those days Baptist people, because of religious persecution, must go far to find a place of worship. Hence Baptist here preferred to go down to Shilo to church rather than dare to erect a house here. (See Howells History, pp 32-33).

Earliest Record 1837
The earliest records of Oak Grove are from about 1837 and are in bad shape up to 1845, from then on the records being in good condition.

The original building was built just before the War Between the States and was used by Federal troops during that time. In 1902 the building was remodeled and in 1921 under the leadership of the Rev. E. J. Harrell two wings were added. In 1948 an educational building was added to the facilities and the church was completely remodeled.

Sunday School in 1885
The first Sunday School of which records exist is in March, 1885, and was known as the Church School. At the present time there are over 300 on roll of the Sunday School and Curtis J. Ansell is superintendent.

The First Woman's Missionary Union was started August 28, 1915, with Mrs. W. W. Duling, wife of the pastor, as president, and Miss Helen Bright (now Mrs. Helen Trammell), secretary. At the present time the W.M.U. has three circles, and all of the Young People's organizations. Mrs. Syble Ansell is the present president. The present pastor has been in the field for seven years and in that time the church has grown from 100 in Sunday School to in excess of 300. The church membership has grown from 208 to 303 resident members and 50 non-resident members. Two young men of the church have dedicated their lives to full time Christian service. James T. Lindsey is attending the University of Richmond preparing for mission work and Hunter Spence is attending William and Mary studying music in preparation for a life as minister of music. There are several other boys and girls who will enter college as soon as they finish high school.

The church has begun construction of a new parsonage and will use the old one for Sunday School classes until a new educational unit can be built and it is hoped to soon build a new sanctuary to seat 400, in which to celebrate the church's 200th anniversary in 1962.

Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club Boasts Proud Record of Achievements; Win Many Awards.

On October 15, 1940, 60 women, responding to an invitation to attend a meeting for the purpose of organizing a Woman's Club, met at Lee Manor, then the Bradford Club, and the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach became a reality. Mrs. J. H. Harrell, now principal of Bayside Elementary School, became the club's first president.

From the beginning, the club recognized the necessity of owning a permanent home in which they could project work beneficial to the club and community. To promote this idea, a miniature house was built. Every part in the tiny replica was sold. Interest grew to the extent that one building lot was purchased by the Woman's Club from George Robbins and Mr. Robbins donated an adjoining site.

With the war, the dream faded temporarily. It was learned that the Army expected to build barracks to house an anti-aircraft detachment at Chesapeake Beach. The club gladly offered its new property for this purpose and the Army accepted. Thus the theme for the second club year became an all-out effort to assist in any and every way the projects necessary for the war program. At the war's end, the club treasury boasted $1,200 in war bonds.

When the Army gave up the barracks, the Chesapeake Beach club purchased it. The first meeting in the new home was held in October, 1944. Proudly, they opened their doors to the community, and it became known as the Community House. This building was improved, operated and maintained by the Woman's Club until 1953, when it was sold and removed.

The club grew rapidly and the by-laws were necessarily amended. A substantial sum was donated toward a Volunteer Fire Department for Chesapeake Beach. A spirit of fellowship in the community grew through successful stage productions and other club activities. The first children's Christmas party was held, and has been an annual custom since. In April, 1946, the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach became a member of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, and were proud to have members attend both the Club Institute in the district and the State Convention that year.

The seventh year club scrapbook took third award in the annual competition in the Sixth District. This was the first entry by Chesapeake Beach in the contest. Headlines such as "Club Protests Long School Hours for Small Children," "School Survey Undertaken by Club Women," "Opportunity Marianne is Presented," "Club Aids Fire Force," with many others are contained in this book.

Aid in Bloodmobile Work
By the club's tenth year, the Bloodmobile work had been established, typhoid clinics held, legislative measures regarding public health endorsed, campships awarded to Girl Scouts, and a youth program was flourishing.

The Woman's Club joined with the Men's Club and Volunteer Fire Department to form the Chesapeake Beach Community Center, Inc., in order to meet the immediate need for a firehouse, and to spur action on the ill-dreamed-of community house.

In its 12th year, the Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club received more awards than any other club in the state. The press book took first place in both district and state, received three prizes in Art, second place in Poetry, first in the state in the "Citizenship in Action" contest, and was second in the state in the "Build Freedom with Youth" contest, a General Federation project. In this year the club youth activities were cited by a national magazine article. Since then the press book has taken place in the district, and last year won first place in the district and second in the state. Thus has worthwhile work proved itself.

After four years of concentrated Work and Means work, the Woman's Club saw the completion of the new Community Center. Since its first meeting in the Center in January, 1954, the club has purchased new tables and chairs for the building and raised funds to equip a modern kitchen. Increasing membership has again necessitated revision of by-laws. Established working activities have been continued.

Eighteen women have been "capped" for service in the bloodmobile service by the Red Cross. The Summer Festival has become almost traditional, the crowning of a "Teen Queen," its fitting climax. Significant of a community interested in its own welfare, this building serves many purposes, including housing the first church in Chesapeake Beach.

The Community Center of Chesapeake Beach, to the Woman's Club, represents years of constant faith, good fellowship, and hard work. So proud of its past, the club faces the future with a new look, accepting the challenge of Federated women across the nation. "You are the light of the world."

During the latter part of 1952 Mr. Butt's health forced him to withdraw from business. However he continued in defense work until March of this year when the business was re-opened on Atlantic Avenue as Butt Plumbing and Heating, Inc., with Mr. Copeland as secretary and treasurer of the corporation.

Mr. Butt was born in 1919 at Virginia Beach. His father, George Albert Butt, was a conductor on the Norfolk and Southern Railroad for 38 years. His father died in June, 1950, at the age of 61. Mr. Butt's mother, Mildred Abelson Butt, remarried in December of last year, and is now Mrs. S. J. Burnham, living at 613 26th Street, Virginia Beach.

Mr. Butt has lived at Virginia Beach for 20 years. He was educated at Oceana High School. He is a member of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church and Bible School. He married Betty Reid, daughter of Thomas L. Land, of Salem, Princess Anne, Virginia. The Butts reside at 106 Prince Avenue in the Kempsville District of Princess Anne County. They have four daughters, Sandra, age 10; Judy, age 8; Virginia, age 5, and Ellen, age 17.

Mr. Copeland was born in 1926 at Cape Henry. His father, L. H. Copeland, Sr., was a resident of Hampton, Virginia, and is retired from the Coast Guard. His mother, Laura T. Copeland, is a native of Cape Henricus, N. C. Mr. Copeland was educated at Granby High School, and in 1942 went to work for Coley and Petersen, Plumbing and Heating, Inc. He enlisted in the army in 1944, returning to civil life in 1947. He served in the European Theatre of operations, in France, Germany, Belgium and Holland with L. Company, 275th Regiment, 70th Division, for 24 months. Upon his release from the army he again went to work with Coley and Petersen, and received his Norfolk City Journeyman plumber's certificate in 1950.

Butt Plumbing and Heating, Inc., is equipped to do all kinds of plumbing and heating installation and repair. In the short time that the firm has been back in business, they have been engaged on some of the outstanding jobs in the Beach area and are serving many of the old customers of the Butt Plumbing and Heating Company.

LOCAL MOSQUITO CONTROL DISTRICT FIRST IN VIRGINIA

Kempsville Mosquito Control District Began In May, 1943, in E. Ocean View and Expanded

Area Enlarged in November, 1948, Assumed Present Boundaries in '54

On May 24, 1948, a group of citizens from East Ocean View appeared before the regular meeting of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors and requested that a mosquito control district be created in their vicinity. At the next meeting of the board, on June 28, after a public hearing, the mosquito control district was created. The board appointed E. B. McCoy and I. A. Johnson as commissioners to serve without pay. Dr. L. J. Roper, State Health Commissioner, deputized R. E. Dorner to serve on the commission.

Inasmuch as the budget for the county had already been adopted and the tax rate set, it was not possible to secure any tax funds with which to start work. The citizens of the district raised several hundred dollars by popular subscription and a crew of men were hired to spray. Equipment was borrowed from the State Health Department which consisted of U. S. Public Health Service trucks and sprayers on loan to the state. The entire area was mapped with all known mosquito breeding places designated. A crew of one foreman and two laborers worked one day a week from June through September inspecting and treating such mosquito breeding places as were discovered.

This limited program was very successful in giving an indication of the good that could be done. In fact the results were so promising that the citizens of Chesapeake Beach and Ocean Park requested that their areas be taken into the district, and on November 22, 1948, the Board of Supervisors extended the boundaries of the district to include these sections and changed the name from the East Ocean View to the Kempsville Mosquito Control District. On February 3, 1949, I. A. Johnson, who had served with distinction, resigned from the commission and the Board of Supervisors appointed George Lyon of Ocean Park to take his place.

Edward L. Cooper was appointed by the commission to serve as

DRAINAGE IMPORTANT

Drainage is the most important work of the Mosquito Control Commission. It is necessary to maintain the many miles of open channels throughout the district annually, and in some cases even more often. Many mosquito breeding places are inaccessible and can only be treated by a man with a hand spray can.

the secretary and treasurer, and also serves without pay. In April, 1950, after Mr. Cooper resigned, E. R. Hines became secretary-treasurer.

The commission operated a program from April to October each year from 1949 to 1953. All the ditches in the district were cleaned each spring and all places known to be breeding mosquitoes were sprayed each week during the warmer months.

On April 4, 1952, the commission purchased a jeep from surplus property and bought a TIFA fog machine. Since that time the area has been fogged during summer evenings whenever mosquito annoyance warrants it.

It became evident that the work of secretary-treasurer had become time-consuming and burdensome and it was decided to hire a suitable person on a part time basis. Mrs. W. B. McKinnis of Chesapeake Beach was appointed in May, 1953.

On July 1, 1954, the district was expanded by the Board of Supervisors to include Bel Air, Roosevelt Gardens, Camella Shores, Diamond Spring Homes, Lake Shores and Lake Terrace, Hewitt Farms, Tarrallton Homes, Larry-more Acres, Meadowbrook Forrest and Lakeland Homes.

With this additional territory, it became necessary to hire a full time crew to work the year round. A yard and garage has been rented to house the commission equipment.

Beginning with the first of this month, the district was again expanded, this time to include the Village of Kempsville, Glenrock and Bayville Park. Again, the equipment and personnel had to be expanded. At present the commission has eight employees, two trucks and two jeeps equipped with foggers.

There has been a great deal of work accomplished by this commission with a small amount of funds. Up until 1954 the annual budget never amounted to over $5,000, and 25% of this total was secured as a contribution from the state.

It is only fitting that Messrs. McCoy, Lyon, Johnson, Cooper and Hines, who have served so faithfully with personal sacrifice, distinction, and without recompense, should receive the thanks and appreciation of all the citizens whom this work has benefited.

B. P. Holland, Town's First Mayor, in 1906 Pointed to Need for Alleviating Molestation

When Virginia Beach first became a town, at the first town council meeting, in the mayor's first message to the Town Council, he stressed the importance of controlling mosquitoes as a prerequisite to the health and economic welfare of the seashore resort. The wisdom of his wise counsel, 50 years ago, has been proven, and it must give the Honorable B. P. Holland (he still lives at Virginia Beach), first mayor of Virginia Beach, much pride when he realizes the progress that has been made.

Problem Was Large

In those days Virginia Beach was a small place and the mosquito problem was large. Natural progress toward controlling the pest was slow. Around 1930 some of the far-sighted men at the Beach realized that major efforts were necessary. The late Judge James S. Barron and Mrs. Barron, along with L. H. Windholtz, W. H. Moher and C. L. Fisher sought the advice of the U. S. Public Health Service and the State Health Department. Doctor L. L. Williams of the U. S. C. Riggins, local health officer, and Richard Messer, State Sanitary Engineer, were some who gave freely of their advice in those early days.

Funds were collected by subscription and a field force under R. E. Dorner, of the Virginia State Health Department, and R. H. Baillo, were put into the field. The various relief agencies, C. W. A., E. R. A., and W. P. A. were used to install many thousands of feet of ditches in the salt marsh as well as the inland. It has been estimated that necessary ditching worth over $200,000 was installed under the various relief programs.

Citizens' Committee Named

Realizing that federal expenditures would be eliminated and that funds raised by local subscription were not sure, sufficient or equitable, in the summer of 1939 a citizens' committee was appointed to work out more permanent plans.

The committee consisted of C. A. Mowry, chairman; C. L. Fisher, treasurer; James S. Barron, T. H. Windholtz, Taylor Johnson, D. P. Pender, Sr., W. F. Crockett, Saxon Holt, Jr., F. S. Royster, Sidney

SEEK BREEDING PLACES

Backyard inspectors search out and destroy or treat places where stagnant water is found. In addition, they educate the public not to allow containers to accumulate around their premises.

Kellam, L. L. Shelly, R. B. Taylor, J. B. Timberlake, C. T. Hull and Hugh N. Davis.

Under the leadership of Mr. Mowry and the committee, a bill was introduced in the 1940 State Legislature providing for the creation of Mosquito Control Districts. Sponsors of the bill were the Honorable H. B. Davis, Baldwin, Robertson, Breeden and Ruffin. The act as passed allowed a district to be formed including a city, town or county or any combination of portions thereof. The local governing body could set the boundaries, and appoint two members to a commission who were to serve without pay and were responsible for carrying out the work. The third member to the commission was the State Health Commissioner or his deputy. Under the bill, funds with which to operate could come from a special tax or direct local appropriation. In addition the state was empowered to contribute 25% of the funds collected locally.

The Board of Supervisors and the Town Council held a public hearing in the Virginia Beach school. Over one hundred attended and voiced unanimous approval of the idea of creating a district. On July 1, 1940, the first Mosquito Control District came into being. (There are now 14 such districts in the state). Doctor L. C. Riggins, then State Health Commissioner, deputized R. E. Dorner, who had been associated with the problem since 1933, as his representative on the commission and ex officio chairman. The Town appointed B. G. Forster and the County appointed W. Peyton May. R. H. Baillo was appointed as superintendent. The district consisted of the Town of Virginia Beach, Birdneck Point, Linkhorn Park, Bay Colony and North Virginia Beach.

Since the commission was first organized, Dorner and May have served continuously. In 1948 T. G. Porter, who also served as secretary-treasurer, resigned. Doctor G. T. Forrester was appointed commissioner and served until his death. Mr. Keeler has served on the commission since 1951. Walter Holland served as secretary-treasurer from July 1, 1940, to June 30, 1953, at which time he resigned and Al Mailhes was appointed. Baillo resigned as superintendent on June 30, 1948, and R. G. Carter was appointed to fill his place and has been on the job ever since.

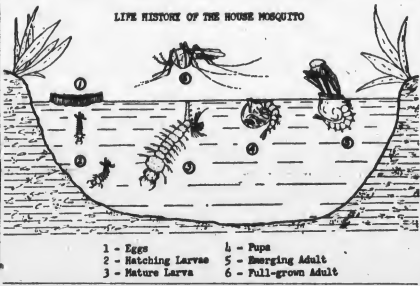

Four mosquito light traps are operated in the district each night throughout the warmer weather to determine the kind of mosquitoes present and to indicate how effective control measures are.

JEEP ON THE JOB

Jeep equipped for spraying mosquito breeding places. Every place holding water in the district must be inspected each week throughout the mosquito breeding season and sprayed with chemical when breeding is found.

Kempsville Baptists Boast Proud Record Since 1914

History speaks of the events and deeds in the lives of great men, men who dare and men who succeed. The Kempsville Baptist Church has a right to boast of her history, for on April 30, 1914, a small group of independent thinkers from the London Bridge Baptist Church separated themselves from that church, calling a meeting at Moseley's Meeting House, established a church. The first presbytery was: James Mitchell, Smith Sherwood, W. P. Biddle and George Norris.

John Williamson was treasurer; Henry Mackey, clerk, and James Norris and John Williamson were deacons. In addition to serving in this capacity, they also preached often for they had no pastor to lead them. Samuel Brown and Henry Keeling were also in the number of these dauntless Christian adventurers. At the end of a six-year period, the church had 46 members.

In 1921 this group had one of its own members for their first pastor. Smith Sherwood was the first pastor to live in the field was the Rev. M. M. Jamerson, whom the church ordained in February, 1919. It was during his pastorate that the parsonage was put in use and electric lights were installed in the church.

In 1930 after a succession of pastors the Rev. John S. Garrenton was pastor. During his pastorate the first Sunday School rooms and auditorium addition was built. Mr. Garrenton is now Lieutenant Colonel Garrenton, serving as a chaplain in North Africa.

The Rev. Arnold B. Blount, the present pastor, came to the church in July, 1945. During the ten years Mr. Blount has been pastor an addition to the old Sunday School department has been made and a new Sunday School plant has been built.

The church now has a membership of 630 members. A B. T. U., a completely organized Women's Missionary Union, a full grade Sunday School, Junior, Youth and Adult choirs, all make up the church organization.

"The years and God have been good to Kempsville Church, and as history states, but for the courage of those who dared, where would we be?" a spokesman said reverently.

MINISTER

Rev. Arnold B. Blount

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH ONE OF OLDEST IN VIRGINIA BEACH; ORGANIZED IN 1908

The First Baptist Church of Virginia Beach is one of the oldest in our city. Several years before the first building was erected meetings had been held. In 1908 the Rev. N. Richards gathered together the Baptists in the community and organized a church. He labored for several years, giving of his time, means and ability until his death. It was mainly due to his efforts that the first church building on the corner of 17th and Arctic was erected. In 1915, during his ministry, the records show a membership of 71. Today there are over 700 members.

After Mr. Richards' death there was no full time pastor. For some time the church united with the Raleigh Heights church in calling the Rev. Thomas E. Bourde, who served several years.

The first full-time pastor called was the Rev. A. C. Chestnut of Yonkers, N. Y., who served three years. Dr. A. A. Stanley, the Rev. J. B. Sawyer, the Rev. A. L. Shumate, the Rev. L. W. Meachum, the Rev. Roy Peterson and Dr. Ira D. S. Knight served the church in the order named.

During the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Meachum Sunday School rooms were added to the building. During the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Peterson plans were started to purchase lots for a larger building and parsonage. The parsonage was completed under the ministry of Dr. Knight. He and his wife were the first occupants. Plans for the new church were drawn under his leadership. The church plant was built almost completely without a pastor.

PASTOR

Dr. W. G. Bond, from Boone, N. C., came as pastor in April, 1952, and on June 15, 1952, the first service was held in the present building. On November 4, 1952, the present building was dedicated.

The program of the First Baptist Church divides itself naturally into certain phases of the life of the church.

Reaching the people, finding them and enlisting their capacities for the Kingdom of God is the purpose for which the Baptists believe the church was established.

Through the various Sunday School classes active prospect lists are continually worked to enlist the people in Bible study. Training courses are held both in the local church and in the Norfolk Association to which the people are urged to go that they may be more effective in reaching people for Bible study. Units for Bible study are purposely kept small that the individual may receive the most help.

An active Sunday evening service is maintained through the Baptist Training Union and in the evening worship program.

The various Training Unions are provided for every member of the family. They provide fellowship in the various age groups as well as Christian training in the faith which enables the individual to express himself. Social activities are encouraged both for the total group and the individual. Unions to develop the best fellowship possible.

Sunday evening worship encourages the various choirs to sing. The church employs a minister of music who gives much of his time to develop these choirs for the various age groups. Religious films are often shown. Special emphasis on the home, youth and their vocations, missions round the world, etc., enliven the interest.

In order to let the people of the church study what is happening in the world, women and children are organized into the Women's Missionary Union. There are Royal Ambassadors for the boys, Girls Auxiliary for the girls, Sunbeams for the children under 9, and Young Woman's Auxiliary for girls 16 to 18.

Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts are enjoyed by the youth of the church.

The men have a fellowship meeting to which speakers of merit make contributions.

The church strives to make prayer the heart of its program. Each Wednesday evening prayer services are enjoyed by those who attend.

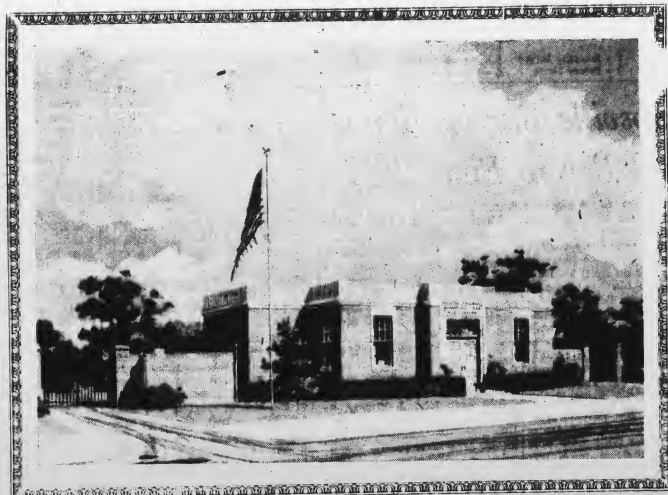

The first unit of an extensive building program was completed three years ago. Still to be built are additional educational space and the main sanctuary of the church. A planning committee has been appointed to consider possible expansion.

WILLIS WAYSIDE LEADS WAY IN MODERN MERCHANDISING

The trend toward establishing retail furniture stores away from downtown business areas has become quite popular in recent years, a development that has been hastened by the parking problems that beset many cities, large and small. Sometimes these suburban stores are mere branches of a downtown store, but beyond the city limits of Norfolk, Va., is a relatively new store of unusual beauty which those who have visited it rank as one of the finest furniture stores in the United States, a shopper's dream.

It is the Willis Wayside Store owned by the Willis Furniture Co., Norfolk, Va., which had one of the largest downtown stores in this Virginia city, a business that is 59 years old. The Wayside Store is situated on the Virginia Beach Highway, 10 miles south of Norfolk and midway between this city and Virginia Beach, a resort of wide reputation in the South. The Wayside Store not only draws business from Norfolk and Virginia Beach, but from scores of other towns within 100 miles or more. The dual highway which passes the Wayside Store carries an enormous volume of traffic, resulting in many visits from motorists who are attracted by the striking architectural appearance of the store, a Virginia Colonial mansion set well back from the highway amid 19 acres of land acquired with the building.

This elegant store was built as a tuberculosis hospital prior to World War II. When it turned out to be ill-adapted for that sort of institution it served as officers' quarters for a prisoner-of-war camp during World War II. After the way it was put up for sale, Benjamin J. Willis and his associates, Grayson Willis, and John Willis saw the possibilities of the place as a site for a furniture store of unique distinction.

There were two buildings, now joined together, making a floor area of 12,000 square feet, divided into 16 rooms, in which furniture and accessories are displayed in room settings. The effect has been described by many customers as being like visiting an old Virginia mansion. All of the rooms have been carefully designed and laid out by the store's interior decorators, Miss Marjorie Broderick, Miss Fiske Putnam and Miss Mildred Sheffield, with the same care and precision they would exercise in planning the interior furnishings of a lavishly furnished home.

The familiar groupings of bedroom furniture in one department, dining room furniture in another and so on have been completely done away with. All the furniture and accessories are displayed in room settings with the exception of bedding and carpeting which are shown in separate rooms.

So successful has the new Wayside Store become that Benjamin J. Willis says that it is almost the case of the tall wagging the dog, as the volume of the suburban store is closely approximating that of the former downtown store. Encouraged by this success, the Willis company is planning an enlargement of the Wayside Store plus a community house in the rear of the property, which will be donated to people of the surrounding area for meetings of parent-teacher associations, garden clubs and similar organizations. This community house will be in charge of a hostess, who will serve tea and cakes on special occasions. In addition, the company plans to have a speaker once a month on such subjects as gardens, antiques and others that would interest people of surrounding communities.

The merchandising policy which has made an almost immediate success of this new suburban store embraces several interesting and important points. Only high class lines are carried. Sales are about 60 per cent modern, 40 per cent traditional.

There are no bargain sales or "specials." Comparison is made daily with offerings by stores in New York and other large metropolitan areas and these prices are shaded by 10 to 15 per cent except of course on Fair-Trade items. Prices are mentioned in advertising, but not on a "bargain" or "sale" basis. Only furniture, accessories and carpeting are carried—no appliances or television. Advertising is done mainly in the Norfolk morning newspaper and its appeal is largely institutional, stressing the advantage of shopping in a non-congested area where there is parking space for hundreds of automobiles. Advertising copy is prepared by Mrs. John Winter, who is also a commercial artist and prepares her own sketches.

With three fulltime decorators, the store does a thriving decorating business, but makes no curtains, chair covers or other textile furnishings, placing such work outside, but it plans on having its own workroom when the store is enlarged. The decorators make up black and white or color sketches without charge provided there is to be an expenditure of at least $500 per room; if not, the charge is $50 for each room sketched.

In the Wayside Store there are twelve sales persons, five of whom are women. One of the things that struck this visitor is the fact that at the Willis store there is an information desk with a woman attendant near the front entrance. All too often, it has been observed, customers wander into a furniture store and must seek attention if sales people are engaged. It is part of the duties of the receptionist at the Willis store to know where sales persons are to be found so that a customer who asks for one by name can be quickly directed.

One of the sales problems that arose when the Wayside Store was opened was in the staggering of working hours of sales people. When a customer has driven a considerable distance it is discouraging to be told that the salesman asked for is out to dinner. This frequently happened with a staggered working system. To overcome this situation, the store is open two evenings a week, Mondays and Friday, until 9:00 o'clock. However, the store closes on these nights at 5:30 to re-open at 7:00 o'clock so that all employees are out at the same time. The store operates six days a week from 9:00 to 5:30.

The evening hours are the store's busiest periods. Many serious shoppers make an evening of it by dining at a restaurant within a stone's throw.

One of the things that has contributed to the smooth working of the Willis organization is a monthly dinner meeting attended by all major employees at which there are no "pep" talks but merely candid discussions of problems that may be disturbing anyone in the business.

Ambitious to make the Wayside Store one of the most talked-about in the South, the Willis organization is now engaged in a major landscaping operation in which an effort will be made to provide a lush garden which people will so much to see. March is the blooming season for sales in Virginia if you happen to be going that way.

Perhaps no area in the United States (since the days of the gold rush) have grown as rapidly as has Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County in recent years.

This has been a boon to the contractors and suppliers of materials for construction generally. This area can take justifiable pride in the integrity and responsibility of its materials dealers and contractors for the quality of work they have turned out in the area over the past few years.

Despite the press for construction, both competition in the industry and the responsibility of the firms involved have kept prices at stable levels commensurate with the work accomplished.

One of the finest service stations in the entire Oceana - Virginia Beach area is that of D. S. Ferebee, located on the Virginia Beach Boulevard at Oceana, not far from the resort city.

Established in 1945, the firm has shown a steady growth over the past decade and progressed to a point where a new building was built during the past year, being occupied in April of the present year. The new station is several times as large as the old one and features a complete line of Esso products.

Five people are employed in the operation of the station, which in addition to offering the most modern, complete line of Esso gasoline and oils, also features repair of tires and offers its customers road truck service. The service station also handles a good stock of automotive parts, ignition accessories, batteries, confections, tobacco and soft drinks.

D. S. Ferebee, owner of the station, is a native of Great Neck and has been a resident of Princess Anne County all of his life. He has been very active in the affairs of the county and is highly esteemed in all parts of Princess Anne County.

Mrs. Kadas is a member of Galilee Episcopal Church, a Sunday School teacher, member of the Woman's Auxiliary at Galilee and past president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oceana Volunteer Fire Department.

Mr. Kadas' favorite sport is fishing, and Mrs. Kadas' pet hobby is raising parakeets.

The Kadas family found the climate and the business opportunities much to their liking in the Virginia Beach area and decided to make Oceana their permanent place of residence. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kadas are natives of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Mr. Kadas is church organist at the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church, a member of the American Guild of Organists, member of the Oceana Volunteer Fire Department, Oceana Lions Club, Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and Virginia Beach Lodge No. 274, AF&AM.

sires of the customer. The company employs from four to six persons.

In February of 1954 Mr. Kadas broke ground for his new plant. Being in the steel business he fabricated all of the steel bar joists for his new building. By late August the building was completed and on September 1, 1954, C. F. Kadas Company started operations in its new plant, which is located on Laskin Road at Hilltop. The new building covers a floor space of 12,800 square feet.

In January of this year the firm added an upholstery department, in which they manufacture upholstered modernistic wrought iron furniture as well as doing household furniture upholstery, automobile seats and interiors.

Mr. and Mrs. Kadas have two children, a son, Charles, Jr., who is married and lives in London Bridge, and a daughter, Susan, who attends Oceana School.

C. F. Kadas Company Specializes in Wrought Iron; Custom Building

The C. F. Kadas Company was organized in 1947 shortly after Mr. Kadas was discharged from the U. S. Navy. For the past seven years the plant has been operated at Great Neck and Laskin Roads in Oceana, Virginia. The company started out on a small scale manufacturing pie and bread racks for local bakeries in the Norfolk area.

In 1948 the company expanded its operations to the manufacture of ornamental iron railings, columns, fences, gates, lawn markers, fire escapes and all types of wrought iron furniture.

W. G. Swartz Co. Had Beginning Before Days of Teddy's Roughriders

During Cleveland's administration, and two years before Teddy Roosevelt's rough riders charged up San Juan Hill, three confident, visionary men—L. O. Miller, W. S. Rhoads and W. G. Swartz—recognized the infinite possibilities in Norfolk and selected that city in which to establish a new business enterprise.

In the early spring of 1896 a building was acquired at 192 to 202 on the north side of Main Street near Granby, and in May the Miller, Rhoads Company first opened its doors as a merchantile establishment.

The firm was new... not only as a business enterprise, but also in its policies and methods of doing business. A pioneer in the "Better Business" movement, it boldly announced to the public through the newspapers of Norfolk that the store was strictly a one-price establishment, with all the merchandise figured, and sold at such prices.

Within four years growth had been so rapid that larger and more extensive quarters were necessary, and in 1900, a substantial building was acquired on Main Street at the head of Commercial Place and near the Confederate Monument, which was the hub of Norfolk's business district. The additional floor space of 45,000 square feet made possible the introduction of many new and varied lines of merchandise, and the creation of additional departments. At this time the store was operating as Miller, Rhoads and Swartz.

Under the capable leadership of its founders, popularity grew, and in 1907 expansion was imperative. In order to better serve the people in Norfolk and Portsmouth, a large modern building was erected on the corner of Bank and Plume Streets, adding 85,000 square feet of floor space and bringing the total area to 130,000 square feet.

Thousands of people in Norfolk still recall the Grand Opening, which was a gala and impressive affair... hailed as a conspicuous milestone in the progress of Norfolk as a retail trading center.

Improvements and innovations appeared rapidly. Perhaps one of the most outstanding was the installation of a modern dining room serving excellent cuisine in a delightful atmosphere of soft dinner music. Later, because of many requests, a private dining room was added which was known as the "Blue Room," where numerous organizations have dined and held meetings.

Through the years, weddings, dinner and birthday parties, along with many other celebrations, have taken place within these rooms.

In 1927, Mr. Swartz acquired the interest of L. O. Miller and W. S. Rhoads, and since that time the firm has operated under the name of W. G. Swartz Company, Inc. However, it was a change of name only, for the original admirable policies have carefully been followed.

Today the store is fully equipped and modern... running a large fleet of trucks regularly serving every part of the city, surrounding towns and suburbs... fully air-conditioned to make shopping hours a pleasure... free parking lots for customers while shopping... mail-order department whose services include personal shopping for out-of-town customers.

Through the untiring efforts of Mr. Swartz, better working conditions for store employees were inaugurated, which included a shorter working day, Saturday afternoon closing during the summer months, a tradition still observed today.

Mr. Swartz served as president until his death on December 31, 1936. His broad intellectual grasp of the affairs of the organization and problems of merchandising made him a prominent merchant, beloved and respected by employees, patrons and business associates.

Since Mr. Swartz's death the store has operated under the direction of W. G. Swartz, president; John A. Watts, III, first vice president, and T. W. Derry, second vice president. Under the leadership of these officers, and following the policies of the founder, W. G. Swartz Company, Inc., has continued to progress, and is recognized as one of the South's leading department stores.

chen for its delicatessen department and features large stocks of cooked hams, turkeys, chickens, as well as staple delicatessen delicacies.

In addition to a most comprehensive line of canned goods and other items found in a modern grocery store, Seaside Market has a most complete line of frozen foods, including vegetables, fruit juices, and complete dinners in frozen packages.

A feature at Seaside Market is a complete stock of Onslow Confections from Charleston, S. C. This line includes fancy cookies, cocktail smokes, toasted sugar-covered almonds, and a variety of candy chips.

While the Seaside Market is operated as a self-service store, they also offer customers the convenience of home-delivery with two deliveries daily throughout the Beach area. Approved charge accounts are also offered for the convenience of the store's customers.

Southern Materials Company, Inc. Big Ready-Mix Concrete Supplier

In the early 40's most of the concrete used on construction projects was mixed either in pavers or small one and two bag mixers. Using these one and two bag mixers it was necessary to handle the cement, sand and gravel by hand labor and, of course, made the concrete very expensive. With the outbreak of the war the demand for concrete and the shortage of labor greatly increased the demand for mixed-in-transit concrete. This was the case all over the country; so the ready-mix concrete industry was no longer an infant.

O. M. Birch and L. V. Beasnight, president and vice president respectively of the Birch Construction Corporation, realized the need for a concrete supplier in the Virginia Beach area to service Camp Pendleton, Fort Story, Oceana Naval Air Station and the Fleet Air Defense Training Center at Dam Neck.

With this in mind they ordered the necessary equipment and located their plant at 33rd Street and Pacific Avenue. Concrete was supplied in great quantities to the government installations as well as to housing projects, largest being the Mayflower Apartments—and other construction projects.

In April, 1946, the Birch Construction Corporation sold their equipment and business to the Ocean Suppliers Corporation. This corporation had as its officers and directors, John B. Beasne, M. G. Courtney, J. B. Sadler and J. P. Sedler. Due to zoning restrictions the plant was moved to the Norfolk and Southern Railroad and Seateak Road. Business increased to such an extent that much new equipment was acquired and facilities expanded. In 1963 the corporation transacted business in excess of one million dollars.

In August, 1963, the Ocean Suppliers Corporation sold its equipment, plant and site to the Southern Materials Company, Inc. This corporation is now serving the Virginia Beach area.

McCoy Oil Co. Newest In Va. Beach

An outgrowth of 17 years experience in operating a service station, the McCoy Oil Company at 17th Street near Pacific Avenue, is the newest fuel oil business in the Virginia Beach area, having just completed its first season of service to its customers.

F. N. McCoy, sole owner of the company, started the fuel oil business early this year and has already secured many customers in the Oceana - Virginia Beach - Princess Anne area. Delivery of Esso products is made by a Chevrolet 2-ton tank wagon of 1,300-gallons capacity.

Louis Spivey, the salesman in charge of truck deliveries, is courteous, prompt and efficient, having received training from the Standard Oil Company.

The McCoy Oil Company operations are in conjunction with the Esso ServiceCenter at Virginia Beach. This station, as many motorists will testify, is a most courteous, friendly and efficient operation, which is always on the alert for the needs of the motoring public between the operation of the service center and the oil company. Mr. McCoy employs an average of six people in the winter and eight in the summer.

Mr. McCoy is a firm believer in his community and looks forward to the ever-increasing development and growth of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. He has been active in the affairs of the country for a number of years and feels that the great progress which this area has experienced over the past three decades will continue undiminished for many years. Mr. McCoy believes that the future growth of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County warrants the type of business he is in and plans to expand his business activities as the community grows.

Mr. McCoy is a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Virginia Beach Kiwanis Club. He married Emmie E. Lightfoot of Arlington, Georgia. They have two children, a son, Timothy Charles, and a daughter, Frances Ann.

MERRILL LYNCH, PIERCE, FENNER & BEANE JOIN MOVE TO VIRGINIA TIDEWATER AREA

Characteristic of the march to Norfolk by many of the nation's largest and most well known companies was the decision of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, the world's largest brokerage and investment corporation, to locate in the Tidewater area. Celebrating the third anniversary of the Norfolk opening on May 12, the management and the community look back with pride on three successful years of service to Virginia investors.

On May 12, 1962, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane opened an office at 105-107 West Main Street, its 104th to date and the 24th to be located in the South.

The firm is one of the largest brokerage and investment organizations in the United States and traces its history as far back as the foundations of Gwathmey & Co. in Richmond in 1820. Gwathmey & Co. was a forerunner of E. A. Pierce and Company, which grew to have the largest wire system of any brokerage firm in America.

In 1940 a series of mergers brought together Merrill Lynch & Co. (one of the largest underwriting houses which helped in the formation of many of our best-known chain store systems) and E. A. Pierce & Co. and Cassatt & Co.; in 1961 Fenner & Beane (the largest commodity brokerage firm in the country) was added and brought the firm to its present form.

Participation in local financing is an important facet of this world-wide company's business. Among some of the local stock and bond issues which the company has helped distribute are the $94 million issue of Virginia Toll Revenue bonds for financing the Norfolk-Newport News tunnel, 156,250-share issue of Southern Materials, Inc., and the $56,946-share issue of the Virginia Electric and Power Company.

The firm is engaged in three somewhat distinct types of business. First, Merrill Lynch executes its customers' buy and sell orders for securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange and other exchanges, and in the unlisted securities markets. The second important activity of the firm is the execution of customers' buy and sell orders in commodity futures and acting as broker for the purchase and sale of cash commodities.

The third type of business the firm does is the underwriting and distribution of new security issues to raise capital for industrial and business corporations. Investors outside the limits of the Norfolk telephone exchange enjoy the service of being able to call Merrill Lynch's Norfolk office free of toll charges by asking the operator for "Enterprise 689."

F. Fletcher Garlock, of Virginia Beach, is manager of the Norfolk office. On his staff are: J. Stuart Hume, Daniel J. Hurley, Rear Admiral John H. Willis, USN, (ret.), James J. Ferro and Miss Rose Gail Chenman.

CHILDREN'S THEATRE PROMOTES SMALL FRY'S INTEREST IN THE DRAMA

Now in 3rd Year,
Three Successes
Staged in School

The Children's Theatre of Virginia Beach was organized in the fall of 1953. The initial grant of $100 was given by the Junior League of Norfolk to the committee headed by Mrs. William Hunsberr. The purpose in organizing a children's theatre was to promote dramatic interests among the children and to bring to the children of the community well-known children's stories and plays.

The first production was "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," presented in November, 1953, at the Virginia Beach High School. It was very well received by the public and the success of the Children's Theatre was assured. The next production in the spring of 1954, was "Timmy and the Circus." The 1955 play was "Cinderella," which met with tremendous success and was a sell-out.

All three plays have been under the expert direction of Mrs. Cary Pennington, who had previously worked with the Norfolk Children's Theatre. Her training and patience have made these plays so successful. Mrs. Lief Andersen has been a wonderful assistant, helping with the promptings, music and general production.

CHILDREN PRESENT COLORFUL PLAY

The Children's Theatre is a non-profit organization and will gladly welcome anyone interested in children's productions to work on scenery, publicity, tickets, properties, etc. If you are interested in becoming a part of this organization, which is so valuable to the community, please contact Mrs. Lief Andersen, 205 75th Street, telephone 2887-J for further information.

MANAGER

C. Hall Snellings

the current board of directors, along with Rhoe Adams, Frank V. Atkinson, Sidney Banks, Thomas Braithwaite, W. S. (Duke) Braithwaite, H. Webb Brown, Ray Cassett, Wiley C. Harrell, J. Leo Hoarty, J. Peter Holland, vice-president; W. W. Shepherd Drowry, treasurer; W. W. Johnson, James M. Jordan, Albin R. Mathies, L. F. Patrick, George T. Mullin, C. B. Shorter, Sam W. Rigs, B. M. Stanton, Mrs. Mabel Strothorn and Mrs. Lucy Traflet.

Coincidentally, two of the board members are former managing directors who held the office before C. Hall Snellings, the present chief administrative officer, who took over last fall. He succeeded J. Leo Hoarty, now with the Virginia Beach Broadcasting Corporation, who, in turn, had the vacancy caused by the resignation of Albin R. Mathies when he became business manager of the Virginia Beach Sun (now the Virginia Beach Sun-News).

Donald Seiwel, the first executive of the Chamber, who held office prior to World War II, is now an associate editor of American Magazine. Others who directed the Chamber as paid officers are Joseph Spruill, now an officer of the Bank of Virginia, and Mrs. Grace Jordan, now editor of the Virginia Beach Guide.

It probably is significant that it was not until the organization of the Chamber of Commerce that Virginia Beach gained national recognition as a seashore playground.

True the town was incorporated in 1906 with the first mayor, B. P. Holland, still held to attest that fact, but the resort didn't gain real stature until after the inception in 1936 of the commerce organization which has been the cohesive force in the community during the ensuing years.

As far back as the middle 1880's certain discerning nearby residents began to recognize the advantage of vacationing here, following which railroad and investment interests combined to erect a hotel at the south end of the resort, primarily for visitors from northern cities.

The early decades of the present century saw an increasing number of year-around residents and summer visitors, but it was not a spectacular growth.

Prior to the organization of the Chamber, the erection in 1926 of the Cavalier Hotel, now the Cavalier Club, gave the resort its biggest boost, but again it was largely railroad, steamship and other transportation interests who were responsible for focussing attention on the emerging resort area.

Two leading citizens, Sidney Banks and James Guzzy, both representatives of the hotel industry, appear to have been the guiding force behind the Chamber in the early years.

Guzzy, who took up residence here during the winter of 1934, recalls his amazement upon learning that the then budding resort community was without a Chamber of Commerce.

He credits Banks with being one of the first to agree with him that a Chamber should be organized. Among others who encouraged him in his crusade were Roy Smith, first president; Vivian Hodson, Wade Carnegie and C. T. Whitehead. Guzzy was elected vice president at the organization meeting and later served a term as president, in 1945-56.

It was during Guzzy's regime that the advertising program, which this year finds the city spending approximately $33,000, largely in metropolitan newspapers, was launched.

Guzzy, the first chairman of the advertising committee, said some $15,000 was spent during the first year to recapture the big following that foresook the pleasures of the Beach during World War II.

R. B. Taylor, who succeeded Guzzy as Chamber president in 1946, faced a formidable task in stopping up the organizational program to meet the demands of peacetime years.

That he — and those who succeeded him — did their part in the ascendancy of Virginia Beach to its present prominence, goes without saying.

The late Lester B. Shelly, who served as president in 1948-49, left his impact on the commerce body, as did W. W. McClannan, Jr., who held the office from 1949 to 1952, when John H. Bell took over. Claiborne Bryant served next, and, in turn, as succeeded by James L. Kitchin, whose term will expire this fall.

Under the leadership of Bryant, Bell and McClannan, the Chamber program has been expanded to the point that it is doubtful any other community of similar size can equal the diversity of its undertakings.

A gradual increase in budgetary items has marked the recent history of the commerce organization which, under Kitchin's regime, represents annual expenditures in excess of $100,000.

The regular budget, as prepared by the finance committee of which Rhoe Adams is chairman, calls for an outlay of $26,299.20 from membership funds and services, not including, of course, the $33,000 advertising appropriation from the city which is handled in part by the Chamber.

It is well to note that individual hotels spend an aggregate of $100,000 independently for advertising and promotional purposes. Many other influential men have assumed the responsibility of the office of the Chamber president. Those who held the post in the earlier years included W. F. Crockett, 1930-40; E. M. Hardy, 1938-39; and R. Lee Page, 1944-45. R. B. Taylor, who was one of the post-war presidents, also held the office from 1940 to 1944.

Three past presidents — W. W. McClannan, Jr., Claiborne R. Bryant and John H. Bell — are on

VIRGINIA PILOTS ASSOCIATION HAS LONG, COLORFUL HISTORY FROM 1865

The Virginia Pilot Association, whose members have been responsible for the safe passage of billions of dollars worth of commerce through the territorial waters of the commonwealth since 1865, was taken over by the Coast Guard arm on December 9, 1942. All members of the cooperative association were commissioned as lieutenant commanders, and their work increased to many times its peacetime volume.

The Virginia Pilot Association was born of war, when, following the War Between the States, a crowd of unscrupulous fishermen from New England saw an opportunity to make some easy money by muscling in on the Virginia pilotage business. They came down to the Capes in their little boats and haggled with incoming vessels for the job of "piloting" them through waters which they were little more familiar with than the ships' masters. Virginians who had been making their living as pilots were hard pressed to meet competition, and suffered when the reputations of all pilots began to be ruined by wrecks and delays in service.

Capt. Samuel Wood, of Hampton, called the Virginians together and suggested the formation of an association. The pilots, acting together, presented their case to the General Assembly and influenced the adoption of legislation which excluded the non-commissioned element. Captain Wood continued as nominal head of the association until his death in 1874, although he never was elected president. He acted as business agent, collecting all fees and paying the associated pilots their shares out of pocket.

The old pilots were a hardy and picturesque crew, all men of the highest ability in their vocation, who insisted on a rigorous apprenticeship training for all young men aspiring to commissions.

Upon the death of Captain Wood, the association elected its first president, Capt. Oscar E. Edwards, in 1875. He was a man of strong personality who knew people of influence all over Virginia and numbered his friends by the thousands, a circumstance which made it possible for him to lead the association through troublesome times and several crises in the legislature. He was grandfather of Capt. E. D. Edwards, now on the active list.

When Captain Edwards died in 1906 after 31 years of service in office, he was succeeded by Capt. W. R. Boulwell, who served an even longer time before he, too, was followed by a younger man in 1939. Captain Boulwell's name was synonymous with piloting in Virginia during the lifetime of the present generation. He improved the equipment and organization of the association, and saw that it kept firmly in its position as a quasi-public institution of service to the world's commerce and the development of port service in Virginia.

Capt. Milton B. Edmunds was elected to succeed Captain Boulwell in 1939. Captain Edmunds died suddenly on May 28, 1943. Captain G. A. Massenburg was elected to fill the vacancy.

The Pilot Law of Virginia provides that before anyone may undertake to conduct a vessel of any class to or from a port of the Commonwealth, he shall have devoted five years to the business under the tuition of those already trained in the work. He then has to pass an examination before a Board of Pilot Commissioners authorized by State law and appointed by the courts of Norfolk and Newport News. Apprenticeship of a fledgling pilot begins when he is shipped to sea aboard the school ship, where he learns the art of sailing from the deck up.

The Virginia Pilot Association has four excellent vessels. Pilots have won unstinted praise from the Commandant of the Fifth Naval District for their excellent service in keeping port movements going at top speed under often-times grueling conditions, such as those experienced during World War II.

Lifeguards at Beach Have Envious Record for Safety

Four businessmen head the organization of lifeguards who keep Virginia Beach safe for the thousands upon thousands of visitors who annually fill the beachfront here during the summer months.

The professional success of the highly-trained, highly-skilled lifeguard patrol here is indicated by their lack of heroic deeds to their credit, and with less notoriety the more pleased these young men are — for then it means that the beach is safe for swimmers.

The lifeguards are stationed practically one block apart along the ocean front and their organization was not an overnight happenstance. Thirty years ago the safety of those who found surf bathing salubrious was left to primal instincts of their fellowman.

Gradually a few hotels realized that the preservation of their patronage was, among other things, good business, and contracted with local ambitious youths to keep an eye on their guests for a small remuneration.

The more enterprising of the group took to renting umbrellas for the comfort of their charges and so, in brief, developed one of the most efficiently organized groups of men of which any resort community can boast.

It was twenty years ago that the Virginia Beach patrol officially came into being and four men behind the operation were Graham "Dusty" Hinnant, Hugh Kitchin, John B. Smith and George R. "Buddy" Guy. These four men were partners in the overall lifeguard patrol for many years and just a few years ago they divided the beach at 26th Street.

Today Hinnant and Kitchin supervise the lifeguard patrol from 26th Street south and Smith and Guy operate the patrol from 26th Street north.

BUSY HIGHWAY GOES FOUR-LANE

The widening of a 3.4-mile stretch of the Military Highway is all that remains to complete a four-lane highway from the Naval Shipyard at Portsmouth to the Naval Air Station, and E. H. Orange, resident engineer for the State Highway Department, reports that work of adding two extra lanes from the Lansdale traffic circle to the Little Creek Road is progressing satisfactorily and should be ready by early fall.

T. E. Ritter of Norfolk is the contractor, and it is estimated that his work will be completed about October 1.

J. T. Timmons, managing director of the Tidewater Automobile Association, declares that the present two-lane strip has been clocked as handling 13,699 vehicles a day during the year ending June 30, 1954, and says it has undoubtedly increased by at least ten per cent since then. It is he declares, the busiest two-lane section of highway in Virginia.

This section of the highway feeds into another portion of the Military Highway, from Tausig Boulevard to Little Creek Road, the second most heavily traveled four-lane stretch of highway in the State. About 27,000 vehicles use this highway daily.

Timmons reported that the completion of the four-lane project, largely brought about by the building of numerous new subdivisions served by the motor artery, will leave the Association free to seek similar widening of Little Creek Road, now the second most heavily traveled, two-lane highway in the State.

The Association director said no final decision has as yet been reached as to how the cost of the project will be divided, but declared that the Federal government has a decided responsibility, considering the proximity of the rapidly expanding amphibious base operations.

Illustrating the increased need for widening and improving the highway, he said, is the increased amount of traffic on the Lansdale traffic circle, resulting from the outlying housing and commercial developments near by. The traffic count at the circle has increased to more than 25,000 cars a day, Timmons reported.

The clearest intersection of Route 58 (Virginia Beach Boulevard) and the Military Highway, just east of Norfolk, now has a traffic count of more than 30,000 motorcars and trucks a day.

BEACH PROUD OF MOVIE THEATRES; SURPASS MANY IN LARGEST CITIES

Back in 1927 the Roland Theatre, located on 17th Street, was owned by William F. Crockett. At this time the shopping center of Virginia Beach was confined to only one block on 17th Street.

In 1932 the Bayne Theatre was built and opened. This was the most impressive commercial building in the Town of Virginia Beach and the theatre boasted the largest screen in the South.

In 1937 David Pender was taken in as a partner, as at that time he owned the Roland Theatre Building.

Kerry Crockett, the present general manager of Crockett-Pender Theatres, started as an usher in the Bayne Theatre in 1935, and has been active with the theatres until the present time, except for the war years.

Bill Crockett, during the war years, headed up the Motion Picture Division in a number of the War Loan drives, and it is said that during that time he was better known throughout the United States than he was in his home town.

The Beach Theatre, a dream of Bill Crockett's since before the war, did not become a reality until 1947. His dream was to have a theatre equally as good, if not better, than that found in the home town of any visitor who came to Virginia Beach. He wanted a theatre in which a person could stand in the air conditioned lobby, and, with a slight turn of the head, be able to view the scenic grandeur of the Atlantic Ocean, for which Virginia Beach is famous.

Mr. Crockett was president of the Virginia Motion Picture Association for 15 years, but all of his energies were not confined to his theatres. He served on the City Council of Virginia Beach, was president of the Rotary Club, president of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, and took a very active part in all civic affairs, both in the Town of Virginia Beach and in the State of Virginia.

In 1953 new processes came out, among them being stereophonic sound, and cinemascope, which called for expenditures of $20,000. As soon as these were perfected they were installed in the Beach Theatre and gave the public new fields of vision on its tremendous screen, which contains nearly a thousand square feet of viewing surface, and directional sound in extreme high fidelity, which only four magnetic sound tracks can give.

Louis L. Fox Enterprises Flourish Since Opening Here in February

Louis L. Fox Enterprises, located at 326 17th Street at Virginia Beach, was established in February of this year and in a few short months has gained many customers throughout the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County area.

Electronic and air conditioning contractors and manufacturers' agents, the firm carries large stocks of television and radios, household electrical appliances and air conditioning units.

The store is Princess Anne County headquarters for high fidelity audio equipment and color television. Among the most popular, nationally known lines of electrical appliances handled will be found Philco, Sylvania, Admiral, Westinghouse, Sunbeam and the famed Waring blenders.

In addition, complete stocks of room air conditioning units are shown and the firm sells and services air conditioners for commercial and industrial installations.

Since then they have installed VistaVision, which like cinemascope, has a large viewing area, but with much better focus both foreground and background. There are several new processes in the experimental stage, such as Todd-AO and Idaphore, which will be brought to the theatres at Virginia Beach just as soon as they have been made practical. In short, there are no theatres on the East Coast of comparable size any better equipped than are the theatres right here at Virginia Beach.

Louis L. Fox Enterprises has as its slogan, "We sell the best and service the rest." The firm is demonstrating through its policy of service and honest values to its customers that it means exactly what it says.

Louis L. Fox, operator of the company, is a native of Norfolk and attended school there. He is married to the former Elizabeth Norton, and Mr. and Mrs. Fox are well known throughout the Beach area.

Powell - McClellan Firm Dates Back to Year 1908

The Powell-McClellan Lumber Company dates back to the early year of 1908. J. W. Powell, owner and founder, came to Norfolk from Hartford, N. C., seeking employment with Forsberg Lumber Company. While there he learned his trade as a saw-filer. Mr. Powell left Forsberg Lumber Company in 1915 and was employed by the late Blasingham Lumber Company until 1936. In that year Mr. Powell and his associate, Harry McClellan, left M. A. Blasingham Lumber Company and formed the lumber company of Powell-McClellan. A few years later Mr. McClellan died. His entire stock was purchased by Mr. Powell. Through grim determination, hard work and the help of God Powell-McClellan built and expanded into one of Tidewater's leading lumber and building materials stores.

Tragedy struck at Powell-McClellan in April, 1950, when the entire planing mill was burned to the ground, constituting a $100,000 fire loss. The mill was rebuilt immediately as business continued without interruptions.

In the year 1948 a new unit had been added to the company on 17th Street, Virginia Beach. This was sold in 1949.

In 1951 another unit was added at 702 Little Creek Road. This store was damaged by the hurricane of 1954 to the extent it required rebuilding.

An entirely new and modern drive-in lumber store was erected. It is a successful operation today.

A new division of Powell-McClellan Lumber Company was installed in 1953 in the form of a wood preservative processing tank and package goods. This solution, known as "Woodlife," has become a by-word in the building trade.

From September, 1952, through April, 1955, Powell - McClellan went through an almost complete changeover. The old office was demolished and replaced by a modern air-conditioned two-story office building. A new moulding building and an adjacent warehouse were erected and connected to the office. Today Powell-McClellan carries a complete line of soft and hard woods, millwork, doors, builders hardware, paints, floor and ceiling tile and many other items.

The planing mill is equipped with all high-speed moulders and planers. Eight delivery trucks serve the public. Two tractors, one crane and two fork lift trucks are used for moving materials around the premises. Powell-McClellan carries approximately 50 employees on the payroll. Mr. Powell has maintained for 46 years his slogan: "Quality - Service - Courtesy." This has been a major factor in his success.

Martha Washington Hotel Boasts Air Conditioning in Every Room

The Martha Washington Hotel and Apartments on the Oceanfront at 8th Street, Virginia Beach, is one of the most modern, home-like and attractive hotels in the entire area. The Martha Washington Hotel is open the entire year, air conditioned throughout the summer and heated during the winter months. The Martha Washington Hotel has 100 rooms and its dining room, serving the finest foods, is operated on both European and American plans.

The Martha Washington Hotel was built in 1926 by J. Wesley Gardner and has been operated under his direction ever since. The hotel and apartment group consists of three brick buildings all located on the ocean. One of the buildings is given over to apartment occupancy and caters especially to tourists who wish to rent home-like facilities by the week.

Adjacent to the hotel and operated by the hotel are excellent tennis courts, a playground for children and every facility for an enjoyable time at the beach.

Mr. Gardner has had extensive experience in the operation of hotels, having been the managing director of the Chamberlain Hotel, Old Point Comfort, Virginia, the Maxwell House, Nashville, Tenn., the Brigantine Hotel at Brigantine Beach, N. J., the Mirasol Hotel, the Palmarian on Davis Island, Fla., near Tampa, the Lincoln Center, Park Avenue Hotel and the Martha Washington Hotel, all in Miami Beach.

In addition to the hotel activities, Mr. Gardner has a cattle ranch of 15,000 acres in Tennessee, near Cratanooga, operated by his son.

At the Martha Washington Hotel and Apartments, the management literally rolls out the red carpet for its patrons. This year, aside from the marvelous hospitality awaiting the guest, the Martha Washington has the distinction of being the first hotel to completely install in all rooms, apartments and dining room, as well as lobby, the most up to date 1965 improved model all weather air conditioning for both heating and cooling, manufactured by International Harvester Company. ## Simmons, Ladies' Apparel Shops, Have Two Fine Stores at Beach Simmons, headquarters for ladies' and men's wearing apparel, operates two fine stores at Virginia Beach — one at 2302 Atlantic Avenue, under the Chamber of Commerce, and the second store at 225 17th Street.

The firm was originally established on 17th Street by Walter Simmons, handling many nationally advertised brands of merchandise, such as Esquire Form brassieres, Majed Hosiery and Lin-rough testing of several completing air conditioners. Price was not considered. Results were the deciding factor.

This is a greatly improved system that enables one to set the thermostat to the temperature desired, and regardless of change of weather, automatically maintain this temperature. It continuously brings fresh air into the room, filtered and free of dust and pollen, a joy to hay fever and asthma sufferers. However, when one prefers the fresh salt air breezes, one just opens the windows. This is the only hotel at the Beach with this feature.

Another advantage guests will enjoy this season is a change in the method of serving meals in the dining room. While the hotel will continue to serve American plan meals it is now offering the complete meals at various prices depending upon the value of the entree. It will also have plate meals without having to take the complete dinner.

For breakfast the management offers a varied price menu from 50 cents to one dollar. This means that those who do not want to eat large meals can take the smaller meals and not be required to pay for meals they do not eat. American plan guests select what they want from the menu regardless of price.

Mrs. Gardner operates the hotel as a club-like friendly family hotel with a congenial clientele. A social hostess helps guests get acquainted and a cocktail hour is held several afternoons a week.

The hotel is located within six blocks of two modern ocean fishing piers and within a few minutes drive to golf clubs. Guests may enjoy the privileges of the Cavalier Golf, Yacht and Country Club.

gerie, Lee beach wear, Crown - Headlight beach wear, Resisto neckwear. Don - Allen slacks, Wear-Well, Co., Inc. slacks, Lacawanna slacks and Fruit-of-the-Loom undergarments.

Both stores are well stocked, attractive and cater not only to transients at the Beach but to the hundreds of year-around residents of the Beach area.

Both Simmons stores have built excellent reputations for quality merchandise, smart styles and complete stocks at all times.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons, who operate the stores, came to Virginia Beach in 1946 from St. Augustine, Fla., being transferred to the Tidewater area by a New York clothing chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons have made many friends and acquaintances throughout the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County area, and they feel that the resort and its people have been good to them. Mr. Simmons is active in the affairs of the community, member of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Volunteer Fire Department. They have five children: Jack, Walter D., Earl, Virginia, Lowe and Joan Spry. Both Mr. and Mrs. Simmons have strong belief in the future of Virginia Beach and feel that the growth of this section of Virginia is unlimited.

Construction Supply Corp. Has Big Part in Area's Building Boom

Construction Supply Corporation, located at 426 W. 23rd Street, Norfolk, has been a large factor in the terrific building boom in the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne County and the entire Tidewater area in the past ten years.

Organized July 27, 1946, E. A. Haycox is president and treasurer of the corporation and B. A. Pollok, Jr. is vice president and general manager.

Construction Supply Corporation is wholesale distributor for building materials and carries in its warehouse complete stocks of everything for the building materials dealer, large or small. The firm is exclusive distributor of Carey roofing materials, Insulite building products, and many other outstanding building products.

It is one of the few self-supporting organizations of its kind in the nation, performing services that could cost the city from $40,000 to $50,000 annually.

Although the lifeguards have police authority, they are thankful that they are seldom called upon to use it. "The tourist comes first," says the operators. "We try to regulate and supervise conduct for the safety and enjoyment of all, for after all, people come here to have fun."

Virginia Beach enjoys an enviable safety record on the beach and too much credit for this remarkable record cannot be given the efficient lifeguard protection and the fine organization molded by the four men who started out years ago as "beach boys" but who have grown into mature business men.

The lifeguards work on the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The truth is, lifeguards don't like to get their feet wet.

ducts in an area embracing 31 counties in Virginia and North Carolina.

Construction Supply Corporation ranks fourth in the country in the sale of the famous Carey Fire-Chex, class A shingles.

Three years ago the firm opened an aluminum window division and it is the exclusive distributor of General Bronze, Alwinick and Ludman Auto-Lok aluminum windows. The largest and most complete stock in Tidewater Virginia is offered builders and home owners.

O. M. (Buck) Shaw is manager of the window division and the firm ranks high in the Tidewater area in aluminum window sales. Also in the window department of the firm will be found aluminum sliding doors and jalousies.

Construction Supply Corporation this year is celebrating its 10th anniversary. Its ownership and management is wide awake and progressive. It feels that the extensive building program that has been going on in the Tidewater area during recent years will continue and is prepared to take care of all of the needs of the dealers it serves.

Pet Show Tops Fourth Week Of Recreation

A pet show last Friday afternoon topped the fourth week of supervised recreation being carried on by the City Recreation Department this summer.

Many children brought a large variety of pets, but after considerable consideration the following children walked away with the ribbons for "best pets":

Grand prize: Keith Ryan, St. Bernard.

First prize: Jeff Groves, toy turtle.

Second prize: Ginger Mathias, parakeet.

Third prize: Debbie Tillett, Persian kitten.

Miss Pat Bowry, supervisor of the High School playground, announced that there would be a dog show held at the High School gymnasium tomorrow, Friday, the 15th at three o'clock.

Hobby Week

The present week's recreation theme is "Hobby Week." Mrs. Rosemary Lambie, supervisor at the W. T. Cooke playground, has planned to hold open house at her workshop and display some of the many products of art and crafts that her children have completed. All week long emphasis has been placed on the children's hobbies, and they will be able to display their hobbies in a contest to be judged tomorrow.

The fourth week of operation for the playgrounds found 1,956 children participating, running the total number of children for the summer close to 8,000. Expectations are now held that 25,000 will have participated by the end of the program in August.

Tournaments Planned

Fred Isaacs, recreation director, announces that next week will be Tournament Week. Tournaments will be held in shuffleboard, badminton, ping pong, archery, horseshoes, tennis and weight-lifting. Any child who has previously signed up for the program this summer is eligible.

Atomic Fallout Forecast Suggested to be Added To Weather Prediction in Event of Nuclear Attack

The much-maligned weatherman, whose timely forecasts have saved many a farmer's crop, may also save the farmer and his family if the bombs start falling.

Working with local civil defense organizations, the weather scientist is a key man in providing rural areas downwind from target cities with vital information on which way and how far to run to escape deadly radioactive fallout from bombed cities.

Since June 1, the Weather Bureau, in cooperation with the Federal Civil Defense Administration, has included a special section of its regular weather report on wind direction and estimated time and place where fallout would come to earth.

If any of 92 critical target cities were hit by atom or hydrogen bombs, FCDA and state and local civil defense organizations could quickly plot what direction the radioactive particles from the blast would go, and on what area they would land. Inhabitants could be given up to several hours warning to get animals fed and under cover, and either get in shelters themselves or leave the area.

FCDA regional offices are already preparing such plots daily for critical target cities in the defense organizations are following suit, and FCDA has requested all of them to do so.

The FCDA-Weather Bureau fallout warning program has both a short-range and long-range objective, as follows:

1. The twice daily non-secret coded reports of wind direction and speed at 3:30 a. m. and p. m., EST, are assembled from 350 weather reporting stations throughout the nation. The complete report is then sent back over the Weather Bureau's 30,000 mile teletype system to each station.

This is used in plotting the so-called "isochrones," or imaginary (Continued on Page Three)

Wahab Top Vote-Getter as People Reject 'Antis'; Pile Up New Record

Organization candidates scored sweeping victories over their opponents in Tuesday's election in Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach with the overall voting showing a good, solid five to three margin for the Organization Ticket.

The Organization carried every precinct in the election with the exception of Brock's Bridge and Blackwater. Both of these precincts produced a close vote and in Brock's Bridge Organization Candidate V. A. "Jack" Etheridge topped his opponent while the other three Organization men were edged slightly by their opponents.

Voting was heavy throughout the county and the city with approximately 11,000 votes cast. The total represented a new record for voting.

The two precincts in Virginia Beach went solidly for the Organization with precinct number one giving Robert S. Wahab, Jr., the Organization candidate a vote of 1626 as against 489 votes for his opponent, James E. Heath.

In the three-cornered race for sheriff John E. Marr, the Organization candidate, won a clear cut victory over incumbent Sheriff C. Roger Malbon. While J. Hugh Barnes, the independent, polled slightly more than 1100 votes, Marr topped Malbon by more than 1100 votes.

The election climaxed a dramatic campaign and one that left little to be desired in excitement. The Ticket for Princess Anne had confidently predicted a victory and the crushing defeat left the candidates and their followers limp and weary.

Robert S. Wahab, with a strong vote from the city, was the top vote getter in the election with a grand total of 6,807 votes.

E. Almer Ames, of Accomac, who was backed by the Organization in the race for the Senate seat from the first district,

FIRST AGAIN

Wash Woods was again the first precinct to report in Tuesday's election and the Organization received all votes cast there with the lone exception of one vote.

The returns read: Etheridge 8; Walker 6; Mapp 8; Oliver 6; Wahab 8; Heath 6; Marr 7; Malbon 1.

The early returns from Wash Woods proved a good omen for the Organization as it went on to smashing victories over the anti-Organization ticket.

rod to victory with the Organization here with a total city-county vote of 6,886 votes. He received a majority of some 2600 votes here over Wendro M. Godwin, who had the support of the Ticket for Princess Anne.

Organization Candidate Ivan D. Mapp, for commissioner of the revenue, soundly trounced W. W. Oliver, Jr., of the Princess Anne Ticket, Mapp polled a total of 5522 votes to 3198 for Oliver.

In the race for Treasurer Etheridge, of the Organization Ticket, ran away from L. B. Walker. Etheridge garnered 5,306 votes to 3,210 for his opponent.

Heath, who resides in Virginia Beach, made a miserable showing in the two precincts here. Wahab beat Heath by a two to one margin in precinct one and held a commanding lead over his foe in precinct two.

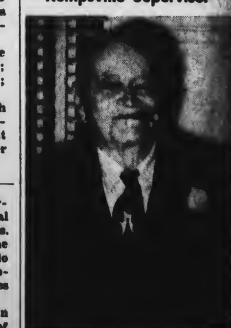

In the races for the county Board of Supervisors the story was pretty much the same with the Organization running away with the voting. In the heavy voting Lynnhaven District James G. Darden, of London Bridge, (Continued on Page Four) lines of constant time which link up the points where fallout at various altitudes is expected to land at successive hours after the attack. When the "isochrones" are plotted on a map, they give a graphic picture of the areas from which people should flee or take cover. For a detailed explanation, see photo map above.

A metal antenna on top of a roof will probably catch a lightning flash if it gets near enough to hit the roof.

Have your TV antenna checked by a Specialist in Lightning Protection and be SURE that it will be safe and lightning proof.

These "isochrones" however, do not tell the intensity of radioactive fallout, which is dependent mostly on the yield of the bomb. Nor is there necessarily just one direction of fallout from an atom-blasted city (as in the above map) because high-level winds often blow in different directions from those at low altitudes and create their own separate fallout pattern.

2. The long-range program of fallout warning, which the Weather Bureau calls its "climatological" program, is the plotting from wind averages of the most likely fallout areas from critical target cities so that vital industries, control centers, etc., can be located out of those sectors.

It is a calculated gamble, based on the average daily direction and speed of the winds up to 80,000 feet over the past five years. Information on low-altitude winds comes from the regular public weather reports; that for high-altitude wind is obtained from recorded radar-wind observations at 30,000 and 80,000 feet which were originally started to aid jet

Diagnosis of Plant Disease Needs Proper Specimens to Analyze

If you want to be sure of an accurate diagnosis, and control recommendations, for plant ill, be sure you collect and mail specimens correctly.

Many farmers and home owners send diseased specimens to VPI laboratories for information. Keen observation and prompt action on the part of farmers often results in the finding of new and dangerous diseases and help keep pathologist informed on current problems, as well as helping in their control.

The pathologist depends on good plant specimens from an accurate diagnosis, so it is important to follow certain procedures in sending them in.

Collect the whole diseased plant if practical. Wrap green or tender plants in moist paper, or cloth, place them inside a paper box, and mail at once. Write your name and address on and within the package. If large leaves, such as those of tobacco, are to be mailed, first press them and then lay them between pieces of cardboard, an old magazine, or other stiff material, for mailing.

For trees and shrubs, since it is not practical to send the whole plant, send some of the affected leaves and branches; but examine the entire plant for other indications of disease. If symptoms are found on other parts of the plant, report them, and if practical, send specimens. In the case of wilts, such as maple wilt, Dutch elm disease, or oak wilt, it is necessary to send small lengths of living diseased wood. Green wood that shows dark discoloration underneath the bark should be selected. Dead wood is not suitable for making a proper diagnosis. Usually about half a dozen such small branches, about one-half inch in diameter, and about six inches long, are enough.

In an accompanying letter, describe the symptoms of the trouble as accurately as possible, contrasting these plants with healthy ones as to size, shape, and color. State the extent of injury in the field. Name the variety of the crop and state whether or not the seed was treated. Give as much additional history of the case as seems pertinent.

COLONIAL CUTS PRICE ON RECORD HAM SHIPMENT

J. M. Bloom, Colonial Stores Meat Buyer, said today that the company made a record purchase of hams, and that prices will be reduced substantially throughout all Colonial Stores this week.

Colonial had the opportunity to make a larger than usual purchase of King's Reliable, ready to eat hams, and Wilson's certified hams at a lower than average cost, he explained, and this means that customers throughout Virginia can enjoy the old favorite at "discount" prices.

The Colonial executive, who is in charge of the selection and buying of meats and poultry for a third of the company's territory, said he is as pleased with the quality and price of these hams as he is with the low cost price.

Other company officials pointed out that it is a rare occurrence with Colonial to announce the lowest discount prices possible on quality merchandise and that the real price is not on hams is simply a continuation of that policy.

A Demonstration of Confidence

The Organization's fine victory in Tuesday's primary election is significant in view of the determined challenge that it faced, and the people demonstrated their complete confidence in the political leadership that has been theirs with the Organization in control. The campaign, itself, was a bitter one, and one that found the challenging Ticket for Princess Anne employing every method and "trick" conceivable in an attempt to defeat the Organization. But, in the end the people spoke out with their ballots to keep control of the county government in capable and experienced hands.

In retrospect it might be pointed out that the challenging "ticket" did not face the real issues of the campaign and would not discuss the qualifications of the candidates, themselves, which was, after all, the basic issue of the entire campaign.

It can be confidently said that the tactics of the Ticket for Princess Anne in attacking individuals not running for office and not directly involved in the campaign was resented by the great majority of the people which is evidenced in the voting.

The Princess Anne Ticket's attacks on Judge Floyd E. Kellam of the Circuit Court appeared to be particularly resentful to the people of Princess Anne and Virginia Beach. And, the constant reference to Sidney S. Kellam during the campaign, who was not a candidate, reacted unfavorably to the challenging group.

The people expressed their full confidence in the Organization leadership, and it is with this confidence that all of us should look to the future of our prosperous area. It is time now to unite in a move to continue the progress and development that we have enjoyed and to stand ready to face any future problems that may arise.

The proposed annexation of a part of Princess Anne County by the City of Norfolk is the first hurdle to be faced, and it should receive a unified defense from the people of Princess Anne. With the Organization's election victory on Tuesday, Princess Anne has a renewal of strength in fighting this attempted encroachment of its territory.

Unity should be the keynote in Princess Anne among all of the people in the future. The election is passed, and we should unite for continued good government and progress.

The Intercontinental Missile

Scientists are generally agreed that the first nation which produces an intercontinental rocket missile of the required accuracy will gain a tremendous advantage in the present weapons race. That advantage might be great enough to decide the issue of victory or defeat, if the rocket missiles can be produced in quantity and if they constitute a monopoly for the country first using them.

The Nazis, of course, were the first to use rockets in World War II and had a rocket missile they used successfully to bombard London in the last stages of that conflict. Although this did not bring the Germans victory, this does not mean that another rocket missile will not prove of greater effectiveness.

Actually, the Germans never got into full operation with their V-2 rockets. The first launching sites they so painstakingly built were captured in France before the first V-2 was fired. Thus the Allied invasion came just in time.

Shortly after the invasion (June 6, 1944), the Nazis fired off the first V-2 rockets from Holland. These rockets carried a TNT warhead, or more than equivalent, and often wiped out most of a city block in London when they landed. They traveled at great speed, thousands of miles an hour (estimated 5,000) and ascended scores of miles into the upper gas layers around the earth before turning and falling on England.

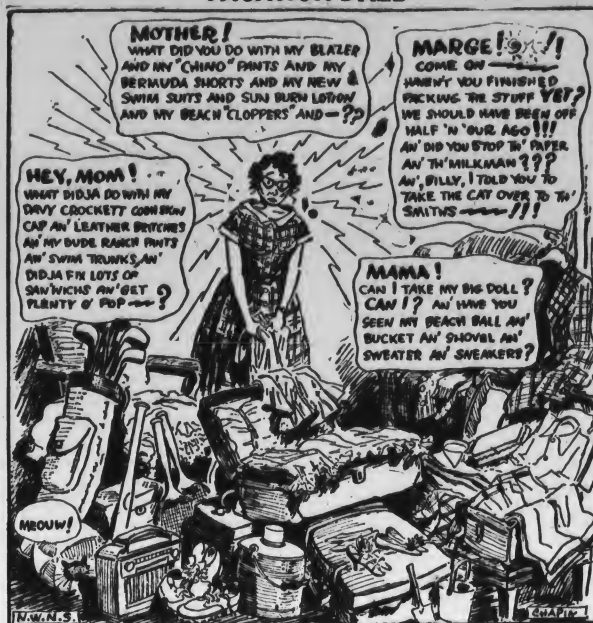

At the present time, the race between Russian, U. S. and British scientists is to perfect a rocket which could travel greater distances. To do this, it is estimated that the intercontinental rockets would have to attain speeds of at least 15,000 miles an hour—possibly more.

This conclusion is a recent one. It brings about a problem of preventing the rocket missile from disintegrating when it falls into the heavy layer of gases which surround the area just above the earth's surface. As yet—so far as is known—this problem has not been solved.

Yet it has been over ten years since the Germans actually used rockets which traveled several hundred miles. Both the United States and Russia now have German scientists, who helped perfect the Nazi rockets, working on rocket projects of greater scope.

There is no way to tell which country is ahead in this—the most important weapons race of the era. The new rockets would presumably carry atomic warheads and if they could be accurately controlled,

VACATION DAZE

My PET PEEVE

The little woman has finally admitted that daddies are indispensable. Every home should have one.

She always conceded that it was nice to have a good strong back handy when there was something heavy to be moved across the room, or grass to be mowed. But, she would point out, if it came to the worst, a body could always hire someone to perform these menial tasks.

Old-time Daddies won't be surprised to learn how I earned my stripes. They've been down the same road. But for those less experienced than I (a veteran of three long years at the business of being Papa), let them be reminded they will never be worth the bother they use on their bread as father of the household—unless they know what to do when

Mama dodges an impossible question (sheepishly and without even looking the child in the eye) by saying: "Ask your father."

When this moment arrives, as it does in every household, man stands on the brink of glory—which is also the edge of a bottomless abyss.

If your great moment is yet to come, men, get a head start by doing some research. Somewhere there must be an encyclopedia that will help you explain to a 3-year-old why why mother has to go to the hospital rather than let the stork deliver the new baby—that will give the proper and accurate size of thunder—what keeps the sun and the moon up in the sky.

It's good to feel successful at this daddy business, men. I enjoy it.

Organization

making his initial start in politics, defeated incumbent Floyd T. Deary and Dr. John E. Lippincott, of the Ticket for Princess Anne. Darden was backed by the Organization.

In the Kempsville District E. I. Herrick, Organization, brushed aside two opponents in the race for the supervisor's seat from that district. Herrick captured every precinct in the district to whip down the challenges of Francis Paxton, Ticket for Princess Anne, and R. O. Hanna, Independent.

S. Paul Brown, the present chairman of the Board of Supervisors, was re-elected for another term. He defeated the Ticket of Harry Bayner, the Ticket for Princess Anne candidate.

Louis Parsons was defeated in the Blackwater District in his race for re-election to the Board of Supervisors. Jack Snyder was the victor there. Kenneth Whitehurst, of the Pungo District, was returned to the Board without opposition.

Some observers expressed mild surprise at the overwhelming vote given the Organization since the campaign had been a lively fight. However, the voters made it a run-away race in practically every precinct.

In every instance with the exception of Malboro at the Ocean, the candidates of the Organization for Princess Anne were defeated in their home precincts. At Oceana, Malboro was able to gain a small edge over his Organization opponent with Barnes, the third candidate, getting a few votes.

One of the most surprising aspects of the vote was the ease with which James G. Darden booted out incumbent Floyd Deary and anti-Organization candidate J. E. Lippincott for Board of Supervisors from the Lynnhaven District.

The victory was one of the largest turned in by the Organization which has been in control of the county government for a number of years. It marked a definite stamp of approval of the type government that has been furnished the citizens of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

it takes no genius to see that a bombardment from 5,000 miles away could easily be a most economical way to fight a war.

If wholesale death and destruction could be rained down on an enemy 5,000 miles away, then U. S. bases could totally destroy Russia as a military nation—if it had an ample supply of intercontinental missiles—and the reverse, unfortunately, would also be true. In fact the Russians would have by far the most concentrated target.

Lime Rate on Alfalfa Studied

Do extremely high rates of lime pay on alfalfa?

That is a problem that's been under investigation at the Virginia Experiment Station at VPI, report that very high rates of lime (on Cecil sandy loam, a common soil in Southern Virginia) result in only small increases in alfalfa yields. These small increases probably aren't enough to pay for the extra limestone needed in addition to the usual requirements.

The researchers used rates of limestone from 0 to 15 tons per acre when the alfalfa was seeded in the spring of 1952. The soil on which the test was run was just about neutral in reaction (pH7), and needed no limestone for alfalfa under ordinary conditions. The question being asked was what would happen if much more lime than necessary was applied.

As further insurance that the alfalfa would grow well, even with such high rates of lime on the land, Sears applied plenty of phosphate, potash, and borax before seeding. In addition, he top-dressed the stand early each spring with ample amounts of phosphate and potash. He explains that no limestone for alfalfa under ordinary conditions. The question being asked was what would happen if much more lime than necessary was applied.

Alfalfa yields during the first cropping year, 1953, showed no meaningful differences associated with the rates of liming treatments. The 1954 yields were slightly higher at higher rates of liming. The no-lime treatment yielded 4,713 pounds per acre, and the plots with 15 tons of limestone yielded 5,174 pounds per acre. At $50 per ton this additional alfalfa would have been worth only $11.55. This would not have been enough to pay for 15 tons per acre of limestone spread on the land.

The high rates of limestone changed the soil reaction from neutral to alkaline. Alkaline soil is quite rare east of the Mississippi river. Of course, the soil in the test will not remain alkaline many years if it is not limed again.

In addition to the potash problem with alfalfa on alkaline soils, there is another element which may become troublesome. Phosphorus tends to become unavailable on either strongly alkaline

This particular test has been ended by a building program; otherwise it would have continued at least another year. The land on which the test was located was inside the city limits of Charlottesville Court House.

Delegates from over 60 nations will attend the Baptist Golden Jubilee in London.

Resin and Bleach Combination
Can be Harmful

Homemakers who purchase blouses and other garments which are resin treated to make them crease resistant will be wise to take a tip from their local laundryman. Some of these resins will, when put into water containing bleach, produce destructive chlorine containing combinations. The laundryman's tip: "Be careful with your bleach! Use none or as little as possible!"

Until recently resin-treated fabrics, some of them chlorine retentive, were not much of a problem because they were used mostly on dyed fabrics. Colored garments usually aren't bleached. Now, however, some white fabric with chlorine retentive resin finishes are appearing.

Finish on fabrics which is chlorine retentive picks up, but does not release all the bleach no matter how many rinses. After even one washing quite a bit of the chemical is retained in an inactive state. High pressing temperatures set it to work, technicians at American Institute of Laundering have found.

A hand iron used to press out wrinkles won't usually get the temperature up high enough to get the fabric bone-dry. A hot hand iron will cause the chlorine-resin combination to break down, forming hydrochloric acid which will leave brown scorch marks or cause the fabric to fall apart, according to laboratory tests at A. I. L., the Joliet, Illinois, research and educational center of the laundry industry.

Laundrymen advise homemakers to save the "hang tags" that are attached to the new garment and tell her laundry routeman she wants "special handling" when it is laundered. Professional laundry formulas control the overuse of bleach which could ruin the garment.

In 1953, the U. S. spent $21 billion on gambling, $10,850 million on meat.

Program Wider

Two new laws recently signed by the President will make it easier for the farmer veterans of World War II and Korea to buy farms on which there are homes, or to build or improve farm houses.

One of the new laws authorizes the Veterans Administration to guarantee or insure loans for farm housing under the same terms as apply to residential housing. The other new law applies to those areas where private GI loan financing is not available and will permit a veteran to get a direct loan from the VA to buy a farm with an existing farmhouse which he intends to occupy as his own home, or to alter, improve or repair the home.

In general these two new laws now make GI loans available if the proceeds are to be used for any of the following purposes:

1. To purchase a farm on which there is a farm residence to be occupied by the veteran as his home.
2. To construct on land owned by the veteran a farm residence to be occupied by him as his home. If there is an indebtedness secured by a lien against the land owned by the veteran, the proceeds of a loan for the construction of a farm residence on the land may be used to liquidate that lien if the indebtedness does not exceed the reasonable value of the land.
3. To repair, alter, or improve a farm residence owned by the veteran and occupied by him as his home. Any repairs, alterations and improvements must protect or improve the basic living qualities or utility of the farm residence.

The two new amendments are intended to broaden the GI loan program to cover the housing needs of veterans who live on farms on an equality with veterans who have bought or built non-farm homes. "Lost Colony" Opens for 15th Season on Roanoke Island

The story of English-speaking America's beginning is being retold in Waterside Theatre on Roanoke Island, Manteo, N. C., with great and dramatic scenes like those in the composite picture above, as Paul Green's symphonic drama, now America's longest lived outdoor production, goes into its 15th season. Performances will be given each evening, except Monday, through September 1, beginning at 8:15 nightly.

In the composite photo, Sir Walter Raleigh, to be played this year by Oliver Link of Catawba College, and Eleanor Dare, portrayed again this season by Ann Martin, are shown. The kneeling Sir Walter, has just bid his little band of English men and women farewell and Eleanor Dare is singing a lullaby to her daughter, Virginia Dare, first child of English parentage born in the New World. Since "The Lost Colony" began its long career approximately 700,000 persons have attended the show. This year the drama will have a new look and several changes for making the play more interesting and exciting.

The cost of accidents and advertising were nearly equal in the year 1953: Accidents, $9,700,000; advertising, $7,803,000,000.

Compared with the $21 billion spent on gambling in the U. S. in 1953, religious and welfare activities cost less than $3 billion.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

Col. Deagle Observer On USS Newport News

Two Fort Story officers, one of them the post commander, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, were military observers aboard the Navy's largest heavy cruiser, the USS Newport News, commanded by Capt. Royce F. Davis, USN. Colonel Deagle and Story's dental chief, Lt. Col. Ronald Grant, made the trip from Norfolk to New York City as the Newport News sailed north in the company of eight destroyers and the aircraft carrier Antietam.

Colonel Grant Ending Duty Tour: Going to Michigan

Colonel Grant, incidentally, will end his tour of active duty this month and return to private practice in Muskegon, Michigan, having served at Story since the first of the year. A graduate of Emory University and the University of Michigan, where he received his MS in Surgery in 1943, the colonel has been Chief Oral Surgeon for Fort Eustis as well as Fort Story during his stay with the Transportation Training Command. He also is a graduate of the Medical Field Service School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Reserve Officers Training Corps Program July 19 to 24

The 1955 Reserve Officers Training program at Story this summer involves prior support of units training at Camp A. P. Hill, Virginia, from July 19 to 24. Fort Story is sending 36 radio operators, three communications specialists and 28 radios, with Sgt. Richard E. DuBois of the 344th Duk Company in charge. The men and equipment will be taken from both the 10th and 376th Transportation Terminal Battalions. The ROTC units at Camp A. P. Hill later will move to Story for the amphibious phases of their training.

Pfc. Darrell A. Ravenberg Named "Soldier of Week"

Story's Soldier of the Week, Pfc. Darrell A. Ravenberg, represents the 607th Duk Company.

sents the 607th Duk Company, a 10th T Battalion unit. The 21 year old soldier from Ogden, Utah, entered the army a year ago and is currently assigned as personnel clerk of the 607th.

458th Duk Company Gets "Best Men" Award

Best mess award this month goes to another unit of the 10th Battalion, the 458th Duk Company, commanded by 1st Lt. Vincent M. Russo. Presentation of the trophy was made by the deputy post commander, Lt. Col. John W. Daly, to 2d Lt. Edward S. Pencarski of the 458th, and SP2 Roscoe Slaters. The company mess steward, Sfc Donald E. Taylor, is currently on leave in Orlando, Ky.

604th Duk Company Deemed "Best Supply"

Another "best" presentation—this one for supply—was made to a unit of the 376th T Battalion, the 604th Duk Company, commanded by 1st Lt. David B. Evans. Supply sergeant for the company is Sgt. Bruce W. Cartwright, 40, of Cambridge, Mass. Cartwright has been a member of the 604th since March, 1954.

Fort Eustis Unit at Story For Field Training

Story's bivouac area currently is accommodating the 30th Transportation Technical Intelligence Detachment, a Fort Eustis unit, which arrived this week for two weeks of training in the field. Commanding the 30th is Capt. Neil Groman, with Capt. John M. Demaria as executive officer.

Truck Maintenance School Turns Out New Class

The 8-week course in operation and maintenance of the amphibious truck, conducted by the 461st Transportation Company of the 376th T Battalion, turned out another group of skilled trainees this week, with Story's deputy terminal commander, Lt. Col. P. O. Ward, presenting the certificates of course completion. Honor student of the class, the 49th of its type, was 20 year old Cpl. James A. West of Fulton, Miss. He was congratulated by both Colonel Ward and the commanding officer of the 376th Battalion, Major Carl D. Reed.

'King of Hearts' On Boards at Tent Theatre

Tidewater gets a glimpse this week into the private life of a famous comic strip artist at Theatre-Go-Round, 67th and Atlantic, in Virginia Beach. "King of Hearts," Broadway's hit comedy of 1955 opened at the yellow and blue show tent Tuesday night and will continue for the customary six performances through Sunday, July 17th.

"King of Hearts" ran for a full season on Broadway and starred Jackie Cooper and Donald Cook in its original cast. Playing the featured roles at the Beach this week are Richard A. Hill, last seen as Henry in "The Great Gatsby" and Claude Laitson, who portrayed the comic Red Cross man in the same play, and Maria Corbett, also seen as Emmy Pleasant in the "Gilt-Away."

Dick Hill returns for his second season at Theatre-Go-Round after an absence of four years.

Among his memorable roles in 1951 were leads in "Charley's Aunt" and "Ah Wilderness," both of which fully demonstrated his flair for comedy. His background includes study at the Royal Academy in England where he worked with Sir Laurence Olivier and Oliver and Michael Redgrave.

Claude Laitson is a native Texan, who received his degree in Fine Arts from the University of Texas. Although only 25, he has extensive experience behind him in both summer and winter stock. He toured with the national company of "Be Your Ace" in 1953-1954.

Maria Corbett is back for her second season at Theatre-Go-Round. She has many years of summer stock to her credit, having appeared at Des Moines, Pa.; Keene, N. H.; Windham, N. H., and Rockville Center, N. Y. She will be remembered for her leading role in "A Girl Can Tell" at the Beach last year.

"King of Hearts" is the second Broadway release presented by Theatre-Go-Round this season. Tickets may be reserved by phone at Virginia Beach 2730 or picked up at the box office at 67th Street and Atlantic after 11 a. m.

Fireworks at Park Friday Night

Fireworks are scheduled at Seaside Park on Friday night, July 15, as a free attraction.

A special attraction is being offered to the patrons of Seaside Park, starting Wednesday, with Wild Bill Tucker, the last of the frontiersmen. He appears on stage between 4:00 and 5:00 P.M. in connection with the Seaside Park radio program on Station WBOP, which occurs at the park.

Wild Bill has a plentiful supply of Davy Crockett guns, including two gold plated Winchester 73 Buffalo Bill guns. He is Wolfwood's original sound effect man, giving sound effects of battles, storms at sea, duck call, jungle sounds, Taran yells, Pow and others. He is a real cowboy of the original West and has been a star of television, radio and stage. His appearances are offered as a free attraction to the park.

Parents with children are especially invited to see and hear Wild Bill Tucker; a treat is store for them.

Chapel In The Woods Setting For Robson-Burrell Vows Saturday

Miss Sarah Burrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Burrell of Lynnhaven, to L. (Jg) Harry Ernest Robson, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robson of Johnstown, Pa., took place last Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the Chapel in the Woods, Naval Air Station. The ceremony was performed by Chaplain Wiley W. Huffman in a setting of white flowers and lighted cathedral candles. Mrs. Don Korte accompanied Glen Robson, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white length wedding gown of blue silk tulle with a wide U neckline, short sleeves, empire bodice and a full butterfly skirt. Her waist length veil of blue silk tulle was arranged from an open crown of net circled in tiny seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of gardenias.

Mrs. Hunter Frank Robinson, Jr., of Norfolk, was matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a white waist length polished silk and cotton gown, made with scooped neckline, long torso bodice and full skirt. She wore a white velvet bandeau and carried a nosegay of Charm carnations and Carol Amies roses.

TUNA RECIPES

I hope you enjoyed the "Tuna Notes" I gave you last week. Tuna recipes are plentiful, and the fish is economical, so include tuna in your menus often. Summer time is especially a good time for many of the tuna recipes, and I hope you'll enjoy these.

TUNA AND PINEAPPLE SALAD

2 cans (6½ or 7 oz.) chilled tuna.
1 cup pineapple tid-bits.
½ cup chopped celery.
½ cup chopped nut meats.
½ cup mayonnaise.
Drain tuna, flake and combine with other ingredients. Mix lightly. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce.

TUNA SLAW

2 cans tuna (6½ or 7 oz.) chilled.
2 cups shredded cabbage.
½ green pepper, chopped.
1 tablespoon grated onion.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.
Drain tuna; flake. Combine all ingredients and toss lightly. Chill and serve on crisp salad greens.

TUNA SOUFFLE SALAD

2 cans tuna (6½ or 7 oz.).
1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin.
1 cup hot water.
½ cup cold water.
2 tablespoons vinegar.
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.

dressing

¼ teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
1 tablespoon grated onion.
½ cup chopped celery.
½ cup chopped parsley.

Drain tuna; flake. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water, vinegar, mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Blend well with a rotary beater. Pour into refrigerator freezing traps. Chill in freezing unit 15 or 20 minutes or until firm about 1 inch from edge but still soft in center. Turn mixture into bowl and whip with rotary beater until fluffy. Fold in onion, celery, parsley and tuna. Pour into a quart mold and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. Serves six.

TUNA CLUB SANDWICHES

2 cans tuna (6½ or 7 oz.).
2 tablespoons chopped celery.
3 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle.
3 tablespoons chopped onion.
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.
18 slices buttered bread.
4 tomatoes, sliced.
12 lettuce leaves.
Drain tuna; flake. Combine with celery, pickle, onion and mayonnaise. Spread 6 slices of bread with tuna mixture; cover each with a second slice of bread and place tomatoes and lettuce on lettuce leaves with the remaining six slices of bread. Fasten sandwiches with toothpicks. Cut in quarters. Serves six.

TUNA JAMBALAYA

2 cans tuna (6½ or 7 oz.).
½ cup chopped green pepper.
½ cup chopped onion.
1 cup chopped celery.
½ cup butter or other fat, melted.
1½ cup bouillon.
1 can (29 ounces) tomatoes.
¾ cup rice.
Dash pepper.
Drain tuna; flake. Cook onion, green pepper and celery in butter until tender. Add bouillon, tomatoes, rice and seasoning. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer for 25 minutes or until rice is tender. Add tuna; heat. Serves six.

TUNA AND CHEESE BISCUIT ROLL

2 cans tuna (6½ or 7 oz.).
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
2 tablespoons butter or other fat, melted.
2 tablespoons flour.
½ cup milk.
¾ cup grated cheese.
2 cups biscuit mix.
Drain tuna; flake. Cook onion.

FROSTED TUNA SANDWICH LOAF

1 can tuna (6½ or 7 oz.).
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing.
1 pkg. (8 ounces) cream cheese.
2 tablespoons milk.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 pound loaf unsliced white bread.
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing.
1 pound tomatoes, peeled and sliced.
1 jar (5 ounces) pimiento cheese spread.
Stuffed green olives.
Parsley.

Drain tuna; flake. Add mayonnaise and mix well. Combine cream cheese, milk and salt; whip until light and fluffy. Remove crust from bread and cut lengthwise into four slices. Put layers together sandwich fashion, using the following fillings:
Mayonnaise and sliced tomatoes.
Tuna mixture.
Pimiento cheese spread.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Quick Fry - Orange Bread
Makes one loaf

1 cup dried figs.
1 egg.
1-2 cups milk.
2 tablespoons oil.
2 tablespoons grated orange peel.
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour.
½ cup sugar.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1½ teaspoons salt.

Rinse figs, cover with water and boil five minutes. Stir in egg and rind. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add to liquid mixture and stir until all of dry mixture is moistened. Turn into a greased loaf pan (9 by 5 by 3). Bake in moderate 350 degree, oven about 1½ hours.

In butter until tender; blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add cheese and heat until melted. Mix in tuna. Prepare biscuit mix as directed. Roll dough into a rectangular piece about 12 by 18 by 1-8 inch. Spread with tuna filling. Roll like a jelly roll and seal ends and edges. Vent top of roll. Place on a well-greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven (400 F.) 15 to 30 minutes or until biscuit browns. Serves six.

Keep several cans of tuna in your refrigerator - and of course some on your pantry shelf. It will prove very helpful on many occasions.

Bye, now

Dressed up salads of fresh fruit make wonderful salad desserts and never fail to please. Why not try large black cherries in lettuce nests with pineapple spears, balls of cream cheese and black olives?

Sliced roast beef placed in overlapping slices in a well arranged tomato aspic makes a pretty special treat. Serve this with shoestring potatoes and relishes.

Onionets make a nice dessert when you want a change. For example, try a puffinet topped with sliced peaches and sprinkled with cinnamon sugar. Sliced with orange marmalade. Run under the broiler just before serving.

Here's a dessert that's cooling and pretty as a picture: Place scoops of lime sherbet into sherique shells and serve with pineapple sauce, garnished with red berries.

Rice pudding will take on seasonal flavor if you chill it in small molds and serve with a syrup of cold peaches and cherries.

By definition top soil has humus or organic matter in it and it is that material that keeps the soil porous yet spongy so that moisture is retained longer. And of course, top soil can be expected to have a small amount of plant food available. Therefore the more top soil the better to about six inches - then increases in top soil depth give diminishing returns.

Time Needed

Time is needed for practically all jobs. It is a characteristic of soil in the eastern part of the United States to be acidic, and since grass does better in an alkaline soil, lime should be used when the soil is being prepared and should also be used each fall and spring as part of the maintenance program.

Fertilizer is also very beneficial. A garden type should be used - the most common strengths are 10-6-4 and 6-10-5. The new pelletized 8-8-5 is very convenient to use and quite satisfactory. We do not recommend manure unless it has been dried and purified because the fresh manure can be strong enough to burn and because it nearly always contains undesirable weed seeds.

Bermuda Grass Best

For the average sunny lawn, Bermuda grass is the best for this area. It has the advantage of sending out horizontal runners or shoots, so that it spreads and forms a very dense wear resistant mat of grass. It also stands dry conditions better than other lawn grasses here. Bermuda is not

Establishment of a beautiful lawn in the Virginia Beach area is thought by many people to be impossible or prohibitively expensive. However there are enough attractive lawns here to make us aware of their possibility and they can be established at a cost that may not be out of the question. Certainly the cost of a home is enhanced by a well-established and maintained lawn.

If there is nothing but sand at the site, experience has shown that the clay should be brought in and spread over the area to a depth of two to three inches. This stabilizes the sand below and aids in retaining moisture from rain and watering.

On top of the clay should be spread top soil. For best results, five to six inches is required. But, since top soil is expensive, then it can be reduced to three to four inches. Too little top soil will produce a shallow-rooted stand of grass that will be killed back by hot summer sun.

Asparagus Enjoys Longer Season

Fresh asparagus is a seasonal treat, in contrast to the many other fresh vegetables that now are on the market year around. The asparagus season, however, is considerably longer than when families had only local supplies. From mid-February, when the early California crop is ready, the season extends into July when the crop comes in from northern states. The peak supply comes in May or June, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The leading producing states are California, New Jersey and Washington, all furnishing asparagus for fresh market and for canning or freezing.

The earliest California crop usually brings good prices at fresh market because of its earliness. As the harvest becomes heavier, processors purchase, Massachusetts produces a sizeable late crop for fresh market.

For top quality, asparagus ought to be fresh, tender and firm - with close, compact tips. A tender stalk will be brittle when it is broken or easily punctured with a fork. The whole stalk, except for an inch or two at the base, should be tender. Wilting stalks or spreading tips often indicate that asparagus has been out too long. Angular stalks are likely to be tough and stringy.

Because the tender tips of asparagus need less cooking than the stem, cookery specialists suggest tying the bunches so they can stand upright in a deep pan. Then, stems can boil in lightly salted water while the tips cook in a steam. Some homemakers use a double boiler for asparagus, inverting the upper part over the tips to hold in steam. Or, cut asparagus in one-inch lengths and cook until almost tender in boiling water and then put in the tips. Allow 10 to 20 minutes to boil asparagus, depending on tenderness. To be sure of serving grilles asparagus, strip the small, close leaves from the stalk before washing. Band may be hidden underneath. Serve asparagus with melted butter, possibly with a few drops of lemon juice added. Or serve pieces of asparagus creamed.

CHECK METAL OF HOUSE FOR RUST THIS FALL

Don't forget to inspect the metal on your house! Whether you live in a brick or wood home, you still have plenty of valuable metal construction that represents an expensive investment. Check it over in late summer or early fall before it takes its annual winter beating. Check for rust - for rust eats away metal and destroys it faster than termites destroy wood. You can lick rust by proper and timely painting.

A GOOD SIGHT

If you stroll out to the high school athletic field almost any evening in the week, you are apt to find around 40 boys, plus a plethora of managers, trainers, coaches and quite a throng of shrieking juveniles and full-throated adults—all absorbed in a baseball game. The breezes are cool, the company congenial, the contests exciting. It is a good way to spend an evening.

You know that the boys are having a good time and so are the rest. But there is much more to this Little League ball program than meets the eye. It is good for what it is—an evening pleasantly-occupied for everybody. But it is better for what it is a sign of—hundreds of growing boys who have something good and wholesome to absorb their energies.

An Ounce of Prevention

The best cure for juvenile crime is not to have it in the first place. The best cure is to head it off before it hits. How can this be done? The answer is simple: You must give the prospective delinquents something else to do. They must be so occupied and absorbed with this that they do not get into the other.

This is, in a sense, a physical procedure. The energy of the boys is all used up in the games and the training and preparation for them. They have no energy left for deceptions. But this is only a part of it. The principal value of the Little League program is psychological. It is not so much that the boys are physically occupied a good part of the week; it is, rather, that they are mentally occupied. The games are a constant source of attention and interest. They re-play them, and think about the mistakes that were made which can be avoided the "next time." They plan and prepare for the next contest. No doubt there are more elevating things to occupy a ten-year-old's mind than baseball. But there are a good many worse things, too—things that are heard in the juvenile courts of the nation every day.

Juvenile Ballistics

Here, then, is the value of our Little League baseball program. It is something good the boys will go for. The program gives them an idea—something to hang their thoughts on—something to tie their drives to—a way to express the redundant energies of their being that must be expressed.

Nor is this all. There are character values in the program that the boys do not absorb. Such things as discipline, team play, and good sportsmanship are very real. The boys learn about all these things and they learn about them when they need them most.

The community owes a debt of gratitude to one man, Tom Bailey, and the many others he inspired. Their vision and indefatigable labors have achieved something good.

X-RAY NOT A PHOTO BUT A RADIOGRAPH

The mysterious "x" ray was first discovered in 1895 by Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, a German physicist, while he was experimenting with high vacuum tubes. It was he who named it the "x" ray, for he called it the "roentgen ray." What we see in an x-ray picture corresponds to the photographic negative made in an ordinary camera. However, it is not properly a PHOTOGRAPH, but a RADIOGRAPH, for where light rays bounce off solids, x-rays pass through them like light rays, they are so are short-wave length as to be out of the range of sight.

"World's Best Fishin' Hole" is Chesapeake Bay, Bulletin Avers

Chesapeake Bay may be "The World's Best Fishin' Hole," according to an article in the second issue of the Bulletin of International Oceanographic Foundation, just off the press.

Written by Dr. J. L. McHugh, director of the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory at Gloucester Point, the article describes, with illustrations, Virginia's great seafood and sport-fishing industry. The scientific research program of the laboratory is also summarized.

Founded late in 1954 at Miami, Fla., the Foundation brings together fishermen, yachtsmen, scientists, shipowners and all others interested in exploration of the sea. Its objectives are to support and encourage scientific exploration and discovery and to disseminate knowledge of the oceans through illustrated publications and other media. The board of trustees includes such prominent names as Ernest Hemingway, the famous author, and Dr. John Oliver LaGorce, president of the National Geographic Society.

In addition to the article on Chesapeake fisheries, the present issue includes stories on the disappearance of the filefish, one of the greatest catastrophes and mysteries of the sea; the famous voyage of the "Beagle," the vessel from which Charles Darwin made the observations that later gave birth to his theory of evolution; the fabulous waters off the coast of Peru that support the tremendous number of fishes, fed upon by great flocks of sea birds; posits of guano, a rich and valuable in turn produce the rich delectable fertilizer, and microbes in the sea.

For the first year of publication, the magazine will be in black and white. Later it is planned to include color photographs. The magazine should be of interest to all those who love the sea. Copies can be obtained, and subscriptions entered, by writing the Secretary, International Oceanographic Foundation, 493 Anastasia Avenue, Coral Gables, Fla.

South Bird Island, Texas, is the only white pelican nesting colony on the Gulf Coast of the United States. It is a sanctuary of the National Audubon Society.

Alcoholic beverages and tobacco cost the American public over $15 billion in 1953; milk and dairy products less than $9 billion.

Plymouth announces that a new styling version of the low-cost Plymouth Six sedan, with Sportone trim in two-tone color combinations, is new in volume production. ### Coincidence, Thy Workings Are Wonderful Vacations have a way of bringing together all sorts, sizes and kinds of people. At the Barnton Hotel, 311 16th Street, Virginia Beach, the guest register recently looked like a convention of newspaper employees.

Without any previous knowledge of one another's identities, a group of five persons all employed in the publishing field, found themselves together for their vacations.

The vacation period of the five stretched in length from three weeks to a lowly one week. The group was composed of persons coming from Canada, Michigan, Washington, D. C., and New Jersey.

Mrs. Julia Bailey, of 6533 10th Street, Detroit, is a representative of two Hungarian foreign language newspapers, including the Hungarian Daily Journal, published in Detroit.

A. Lincoln Mahoney, of 2227 20th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., had been a reporter on leading papers in Passaic, N. J., and Chicago, Ill., before going into the public relations field in Washington.

Cecil Williams, chief librarian of the Hamilton Spectator, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, is also the author of a book and the originator of a unique morning system for filing news at the large Canadian paper.

Two sisters from 105 Van Wagenen Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., were the last of the quartet to arrive and depart from the Beach. Betty Foley, an editorial assistant, is connected with the Jersey Journal in Jersey City. Her sister, Barbara Foley, is in the clerical branch and merchandising department of the Methodist Publishing House in New York City.

G. Russell Bailey and the Messing Mahoney and Williams accompanied their respective wife and husbands to the Beach.

Mrs. Florence A. Hummer is the owner and manager of the urtonia. At the time she accepted the reservations for the group's vacation stay in Virginia Beach she was not aware of the coincidence of their work, a fact which was pointed out by Miss Betty Foley, one of the guests.

Travel Accommodations In State Take Big Upward Swing This Year

Investments in improvement and construction of new travel accommodations in Virginia during the fiscal year which ended June 30 equaled or exceeded $25,000,000, the Virginia Travel Council estimates. The Council says that during the last seven years more than $100 million in accommodations and food facilities in Virginia have been made to serve Virginia's ever-expanding travel industry.

Managing Director Robert F. Nelson reported that construction under way in Virginia, or announced for completion during the next 12 months, already exceeds $6 million, and that indications point to at least $12 million in new and improved facilities during fiscal 1956-57.

"Today the majority of Virginia's hotels have been completely renovated or are in the final stages of renovation," the Council reports. "New motel construction has been almost 100% of the total construction of the most modern and convenient type. Aside from actual construction costs, the largest single item of outlay appears to have been air conditioning, and the general trend in all new construction is to make television sets available on an individual room basis. Where this is impractical, television is still to be had in almost all establishments through special television rooms or lobby theatres."

The Council states that millions are being poured into recreational type facilities throughout the Old Dominion, with approximately 100 swimming pools having been built during the last two years, primarily in motels along the highways or at mountain or beach resorts. Hundreds of facilities, such

AZALEAS OF TOMORROW

A GROUP OF MINIATURE AZALEA PLANTS in one of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's research greenhouses at Beltsville, Md., may—in the future—mean that nurseries will be able to offer these very popular flowering shrubs sized to suit landscaping around lawns or for rock gardens. These compact little azaleas, none more than 8 to 12 inches high and with a spread of only a few inches, look like youngsters compared to the big-boned, 5-footers growing nearby. However, the small azaleas are 9 or 10 years old while their large neighbors are only about half that age.

The miniature azaleas are "true genetic dwarfs," according to S. L. Emswiler, who is in charge of this work of the Agricultural Research Service. As yet, no true dwarf azaleas have been on the market, but the unique collection at Beltsville makes this a likely possibility a few years hence. Colors of the flowers of these little plants range from white and various pinks to orange-red, and from lavender to purplish.

In the course of the department's azalea-breeding work, Robert Pryor became interested in ala. Deep green leaves may carry several times as much of some nutrients, as green stalks, green pods or green immature seeds. It is for this reason that nutritionists have stressed the value of "leafy greens" in meals.

IF GREEN VEGETABLES must be held a day or two before using, refrigerate them. Keep them moist—in the vegetable crisper or other covered container. In the moisture-resistant bag they came in, or in a plastic bag. Be careful not to bruise leafy vegetables in storing. Cook green vegetables quickly for best quality. Use a cover on the pan to speed cooking, and cook until the vegetable is just tender and still slightly crisp. Long cooking makes vegetables limp and changes color and flavor.

SAFETY OUT OF REACH

ONE RULE frequently given for convenience and safety in your household is: Keep supplies and equipment within easy reach and sight of where they are used. But the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests making some exceptions to this rule when there are young children in the family. Then the safety of the children calls for storing many items out of their reach, even if this means less convenience for mother for a few years. A high shelf thus may be a safe shelf.

ACCIDENTS now are among the leading causes of deaths and injury to children under five years of age. Many that occur in homes are the result of poisoning from the various chemical substances kept on hand for such household jobs as cleaning, for example. Often these substances are so familiar that their possible harm to young children does not occur to homemakers until after the accident.

The American Medical Association recently commented on some of the leading causes of fatalities to young children from accidental poisoning. As might be expected, medicines left within the child's reach ranked high among them, familiar preparations used for the relief of pain. Other great hazards include such common items as bleaches, lighter fluid, cleaning fluid, insect sprays, rat poisons, permanent wave solutions, shampoo, nail polish remover, anti-freeze, detergents, kerosene, furniture polish and ammonia.

During the early years when children are exploring and tasting, families may prevent such accidents by storing items in

Indianapolis School Executive Heads Kiwanis International

JACKSON A. RANEY

Jackson A. Raney, Indianapolis school executive, has been named president of Kiwanis International. He was elected to the number one Kiwanis post Wednesday, July 20, by delegates attending the 46th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Cleveland, Ohio.

As head of Kiwanis International, Raney will be official spokesman for some 15,000 of a million Kiwanians in 462 clubs located throughout the United States and Canada, and in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. He succeeds Don E. Engdahl, Spokane, Wash., Kiwanian who has held the post since August of last year.

Phone 1877 to place a Classified. Raney has devoted most of his professional life to the education of the physically handicapped. He has been superintendent of the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis for 20 years. He is a graduate of Franklin College and a member of its council. Recently he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from that institution.

Kiwanis' president-elect has been an active Kiwanian for 19 years. Immediately prior to his selection for the number one Kiwanis post, he was vice president of the organization. He was also chairman of the International Convention Program Committee for this year, and for 1954. He has served as president of his own Indianapolis Kiwanis Club, lieutenant governor and governor of the Indiana Kiwanis District and chairman of the International Committee on Boys and Girls work. His work in the field of boys and girls has been instrumental in bringing increased public attention to the various Kiwanis programs devoted to the welfare of the youth of the United States and Canada.

Delegates to the Cleveland convention numbered more than 13,000, to make the convention one of the organization's largest.

6 years old

Century Club—a straight bourbon, light and mild. Since 1883, Century Club has been a whiskey made under strict quality control. Only choice, sun-ripened grains and pure-cultured yeast are used in producing Century Club. After distillation, this whiskey is stored in new charred white oak barrels under temperature and humidity known to be best for proper ageing.

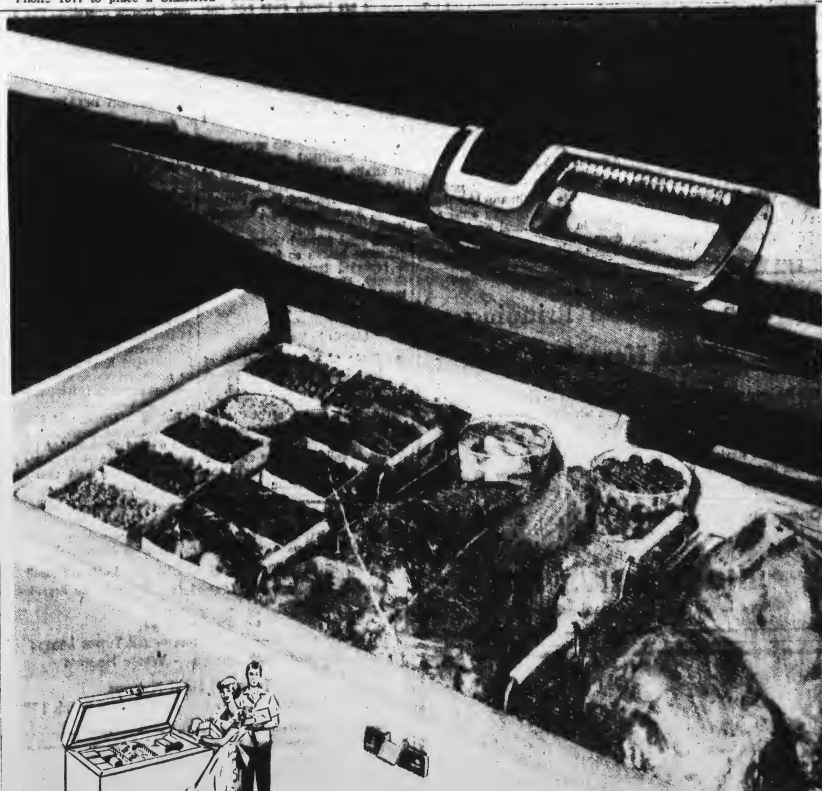

At 6 years of age, its peak of maturity, this whiskey is filtered and inspected to insure that rigid quality standards have been met.

Today, as a result of improved distilling methods, plus years of patient ageing, Century Club surpasses in quality any Century Club previously offered.

Smart Families FREEZE In July...

Have you gone to your neighborhood market recently on Saturday afternoon — noticed prices on produce reduced for quick sale? Tender young corn that's near its peak of sweetness — luscious golden peaches almost bursting with juicy goodness.

Here's the old law of supply and demand at work — prices go down when supply goes up. And here's where the modern food freezer writes its own law of plenty and abundance. Yes, smart families freeze corn, butter beans, peas and peaches in July when they are at their peak and when prices are at their lowest.

Select your food freezer now and join the many thousand homemakers who are taking advantage of "in-season" buying. Then next winter when the family demand for fresh fruits and vegetables is great and the supply is small, all you have to do is turn to your electric food freezer. You'll have garden-fresh foods at low, low in-season prices!

Revision Announced For 4-H Hog Program

● The 4-H market hog show and sale program in Virginia is being revised.

Beginning this fall all hogs will be graded by a representative of the State Division of Markets. This falls in line with the new hog-grading system initiated by the Richmond market this spring. All hogs will be graded upon arrival on the grounds into four grades: U.S. No. 1, U.S. No. 2, U.S. No. 3, and medium. Only U.S. No. 1 and 2 will be allowed to show. Emphasis will be on quality, in order that the producer of meat-type hogs will be paid accordingly. Over-fat hogs will face a discount, both in the show and sale.

By "meat-type" it means that a hog will yield a high percentage of his live weight in lean meat cuts. Two-thirds of the prize money will be paid to U.S. No. 1 classes. The remainder will go to U.S. No. 2. Both singles and pens of three will be shown, but all hogs must grade the same to be shown in a pen of three. After the show all hogs will be sold in groups according to grade.

The first show will be held at Front Royal August 11; Bristol, September 14; Orange September 18; Richmond September 30, in connection with the Atlantic Rural Exposition. Four more shows will be held next spring.

In the production of hogs for the 4-H program, club members should have animals on feed now and weighing 60 to 80 pounds. This office can give details. Feeding and management from now on will play a big part in what sort of hogs any individual club member will have to show and sell. Although breeding plays a big part in production of meat-type hogs, many can be "fed into" high grades.

Call Beef Cows Now Says Livestock Expert

● Rigid culling of all beef cow herds is in order now. Beef cattlemen generally find this time of year the best time in which to do their first culling. Cows usually bring their best prices, and, coming off spring grass, are usually in good condition. Soon afterward, pastures start to weaken and farmers find it best to get rid of their undesirable and save their grass for the cattle to be carried through until fall.

The first cows to be singled out for market should be those which failed to calve. Any commercial beef cow which does not produce a living calf should be sent to market and replaced with a heifer. The first time a commercial cow fails to calve should be her last time.

The next kind of cows singled out for culling should be the poor milkers. Cows which do a poor job of raising their calves. Several years ago a cow, which milked poorly and raised a light weight calf could make money, but now she will be little more than paying for her feed. It is better to replace her with a heifer while hean he expected to be a better producer.

This is also a good time to get rid of those cows of nondescript breeding. The market demand now is for a well-bred calf which has no traces whatsoever of scrub or dairy breeding. Calves produced by low quality cows grade low and sell at a discount. It costs no more to care for and feed a good cow in the herd than it does a good one.

Over-age cows also should be culled. When a cow reaches a point where her calves are not as heavy as they once were because of declining milk supply, or she is getting hard to winter, it's time to exchange her for a young animal.

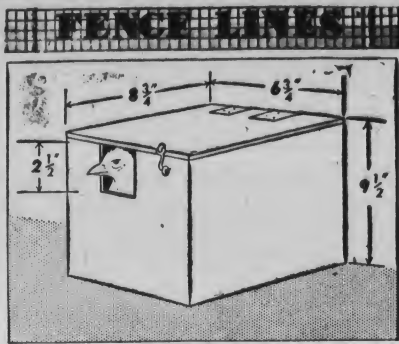

Cows which need to be culled for other reasons, but do have calves at side which will develop into high quality, well-grown feeder calves this fall, should be culled after the calves are weaned in October.

Sugarbeetle Beetle

Appears in Virginia

● An insect relatively unfamiliar to Virginians the sugarbeetle beetle, is causing some concern in agricultural circles these days.

Serious and general outbreaks

HEN HOLDER . . . You can hold a fidgety hen by making a box so snug the bird has no room to move around. Cut slot at one end so narrow hen cannot withdraw her head and you'll have both hands free for de-beaking or putting on spurs.

of the beetle have been reported from nearby Tennessee, and from one county in North Carolina in Virginia this year it has been found in Mecklenburg county. The last recorded severe damage done by the sugarbeetle in Virginia was in 1914. Control recommendations are forthcoming.

Fringed White Beetle

Entomologists are also on the alert for the white fringed beetle. An insect not yet reported in Virginia, but likely present. It is known to be at Rocky Mount, N. C., and it's doubtful if Virginia can get by much longer without reported infestations. The quicker the infestation is spotted, the easier will be the control. The beetle seriously damages many fields and garden crops, ornamentals and wild plants. If infestations are found, state and federal quarantine personnel will take over direction of the control measures.

June beetle adults are attacking corn in the Tidewater area. Infestations are medium and spotted in the entire area. Adults only have been found. No controls are advised.

A bright spot is the appearance of the beneficial ground beetle in alfalfa fields in a few areas of the state. Reports and specimens have been received from Pittsylvania, Spotsylvania and Cumberland.

The first general infestation of Japanese beetles so far this year is reported from Princess Anne County, Norfolk is also having trouble.

Pine Beetle Endangers Some Stands in Virginia

● Some of Virginia's stands of pine trees are suffering from a hurricane hangover. Dr. J. O. Rowell, entomologist at VPI, declares that many of the trees blown down during Hurricane Hazel lodged against standing trees. An insect called the pine engraver beetle, or IPS beetle, attacks the blown-over trees, then travels to the healthy trees where the two are in contact. In this way, he explains, a large insect population can be built up which can destroy all the trees in the stand.

Reports are coming in from North Carolina and other southern states that there is an outbreak of the pine engraver beetle which has reached epidemic proportions. It can easily happen in Virginia.

Many forest landowners have already cut down and salvaged these blown-over pine trees. If they can be salvaged—fine. If they can't, they still should be cut down and any part of the cut tree removed from contact with the living healthy trees. The damaged trees, if removed now, can be cut into the same products they normally would be in a regular logging operation. The owner should see the pulpwood buyer or sawmill operator before he cuts them into any particular product.

MOURNING DOVES POPULATION DECLINES

According to C. F. Phelps, chief of the game division of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, a recent morning "call count" of mourning doves showed a decrease in the number of these game birds as compared to last year. Phelps says that this census may have little significance, however, as the sample taken was too small to be definitive.

Observations by laymen and representatives of the field staff of the game commission indicate a considerably greater number than at this time in 1954. It is believed, therefore, according to Mr. Phelps, that if conditions continue normally, there will be a big crop of doves next September.

Robert J. Cadigan of Philadelphia, editor of Protestant Life, was elected president of the Associated Church Press at its 30th annual meeting held this spring in Washington, D. C.

Speakers Named For VPI Institute Of Rural Affairs

Allan B. Kline, Western Springs, Ill., former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and the Hon. H. Roe Bartle, mayor of Kansas City, Mo., have been named the two principal evening speakers for the Institute of Rural Affairs at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, July 26-28.

Mayor Bartle will speak Tuesday evening, July 26; Kline, Wednesday evening. Highlight of the Thursday evening program will be the presentation of the VPI "Certificates of Merit" to two individuals judged to have made outstanding contributions to agriculture in Virginia. The presentation will be made by Dr. W. S. Newman, VPI president. He is also scheduled for an address on Tuesday afternoon before the annual meeting of the Agricultural Conference Board of Virginia.

The Board, composed of representatives of almost all agricultural groups in Virginia, also will hear a report from Maury Hubbard, executive secretary of the Virginia Farm Bureau on proposals to be made to the next session of the General Assembly, and an address by John H. Davis, former assistant secretary of agriculture and now director of the Moffett Program in Agriculture and Business, Harvard University.

In concurrent sessions Tuesday will be the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs.

Wednesday morning, three sessions will be held at the Institute proper. Speakers at the various sessions will include: (1) Paul Maris, former Extension Service director in Oregon and retired national director of rural rehabilitation, Farm Security Administration (now FSA); Arlington; and Dr. Warren Thompson, director emeritus, Scripta Foundation, Oxford, Ohio; (2) J. B. Kohlmeier, professor, agricultural economics, Purdue University; and (3) Warren Schmidt, coordinator, International Farm Youth Exchange Program, Silver Springs, Md.

Section speakers Thursday a.m. will include: (1) Dr. Ann Gary Pannell, president, Sweet Briar College; (2) H. B. Henderson, head of the dairy department, University of Georgia; Dr. B. B. Schweigert, assistant director, American Meat Institute Foundation, University of Chicago; and Dr. H. N. Young, director VPI Agricultural Experiment Station; and (3) Mrs. Polly Hanst, homemaker and youth writer, Oakland, Md.

Afternoon sessions will be devoted primarily to departmental meetings and tours.

Other speakers will be announced later.

USES OF X-RAY MANY AND VARIED

The eyes of the x-ray reach far into the structures of the body, but not only to find such sharp disorders as broken bones and foreign objects. To the physician who specializes in x-ray, the radiologist, they reveal disorders and diseases of the chest, the circulatory system and the heart, the digestive area, the genitourinary system and most of the other major organs.

Livestock Sale Summary Given For 4 - H's

The average price per cwt. was $30.19, the highest price since the break in the cattle market in 1952. Last year's average was $29.38 per cwt. Top average price ($34.96) this spring was paid at Bristol. The next to highest price for a grand champion also was paid to Nancy Horne of Marion, at Bristol — $70 per cwt. for an Angus. Top individual price was $71, paid at Roanoke to Jimmy McNabb of Montgomery for a Hereford.

In conjunction with certain of the baby beef events were heifer shows. A total of 137 heifers were shown at Bristol, Roanoke, Staunton, Winchester, Richmond, Danville and Portsmouth.

A notable development this year Henderson said was increased buying by packers. Largest group of buyers consisted of private individuals and businesses, followed by chain stores. There were a few hotels and restaurants buying, Henderson said.

THE CAPTAIN'S FIRST KEEL

Little does this young master know that in naval lingo a ship is often a "keel." And he hardly could be expected to understand why.

In a moment he'll launch his vessel on the crest of a dying wave, and barring mishap, watch it ride to sea until the next breaker drives it again to shore. And if, perchance, she stays upright and turns again to sea he'll never realize that her seaworthiness is primarily a matter of having the right keel.

The Captain's life will be like his ship! He'll have to face the breakers' roll just as the rest of us do. Whether he remains upright, ready for the next onslaught, or washes up on the beach, is going to depend on the moral and spiritual undergirding of his life.

We can't expect this Captain to know how important a keel can be. But everyone expects his parents, with the help of the Church, to provide him with the best keel a young master can have—a positive, courageous faith in God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his community and nation. (2) For the sake of his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HIGH TIDES HARM CLAPPER RAIL NESTS

The Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries has just completed a study of the effects of high tides in May and June on the clapper rail population of the Eastern Shore of Virginia. It was found that during mid-May high tides destroyed numerous nests of this game bird which builds in the tidal marshes. On June 8 and 9, not only a considerable number of nests, but also many young birds were victims of the high tides.

Other studies have made similar investigations which also indicated considerable destruction all along the Atlantic seaboard.

Although many sufferers blame the goldenrod, it's actually the pollen from the ragweed that sets hay-fever victims to sneezing. The pollen of the goldenrod is too heavy to ride the wind, while ragweed pollen, on the other hand, spreads even on light breezes.

It takes ten tons of falling water to generate one kilowatt-hour of electricity.

Muller Scores as Author, Director

The familiar figure of Romeo Muller is back at Virginia Beach which means, as it has since 1950, that Theatre-Go-Round's summer season is almost upon us. Romeo has been a member of every summer company since Lesley Savage brought the yellow and blue tent to the Beach six seasons ago.

Romeo is directing "Picnic" which opened Tuesday night, June 28th at 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue. This play ran two full seasons on Broadway and William Inge, its author, received the Critics Circle Award and the Pulitzer Prize for his efforts.

For a young man of twenty-seven, Muller's theatrical score is extraordinary. During the first few years of his career he was primarily an actor concentrating on television and the stage in New York and stock in Massachusetts and Virginia Beach. But in 1953, with the Theatre-Go-Round production of his original play "With Drum and Colours" (now under option for Broadway opening as "Maloney"), two other basic interests became apparent. Writing and Directing were his major activities in 1954. He wrote and directed "Angel With the Big Bang" which Miss Savage tried out at Theatre-Go-Round and is now producing on Broadway this fall. He spent the winter and early spring in New York writing special material for Jack Benny and Edgar Bergen.

But the urge to act has come upon Romeo again and this year he will not only direct his new original "The Great City-Away" but play the lead as well. In addition he will appear in many more plays this year than last, including a portrayal of the Menasha Skulnik role in "The Fifth Season."

"Picnic" the opening play of the 1955 season runs Tuesday through Sunday, June 28th to July 3. Curtain time is 8:40 and tickets may be reserved by phoning 2730 or picked up at the box office at 67th and Atlantic. Saturday night, July 2nd, is already sold out but good seats are available for the Tuesday through Friday and Sunday night performances.

Of the 800,000 persons who die from diseases of the heart, about one-third are below the age of 65.

X-RAYS USED TO HEAL

In addition to its work as a medical detective, x-ray is also used to heal. However, the equipment is usually altogether different from that used for radiography. With its ability to both make visible the invisible and to treat the abnormal, x-ray helps the physician in three ways — to maintain health before illness can start; to make early diagnosis when symptoms do occur; and to treat such grave diseases as cancer.

American Cancer Society statistics show that more than 600 Americans die of cancer each day.

Two major contests highlighted this fifth week of recreation. At the High School playground on 26th Street, Miss Pat Bowry held a bicycle parade.

The W. T. Cooke hobby show had many entrants, with diversified hobbies on display. Mrs. George Alcorn, Mrs. Ralph Hardin and Mrs. Lamb served as judges.

County Building Rate Still Highest In Entire Area
Princess Anne County continues to lead all other political subdivisions in this area in new residential construction during the first half of the year, according to figures compiled and released by the Builders and Contractors Exchange.

Permits that totaled $11,862,300 were issued in residential construction in Princess Anne County from January 1, 1955 through June 30, 1955. This represents an increase of $5,218,000 over the same period in 1954.

Norfolk County ranks second to Princess Anne, but is far behind with $5,797,265 worth of construction. This reflects an increase in construction, however.

Norfolk City residential construction was also on the rise, probably due in part to the acquisition of the Tanner's Creek District. Permits for $3,114,145 were issued in Norfolk City.

The City of Portsmouth showed a decided decline in home construction with only $864,900 in permits issued. This compared with $1,126,500 for the same period a year ago.

The charges were based on the basis of an editorial and an advertisement that appeared in a pre-election special edition published by the Sun-News.

Supervisors Vote Approval of Loan To Finish Schools

The Princess Anne County School Board has been authorized to borrow $213,000 for additions to two schools now under construction. The authorization came from the county's Board of Supervisors after a meeting with school officials on Tuesday.

The borrowed money is designated for the Little Creek School and the Seaboard School, it was explained by School Superintendent Frank W. Cox. Cox stated that the Little Creek school will be completed by September and the Seaboard school about October.

The authorization by the Board carried with it the provision that the money will be paid back next December 15, according to law. The Kempsville borrowing will be against anticipated taxes for that district. Money for the Seaboard School will come from the county's general fund.

A new type of construction is being used for permanent additions which will cut the cost per square foot from around $19 to $14.2, he said. It is the cheapest permanent construction that is approved by the State Department of Education, he said, adding, other areas with similar growth problems are vitally interested.

"I don't have to be a mentalist to somebody, but simply built well enough to serve the purpose." During the session, the county's chairman of the school board, John B. Dey, said that he hoped (Continued on Page Eight)

LITTLE LEAGUES CONTINUE FAST PACE

SUPAK INJURED

The Little League career of Tommy Supak, Star infielder of the Tigers, was brought to a tragic and premature end Saturday night when the Rosewood slugger suffered a broken arm in a collision.

Twelve year old Tommy twice made the Little League all star team in Minneapolis, Minn. As a pitcher - second baseman before moving to Va. Beach.

Since joining the Tigers in late June he had sparked the team to six straight victories. They were in second place three games out of first when they acquired Tommy and surged into the lead, one game ahead of the Cubs before this, his last season of Little League, was brought to an abrupt halt.

Cubs Rally to Edge Rotarians

The Presbyterian Cubs rallied for three runs in the fourth inning of an abbreviated contest to top the Rotarians 10-9. Brady went all the way for the Cubs. He was touched for only three scratch singles but was in constant trouble due to his wildness. He walked nine while striking out eleven.

With the Rotarians leading 9-7 Cornell Berry opened up the Cub fourth with a triple into the right field corner. Hanson hit Davy Jones with an inside fast ball and Robert Clark lined his third double of the night off the center field wall to score Berry. Brady's double brought in Jones and Clark with the winning tallies.

Billy McClannan, Fresh from 15 hits of Tournament golf, hurled a brilliant four hitter to lead the Sports to a 13-5 victory over the front running Rosewood Tigers.

McClannan Fanned Fourteen and walked only three in regaining his early season form. All five of the runs charged against him were unearned.

With the Tigers leading 5-1 in the third inning, George Chappell blasted a three run homer, third of the year, over the right field fence.

Lann pitched creditably until he tired in the fifth when the Sports scored eight times to break a 5-5 tie.

The Rosewood Tigers came from behind in the last inning with a 13 run rally to knock the Presbyterian Cubs out of first place by a score of 20 to 8. It is the first time this season that the Presbyterian have been out of first place.

The victory however, was a costly one for the Tigers as it resulted in the loss of their star infielder Tommy Supak for the remainder of the season. Supak since his arrival from Minnesota had sparked the Rosewood Cubs to six straight wins in their upward surge. He suffered a broken wrist in a collision with Jim Brady at home plate in the second inning. His replacement, Johnny Arndts, was also injured when struck by a line drive later in the game.

The individual batting star of the night was Little Peter Friedrich who went four for four. The Tigers were outlived 11-5 but took advantage of the wildness of four Cub hurlers who issued a combined total of twenty bases of balls.

Summer Festival Being Planned For August 6

At the regular meeting of the Chesapeake Beach Men's Club a committee was appointed to act jointly with a committee from the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Department in promoting the club's interest in the annual Summer Festival, which will be held on Saturday, August 6, under the auspices of the Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club.

It was decided at this meeting to request Supervisor E. I. Herrick to take steps to stop the littering of the beach with all types of debris. It was suggested that the enforcement of the existing ordinances by arresting and fining persons observed throwing beer cans, bottles and used lunch materials might serve as a warning to others to observe the law. It is not desired to spoil the pleasure of persons who enjoy the beach, but merely to keep the area in a clean, sanitary condition so that all may enjoy its facilities and not leave an unsightly mess for the permanent residents to smell and have to clean up. To this the secretary was directed to write a letter of complaint to Supervisor Herrick.

Chesapeake Beach bathing enthusiasts and their guests were somewhat disconcerted by the sudden emergence of black tar in surf and on the beach. Mrs. Griffin and her daughter, Betty, are from Raleigh, and had been visiting Mrs. Griffin's sister, Mrs. Dick Webbon.

J. B. "Bun" Loftin is jubilant over the support shown him in the recent primary election for justice of the peace. "I have received excellent encouragement and cooperation all the way. I will express my gratitude in faith to service to all the people after I am sworn in on January 1."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keyes and children, Bobbie and Tina, left for Philadelphia after a two-week stay with the C. C. Minchey's. Mrs. Keyes is a sister of Mrs. Minchey. They have visited here several seasons and are highly complimentary of the beaches, the fishing and the hospitality of Chesapeake Beach. The Minchey's also entertained Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Smith of the Panama Canal Zone over the weekend.

At Your Doorstep!

Next Tuesday, starting at 11:00 A. M., the bus operators, agents, and officials of Carolina TRAILWAYS invite you to attend the opening of your new Trailways Terminal, Pacific Avenue and 18th Streets.

Many of our employees, and the representatives of Trailways' nationwide service will be there to greet you. Right now — the thing they want most is to have you visit them at that time.

You will see and inspect a new transportation terminal which has been built with you in mind. We'd like to explain how Trailways connects Virginia Beach with the entire nation through its 82,000 miles of scenic highway.

Already buses leaving the Virginia Beach terminal take you, without charge, to New York; Stanton, Pa.; Memphis, Tenn.; and to Dallas, Texas. We're working hard to provide a commuter service to and from Norfolk which makes the use of a car unnecessary and expensive.

We've developed a full line of low-cost, yet interesting tours, to enable you to vacation at America's most glamorous spots — leaving it to you as when to leave, when to return.

We've built for the future too, for we believe, as you do, that Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County is on the threshold of its greatest growth — and we want to grow with you.

Visit us Opening Day, won't you? We want to say: "Thank you, Virginia Beach, for the splendid reception Trailways has received since coming here — Just a little over a year ago."

APPOINTMENTS

Approximately two weeks ago the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, a highly respected newspaper, published an editorial that made considerable reference to the appointive powers invested in county judges. As we read the editorial we kept waiting to read something of city judges as well. We do not mean to be critical of the editorial in question but we would like to make a few points concerning appointments by judges that apparently the editorial writer with the Norfolk paper overlooked.

The editorial dwelled on appointments made by county judges as though they were alone in making appointments. It might be pointed out that city judges also make many appointments. Right in Norfolk the present clerk of the city's corporation and circuit courts were appointed by judges. Also the present Commonwealth's Attorney in Norfolk and the City Sergeant were appointed by city judges.

It can also be pointed out that in recent months in cities and in counties the electoral boards have been appointed by the courts and in Norfolk City even the justices of the peace are appointed. In some cities an appointment may be made through agreement among several judges.

We are not critical of the editorial nor are we arguing the question of appointments but we do wish to point out that this appointive power is not restricted to counties but is also employed by city judges as well.

NEW BUS TERMINAL

Next Tuesday Carolina Trailways will open its new bus terminal in Virginia Beach giving the city the most modern transportation facility in the entire State and fulfilling a long felt need for the city.

The new terminal is a handsome structure located at the corner of 18th Street and Pacific Avenue, just one block north of the old bus station that has served the city for a number of years.

The Trailways Company is to be congratulated on this new building and the fine bus service that it has rendered since coming into this area. The company has shown a marked degree of aggressiveness and has improved the transportation picture here immeasurably.

Opening of the new terminal is another progressive step by this progressive transportation firm.

DELAYED THANKS

One of the most feared problems the Sun-News faced in publishing its Thirtieth Anniversary and Progress Edition some two weeks ago was its distribution and mailing. The newspaper's staff was concerned over the gigantic task of mailing the 100-page newspapers.

As it turned out most of the fears held by the staff proved senseless but the smoothness and ease with which the big edition was mailed was due entirely to the fine cooperation by the personnel of the Virginia Beach Post Office.

Postal officials and employees gave us the most complete cooperation conceivable. The aid and support given by this group was largely responsible for making the mailing of the huge paper even easier than our regular weekly papers.

Although two weeks have passed since the Progress Edition of the Sun-News was placed in the mail, our thanks and appreciation go to the local post office and its staff now and forever in making our task of mailing a simple one.

It was a splendid display of cooperation which we will never forget.

DALE CARNEGIE

James M. McLean, 72 Woodlawn Avenue, Needham, Mass., says that two years ago worry had him well on the road toward a nervous breakdown. He was without doubt, he says, the most apprehensive person and the biggest "worry wart" in the country.

What was he worrying about? The usual things that people worry about!

First, his work was getting the best of him. He would go to the office prepared to do a good day's work and get things done efficiently. Then interruptions would start. Interruptions from the telephone, the unscheduled conference with the boss, the out-of-town customer, and so on and so on. The result would be nothing accomplished. At night he couldn't sleep. Then he began to doubt himself. Decisions that he had made in good faith, he would wonder if he shouldn't recall.

Financially, he was secure. He hadn't over-extended himself but no sooner had he paid one bill when he would begin to worry whether he would be able to pay the next.

Finally he realized that the worst thing that could happen to him was to lose his health. So he began to worry about that!

Then he suddenly made the luckiest decision in his life. He first sought the advice of three people: his wife, his pastor and his doctor. In each case the recommendation was the same: "Live for today," and let tomorrow take care of itself. He decided to do just that, and now he doesn't worry about his work. If he can't get it done today then there is always tomorrow. When he makes a decision, it is made, and he knows that he will make both good and bad ones, but he finds that the good decisions outnumber the bad ones.

EXCITING NEW SPORTS EVENT

AROUND The Cracker Barrel

During the political campaign that was climaxed with a smashing victory by the Organization last week, we pointed out that the candidates on the "Dunn Ticket" were unhappy with one another and could not get along. This hostile feeling apparently did not end with the election results, since it is reported they are even more unhappy with one another now that they have been convincingly defeated. Now each one is blaming the other for the one-sided defeat.

It is reported that Willie Dunn and "Butch" Heath, who formed the defeated Dunn-Heath Ticket some months ago, have said that as soon as they "lick their wounds" they will be looking around for candidates to run for city council next year.

Dunn's Free Press reported that

Bill Hudgins was in fine form at the Dunn Machine meeting at W. T. Cooke school at the close of the campaign. Apparently the people have realized the true nature of Bill Hudgins, that he is only for Bill Hudgins.

It reports are true, both Mrs. Jane Maher and "Duck" Brathwaite are desecrating of credit. Mrs. Maher, who works for "Duck," is credited with detecting the error in the talking of votes at precinct two that put all Organization candidates on the Democratic committee. "Duck" has been credited in some quarters with trying to suppress the error information.

The defeated sheriff, Roger Malbon, is reported to have called a meeting of all his deputies the other day. It might be interesting to know just what matters were discussed at this meeting.

My PET PEEVE

Folks used to laugh at the expression: "I don't care what you say about me, but spill my name right!" I used to foresee the fact that it's almost like money in the bank when you get your name in print.

These days we have more than a few ex-communists paying taxes on income they received from such revealing articles as "Why I Joined," "Why I Quit," "It's now fashion for the condemned prisoner to spend long hours in the death cell preparing a potential best-seller outlining the sordid and fateful events which brought him there. Vacation areas are filled with ex-convicts who paid their debt to society and now have retired on bank accounts acquired through publications of such articles as "A Million Crooked Dollars Made and Lost."

Notoriety makes good background for successful "true" stories, but favorable publicity has its rewards, too. The guy who swam the English Channel picked up plenty of shekels for his magazine article "Why I Made It." The fellow who failed in his attempt did all right, too, with his "Why I Didn't Make It."

An incident in a small town not long ago illustrated the fact that you get to be a public figure when your name is "written up" in the paper. A citizen had tried long and hard to get someone to listen to his views on farm planting quotas, but no one would lend an ear. Probably mad at himself and the world, the fellow stood on the court house steps and plastered the building with slightly angry eggs. He ended up with some stiff fines, but he got his name into print, along with some direct quotes giving his views on proposed farm measures.

His unorthodox but successful method is as amusing as the widespread belief that a no-hit pitcher or a 400 slugger is automatically an expert on cigarettes, cereals and candy bars.

HOW TO CUT TAXES

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, JR.

This article should not be regarded as necessarily reflective of the Sun-News position policy, but is deemed by the editor as being of general public interest.

GOVERNMENT ECONOMY WILL CUT YOUR TAXES

If you are interested in getting your taxes reduced . . . and if you think the government in Washington should be operated as efficiently and economically as possible . . . then you should learn all you can about the recommendations of the Hoover Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

This commission, headed by former President Hoover, has made an exhaustive study of the federal government to determine how it should best be organized and operated.

What happens to the recommendations is largely up to Congress. But already potential savings of many billions of dollars are enough to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

Here is how your pocketbook is affected:

The Hoover Commission says that adoption of its 363 economy proposals would save the government many billions of dollars enough to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

It says that these savings could be made without cutting the nation's military strength and the Public Works Program and without impairing Health, Education and Welfare Programs.

Estimates vary as to the total savings. However, it is generally estimated that the amount could reach $8 billion a year.

Another $10 billion could be obtained by the government if it recovered funds tied up in various federal agencies.

Despite what these savings would mean to the taxpayer, economy advocates are disturbed by the public apathy. Those clamoring for more spending are making the most noise.

The Hoover Commission has raised these important questions: How much federal government should there be? Should the government engage in the nursery business? Should it manufacture crates and wooden boxes when private facilities are available to do so at less cost to the taxpayer? Should it continue to manufacture paint?

These and many other questions should be answered - and many activities should be returned to private tax-paying enterprises as soon as possible.

Here are some examples of big government found by task forces of the Hoover group:

The federal government employs 2.3 million civilians and has an annual payroll of approximately $9 billion.

The government has 250,000 full-time employees, at a total cost of $4 billion a year, to create and handle some 25,000,000 pieces of paper annually (exclusive of the tons used in printing manuals, pamphlets, periodicals, etc.).

There are 104 agencies, instrumentalities or entities of the federal government engaged in lending, guaranteeing or insuring activities. They employ about forty thousand. The government has an investment of about $16.9 billion in these organizations and they are authorized to borrow $14.1 billion of additional funds from the Treasury.

Transportation of its employees and property cost the government $3 billion in 1952.

As of June 30, 1954, there were 566 billion in personal property in military warehouses.

The total number of government, commercial and industrial-type facilities within the Department of Defense alone exceeds 2,500, with government capital invested in them exceeding $18 billion. These include the manufacture of clothing, paint, ice cream, furniture repair, cement mixing, coffee roasting and a host of other activities.

Storage space owned by the government is equivalent in acreage to twice the size of Manhattan Island.

The federal government owns 472 million acres (one-fourth the acreage of all 48 states) in the continental U. S. The cost of all real property owned by the government was $40.8 billion as of December 31, 1953.

These illustrations show that there is a wide area for economy. And the more economy there is, the less taxes you will have to pay.

Seminar on NATO Planned At W-M College

A seminar on the organization and activities of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will be conducted at the College of William and Mary in Norfolk in the week of August 22, according to an announcement of Lewis W. Webb, Jr., director of the college. The meeting is sponsored by the college and the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, with the cooperation of SACLAAT (Supreme Allied Command, Atlantic). Arrangements are being directed by Dr. Robert C. McClelland, supervisor of the Norfolk Division's Evening College.

It is expected that about fifty delegates of colleges and other schools will attend, and special efforts are being made to have present as many students as possible from the member nations of NATO and from associated countries. Speakers will be obtained through the State Department, the American Council on NATO, and SACLAAT. The public is cordially invited to attend the lectures and panel discussions.

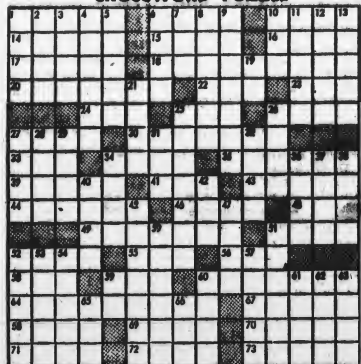

The program will consist of lectures, panel discussions and study periods, together with a land tour of Norfolk, a harbor tour, and an evening of the music of the NATO countries, the latter to be conducted with the cooperation of the Norfolk Museum of Arts.

The fourth day of activities will be spent entirely at SACLAAT headquarters. The seminar will be concluded on Friday, August 26, by a luncheon and final exercises, at which certificates of attendance will be presented to delegates.

NATURAL PRESERVATIVE

Nature has built a special oily preservative into western red cedar lumber which makes this popular species highly resistant to insects and decay. For that reason, western red cedar is used where it is exposed to weather, as siding for homes, fences, garden structures, planters, wooden flower tubs and in other ways.

IT'S AMAZING!

Story's Dukws Begin to Click; Teams Busy in Other Sport Fields

Riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, Story's DUKWS have risen to fifth place in the Navy Major Inter-service League. A revived pitching staff accounted for last week's wins over Langley Air Force Base and Norfolk Navy Base as DUKW hurlers allowed but three runs in both games.

The Langley Game, won 4-3, was a thriller that capitalized on timely hitting and managerial strategy to notch the win. The master-minding came in the eighth inning when starter Carl Buniva encountered a bit of trouble on the mound. With men on base, he traded positions with Norm Chandler, who had been playing first base. After Chandler retired the side without further mishap, Buniva returned and became the eventual winner. Chandler also figured in all of Story's runs as he scored two and drove in two in the DUKWS' seven-hit attack.

The Story pitching staff has racked up two shutouts this season, and they both being to the strong arm of newcomer Bill Schilling. The former Temple University ace who joined the team in June has fashioned a 3-1 slate while compiling a very respectable earned run average. His latest triumph was a stylish three-hitter against Norfolk Navy Base, in which he was never in trouble as his mates backed him up with a 3-0 victory. Catcher Jorge Gonzales put the game on ice with a single that scored two runs.

Story's Hopes in the recent Fort Eustis Tennis Tourney went as far as the finals as Harry Panning finished in fifth place. The 23-year-old soldier is a member of Headquarters Company, 8th Transportation Terminal Command B.

FUT RUNNING WATER OUTSIDE OF HOME, TOO

When running water is installed in a farm home, don't neglect outside connections and faucets. In fact, if outside faucets are not available on farms already equipped with running water, the extra expense is justified when outside connections are installed.

Hours of labor spent in carrying water to livestock or to a poultry range can be saved when permanent, installed pipes are laid.

Valuable buildings also may be saved in the event of fire if a strong stream of water can be promptly played on the blaze.

Besides these benefits, lawns, shrubbery and annual borders can be kept in good condition, and the backyard garden can be watered to increase productivity.

NEW HOME STYLES REALLY "OLD STUFF"

"Eighteenth century French and Italian homes extended their architectural lines and construction materials to outdoor living areas as we are doing today," says Robert Hale Ellis, Jr., prominent landscape architect.

"You can find the same character of design and materials in balcony balustrades, terraces and garden retaining walls as was used in these charming European interiors," Ellis points out, "and this marriage of house and exterior grounds is the effect designers and landscape artists strive for in the contemporary residence."

CINDERELLA TREE

West Coast hemlock, once considered a weed tree, today is one of the nation's most versatile species. Much sought after now for pulp making, it is popular as well as a lumber source. Because of its strength it was used in aircraft building in both wars, and its long wear makes it an ideal material for flooring and exterior siding.

WOOD-BLASES NOISE

Wood-paneled walls will reduce noise level in your home, says the West Coast Lumberman's Association. To absorb sound in the UN auditorium, the lumberman says, 2 walls were constructed of heroic size wooden louvers.

Today the Navajo Indians number more than 70,000, compared with 7,000 in 1907.

Princess Anne Pony Club Holds Two-day Event

Ponies and their enthusiastic riders were in the majority at a horse and pony show held at "Venill," the home of Mrs. Verner and Hill, Princess Anne County House, July 3.

The show was sponsored by Dr. Verner to give the youngsters an opportunity to demonstrate their interest in riding competition.

Jumpers and Equestrian classes were divided into age groups, and an exciting class of musical chairs climaxed the show. Judges were Captain Ronald Irvine and Janice Gregory.

Ice cold drinks were served to exhibitors and spectators, who enjoyed a most exciting afternoon. The Princess Anne Pony Club is planning another show to be given in August.

On Monday evening, July 4, the horseback riders enjoyed a beautiful moonlight trip. Ponies and riders carried the riders along the abandoned Norfolk & Southern right-of-way, through fields and woods, past the Ghost House and down the Swamp Road trail for a distance of ten miles. The night was warm and a full moon lent an enchantment to the rider and mount alike.

Those participating in the two-day event were Jamie and Anne Buffington, Dickie and Martha Kellam, Eugene, Foster and Thelma Bayrns, Becky Kellam, Judy Sparrow, Vicki Myers, Frances and Paul Sawyer, Stuart and Bruce Clarke, David Kellam, Mary, Mandy, Sally, Bill and Bob Verner.

Dr. Hill, Dr. Verner and Lyman Clarke were chaperones. Eric the great dane and Duchess the collie, tagged along to protect the cavalcade.

After the ride, all were guests of the Venners at "Venill" for a Weiner roast and watermelon feast.

New Turbo-prop Planes Will be in Norfolk Friday

Capital Airlines' jet-propeller Viscount will pay a visit to Norfolk July 22 for a series of courtesy flights.

Norfolk's notables will be treated to a vibrationless, almost noiseless flight on the first turbo-prop airplane ever to be placed in scheduled service by a United States airline. Mr. W. M. Barnes, District Sales Manager, stated that because of the importance of Norfolk to Capital this city will be one of the first on Capital's 77-city system to preview this new airplane which brings the United States into the jet age of commercial aviation.

After leaving Norfolk the plane will proceed to other cities on Capital's system before returning to Washington. With another Viscount scheduled for delivery this month, service with the turbo-prop planes will begin July 26 with a daily round trip between here and Washington and three round trips daily between Washington and Chicago. Two of these flights will be non-stop with the third serving Pittsburgh.

As Capital continues to receive delivery of the additional 57 airplanes in its original 60 plane, $67,500,000 order Norfolk will be linked with Viscount service to other cities on Capital's system.

'Operation Cue' Guided by Strict Fallout 'Fence'

Residents of Nevada's wide open spaces north of Las Vegas have the atomic bomb for a close neighbor, but it has been a good neighbor, nevertheless.

Unlike some neighbors, whose "right" sometimes invade fence-line, the A-bomb has been kept within a radiation "fence" even more strict than the safety limits set for the Atomic Energy Commission's industrial workers.

For instance, in the recent "Operation Cue," conducted jointly by the AEC and the Federal Civil Defense Administration, the atomic blast was postponed for nine consecutive days after the scheduled date of April 28. Winds on eight days would have carried too much radioactive fallout over the Colorado and Los Vegas area toward populated rural areas.

(Fallout consists of radioactive particles of dust and debris from a nuclear blast which may constitute dangerous radiation sources when they fall to earth in too large concentration.)

The postponements conformed with a new safety ceiling of 3.5 roentgen biological dose per year (roentgen is a unit of radiation measure named for Wilhelm Roentgen, discoverer of the x-ray). This guide allowed a tremendous margin of safety, as the atomic workers are known to be safe with an annual exposure up to 16.6 roentgens.

However, because the general public was involved, it would be more difficult than with AEC workers to keep track of accumulated radiation exposure if the 15.6 ceiling were used. So an exposure guide was adopted that was safe for persons who might be remotely more susceptible to radiation.

The stricter safety factor for the protection of the relatively few living within 100 miles of the test site proved inconvenient as thousands of observers and participants and millions of dollars worth of test equipment daily swarmed the A-bomb, equivalent to about 35,000 tons of TNT.

Observers had been warned, however, by Dr. Alvin Graves, scientific test advisor, that the chances of their seeing a shot on any given day were "perhaps 1 in 14" because of the capricious Nevada winds. Test officials have a standing policy that in no case will they sacrifice safety to expediency.

On one occasion, winds would have dropped too much fallout on Alamo, Nevada, and countryside of some 1,000 people, and on Elgin, population 50. On another day, Overton, Glendale and Mes-

'BATTLESHIP' GETS OVERHAUL

The Common Glory's technical crew puts finishing touches on the French "warship" used during the drama's Battle of Yorktown scene. The vessel, which has already participated in more than 250 victorious "sea battles" on Lake Michigan, received a complete overhaul before the opening of the ninth season of "The Common Glory" which is now being presented nightly except Mondays through September 4 in historic old Williamsburg. —White Photo quite, totalling some 3,000 people, would have been affected. Rapidly shifting winds on three different days caused a postponement in the last hour before the shot.

Amusing though the postponements were, they dramatized modern weather forecasting, which can often predict within an hour the peculiar wind shifts in the mountain-surrounded basin of the test site.

In an actual attack, fallout—the nemesis of all rural areas within 200 miles of target cities—wouldn't be so conveniently predicted by an enemy. Country folk can probably expect one to three hours fallout warning by Conelrad radio to protect themselves and their animals. From then on, it's a question of common sense and knowing what to do.

GOOD OLD DAYS

Although some 2,200 different makes of automobiles have been offered for sale in this country, less than a dozen manufacturers are in business today. The main reason for hundreds of early failures was the idea that big money was to be made from high-priced cars and not volumes of relatively cheap ones.

Jordan Ball Tops In Payton Event

Young Jordan Ball, the Norfolk City golf champion and Princess Anne Country Club member, applied the clincher in the final round of the 54 hole event and trailed the three-time champion, Wayne Jackson, of Hampton, by two strokes. His stunning pace in the final two rounds gave him the title by a wide margin and set a new record of 206 for the tournament.

Ball fired a 72 in the opening round of the 54 hole event and trailed the three-time champion, Wayne Jackson, of Hampton, by two strokes. His stunning pace in the final two rounds gave him the title by a wide margin and set a new record of 206 for the tournament.

Jackson and Young Ed Justa, of Rocky Mount, N. C., were tied for second place honors, nine strokes back of the winner.

Young Bobby Bennett, of Virginia Beach, capped top honors in the junior division. Bennett carded rounds of 54-53 — 109. The first round leader, Pat McDowell, of Elizabeth City, N. C., finished third with 175.

Ball was hot as a pistol in the final round on the front nine. He found the par 36 side in 30 strokes. He slipped over par coming in with a 37 but his score of 67 was two under par.

Jackson blew his first round lead with a disastrous 78 in the second round. He settled down for the finale and carded a neat

Supervisors

The supervisors would consider the fact that a million dollars will be needed for a junior high school if the needs of the county are met. School board members said that the country's school problem of overcrowding is as bad or worse now than ever before.

Cox also suggested the possibility of a central outlay levy to be set by the county which would accrue for future school needs.

The school board, before its session with the supervisors, agreed to a proposal by Postmaster Aubrey G. Graham to schedule Norfolk city post office operations at the Princess Anne County High School at Thalia in the event of an enemy bombing.

The final inspection of the Princess Anne High School was made July 15. The board passed a resolution of acceptance contingent on the completion of miscellaneous items.

Cox said a series of delays in obtaining steel windows and other materials had held up the completion of the Lankford Park Elementary School, on Lankin Road. The Seaboard School for Negroes is progressing satisfactorily, Cox said, and should be ready by Thanksgiving. The board opened bids for fuel oil and gasoline.

This July meeting marks the regular organization of the board at which time John B. Dey was renamed chairman. Dey said after the meeting that this would be his final year as chairman of the board, a position he has held for some 15 years.

WORK UPKIFT PROVES TO BE BIG BUSINESS

The nation's 90 million owners of dwelling units need to spend at least $12 billion each year to keep their home plants in good condition. This is equal to the total amount being spent each year for one million new homes.

Fritz Burns, nationally known Los Angeles builder, warns that hit by an automobile and the same judge awarded her $10. Moral: Never break a woman's heart; kick her in the ribs instead!

at least 35 million of these homes are in need of repair, and some have felt their first touches of blight. He estimates eight million homes are near-stum or actual stum dwellings.

Without constant repair and maintenance he said the nation's $229 billion investment in homes is in jeopardy.

Today, 95% of all skin cancers are cured, but 95% could be successfully treated. Regular physical examinations can prevent cancer deaths, says the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Edwin A. Deagle Feted By Officers Wives At Fort Story

Officers wives at Fort Story last week feted their honorary president, Mrs. Edwin A. Deagle, with a farewell party in the Colonial Room of the post's Officers Mess.

Mrs. Deagle is leaving Fort Story August 1 for Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Her husband, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, who has been post commander for the past 11 months, will assume new duties as Commander at Brooklyn Army Base.

A large, handsome cake, appropriately inscribed with "Mrs. Deagle as guest of honor at the afternoon affair. No effort had been spared by Mrs. Alfred R. Campbell, in charge of arrangements for the party, to make it a festive success.

The president of the Officers' Wives Club, Mrs. Warren Green, voiced the sentiments of the members when she expressed "a very real sense of loss" on Mrs. Deagle's departure and thanked her for "imaginative and untiring effort" in helping to plan club activities.

"We will miss you for a long time, but we won't forget you for a much longer time," Mrs. Green told Mrs. Deagle as the ladies applauded. She then presented her with an orchid corsage and a handsome traveling bag as remembrance gifts from the club. Mrs. Deagle, in turn, presented the club with an equally handsome ceramic centerpiece.

Visibly moved by the spontaneous show of affection that the club members demonstrated, Mrs. Deagle told them: "I have made some precious, wonderful friends at Story. Never as an Army wife have I met people so eager to work together in charitable and social activities. Many of us, I know, will meet again at other posts, and I look forward to the pleasure of these reunions."

The MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK!

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and foibles for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, tune in "LET'S COOK," with Lucile Clark each day, Monday through Friday, at 12 o'clock, on Station WTAR-TV.

FUN WITH SPICES

Cooking can be fun when you use spices. It can be adventure and it can be gay. The flavor treats can be achieved by adding "a pinch of this or a dash of that" . . . they are almost endless.

Many cooks are afraid of spices. Don't be. Here are some suggestions:

Spiced Butters For Vegetables

Combine 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine with one of the following spices—

1/4 teaspoon onion powder—Serve over spinach, green beans, potatoes, carrots, corn, lima beans or peas.

1/4 teaspoon ground basil—Serve over parsnips, turnips, peas, potatoes, beets, green beans or corn.

1/4 teaspoon curry powder—Serve over carrots, potatoes, corn, celery, onions or lima beans.

1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg—

Serve with carrots, snap beans, spinach, parsnips, squash, sweet potatoes, onions or lima beans.

1/4 teaspoon chili powder—Serve over corn, onions, snap beans, turnips, parsnips, carrots or lima beans.

1/4 teaspoon crumbled rosemary, thyme or sage—Serve over onions, celery, lima beans, corn, peas or snap beans.

1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon—Serve over turnips, snap beans, beets or parsnips.

1/4 teaspoon powdered dry mustard—Serve over turnips, onions, cabbage or cauliflower.

Speaking of Mustard . . .

The time has come to talk of mustard, bright and tangy. This spice, which comes to us in three forms—prepared, dry and seed—is a wonderful seasoning for summer meals. Meats, fish salads, and even some desserts, take on an added zest with mustard.

Brushing dry mustard into a steak just before it is placed over glowing coals, makes it more delicious than usual. Fried fish is greatly improved if a little dry mustard is mixed with the flour to be used as a coating. Thrifty, practical croquettes become especially delicious when this flavorful spice is added to the cream sauce.

Mustard is a very old spice. There is evidence that it was used in prehistoric times. It is mentioned several times in the Bible. Perhaps the most famous of such mentions is "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible unto you."

The Romans, when they invaded England, carried mustard with them. However, only the whole seed was used at that time. In 1720 an English woman, identified in history merely as "Mrs. Clements of Durham," discovered that the tiny seeds could be ground into a smooth powder. Later this powder, originally called mustard flour, was mixed with water and a delicious, spicy table condiment resulted.

Mustard became so famous for her product, which she laboriously prepared by hand with a mortar and pestle, that George the First, a hearty but critical diner, became one of her most distinguished customers.

Today's Homemaker, fortunately, can buy her mustard ready-ground. The mortar and pestle is a thing of the past. But the love of mustard lingers on.

The American Spice Trade Association has developed these interesting ways of utilizing this old and honorable spice.

Mustard Sour Cream Sauce

Dry mustard teams nicely with sour cream to serve over new cabbage, potatoes or other spring vegetables. Combine 1 cup (1/2 pint) sour cream, 1/2 teaspoon each: sugar, dry mustard and horseradish sauce, 1/4 teaspoon salt, dash garlic powder, and 2 tablespoons each fresh lemon juice and grated sharp cheddar cheese. Heat thoroughly. Yield: One and one-fourth cup.

Mustard Mayonnaise

A teaspoon and a half of dry mustard added to a cup of commercial mayonnaise makes a deliciously spicy sauce for meat or seafood salads. A potato salad,

Canine Country Club Caters To Pets Of Visitors

The dog owner who is unable to find hotel accommodations because he is accompanied by his pet, no longer has any worries at Virginia Beach.

To relieve this problem for the visitor, the Canine Country Club at nearby Lynnhaven is providing the same type of care and affection that owners give their dogs at home.

Located on ten acres of towering pine trees, the kennel, opened three weeks ago, offers the best modern scientific facilities on the East Coast. It is insulated and air conditioned, has large screened casement windows which provide maximum sunlight. Each dog has a private cage, four by six feet.

Overhead the newest type germicidal and ozone lights have been installed. There also are individual outdoor runs, four by sixteen, and these are protected by an active green canopy to shield the dogs from the sun.

The kitchen is as up to date as in the most modern home, with a deep freeze, refrigerator and electric stove.

The proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nicholson, are well known in this area for their activities in the dog world. Mr. Nicholson is the owner of the champion Dalmatian, Miss Arthur of Lorbrydale. Mrs. Nicholson is a former vice president of the Hampton Roads Training Club Dogs, under her capable handling, have won many prizes at obedience trials.

The Nicholson's "just plain like dogs," which perhaps is the reason that they enjoy every day at the Canine Country Club is taken for a romp twice daily by the owners.

too, is benefited by this delightfully piquant dressing. If you prefer hotter sauce, increase the mustard.

Mustard Avocado Dip

The bland, creamy flavor of avocado puree and the sharply pungent flavor of dry mustard set each other off to good advantage. To a cup of pureed avocado add a teaspoon of dry mustard, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt and an eighth of a teaspoon each of onion and garlic salts and ground black pepper. Sharpen the whole with two tablespoons of fresh lemon juice. Pass the potato chips for dunking, or spread on crackers. This yields approximately one cup.

Bye now . . . and spice 'em up, girls. And remember, when you're making all those good pickles—use those pickling spices . . . they do the trick!

Norfolk and Western Will Offer Credit Card Plan To Passengers

Summer Flowers For Fashion Accessory Wear

Summer flowers make lovely fashion accessories. They complement any costume for any occasion. They are as flattering and becoming to young girls as to mature women.

Certainly one of the most romantic of fashions is wearing flowers in the hair. The flowers can be chosen to play up the color of your eyes or to call attention to a desired color in the outfit you are wearing.

Fresh flowers and a bit of veil can be fashioned into a most original and becoming hat. These flower hats are suitable for almost any after-five occasion.

Earrings and other jewelry made of flowers have long been worn in the tropical sections of the world. You can make a pair of earrings with a bit of fine wire and a pair of earring backs.

First place a piece of moist cotton around the stem of your favorite bloom. Cover this with green florist tape. Wire this to the earring backs. Keep in the box until you are ready to wear them.

One word of caution: Choose flowers you know will hold up well for your accessories.

IF WAR COMES . . .
Plan to help others. Plan to send support teams, such as first aid and rescue squads, into the cities after attack.

EASY DOES IT

Make your tuna salad crisp and crunchy with chopped celery and toasted almonds. Add enough mayonnaise to moisten, then serve with lettuce and halves of cling peaches to a really dreamy garnish.

Pump, cooked prunes, pitted and stuffed with bacon—these are wonderful go-togethers with any fruit or salad main dish.

While you watch hungrily over what is cooking over charcoal, you and your guests will enjoy nibbling on potato chips which have been dipped in tangy mashed avocado blended together with minced ripe olives and a bit of lemon juice.

Try a hot lima bean salad with frankfurters on one of the warm days for an appetizing supper. To make it, toss the large, cooked limas with a hot bacon-vinegar dressing, top with chunks of frankfurters and bake in moderate oven to heat the frankfurters a bit.

A delicious dressing for chunks of lettuce uses sour cream mixed with some anchovy paste. Thin this with a bit of vinegar and add salt and freshly ground pepper to taste.

Cottage cheese mounded in the center of a plate, surrounded with small slices or chunks of watermelon and clusters of dark cherries, makes a lovely salad platter.

GARDEN GUIDE

By J. WILTON ANDERSON

SPHAGNUM MOSS

Imagine sowing annual seeds and growing the plants to a few inches in height, planting some in the garden this year and holding the rest until next year without their growing one inch. This can and is frequently done with sphagnum moss.

Sphagnum (pronounced spag-num) moss is a rather unusual type of material. In its natural state, the moss is found in bogs of the colder climates and frequently in lakes, ponds and in swamps. Sphagnum bogs are very common in Canada and in Labrador, where we have observed the living moss bogs to be greenish-yellow in appearance. The plants grow and mat together as the long fiber-like stems develop and eventually choke over the entire water surface.

As the plants get older the moss becomes thicker and deeper and the lower, older plants die, fall to the bottoms of the bogs and ponds where they decompose to form peat moss, a well-known gardening aid.

Commercially sphagnum moss is valued for its ability to retain tremendous amounts of water and other liquids. It will hold thirteen times its own weight in water! This is the type of packing material that is valued by mail order nurseries and wholesale growers to wrap dormant plants in to keep them damp during transportation. During the early wars, the moss was frequently wrapped in cloth to be used as a compress for absorbing blood.

Another horticultural use of sphagnum moss is for propagation by Chinese air layering of plants. This is done by wounding the plant stem either by twisting, girdling or notching and then wrapping the wound with damp sphagnum moss. The new plant may then be separated from its parent by cutting the stem below the moss ball. Rhododendrons are frequently handled in this manner as are rubber plants; however, it will work on many others.

Storing Plants
If dried sphagnum is shredded through a 1/4-inch mesh wire, the moss may then be dampened and placed in a flat or flower pot. Tamp it lightly and sow your flower seeds over the top. Cover larger seeds with from 1/4 to 1/2 inch of shredded moss and place a pane of glass over the container. As the seedlings germinate, give them more and more ventilation until the glass is removed entirely. Keep them watered and as they get larger, a little soluble fertilizer will stimulate additional growth. When large enough, the seedlings may be planted in your flower border. If you withhold the nutrient solution to the plants left in the moss, they will stop growing larger and simply remain in an arrested stage of development. Many plants may be kept in this manner for over a year and then planted where you want them to grow. Keep them watered, and they will remain a source of supply for later blooms.

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

County Agricultural Agent

HARVEST, PLANTING, BOTH UNDERWAY IN JULY

● The home gardener has double trouble this month. Harvesting the spring garden and planting the fall garden should both be underway.

Here are a few harvesting tips on various vegetables:

Harvest sweet corn when the kernels are in the milky stage and before the contents become of a doughy feel. When at the right stage, moderate pressure from the thumbnail should break the kernel. Make the test only a few times to test your judgment, as pulling down the husk may reduce quality. Learn to judge the maturity by feeling the ear. The husk should be tight and the silk brown.

One of the vegetables hardest to harvest at the right time is watermelon. The old "thumping" test may help those with a keen ear and considerable experience. Thump the melon and if it is green, you may hear a metallic ring. If ripe, the sound will be muffled and dead. An easier way, although not always definite, is to examine the rind where it touches the ground. The melon is usually ripe when this area has turned from white to pale yellow.

Cantaloupes are usually ripe when the net is fully rounded out and the color through the netting is yellowish-green. Also when ripe, the fruit slips easily from the stem leaving a big scar.

Judge summer squash by size. Crookneck squash should be four to five inches long. White bush or Patty Pan squash, sometimes called cymbalines, should be no more than two or three inches across. The Italian narrow type, which is shaped somewhat like a cucumber, should be from six to seven inches long.

Onions are usually mature when about one-half the tops bend over and turn brown. These should be cured in a dry, well ventilated space.

For home use, tomatoes should always be vine-ripened, unless there is danger of frost. Color is, of course, the easiest way to judge the maturity stage of a tomato. Color is especially important if the tomato is to be canned.

Planting the Fall Garden

● Several vegetables must be planted again this month to maintain a continuous supply. In this month plant for sweet corn and possibly tomatoes. Almost any time this month, plant snap beans, radishes, broccoli, collards, and cabbage. Later plant kale, mustard, turnip greens and spinach. Virginia Savoy spinach will probably produce better if planted in August or early September, but July is a good time to plant the new variety of broccoli, Waltham 29.

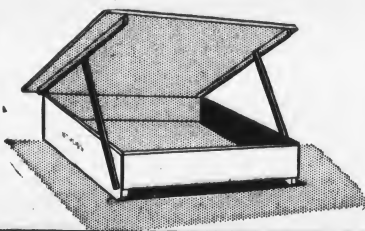

Work old plant residue into the soil, or place it in a compost pile. If plants are heavily diseased, burn them. The seedbed should be well prepared and smooth, but it should be worked shallow to prevent loss of moisture in what may be a dry season. A 5-10-5 or 5-10-10 commercial fertilizer may be broadcast and worked into the soil. There will probably be some fertilizer left in the soil from the spring garden, so reduce the amount to use will depend somewhat on how the previous crop grew. The recommendation for the spring garden is 25 to 30 pounds of commercial fertilizer per 1,000 square feet. The amount possibly can be reduced to 10 or 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet for the fall garden.

July is generally a hot, dry month, so make every effort possible to conserve soil moisture. Plant seed a little deeper to take advantage of the lower level soil moisture. After the seed has been covered and the soil gently pressed over them, a layer of about 1/2 inch of sawdust over the row will help conserve moisture and prevent a crust.

Midshipman John H. Kinert With Practice Squadron In Atlantic

With the first Midshipman Practice Squadron of 1955, Naval Academy Midn. 1/c John H. Kinert, son of Navy Capt. and Mrs. John O. Kinert of 115 62nd Street, Virginia Beach, is shown in the accompanying photo cleaning a gun barrel aboard the radar picket destroyer USS Everett F. Larson.

More than 3,000 Naval ROTC and Naval Academy midshipmen left Norfolk last month aboard 18 ships of the Atlantic Fleet for a two-month cruise. They are undergoing practical training in life aboard ship and its attendant duties.

The midshipmen are afforded the opportunity of visiting interesting and historical sites during scheduled stops at ports in Spain and England.

Gunnery practice at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, will climax the

USS Forestal, Largest Warship, Will Be Commissioned October 1

The USS Forestal, the world's largest warship and first of a new class of attack aircraft carriers, will be commissioned Saturday, October 1, at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, Va., the navy announced today.

Rear Admiral I. N. Kiland, USN, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District, will read the commissioning directive placing the Forestal in active service. Several thousand crewmembers and guests, including many high ranking military officials, are expected to be present.

Prior to the actual delivery of the vessel to the Navy, the Forestal will undergo builder's and Navy acceptance trials. The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. will take the carrier to sea on August 16, and 17, for tests. On August 26, and September 1, the Forestal will again go to sea, this time with a Navy inspection team on board.

On September 29, two days before the commissioning ceremonies, the Forestal will be moved from Newport News construction docks to the Navy Shipyard in Portsmouth. Then the Navy will take delivery of the vessel.

According to Captain Roy L. Johnson, prospective commanding officer of the Forestal, plans for the traditional ceremonies have not been completed. The ceremony is scheduled to begin at 2 P. M.

The commissioning is the climax of over three years of construction work on the new carrier. Her keel was laid in July, 1952, and the ship was launched last December.

Since that time the 1,036 foot long aircraft carrier has been berthed at a fitting out pier in Newport News, where catapult, electronic, and other types of equipment were installed. The dock trial test of her engines was successfully held in June.

Nearly 60,000 tons of metal have gone into the construction of the Forestal. Her width of 252 feet is enough to hold the liners United States and America side by side.

Three sister ships are presently under construction. They are the Saratoga, Ranger and Independence.

The Forestal class of carrier is the latest development of a long line of aircraft carriers beginning with the USS Langley, a converted collier commissioned in 1922.

A crew of 3,500 men will man the ship. Many of the officers and men have already gathered at Newport News and at the Norfolk Naval Base for training purposes and to become familiar with "their" ship.

Following commissioning the Forestal will stay at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard for 60 days for outfitting purposes. The new aircraft carrier will later join the U. S. Atlantic Fleet for shake-down cruise training.

Vaccine Developed To Control Disease

A new type vaccine, which has proved effective against both the carrier and the clinical stage of bovine leptospirosis, has been developed at VPI by two Agricultural Experiment Station veterinary scientists.

The two scientists, Dr. W. G. Hoag and Dr. W. B. Bell, explain that the disease costs U. S. livestock raisers many thousands of dollars daily.

The American Veterinary Medical Association, which made the initial announcement of the new vaccine, explains that the losses from the disease come chiefly from abortions, lowered milk production, sterility, loss of weight, and deaths. Symptoms may be confused with those of other livestock diseases — emphasizing the need for accurate veterinary diagnosis.

Further studies are underway to determine the duration of the effectiveness of the vaccine, the best age to vaccinate, the storage qualities of the vaccine, and other factors.

DELMAR J. DEE, JR. GOES TO CHERRY POINT

Delmar J. Dee, Jr., of Birdneck Point has been ordered to Cherry Point, N. C., with the Norfolk Marine Air Reserve Fighter Squadron, VMP-233 and will attend summer training this year with some 200 officers and enlisted men. This is the largest Marine Air Reserve squadron Norfolk has ever had attending summer training.

Mr. Dee is a major in this unit. He is the son of Major and Mrs. Delmar J. Dee, USMC, ret.

Despite great differences in appearance, it is assumed that the Chesapeake retriever stems from the same Newfoundland stock as the Labrador.

Fisheries Predict Better Crabbing

The Virginia crab industry, watermen and dealers alike, are looking for an abrupt increase in the crab catch this August. The present estimate is that the catch will be about 100,000 bushels, which would be a year ago, has brought watermen prices to summer sales. Crabbers are anxiously watching for signs of the new brood of crabs that will be the mainstay of their catch for next year. The hatch of 1954 appears to have been good, judging from the large numbers of little crabs in the numbers this summer. Many of these will reach full size in August.

W. A. Van Engel and Frank Wojcik, crab research biologists at the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory at Gloucester Point, are venturing to predict the future success of crabbing by measuring the abundance of small crabs. Van Engel has been making predictions since 1936 and successfully forecast the bumper crop of 1937-38 and the scarcity that began in August a year ago.

Crab pot fishermen are now catching fast numbers of 3 and 4 inch crabs, the first of the 1954 hatch. While the watermen are glad to see so many small crabs, for they portend a good supply this fall and winter, the crabs are under the 5 inch minimum size limit and must be culled from the catch. It is impossible to remove every undersize crab from Smart home owners know the old adage—a stitch in time saves nine—certainly applies to home maintenance and repair. The little job today, if not taken care of, becomes the major repair job in a few short years. In every community we see older homes, some over 100 years old, still well preserved and livable because they have been well cared for through the years. Out in Oregon and Washington, homes built of native Douglas fir framing and siding lumber by pioneers are still in excellent condition although in use since the 1800s or earlier.

IF WAR COMES...
Be prepared to market the farm product. This is important even though the market is a refuge camp only a few miles away. Farmers, therefore, should take a close look at the highway system in their areas. Consideration should be given for extra gasoline storage on the farm, because an enemy attack could easily cut off gas supplies for transportation.

Ideas for the Modern Homemaker

By Mrs. Elizabeth D. Deal
County Home Agent

Farm Safety Week Will Be Observed

The last week of July will be celebrated nationally as Farm Safety Week with the theme as "Your Safety Is in Your Hands." The week will officially be launched at noon, July 23, on "National Farm and Home Hour." The week's program has daily topics, as follows:

Sunday—Have Reverence for Life: Sermons and Sunday School talks can feature Farm Safety Week. Take time to take care. Plan to avoid an over-crowded schedule.

Monday—Home Safety. Keep your farm home in order. Emphasize the need for eliminating unsafe practices in the home. Have a place for everything. Be a good housekeeper in your home and on your farm.

Tuesday—Livestock. Animals account for one out of four farm work accidents. Check and repair livestock equipment. Keep small children away from animals. Be open-minded to safety suggestions.

Wednesday—Falls Plan ahead. Good planning reduces temptation to hurry, means better production and fewer accidents. Repair or discard broken, unsafe ladders. Place guards at hazardous places.

Thursday—Highway traffic. Be courteous on the highway. Highway rules of safe driving and walking on highways to help reduce the toll of 6,000 farm residents killed in traffic mishaps. Remove trees and shrubs near farm driveway entrances.

Friday—Machinery. Don't depend on luck. Make sure your equipment is in safe operating condition. Make sure all guards and safety devices are in place. Stop machine before unclogging, oiling or adjusting them.

Saturday—Review day. Review local accident prevention achievements.

ment. Check up on any farm and farm home hazards that might have been overlooked. Take safety seriously.

A comment on Monday's topic of Home Safety is that the women in Home Demonstration Clubs at Blacksburg, July 26 will be devoted to its annual meeting. The next two days are devoted to group meetings on topics of interest and to work shops on various committee needs.

Also the last week in July is the time for the Virginia State Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs at Blacksburg. July 26 will be devoted to its annual meeting. The next two days are devoted to group meetings on topics of interest and to work shops on various committee needs.

Several speakers of interest who will appear on the program are the Hon. H. Poe Bartie, mayor of Kansas City, Mo.; Dr. J. B. Kohlmeier of Purdue University, and Dr. B. S. Schweigert, assistant director, American Meat Institute Foundation, University of Chicago.

It is expected that a large delegation from Princess Anne will attend.

Keep Your Child Safe

Virginia has made remarkable strides in lowering the communicable disease rate among children, but deaths caused by accidents are still appalling.

Miss Annella Fuller, home economics specialist at VPI, points out that more Virginia children die from accidental causes than from diarrhea, measles, diphtheria, meningitis, poliomyelitis, whooping cough, scarlet fever and tuberculosis combined.

High on the list of accidents to babies and children are burns. A practice which frequently endangers the young child is the mother's thoughtless habit of leaving handles of pots on the stove turned so the child can grasp them and turn the contents over. If young children cannot be kept out of the kitchen, keep them in a pen out of reach of the stove or hot appliance.

In 1953 (the last year for which figures are available) home fires and explosions took the lives of 45 children under the age of 15. In most cases these could be traced to unsafe habits. Some fires were started by children who had not been taught that matches are dangerous. Some were innocent victims of a parent's folly in starting a fire with kerosene, gasoline or other solvent.

Suffocation accounted for the deaths of 48 children. Almost half of these suffocated in their beds. Others swallowed or inhaled objects which prevented breathing.

Even Aspirin Dangerous. Leaving poisonous substances within reach of young hands was the cause of death for five other children. Often the materials were unlabeled and not considered poisonous. Kerosene, cleaning compounds, insecticides, medicine—even aspirin—may be dangerous. In fact, anything a child can swallow, which is not food, may be unsafe.

Miss Fuller points out that safety begins in the home—it's a family matter. Younger members of the family must be protected until they are old enough to be taught safety habits. However, parents can do much to encourage safety by teaching youngsters, at an early age, the right way to handle dangerous objects. Show them how to use sharp objects, how to handle electrical appliances, how to start a fire. They will get into trouble if left unsupervised to find out things for themselves.

Don't forget, your child absorbs your attitudes and copies your behavior. Take time to be sure that your ways of doing things are reasonably correct. Let children join in a safety check-up and encourage them to help correct any hazards. Make prompt repairs. Keep objects where they belong. Keep dangerous objects out of the reach of children. Remember and practice the safety rules.

Falls rate high among causes of injuries from home accidents at all ages. But it is to people over the age of 65 that falls are most likely to be fatal, according to National Safety Council figures. The whole family can help fall-proof the home and grounds just by giving more thought to doing away with fall hazards. For example, check on steps and stairways to be sure they are well-lighted, in good repair, have continuous handrails and handrails on both sides if they are wide. Children can learn to keep toys off the floor or lawn except in their own play area. Many an elderly person has tripped on toys left on stairs, walks or other unexpected places. Be sure open windows have tight screens or other safeguards to prevent falls. Be sure garden tools are not left where they may be trip-hazards. If you substitute scatter rugs or grass rugs for winter carpets be sure they are secured against sliding underfoot—or catching a heel or toe. Special floor finishes may be used that are not slippery.

BLANKET INSTRUCTIONS

Both the wool and the wares need consideration when electric wool blankets are cleaned and stored for the summer. The specialists urge careful reading of the manufacturer's printed directions that come with the blanket. These instructions on use, care and cleaning are part of the purchase and should be kept for reference and followed to get best service and longest use from this investment.

Most instructions advise against dry cleaning because the chemicals used may damage the insulation of the wires. A gentle soak-wash is suggested to protect the wool from shrinking and matting. Research has shown that agitation in machine-laundering causes wool blankets to shrink. Other Kansas suggestions:

Never try to put an electric blanket through a wringer or twist it during laundering. Electric blankets can not be dried in mechanical dryers because of their wiring.

After a 15 to 20 minute soak in warm but not hot wash water and two 5-minute soaks in rinse water, electric blankets may be gently stretched to bring them back to their original size and shape, and then hung over parallel clothes lines in a shady place to drip-dry.

Store the clean, thoroughly dry blanket in a clean container, tightly sealed against insect pests. The manufacturer's direction may be the guide to protection against clothes moths or carpet beetles. No substance should be used that will injure the wire insulating material.

Other specialists that the blanket's box should be saved to store it in, and that the blanket should be folded and its electric parts placed as they were packed when the blanket was new. This will save wiring and thermostat control from damage. The box may be wrapped with heavy paper and all folds and edges sealed with tape for safe keeping of the blanket during the summer.

ARE CRD-FREE CHICKS IN POULTRY FUTURE?

It may someday be routine with the successful poultryman to ask for birds certified free of chronic respiratory disease (CRD) just as they ask today for pullorum-free chicks.

This is the belief of Dr. E. P. Johnson, poultry pathologist at VPI, Agricultural Station, who with C. H. Domermuth has developed a "freeze-agglutination" test which is practical for detecting CRD carrier birds. The test is being hailed as a major step in the control of chronic respiratory disease, a virus caused for, and gets, great appropriations. The year 1955 was a rough one in that area. Mortality was high and diseases were heavy because of the disease.

Research in devising ways to control the disease was accelerated in 11 states under the direction of Dr. Johnson.

Members of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Southern Division poultrymen in the Del-Mar-Va area asked for, and got, great appropriations. The year 1955 was a rough one in that area. Mortality was high and diseases were heavy because of the disease.

The little old lady who "owned" a caboose

This little old lady inherited railroad stock from her husband. It was worth the cost of one caboose.

As everyone knows, one caboose doesn't make a railroad—nor does one stockholder comprise its ownership.

The Norfolk and Western, for example, is owned by many thousands of people in all walks of life in all parts of the country—folks who have saved their money and invested it in N & W stock.

If you wanted to buy the Norfolk and Western, you'd have to make your check for many millions of dollars. But you wouldn't send the check to the Norfolk and Western Railway Company, because the Company doesn't own the stock.

Instead, you'd have to buy it in bits and pieces of stock owned by 31,818 different shareholders—men, women, trustees, guardians and even other business firms who own N & W stock and whose stock in turn is owned by many thousands of people. Most of the profit the railroad makes is divided among these people who have worked and saved to buy ownership in the N & W.

This simple arithmetic proves that America's big business is owned by people like you. Actually, in the U. S. A. nothing is more public than private business. And nothing is more representative of freedom and the rights of the individual than a system in which the nation's big, basic businesses can be owned by millions and millions of people like the little old lady who "owned" a caboose.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By
C. Stanley Lowell
Minister,
Virginia Beach
Methodist Church

RELIGION— BUT IS IT RELIGIOUS?

There is a current wave of religious interest in the United States. Of that there can be no question. Does this religious interest constitute a religious revival?

Church attendance is up everywhere. Crowded churches are not the exception; they are the rule. The President sets the nation an example in piety by regularly attending services. There is a disposition to open public events, even football games, with prayer. Church going is now so general that we are apt to look askance at a neighbor who never attends. "I guess he's all right," we may say dubiously, "but he never goes to church."

Is all of this the indication of a real religious revival? I suggest five criteria by which it may be tested: 1. What is the object of its worship? 2. Does it call men to repentance rather than to self-approval? 3. Is it producing the moral and ethical fruits of Christianity? 4. Is it true to the spirit of the New Testament? 5. Is it God-given rather than man-engineered?

Judge for Yourself

Each reader may make his own judgment. My own answer, after close and careful consideration, is that the current return to religion is not a genuine religious revival. I cannot in this space give a complete appraisal, but let me call attention briefly to the third consideration only. We know that a real revival of religion should improve the moral tone. The Western revival did this in England. The revival led by Savanola changed the moral life of Florence and, indeed, of all Italy. The Lutheran Reformation bore fruit in improved moral standards in northern Europe. The Moody revivals, and even those of Billy Sunday, produced similar results if on a more modest scale.

A genuine religious revival would lift the moral tone of America. This is not happening. A revival of religion would reduce the crime rate; instead the crime rate is rising. Last year the crime

Visitors' Day Marks End of 1st Summer Camp

Two weeks of fun amid the sand dunes and pines of Camp Linkhorn have ended for about 80 of the older Girl Scouts of Princess Anne County. Visitors' Day on July 14 marked the end of the first of two sessions of the camp, located at 78th Street, Virginia Beach.

Visitors' Day, designed to show parents and friends some of the camping activities which the girls have experienced, began with visits to the three units. In the tent shelters of each unit were exhibits of craft and nature projects. Later, all units assembled for group singing and an exciting archery competition. Unit Two, with Mrs. Bucknell, leader, won two rounds, and Unit Three, with Mrs. Flanigan, leader, won a round. After the match, Mrs. Leonard Carter was presenting a golden statuette of a Girl Scout in appreciation of her fine work as archery instructor.

The program aides, who are Senior Scouts, served as traffic patrols, hostesses and guides.

They are Gay Baull, Jo Ann Cox, Mary Howell, Anne Hubiak, Jackie McCoy, Marshall Meredith and Gee Tucker.

Leaders and assistant leaders for the Girl Scout section of the camp are: Unit One, Mrs. Killen and Mrs. Bush; Unit Two, Mrs. Bucknell and Mrs. Whitaker, and Unit Three, Mrs. Flanigan and Mrs. Maher. Camp director is Mrs. Lewis Smith and Mrs. Lewis Snyder is assistant director and Mrs. Mickey Gregory is camp nurse.

The visit to the camp site of the Brownie Squad was a highlight as the newest methods of artificial respiration were demonstrated, after which the campers presented to the Rescue Squad a sum of money they had collected.

The Brownie Section began on July 18 and will run through the 28th. Eighty Brownies are registered for the final two weeks at Camp Linkhorn.

rate went up 5%, the population only 2%. An authentic return to religion would discourage juvenile delinquency. Yet the number of brutal crimes by juveniles continues its dizzying increase. A genuine revival of religion would restore the sanctity of the home; instead, half the marriages now being contracted break up before long. The new religious interest in producing any moral regeneration among our people.

Will It Yet Come? We desperately need a genuine revival of religion. What can we do to produce it? The answer might well be — nothing! This is something only God can do. Of course God cannot come to us if we don't want Him to come. He cannot forgive us if we do not want to be forgiven. What we can do, therefore, is to walk obediently, repentantly, expectantly, for Him. "Wait on the Lord, trust also in Him, and He will bring it to pass."

If we are to have the revival, we must cease to depend on ourselves and our techniques and begin to rely on Another.

Maybe you've had a yen for a hardtop but couldn't quite squeeze it into your budget. If so, this baby's for you! It's the hardtop as only Chevrolet builds it. IN CASE OF EMERGENCY enough gas for where you're going, Mister?

Well, little matter. You can always get more at some service station.

The same goes if unexpected guests drop in at home. You can buy bread, meat, or eggs at a nearby store . . . or you can borrow from a neighbor.

But this is not possible when a serious emergency strikes. You have to be prepared beforehand. You can't buy strength of spirit. Nor can you borrow it. It grows within you, little at a time.

So be prepared when disappointment, discouragement, trouble, or grief strike.

Through worship at Church fortify yourself with faith and courage. Get acquainted with God's love and wisdom. Come what may, you'll be ready for any emergency.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without it strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Colonial Buys 6 Carloads Potatoes: Offers Them at Reduced Price to Customers

Colonial Stores has made a special purchase of six carloads of first-quality potatoes and will offer them at greatly reduced prices this week. R. E. Davis, Colonial produce buyer for the Virginia area, announced today:

"Our business is to keep up with the food market," Mr. Davis explained, "and we were able to get these quality potatoes for immediate shipment at a savings which we are turning directly over to our customers."

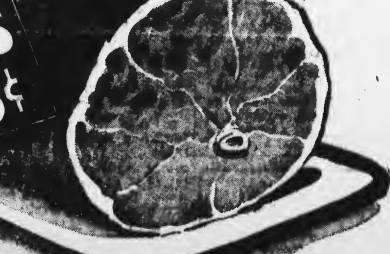

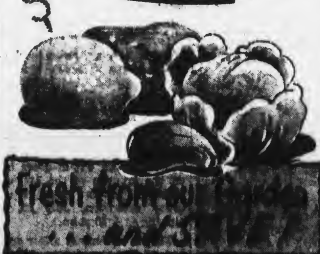

Colonial always buys economically and in large quantities in order to take full advantage of quantity discounts. These mass buying methods plus new efficiency of warehousing and store operations are what keep Colonial's prices to the customer lower than our competitors, he added.

Actually, this special offer on potatoes is simply a continuation of our policy to maintain the lowest day-to-day prices possible on quality merchandise, he added.

To support Colonial's claim of lower food prices, other company officials pointed to the fact that Colonial Stores makes only one penny of profit on each dollar in sales.

SPORTS NIP CUBS

At Craft's scintillating Sports rack up their third victory in succession at the expense of the Presbyterian Cubs by a five to three count.

Bill McClanahan went all the way to record his fourth win against four setbacks. He struck out six and walked only two.

The Sports opened up a two run lead in the first inning and singles by Supak, Allen, and McClanahan netted another pair in the fourth.

The Cubs came to life in the fifth, scoring three times before McClanahan fanned Davy Jones to quell the uprising.

PROGRESSIVE STEPS

The Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors have again demonstrated progressive thinking in the action they took last Monday in creating a comptroller's office in handling the financial affairs of the county.

The county has grown so rapidly until today the matter of county government is big business. The Board of Supervisors are approaching the problem of growth in a big business way.

A centralization of duties and responsibility in keeping abreast of the financial picture within the governmental framework of the county will place, we think, the county administration on sound ground.

The tremendous and rapid growth of the county has placed heavy burdens on the members of the Board of Supervisors but they have faced and handled these problems with a marked degree of soundness. Their latest move is commendable and is the type action that will assure us of continued progressive government.

NEW PLAYGROUND

The new municipal playground on twenty-fifth Street just across the street from the Virginia Beach High School, while not entirely complete, is attracting a record number of Virginia Beach children this summer.

Moved from the old site on Pacific Avenue between nineteenth and twentieth Streets, the new playground offers a restful, relaxing setting among the trees in its new location.

Three tennis courts are nearing completion at the playground and the supervisors report a steady increase in the number of youngsters enjoying the playground each week.

The new playground along with the Little League baseball games has provided Beach youngsters with a well rounded summer recreation program. In addition, the latter activity has created a new interest among the parents of the community.

We feel the youth program at Virginia Beach is a great source of satisfaction to parents as well as to the children.

NO POST MORTEM

When the votes are counted an election is over and there is no room for post mortems. There is nothing to be gained by rehashing the results and neither should the victors brag or gloat and at the same time the losers should take defeat gracefully with no bitterness.

Although this would be the ideal situation it seems this is not the case in the recent election. However, the losers should fully realize that the wide margin of victory by the Organization is a clear cut answer from the people. It is time those of both sides would set aside politics and work for the good of all and, particularly, the community as a whole. It is time some should broaden their viewpoint and try to help our area prosper and progress.

The good report of current business here this week seems to be a good starting point for all of us to get behind our community and our chosen leaders to keep our place in the sun. The summer season here has been a good one and we wonder how much better it might be with a little teamwork in place of the destructive efforts on the part of some of our citizens.

We understand post mortems are being held by those who can't seem to understand the results of the election, but to those who lost as well as those who were victorious we ask that politics and elections be forgotten and the community be the subject for discussion. At Virginia Beach we must never lose sight of the competition we face in the resort field and to keep ever mindful of this competition we must set aside our home problems and work together.

THINGS ABOUT ICE CREAM YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Dolly Madison, whose reputation as a hostess with a flair for the unusual, has frequently been credited with serving the first ice cream. An account of the second inauguration of President Madison contains the following: "Mrs. Madison always entertains lavishly. . . . When finally the brilliant assemblage, America's elite, entered the dining room, they beheld in the center, high on a silver platter, a large shining dome of pink ice cream."
Undoubtedly this lovely First Lady popularized the frozen treat but accounts of man's conception of a cooling sweet goes back to the 14th century when Marco Polo, returning from the Orient, told tales of slant-eyed men, consuming dishes of ice, brought by camel-back from the mountains, into which had been mixed sweetening, exotic fruits and flavorings.
The recipe brought back by this famous globe-trotter was quickly adopted by the Italians and, through the Medici spread to France where the chills, trying to improve on the water luscious milk and cream. From there the formula reputedly traveled to England as a court secret.
The first newspaper advertisement for ice cream in this country appeared May 19, 1777, in the New York Gazette. But, although George Washington's account book, under date of May 11, 1784, described a "cream machine for making ice," it was not until the year 1859 that a patent was issued on an ice cream patent.

TOO HOT FOR COMFORT

The Cracker Barrel

Old Willie Dunn is wearing thin with most people, it is believed. Of course, he will always have his small group of faithful followers, but some who, at one time, read his newspaper have begun to tire of the same old stuff week in and week out. This is not just idle gossip because Cracker Barrel has heard too many people say they don't even bother to pick the sheet up. They have become accustomed to reading the same old thing all the time, just a few words rearranged here and there. The same old thing is to knock, knock, knock anything and everything.

Someone remarked after the 11th hearing last week at the courthouse in which the charges were dismissed against the manager of the Sun-News that "Buttle" Heath made a poor presentation to the court. The same party said that if that was an example of Heath's prosecuting ability it truly was a good thing that the voters spoke loud and clear in saying, in effect, they did not want him as their commonwealth's attorney. Then another party who had viewed Heath in court on other occasions stated that last Friday he was better than usual and was on his good behavior.

Last Monday's Board of Supervisors meeting at Princess Anne was a very harmonious one. The members of the Board were in extremely good humor despite the fact that the air conditioning system in the Board room left a 144° it to be desired. The Board members went about their business anyway and they had a busy session.

Someone was tempted to ask Willie Dunn why he mentioned Heath, Walker and Oliver in his paper the week following the election but failed to give mention to Roger Malbon. It would appear that Willie only wanted Malbon during the campaign. Then he put him away after the votes were counted.

LOOKING THRU THE KNOT HOLE AT HUMANITY

By EN QUAD

Getting at the seat of juvenile delinquency ought to be a cinch, opines Old Man Grumpy. Just up at the seat of the delinquent.

A trade journal reports that over 3 1/2 billion pounds of onions were traded in Chicago in 1954. That's as it should be, we submit, being that "Chicago" is from the Chippewa Indian "She-quas-Gwa," meaning "wild onion."

Probably you've been waiting 51 weeks for this one — for it's National Vegetable Week!

Let us all rise, face the back garden and give three cheering cheers for the rutabagas!

And, speaking of onions, which it seems to me we were a bit ago, did you know the origin of onion soup? No? Well, here is the momentous truth! While at his hunting lodge King Louis the ex-ec, got hungry and concocted a dish from some butter, onions and champagne. He should have been strangled as a pop! . . . or do YOU like the meat?

Add chicken to the mix, this one apropos National Vegetable (cheese!) Week: "Eat more crisp, coolish vegetables."

But the guy who thought that one up doesn't know a sprig of parsley from a kohlrabi — and cares less!

Another chicken salad the same (cheese!) Week: "It's the green stuff that counts." And that dispenser is probably now counting his.

ed in removing the trapped airman from the cockpit to safety." The crash occurred as the plane failed to gain altitude on taking off from the Oceana Naval Air Station. The pilot, Ensign Walter Wilhelm, USNR, miraculously threaded the crashing Banshee jet across Virginia Beach Boulevard in Oceana, causing no injuries or deaths.

Skinner, who works as a juke box service man, was in a restaurant nearby at the time of the crash.

The Secretary's message to Skinner concludes: "By your quick initiative and cool courage in the face of grave personal risk, you were directly instrumental in saving the life of the pilot. Your selfless efforts in behalf of another are greatly appreciated."

For illegally buying and selling an official inspection sticker, two men were fined $100 each and given 60-day suspended sentences.

As Little Willie Wise remarked, "The things you can't remember are probably better off forgotten!"

Did you ever encounter anyone who was satisfied with himself, Nauseating, eh?

"It's all very well and good to say what you think," says Henry Henpeck, "but better make sure there's no one within ear shot."

Still and all, to judge from some folks we have met, saying what they think would be merely on the "too-goo" order.

Philip Plowser says that what you date not say today, someone else will say tomorrow. Why not say it and get the credit?

True, there may be few "different" women — but there are no indifferent ones — when men are around!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Colonel Deagle Expresses Appreciation

Headquarters 5th Transportation Terminal Command B Fort Story, Virginia 11 July 1956

Mr. Fred Haycock, Publisher Virginia Beach Sun-News Virginia Beach, Virginia Dear Mr. Haycock: I have just been advised that I am being transferred from Fort Story to the New York Port of Embarkation on 16 August. Prior to leaving this Command I wish to express my sincere appreciation for the splendid support which your newspaper has rendered to Fort Story during the period in which I have been in command. I particularly wish to thank Mr. Albin Mailhes who has manifested a personal interest in the welfare of the military personnel assigned to this Command.

As you may have realized, one of my primary objectives when I assumed command last September was to foster good relationships between the civilian community of Virginia Beach and the military personnel at Fort Story. I was particularly desirous of publicizing the good name of this Transportation Corps installation primarily to permit a better understanding between the merchants of Virginia Beach and the individual officers and enlisted men who do business with these merchants. I am happy to state that both of these objectives have been realized to a substantial degree, and I feel certain that the interest displayed by your newspaper in this project has materially contributed to the successes attained.

My successor is Colonel George E. Woods, Jr., who comes to this Post with a very fine record and excellent reputation. I feel certain that you will extend to him the same fine cooperative support which you have rendered to me.

Again may I express my sincere thanks for a very fine relationship, and wish you and your associates every success in the future.

Sincerely yours, EDWIN A. DEAGLE Colonel, T.C. Commanding

Brownies Enjoy Final Week at Camp Linkhorn

Camp Linkhorn, for Girl Scouts, located at 75th Street, Virginia Beach, will draw its four-week season to a close today. The final session was for Brownies, aged 7 to 10 years. Eighty girls participated in the Brownie half of day camp this year.

The two weeks have been full of outdoor fun for the guests at the camp, with simple crafts, outdoor cooking, singing and games. New this year were the tent shelters used in the three units and the serving of orange juice instead of milk at lunch.

Director of the camp has been Mrs. Lewis Smith, with Mrs. Lewis Snyder serving as assistant director. Unit leaders and the assistants are: Mrs. Pauline Whittaker, Mrs. Roy Newton, Mrs. D. J. Maher, Mrs. T. J. James, Mrs. Deloria Bucknell and Miss Jackie McCoy. Miss Sandra Millican was consultant for the archery program.

A Parent's Day program was presented on Wednesday, when visitors were shown the camp site and treated to songs, pageants and exhibits by the young campers.

Satisfaction with the progress of camp activities has been expressed by the Camp Linkhorn staff. Approval of the camp program as a whole has also been expressed by the Princess Anne District Day Camp committee, which comprises Mrs. E. C. Mansfield, chairman; Mrs. Leonard Carter, Mrs. J. D. Gregory and Mrs. John Tucker.

Building Inspector Esterhazy reported a record total of estimated construction in the county for the year through July 26 of $18,000,000. This is $2,000,000 more than any previous full year.

The Supervisors decided to forward request to the State Highway Department that $1,415 from Shore Drive to the North Carolina line be taken into the State Primary Road system.

The Supervisors approved a $3,612 appropriation as the county's share of the State-local hospitalization program of the Welfare Department, but turned down a requested $4,000 appropriation to cover additional hospital costs of the department.

The Board also approved applications by Dr. Kenneth Swarts for a dentist's office in Camellia Shores; H. W. Swinson to operate a parking lot in Chesapeake Beach; and for W. I. McClannan to operate a trailer park on Dam Neck Road near the main entrance to the Fleet Air Defense Training Center.

Lloyd Harewood was denied a request for rezoning from "residential" to "general commercial" on the Shore Drive at Page Avenue, and the Board returned Emory L. Oliver's application to change a tract at Little Creek and Camellia Roads from "residential suburban" to "limited commercial" to the Planning Commission.

SECTION ONE

"Know and Respect Traffic Signs And Live," Motorists Are Advised

"Traffic signs are signs of life. Know them and obey them." Chief Lewis E. Johnson of the Virginia Beach Police Department says that advice to motorists this week as he urged them to support the "Signs of Life" program of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

This program is designed to promote better knowledge of traffic signs and signals and to encourage strict obedience to them. "Traffic sign locations are determined by careful engineering studies," Chief Johnson said. "Whenever you see one there's a sound reason for its presence, and it's to your advantage to obey it."

Chief Johnson emphasized that traffic signs, signals and pavement markings for both motorists and pedestrians should be given the same obedience accorded a traffic officer.

Learn by Shape
He advised motorists to learn the "Signs of Life" by shape so that they may be recognized on sight. Due to recent revisions in the manual on uniform traffic control devices, he said, motorists may see signs of unfamiliar shape and color. The manual now recommends that the octagonal stop sign be red instead of yellow. It also recommends the use of a "Yield Right of Way" sign, triangular in shape and yellow in color. In Virginia, the former is replacing the old yellow sign and the latter is universally in use. This brings the number of basic sign shapes to six. Chief Johnson listed them as follows:

- 1—Eight-sided: yellow or red. This sign means STOP — one message, one requirement. Never anything else.
- 2—Diamond, yellow: This sign indicates danger ahead, carrying such messages as "Slow," "Narrow Bridge," "School," "Men Working," or the directional symbols describing curves, intersections, side roads, etc. It means to slow down, be alert.
- 3—Rectangles, white: Tells of speed limits, marks no passing zones, gives other regulatory information such as parking rules. Obey its message.
- 4—Triangular, yellow: This sign is the "Yield Right of Way." It tells the motorist to defer to the driver on the intersecting street. However, he need not come to a full stop except when necessary to avoid traffic on the intersecting street.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

Fort Story's four giant BARCs this week were taken aboard a U. S. Navy LSO, the Plymouth Rock, which will carry them north for the 1955 SONEC operation. The huge amphibious carriers, each loaded with supplies and equipment, chugged smoothly into the stern of the ship under their own power at Hampton Roads Sub-Port of Embarkation. Hundreds of observers were on hand for the unprecedented loading procedure at the BARCs were taken aboard and, with the LSO's stern gate raised, pumped clear of water. Story's BARC expert, Capt. George G. Henderickson, who goes with the carriers and troops on the SONEC exercise, supervised the Hampton Roads loading.

Story's soldier of the Week is Sgt. Raymond Dean, a squad leader in the 34th DUKW Company, a unit of the 10th Transportation Battalion. Dean, whose home is in nearby Portsmouth, Va., now goes to Fort Eustis, headquarters of the Transportation Training Command, for the week-long distinction of serving as orderly to the TTC commanding general, Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln Jr.

Reassignments of officers in the command brings Story a new Special Services Officer, Capt. McCellan Powell of Watsonville, Calif., who comes to the post after a year in Yokohama. Captain Powell's service in the Far East also includes duty with the 15th Infantry Regiment in Korea and 14 months as Special Services Officer on Okinawa. His son, McCellan Jr., 18, is a student at the University of California at Los Angeles, playing end on the UCLA football team.

Another new arrival, with duty as the command's S-2, is Capt. Only L. Harris of Texarkana, Texas. A former enlisted man whose career of soldiering dates from 1934, Captain Harris received a direct commission in the Military Police in 1942 and later served in Europe from 1944-46 and again from 1947 to 1952. He comes to Story from Korea where since December 1953 he was assigned as Operations Officer in the Provost Marshal's Office at Seoul.

6—Round, yellow: Warns of a highway-railroad intersection 300 to 500 feet ahead. This sign calls for reduced speed and extra caution so the driver can make sure no train is coming before he drives across the tracks.

Also just returned from Far Eastern service is Story's new Mess Officer, Capt. Charles F. Meyer, of Mohawk, N. Y. Captain Meyer, who for the past two years has been assigned as club officer at Kobe, Japan. A veteran of 16 years in the Army, the captain replaces Capt. John P. Cunningham at the Officers Mess. The latter takes up new duties as adjutant of the 376th Transportation Battalion.

A Farewell Parade for Story's outgoing commander, Col. Edwin A. Deagle, enjoyed a brief, unexpected respite from the sweltering July heat as cool breezes swept the post parade ground. Colonel Deagle, in a farewell address to the massed troops of his command, took note of the many changes and developments that have been effected in the past year and voiced his warmest thanks for the post parade ground. "I leave Fort Story with a sense of great pride in your performance," he said, "because it is the job you have done that is responsible for the many commendations we have received."

More informal than the traditional parade was Colonel Deagle's opening of the post's new beer hall for enlisted men, aptly named the Lighthouse Tavern because it is situated almost in the shadow of the Cape Henry Light House. Story's Post Exchange Officer, CWO Darwin Givens, arranged a properly nautical twist to the ceremony by having the colonel piped aboard by Navy men from nearby bases. Colonel Deagle, who was accompanied by the deputy post commander, Lt. Col. John W. Daly, and other officers of his staff, admired the jaunty marine decorations of the new recreation facility and congratulated Mr. Givens and his

NEW LAWS ON GI DENTAL CARE

By HARRY F. CARPER, JR.
Director, Virginia Division of War Veterans' Claims

Dental outpatient care for veterans, previously provided on a year to year basis under Congressional appropriations, now will be provided under permanent legislation as provided in Public Law 83, 94th Congress. The new law continues all present conditions for outpatient dental care except one.

The change removes the time limitation previously required of the presence of war with service-connected disabilities or disabilities resulting from combat wounds or service injuries, and (2) formation of non-compensable dental conditions or disabilities.

In the past these two groups had to apply for treatment within one year after discharge or separation from active service, or by December 31, 1954, which ever was later. Under the new law, they may apply at any time.

Unchanged by the new law as eligible for outpatient dental care assistants for their enterprise. Particularly eye-catching in the tavern is a wall-length mural executed by Specialist 3d Chas. Richard J. Neff of the Post Information and Education Section. A colorful underwater scene, swarming with marine life and luminous plants, it emphasizes the oceanic motif of the other decorations.

Celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Army Exchange this week was another activity planned by Story's PX Officer. Both the main exchange and the post cafeteria participated in creating a festive atmosphere, with drawings for door prizes and the traditional birthday cake-cutting being among the activities at the former facility.

New Hit Comedy At Tent Theatre

Miss Leslie Savage, producer of Virginia Beach's Theatre-Go-Round, announces a change in this season's schedule of plays for the week of August 2. Because of the acquisition of "Time Out For Ginger," a recent Broadway need dental treatment in order to prevent interruption of their training there is no time limit and no limitation on number of treatments.

Peacetime veterans, to be eligible for outpatient dental care, must meet the applicable requirements of the foregoing groups and, in addition, must have been discharged for a disability incurred in line of duty in active service or are receiving VA compensation for a service-connected disability.

Modern Science Finally Catches Up With Grandpa

I got put in my place the other night. Deserved it, too. My father-in-law said we were due for bad weather. "Birds are flying low," he said. "That means a storm."

I started to josh with the old gentleman about being superstitious. Then my nephew Jim, on vacation from college, pipes up. "Grandpa's right," he says.

"At least, that's what they say at school," Jim goes on. "The heavy air you get before a storm forces insects down low — so high-flying birds have to swoop along the ground if they want to eat."

From where I sit, there's probably sound reasoning back of most old sayings... back of anything people have learned to believe in. Take the idea of a witch in time saving time — opening roads and spelling children — of drinking hot milk, or a refreshing glass of beer, at bedtime. You may not hold with any of those notions yourself... but it's not smart to give them the "bird."

Lecture Series Begins Friday

Four lectures on general subjects will be presented by Dr. Oona Cerminara, author of the book "Many Mansions," beginning tomorrow.

All lectures will be presented at 8 p. m. at the headquarters of the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 306 Arctic Circle, Virginia Beach.

Dr. Cerminara's book is a study of the philosophy of reincarnation and Karma as presented in the readings of the late Edgar Cayce, well-known psychic who made his home here. The book is now in its sixth printing, having been published five years ago. Dr. Cerminara received her B.A. degree in languages and her master's and Ph.D. degrees all from the University of Wisconsin. A native of Milwaukee, she lives in Santa Barbara, Calif., where she writes and lectures. She is here to continue her research on the readings of Edgar Cayce, in preparation for writing a sequel to her former book.

First lecture in the series will be tomorrow night and will be entitled "How to Keep Safe in an Atomic World." Her second lecture will be presented Sunday, July 31, on "Verbal Maps and Verbal Traps."

"How Not to be Stupid" will be her third lecture Friday, August 5th, and on Sunday, August 7th, she will speak on "Agree With Thine Adversary... Scientifically."

There will be a nominal charge for the series, or for single lectures, which will be open to the public.

First Graders at Oceana School Register August 2

Oceana School will register all prospective first grade children on Tuesday, August 2, at 10 a. m. in the school auditorium, it has been announced. To be eligible for enrollment, each child's sixth birthday must occur on or before October 1, 1955, and a birth certificate is required to verify age.

Prospective first grade children who attended the May clinic have completed their registration and are not expected to come at this time. Postcards will be sent to all registered first graders and transfers in August, assigning them to classrooms.

No registration is required or expected of students who attended Oceana School in the 1954-55 school session.

All new children who have moved to this area during the summer are expected to register at this time. A report from the last school attendance is necessary for every transferee enrolling in any grade from the second through the seventh.

Edith Breeden Masterston, and Mrs. Roy A. Ross. The Everett School was founded 31 years ago. In addition to basic elementary work, instruction is given all pupils in French, music, and phonics. The fall term will commence September 15.

August 1 Set As Deadline For '56 Allocations

A date of August 1, 1955, has been established as the final date on which the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee may accept requests for new 1956 wheat allotments. W. F. Hunter, chairman of the Princess Anne County ASC has announced.

Under the wheat allotment program a "new farm" is one on which no wheat was seeded in any of the years 1953, 1954 and 1955. To apply for an allotment the farm operator must file an application with the county ASC office. Blank application forms are available for use in filing the requests.

To be considered for a new farm allotment, farmers will be required to furnish certain information for the consideration of the county committee. Such information would include the reason for requesting an allotment, why wheat should be produced rather than some other small grain, and why no wheat was seeded during the past three years, and an explanation of the crop rotation system. Also the operator must expect to derive at least half of his livelihood from the farm.

Mr. Hunter explained that any wheat allotments granted to new farms must come out of a small reserve which the county committee will establish for that purpose.

"This reserve naturally will not be large, since any wheat allotment acreage set aside for new farms must reduce the total allotment for old established wheat farms by that amount," the chairman declared.

Forest Products Tax Returns At New Low

Forest products tax returns for the fiscal year 1954-55, according to returns posted by the State Department of Taxation, showed a drop of 6 out of 8 categories and resulted in the lowest total collected for a full year since the tax was imposed in 1948. Total tax collected was $104,357.44—a 5% drop of $5,749.26 from last year's report.

Returns from sawmills for lumber they manufactured dropped to $45,026.46, the lowest ever. It represented a decrease of 12%. Returns for logs was $6,589.25, 7% less; for railroad cross-ties, $1,589.83, a drop of 33%; for mine props, etc., $426.66, a decline of 38%; for cooperage stock, $1,700.

ENJOYED THE FOOD AT COLONY RESTAURANT

"We enjoyed the food very much. The service was excellent. We would like to come again some time." These were the words of Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl Cooke, of Clinton, Iowa, after a meal at the Colony Restaurant.

This is the type of reaction most patrons of the Colony have after eating in the famous Virginia Beach restaurant. —adv.

Two Fined

It was pointed out by A. C. Kram, tax examiner for the State Department of Taxation. The tax department has been very active in the Tidewater area in bearing down on those who 56, 20% less; and for poles and piling, $471.33, which is 34% less. Only two of the eight classifications showed increases; veneer loss tax returns rose to $1,669.96, an 8% increase; whereas pulpwood and its related items increased to $48,666.22, 5% more than last year. These are the highest returns ever noted for the two products, and for pulpwood, is the first year in which returns for it exceed the returns for lumber.

The tax, which is collected from approximately 1,300 forest products manufacturers, is a special tax that is assessed on those industries over and above their regular tax load. Funds so collected, less collection charges, are turned over directly to the Virginia Forest Service to augment that agency's program of protection, management and reforestation.

Heavy Use Of Air Conditioning Ups VEP Load

The use of air conditioning in the current heat wave has put the heaviest load in history on the Virginia Electric and Power Company's lines.

Vepeo announced that the company's peak load early last week was 1,038,000 kilowatts and power output for a 24-hour period was 19,174,000 kilowatt hours, a better than 10% increase over last summer's peak.

The heavy load came on the same day that the first of four 25,000 kilowatt units at Vepeo's Roanoke Rapids dam was placed have failed to file a State return. The City Commissioner of the Revenue has exhausted every means possible to notify persons to file and the letters which will be mailed shortly will be the last opportunity for non-conformists of the law.

To keep ahead of the steadily increasing power requirements of its customers, Vepeo has installed generating equipment with a capacity of 800,000 kilowatts since the end of World War II.

The company now has a generating capability, including firm power purchase contracts, of 1,364,000 kilowatts. Another 100,000 kilowatts will be added by the end of 1956 when Roanoke Rapids is in full operation.

A new 100,000 kilowatt unit at the Potomac Point power station near Quantico went into operation in May and construction has started on a 160,000 kilowatt power station at Yorktown.

Vepeo has also applied to the Federal Power Commission for a license to construct an 87,000 kilowatt hydro development on the Roanoke River at Oronoke, N. C.

In the past seven years, Vepeo has spent over $300,000,000 on new construction, including power stations, high voltage transmission lines and distribution lines to serve over 226,000 new customers.

6. Avoid too much exposure to the sun at one time; it can lead to sunstroke.

Mothers would be saved worry and physicians unnecessary calls, the authors state, if clinical thermometers were redesigned to show "normal" temperature not as 98.6° but in its broad range of 97.2° to 99.5°.

Humidity is much more exhausting than heat. Student volunteers performed heavy labor for six hours in dry air, at 123°F, but in humid air the same work quickly exhausted them if the mercury rose above 96°.

Man's ability to withstand extreme heat is sometimes amazing. A kiln technician stated that occasionally he has weathered exposure to 500°F. A research project volunteer stayed for 26 minutes in 240° heat. The authors point out that a club steak in an oven at 240° will be ready to eat in 26 minutes.

White Flowers, Lighted Candles, Setting For Hanna-McLean Vows

The marriage of Miss Ann Elsmeth McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Pettit McLean, of Virginia Beach, and Edward Bonner Hanna, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bonner Hanna, Sr., of Newport News, took place Saturday afternoon at four o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, Newport News. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul K. Buckles. The church was decorated with white flowers and lighted cathedral candles. Mrs. Russell Cofer accompanied Carter Harrison, who sang several selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white chintilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, styled with sculptured bodice, wide portrait neckline and a very bouffant skirt, trimmed in sequins and pearls, ending in a chapel length train. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was arranged from a half hat of chintilly lace embroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Percy E. Dozier of Thompson, Georgia, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Harry L. Charles, Jr., of Hampton, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carol Ann McCombie, of Warwick. They wore gowns of buttercup yellow taffeta styled with round neckline, abbreviated sleeves, tight-fitting bodice and full skirts, with a bow in the back. They wore open crowns and carried colonial bouquets of green tinted carnations.

Kenneth R. Crump, of Newport News, was best man and the groomsmen were David McLean, brother of the bride, of Virginia Beach; William H. Woodward and Harry L. Charles, of Hampton, and Melvin W. Lewis, of Newport News.

The MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK!

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, tune in "LET'S COOK," with Lucile Clark each day, Monday through Friday, at 12 o'clock, on Station WTAR-TV.

House plants will brighten appearance and grow better if you give them a spray or shower bath once a week. This cleans and waters them beautifully, removing dust from leaves to help them absorb sunlight better.

Place freshly laundered slip covers back on furniture while they're still damp so you can stretch them to fit. When thoroughly dry, go over them lightly with a steam iron to remove any remaining wrinkles.

Brass, copper and chrome trays, fixtures and vases will not tarnish or corrode if you apply a coating of wax to them regularly.

White socks which have discolored can be soaked in a weak solution of bleach for several hours or overnight. Then launder as usual and the socks will look bright and white.

Give your washing machine a cleaning coat of white wax made especially for enameled surfaces. This prevents it from becoming yellow and makes for easier cleaning.

Windows decorated with cut glass will really sparkle when they're cleaned with a small hand or tooth brush and an ammonia solution. Polish well with a lint-free cloth.

GARDEN GUIDE

By BARTOW H. BURGESS, JR.

SUMMER GARDENING NOTES

Several people have been asking about their amaleas — stems that they are dying or at least some of the branches are dying. As we mentioned in the Garden Guide about two months ago, the severe cold wave in early March would probably be responsible for killing quite a few amaleas this summer. The freezing temperatures caused the sap in the twigs to expand, thus splitting the bark. For some reason, this seemed to happen consistently near the ground. The splitting caused the bark to gradually peel away from the stem exposing the cambium layer of the wood. It is cambium which produces wood on the inside of the stem and bark on the outside. Exposing too much of it fatal. That is why a tree usually dies when it is girdled, even lightly.

NO MOISTURE HERE

One reason wooden sash maintains its high popularity with home builders, believes J. Greenman, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn., is that condensation does not collect on wood which has good natural insulating properties. This is especially important in modern residences with many appliances using large quantities of hot water which keeps moisture content of the home at a high level.

There is not much that can be done to help the amaleas. Just after the cold it would have been beneficial to tightly tape the bark where it was split. This would have prevented the bark from peeling away. However, if any of your plants are wilted, check the bark near the ground for splitting and peeling. If this is the trouble, then watering the plants heavily to give them extra strength is probably the only thing to do. Applying fertilizer is a mistake in this situation.

Lawn Care
Frequent light applications of fertilizer, particularly a high nitrogen fertilizer, will make your grass have the dark green color that is so desired. Use 3-3-3 or a similar strength about every two weeks. Sprinklers are on the market now that have a provision for inserting a cartridge of highly concentrated fertilizer. The material slowly dissolves as the device is used so that a lawn can be easily fertilized and watered at the same time.

During the summer lawns should not be cut so short as during the cooler months. The grass plants need the foliage for protection against heat and dryness. Two inches is about the right setting for the lawn mower for most lawns in the Virginia Beach area. However a lawn of Bermuda can stand cutting at a height of one and a quarter inches.

Fertilizer Types
Often gardeners ask about the number designations of fertilizers. The three numbers tell the percentages present of the most im-

Notes from YOUR COUNTY AGENT

County Agricultural Agent

Carelessness Makes Home Danger Place

● Carelessness in the rural home made it a dangerous place to be in 1954.

Statistics now available from the Virginia Rural Safety Council show the rural home was the scene of 297 accidental (non-transport) deaths in 1954—up 31 from the year before.

Overall accidental deaths in rural Virginia mounted to 597, an increase of 47 over 1953.

Death played a heavier hand on the farm and in public places, too. Twenty more farmers died accidentally than in 1953; and 17 more met their deaths in public places. Only classification showing a deficit was "unspecified places."

Fires and explosions noted to the top as cause of deaths, accounting for 137 of the total. Falls, 1953's leading cause, was relegated to second place. But it wasn't a big drop—down only three.

The ten leading causes were the same as the year before, with some minor juggling in their place on the list. In order for 1954: they were: fires and explosions, 137; falls, 132; drownings, 82; firearms, 53; machinery, 28; inhalation of food, etc., 26; suffocation in bed, 19; other mechanical suffocation, 14; blows from falling objects, 13; and poisoning, 13.

Most of the increase in deaths occurred among adults 25 to 65 years of age, and in the group designated as "old age"—65 years and over.

There were no counties with an unblemished record. The few with only one accidental death in rural areas were Blaine, Orange, Madison, Mathews, and Surry.

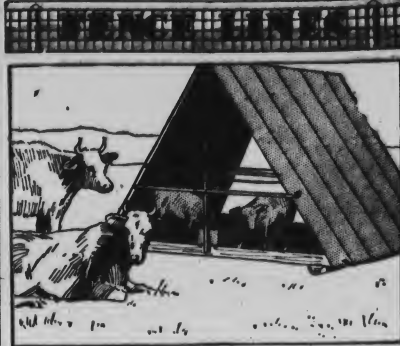

Naturally enough, the Council points out, the counties with high populations led in number of deaths. Top was Accomack, with 28, followed by Fairfax with 22, and Norfolk with 21. Other counties with ten or over were Albemarle, Caroline, Chesterfield, Halifax, Henrico, Loudoun, Pittsylvania, Prince William, Princess Anne, Roanoke, Smyth, Southampton and Wise.

Although most of the deaths came from "injury and trauma" causes, some people succumbed to rather bizarre situations. A falling well bucket, a collapsing chicken house, a moment of inattention—all took their toll.

The Council points out that the figures do not include 26 deaths in mines and quarries and 13 in industrial places in the rural sections of Virginia. Neither do they include the lucky—those that had costly accidents, but survived.

Turkey Flocks Need Special Care in Summer

● Summer turkey brooding calls for special management for the producer. Lee W. Herrick, associate poultry husbandman at VPI, points out that day temperatures rise higher than brooding temperatures at times, making the job of keeping poultry comfortable one of keeping them cooler rather than warmer. At the same time, night temperatures usually drop below brooding temperature, so some heat is required.

DOUBLE DUTY . . . Young calves on open range with the herd suffer from exposure and insect pests. One rancher uses portable creep feeders which may be towed to range with a tractor. Calves are not subjected to possible injury from larger animals at feeding time, and have a cubicle.

These varying temperatures pose a different problem than during the cool weather when the temperature is always lower than brooding temperature.

Check the brooder house often, especially during the day, to be sure of the right ventilation. If the air smells fresh and clean, and the poultry are comfortable, ventilation is satisfactory. If there is a strong offensive odor, more ventilation is needed. The brooder house should be constructed so it can be closed fairly tight the first few days and opened later as needed.

Summer brooding requires more room than cool weather brooding. Many growers place only 700 poulters in a pen in summer where they start 1,000 in winter.

The two most critical periods in the life of growing turkeys are just after they are hatched and when they are put on range. Both periods are marked by severe and abrupt changes in environment.

and both periods are the times of greatest mortality. A poult that dies when several days old means a loss of 50 to 90 cents. A turkey that dies when 8 to 10 weeks old has eaten some feed and represents a cash loss of 80 cents to $1.40.

There are several ways to ease the change from brooder house to range. The poult can be "hardened off" by gradually increasing the amount of ventilation, always having a comfortably warm place for the poult, and at the same time keeping room temperature as low as possible.

Placing range feeders and waterers in the brooder house or on the sunporch helps the poult become accustomed to the new equipment. Then when the poult are first on the range, a few of the smaller brooder house feeders and waterers may save some of the more timid birds. Hand feeding a grazing crop in the brooder house teaches the poult what it is and they will graze immediately when placed on range. A sunporch adds extra floor space at a low cost and lets the poult get used to the wind, rain and direct sun.

There is one simple trick for catching bugs in midsummer—be out there fishing at the first sign of dawn.—Sports Afield.

Break In Daily Routine Suggested To Cut Down Farm Accident Rate

Between 14,000 and 15,000 farm residents will be killed in accidents this year if the 1955 death rate conforms with that of previous years. Another 1,200,000 or more may be injured.

According to the National Safety Council, which with the Department of Agriculture is co-sponsoring National Farm Safety Week this week, farming is the nation's third most hazardous industry. Mining and construction have a higher rate of work deaths per 100,000 workers, but agriculture has the highest number of accidental work deaths.

Become farm mishaps tend to occur most often during late morning or afternoon hours, when body reflexes are more sluggish, many safety men recommend that rural workers consult office and factory employees and take brief coffee breaks about 10:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

In one nation-wide industrial study 82% of the personnel interviewed reported that coffee breaks helped to reduce fatigue; 32% reported a lower accident rate.

The National Safety Council included the following among the "major unsafe acts" which farmers should guard against:

Failure to make regular safety inventories; hurry (taking shortcuts that cause accidents); using defective, unguarded or wrong equipment; allowing children near dangerous machinery; inatten-tion (daydreaming while working with heavy machinery or near hazardous work); improper animal handling; violating common sense safety rules.

Who Buys What? GI Home Loans Show Decline

Who buys what when it comes to dairy products?

The answer to that question is partially contained in the findings recently reported by the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service from its continuing study of household purchases.

Per capita use of butter and margarine tends to be less in larger families than in smaller ones. Household purchases of butter per capita declined 30% between 1947 and 1953. This dip occurred among high income as well as low income groups. At the same time all income groups reported a 50% gain in per capita use of margarine.

A larger percentage of the families having a college educated person as head bought nonfat dry milk solids than was true for other families.

Per capita purchases of natural

The number of proposed GI homes for which the Veterans Administration received approval requests dropped nearly 35 percent during June, VA announced.

VA received approval requests for 32,424 proposed homes during June, 13,856 less than were received in May, 1955, but about the same number as were received during June and July of last year.

Appraisal requests for estimated homes showed only a slight decline in June. VA received appraisal requests for 37,795 existing homes, less than 3% below the 38,920 received in May, 1955.

American and processed cheese were highest in the high income groups.

Ideas for the Modern Homemaker

By Mrs. Elizabeth D. Deal

QUICK AND EASY HOUSECLEANING

There are ways to keep house cleaning quick and easy. You should have a closet for all cleaning equipment. Use a market basket to hold small pieces of equipment and supplies and carry from room to room.

Hard surfaced walks or paths help keep dirt out of the house. Mats and scrapers placed near entrances serve as reminders. Keep backs, steps and porches clean, and have a place near the entrance for boots and rubbers.

The amount of cleaning may be reduced by adequate storage. Have shelves or racks for magazines, waste baskets in every room, hampers for soiled clothes, a storage place for personal possessions, and one for toys if you have children.

Certain finishes can be cleaned more easily than others. Consider washable paint, hard-surfaced floors.

Use long-handled brushes for cleaning walls and high surfaces, and sturdy step ladders with attached shelf to hold containers of water.

Cleaning involves muscular activity. Learn how to lift heavy objects with a minimum of effort. Squatting rather than bending when dusting or washing baseboards relieves strain on the back muscles, maintains good posture. Comfortable shoes and clothes aid in reducing fatigue. Take frequent, short rest periods.

When cleaning walls and ceilings, remove dust with a soft brush or cloth, using light even strokes. Begin at the top and work from side to side. Painted or glazed plaster surfaces finished with a washable paint may be washed with a mild solution or a synthetic detergent prepared especially for painted surfaces. Wash from bottom up. Rinse and dry with cloth.

Protect new or clean venetian blinds with liquid or paste wax. Dust blinds often with vacuum cleaner attachment, three-fingered brittle brush, or a lamb's wool brush. Wear a pair of light-weight canvas gloves and slide the gloved fingers along several slats at a time.

Dust paper surfaces frequently with vacuum cleaner attachment, soft brush, soft cloth, or a broom.

or dry mop. Start at the top and brush down. Remove any cobwebs by a lifting stroke, since they are greasy and may streak the wall.

White spots on wood surfaces caused by hot dishes or liquids may be removed if they are new or only slight. Moisten a cloth, add ammonia, and rub. Polish with oil. On waxed surfaces use turpentine instead of ammonia. Or cover spot with salt, pour on as much olive oil as salt will take up and leave on overnight. Next morning remove and rub with olive oil.

Chamois wet in clear water and squeezed as dry as possible may be used on polished glass surfaces. Soft but lintless cloth or paper is satisfactory for drying. Rubber squeegees save time and labor in drying. For very soiled windows, wipe off some of the dirt with a damp cloth, wash with one of the following: 1 tablespoon ammonia to 1 quart of water; 1 tablespoon vinegar to 1 quart of water; or 3 tablespoons denatured alcohol to 1 quart warm water. When washing windows, wipe off the sill, sashes and frame with a clean damp cloth. Waxing sills and sashes with a colorless liquid wax gives them an additional protective coat that may make dusting easier.

GETTING READY FOR FALL CLEANING
Better, faster and easier ways to clean—that's what many families are interested in, especially now as fall cleaning time approaches. Though the housewife may be most concerned, cleaning in many households is a cooperative affair in which older children lend a hand and the men-folk often help with particularly heavy work. State surveys of time spent on housework have indicated that cleaning often takes a considerable slice of the housewife's time and indicate also that both time and labor could be pared down by more efficient organization, methods and utensils.

A first step in this direction might be a convenient "cleaning closet" with utensils and supplies assembled near where they are most frequently used and placed so that they are easy to get out for use and put away.

A study by the California Experiment Station showed that a closet for cleaning supplies should be located near the place where cleaning usually begins and near the area which has the most traffic and needs cleaning most often. In many farm homes this may be the kitchen. In homes with young children it may be the room where the children play. Other specialists suggest having cleaning equipment both upstairs and down to save stair-climbing. Some advise that in new homes the utility room may be the best location for the cleaning closet, or that the vacuum cleaner and the dusting materials be stored near the living area of the house, while brooms, mops, and scrub brushes be stored in or near the kitchen.

The California study showed that a wide, shallow closet of the "wardrobe" type, was more convenient than the familiar deep, narrow "broom closet." The depth of the closet should be at least 24 inches if it is to be used for brooms and mops. A tier of shelves in the center back of the closet is a handy space for the broom, dustpan and dry mop.

The sides of such a closet provide wall space for hanging of brooms, brushes, etc. The opening should be as wide as the closet. If the door is firm and well made, it provides a handy space for the broom, dustpan and dry mop.

VINEGAR AND SALAD DRESSINGS

Vinegar has been used from ancient times to preserve foods—in fact, was one of the first acids used for this purpose. Today it is prized chiefly for the specific flavor it imparts. The oldest known vinegar was made from grapes, and the word itself derives from the French "vin aigre," meaning sour wine. The British term was "wine gone sour." Today cider vinegar is most widely used, although vinegar still is made from grapes and also may be made from oranges, bananas, dates, raisins, pears, apricots, honey, peaches, pineapple, sugar or molasses and grains—as in malt infusion.

These are some of the background facts in a report on vinegars and salad dressings from the Missouri Experiment Station as part of a project of studies on utilization of processed food.

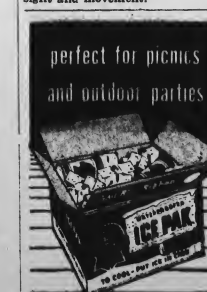

Probably the most universal use of vinegar today is in salad dressings, the station says. Some of its recipes for uncooked dressings are especially welcome for summer time salads:

Sour Cream Dressing—
Ingredients: 1 cup cream; 2 tablespoons vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt. To make: Mix the dry ingredients, and add the acid. Store in refrigerator.

Bacon Dressing—
Ingredients: 2 slices of bacon; fat from bacon; ¼ cup vinegar; 2 tablespoons sugar, if desired; ½ teaspoon salt. To make: Fry the bacon until crisp and crumbly. In the same pan with the fat add the vinegar, sugar and salt. Stir and pour hot over greens or salad. Finely chopped onion often is added to this type of dressing.

Thick French Dressing—
This type dressing will not separate. Ingredients: ¼ cup sugar; 1 package prepared pectin; 1 teaspoon paprika; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; 2 teaspoons salt; about ½ cup vinegar (to taste); 1½ cups salad oil; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 teaspoon minced onion; 1 can tomato soup; 1 clove garlic, if desired. To make: mix all ingredients and beat with egg beater. Keep in refrigerator.

TALKING TOYS
The 3-D craze has now extended itself to humorous toys. The American Book Company Yearbook for 1955 reports that there has been a recent revolution in stuffed, pulled, and other playthings as natural and tricky sound effects have been added to sight and movement.

4-H's Eliminate "Accident Havens"

How many hazards can you find?

SAFETY, a crop to be harvested on every farm and in every home, is receiving special attention from more than one-half million 4-H Club members taking part in the 1955 National 4-H Safety Program.

As a part of their 4-H Club work, members in all 48 states are correcting hazards such as those seen in the above drawing. They are attempting to reduce the nation's annual farm toll of 14,500 lives, 1,260,000 injuries, and an economic loss of about a billion dollars.

4-H'ers, working as individuals or in groups through their local clubs, conduct surveys to locate hazards, then correct the unsafe conditions. They give demonstrations on hundreds of topics pertaining to farm, home and highway safety. Members present talks before group meetings and over radio and television; put displays

CHILDREN OF DARKNESS ... AND OF LIGHT

There seem to be so many good people who don't have good sense. They are unselfish and kind. They really are. Yet they seem to be clumsy and inept at everything they undertake. They don't seem to have very good judgment. Jesus once pointed out that "the children of darkness are in their own generation wiser than the children of light."

The Devil's Tools

Perhaps the trouble is that good people attempt to make virtue a substitute for good sense. You sometimes hear it said of a clergyman: "Brother Blank is such a dipod man." Usually this is no compliment. What they probably mean is that Brother Blank does not or cannot prepare his sermons or do his pastoral work, but he is "good." Well, being good is not much credit to Brother Blank. It is his business to be good. When he is good he is just even. He has not yet done anything. In his case goodness can be no substitute for a message.

Good people should try to be as competent and efficient as they can. They should try to cultivate the same kind of hard-realism that is so often exhibited by others.

Good people should also be practical people. They should not regard themselves as too good to get in there and work for what they believe in. Henry Adams spent 30 years lamenting in his beautiful prose the fact that a man like himself who had been trained and groomed for government service, could not possibly get elected by popular vote. The trouble with Henry Adams was that he thought he was too good to be a ward heeler.

What It Takes

Many problems require for their solution not only bright idealism but also calculating realism. The international situation is for example. Whom should we have as the architect of our foreign policy? If I had to choose between a calculating cynic and a starry-eyed dreamer, that would be a difficult choice. But I think I would choose the cynic. Pure idealism and international politics don't mix.

WILLIAM C. AVEN IBEW GRADUATE

William C. Aven, 207 37th Street, Virginia Beach, has been graduated by the International Business Machines Corporation electric accounting machine customer engineering school at the plant in Endicott, N. Y. He is assigned to the company's Washington Federal sales and service office.

Mr. Aven and his fellow graduates represent seventeen IBEW branch offices in twelve states and the District of Columbia.

JAMES T. MORRIS SERVING IN GERMANY

Pvt. James T. Morris, son of Weldon L. Morris, Back Bay, recently arrived in Germany and is now a member of the 4th Infantry Division.

Morris, a graduate of Creeds High School, is assigned to Company H of the division's 22nd Infantry Regiment. He entered the army in January of this year and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Who should be in charge of our school systems, with this issue of integration staring us grimly in the face. Not rabble rousers, on the one hand, or professional do-gooders, on the other. What we want now is some hard-headed realists, men with the wisdom of Odin, the speed of Hermes, the strength of Hercules, the toughness of Rocky Marciano and the patience of Job.

And Clever, Too
Remember Kingsley's famous line:

He good, sweet maid,
And let who will be clever

But why the either/or which this implies? Why couldn't the sweet maid be clever and good, too? Is there any necessary antinomy between virtue and common sense? We read in one of the parables of Jesus: "The master commended the dishonest steward for his prudence..." What is the meaning of this? Certainly Jesus was not condoning a crooked deal. Certainly He was not telling anyone to give up his goodness. He was stressing that His followers should have both qualities—that they should keep their goodness and add to it cleverness, to have them both together.

Three Youth Groups Meeting Sunday Evening

For the first time in its history the Virginia Beach Methodist Church is continuing its Sunday evening youth program in operation throughout the summer months. There are three youth groups meeting each Sunday evening.

The Intermediate group, counseled by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Owens, meets at 6 p. m. There is a worship service, a program, refreshments and recreation period.

The Senior group, counseled by Lt. and Mrs. Joseph P. Morgan, meets with the Intermediates for joint worship service. They follow with a program of their own and also their own refreshment and recreation period.

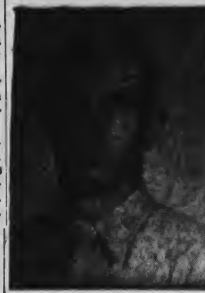

Meeting at 8 p. m. under the leadership of the minister, the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, with the guidance and assistance of Chaplain Grunke, is the group of Young Adult Singles, young men and women in their twenties. The programs of this group are dealing with the basic ideas of religion, an interesting series that attracts growing numbers of young people to the church each Sunday evening.

The Wednesday evening class in Bible study and prayer also continues its sessions through the summer months. All members of the church and all visitors are invited to these sessions. St. Paul's first letter to the Corinthians is now being studied.

With the 4-H CLUBS

Huntington County Agent

Walter Lee Humphries, 4-H Club member at Princess Anne High School, was top honors in the state this year for his 4-H Club garden project. This means that last year and during the previous years Walter has done an outstanding job of planning and caring for his garden. His selection over all other 4-H Club boys and girls in the state certainly is a just reward for a boy who has done such excellent 4-H Club work.

Walter Lee has not limited his 4-H Club work to gardening. He has completed 32 different projects during his five years in 4-H Club work. These include Baby Seed, Sheep, Veal Calves, Safety, Forestry, Entomology, and numerous others. He has done an outstanding job with each of these projects.

Young Humphries' reward for being the outstanding 4-H Club gardener in the state will be an expense-free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago this fall. Here he will see the International Livestock Show and meet the most outstanding 4-H Club members from every state in the union. This certainly will be one of the highlights of Walter Lee's life.

Summer Activities
Of Princess Anne Club

The highlights of the summer activities in which Princess Anne 4-H Club members have participated are the State Short Course at Blacksburg and Summer Camp. At these events 4-H Club members from Princess Anne met boys and girls from other sections of the state and learned of their activities and accomplishments.

Eleven outstanding 4-H Club members from Princess Anne attended the State Short Course this year. This is a trip for which all 4-H Club members should work. It is an opportunity to see Virginia Land Grant College, VPI, along with meeting the outstanding 4-H Club members from all parts of the state. Many of these boys and girls will be the agricultural leaders of tomorrow.

During this week at Blacksburg District 4-H winners compete for state honors. The Poultry and Egg Judging team from Princess Anne competed and made a creditable showing against rugged competition. We also had contestants in the State Public Speaking contest.

Camp Time For 4-H Clubbers

Camping season is, or soon will be, in full swing for Virginia 4-H Club members.

Dr. W. E. Skelton, state 4-H agent at VPI, says some 6,000 club members are expected to attend camp this summer.

Several have already been held. Scheduled for August are:

Camp Farrar, Virginia Beach; Greenville and Chesterfield Counties, August 8-13; Holiday Lake, Appomattox County; Nelson, Bedford and Buckingham Counties, August 1-6; and Orange, Madison, Green, Culpepper and Loudoun, August 8-13; Jamestown Camp, Fairfax and Prince William, August 8-13; Dinwiddie, Goochland, Prince George, Powhatan, New Kent and Charles City, August 15-20; and Powells Port Valley, Woodstock, Frederick, Shenandoah, and Clarke, August 1-6; Loudoun, Page and Warren, August 8-13; and Rappahannock, Fauquier and Rockingham, August 16-20.

4-H Camp in County

We have a 4-H Camp here in Princess Anne County. Camp Farrar, which is the name of the camp, is considered one of the better 4-H Club camps in the state. It is located at Virginia Beach and has the facilities to take care of 140 boys and girls. Plans are now under way to increase the size of this camp, but this has created many new problems which are unsolved at the present time.

This year 37 4-H Club members from Princess Anne attended Camp Farrar. These 24 girls and 13 boys had group numbers from Norfolk and Brunswick Counties who were at camp during the same week. While at the camp they swam, played games, learned handicraft and competed in other camp activities. The camp activities are carried on by the campers as much as possible. The adult leaders and Extension workers attend as advisors and supervisors.
